LAD ASTRAY IN NEW YORK

SCOTCH PLAINS BOY WAS HUNTING FOR HIS BROTHER IN GREAT CITY.

His Home in 'Plains Broken Up and Fourteen-Year-Old Boy Was Thrown on His Own Resourses.

Thrown upon his own resourses, Walter Hunter, a lad of fourteen years, left the village of Scotch Plains, where he had spent most of his life, and went forth into the world to find his older brother employed in some New York hotel. Confused by the rush and bustle of the great city, the lad wandered about until he brought up Wednesday in the Fifth street police station, New York, for rest and shelter. He was taken to the Gerry Society rooms and will probably be returned to Scotch Plains if the brother in New York cannot be found.

Walter Hunter is the son of James Hunter, who is employed at the Seeley paper mills at Scotch Plains. He has been a resident of that place for years, living on Union avenue until a week ago. Two years ago, Mrs. Hunter died and the household duties devolved upon a fifteen-year daughter, Kate. Things went from bad to worse and foreclosure proceedings were started aganist Hunter. Last week, the home was broken up and the family separated.

The elder Hunter went to board with Mr. and Mrs. Perry Powers, near Glenside, while the children were left to shift for themselves. The daughter secured a place but it is supposed that the son started to find his brother John who was known to be employed in some New York hotel. John was to have been married in Scotch Plains several years ago but left town shortly before the ceremony. Since then, few people in the 'Plains have known exactly where he was.

PAST FOUR SCORE.

Since then he has made his home in Dunellen and this city. He was a devout Christian man and was a regular attendant at Trinity Reformed church. He leaves three sons and two daughters.

The funeral services will be held from Mrs. Bennett's home, Monday afternoon at 12:30. Interment will be at Somerville.

Oily Rags and Hot Steam Pipes Started Fire in Stillman Block.

The combination of some oily rags and hot steam pipes set fire to the casing in the store occupied by H. D. Thompson in the Stillman building, and filled the building with smoke, yesterday afternoon. The fire department was called out on a still alarm. For a time much difficulty was experienced in locating the fire, many persons believing that the whole building was in a blaze. The damage was very slight.

FRIGHTENED AWAY.

Burglar Started to Operate at a Home on Steiner Place.

An attempt to enter the home of Patrick Kiely, of 12 Steiner place, was made Wednesday night by a burglar but he was discovered by one of the inmates of the house before he had secured any booty. The man was just entering the house through the side door when a noise attracted the attention of some one in the house and the man was frightened away. The police were notified but no trace of the man has been secured.

Little Finger Off.

He was lifting a heavy piece of machinery when the tool slipped and cut the little finger of his left hand almost completely off. Y. M. C. A. WILL LEAVE LEAGUE

Physical Director Heywood Announces That He Will Withdraw His Team.

CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE

Constant Friction Since League Was Formed Has Finally Ended—Executive Committee of League Will Meet This Afternoon—May Accept Use of Gymnasium.

Very eventful has been the brief career of the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League. Now the Y. M. C. A. team, one of the three which compose the league, and which now stands last, has announced its intention of withdrawing as a result of the troubles which Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood has had with the managements of the other teams. The withdrawal of the Y. M. C. A. will probably be officially presented to the executive committee of the league at a meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A. building this afternoon.

Physicial Director Heywood issued the following statement this morning:

"After careful consideration, it is deemed best that the Y. M. C. A. withdraw from the basket ball league. It is not the intention of the association, however, to disappoint either the players or the lovers of the game.

"The association invites the teams scheduled to play Monday evening, to play the game here as arranged, as our guests, and to choose whoever they may desire to officiate. The association will have no connection with the game, only in the capacity of host. All other games will be played elsewhere.

"C. Heywood.
"Physical Director, Young Men's Christian Association."

From the very start of the league, there has been constant friction between Mr. Heywood, of the Y. M. C. A., and George Proctor Smith, representative of the Alis A. A. The officials for the games were only selected after considerable argument. After the Alis team defeated the Y. M. C. A. boys in the latter's gymnasium, Mr. Heywood announced that the Y. M. C. A. team would not be allowed to play in any game unless he was either referee or umpire. He afterward took the stand that no game could be played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium unless he was one of those officials. He also protested the action of a substitute on the Alis team who, he claimed, used insulting language in the Alis-Y. M. C. A. game and gave an undignified answer when rebuked by Mr. Heywood. This protest was made to Mr. Smith of the Alis management, and has not yet been brought before the executive committee.

Neither of the teams in the league would accede to Mr. Heywood's request that he be allowed to act as referee or umpire. Both were willing to secure all the officials from out-of-town. Mr. Smith, of the Alis A. A., refused to bar the substitute from participation in the games unless ordered to by the executive committee. No protest against the man was received by the secretary of the league.

It seems very likely that the resignation of the Y. M. C. A. will be accepted and its offer to allow Monday's game to be played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium accepted so as not to disappoint the public. It is not believed that the withdrawal of the Y. M. C. A. will cause the disbandment of the league. Another team is desirous of taking up the Y. M. C. A.'s schedule and completing it. If the place of the Y. M. C. A. is not filled, it is likely that the Hope Y. M. A. and the Alis A. A. will continue a duel series of games.

THREW FILE.

But Did So Because the Other Man Threw Sand in His Eyes.

After several adjournments, Tony Parello was arraigned in the city court, this morning, charged by Anton Voldicreek with stabbing him with a file during a quarrel in the Scott Press Works, early last month. Through his counsel, Francis J. Blatz, Parello admitted throwing the file but offered in rebuttal the fact that the plaintiff had first thrown sand in his eyes. City Judge Runyon declared Parello guilty as charged but suspended sentence, declaring both to blame.

AT PECK'S.

There the Christmas Season Has New Attractions for Buyers.

The festive holiday season would lose much of its charm if Peck's store was not one of the most attractive places to visit and select Christmas gifts. In some respects this is the "linen" store of Plainfield, for a more desirable stock of linen goods is not to be found. The linen handkerchiefs, plain, embroidered and with initials, are to be seen in wide variety, all dainty and serviceable. There are also hand-painted fans, embroidered linen collars and cuffs, fancy and plain neckwear, while an attractive line of chatelain bags, purses and pocketbooks, as well as the plain and fancy silk and chamois bags for "my lady's jewels," are useful gifts. Then there is the glove department. Peck is authority on everything he keeps and his gloves are famous for wear. There are many other things, novel and useful, and the selection of a gift is made easy and pleasant.

EVERYTHING FOUND THERE

WOODHULL & MARTIN ARE BETTER PREPARED THAN EVER.

Some New Departments to be Found at That Famous Store—Caring for Every Demand Made.

The enterprising and hustling firm of Woodhull & Martin is now busily engaged in looking after the big holiday trade at the store in the Babcock building. Despite the fact that the firm has had many difficulties to overcome this year, it is doing the business that comes to a house of such a reputation. The rush started earlier than usual this year and has steadily increased.

Among the features at the store is the fine stock of copyright books, a new department of extra fine grade stationery of exclusive designs, a collection of attractive pictures, etchings, and a big stock of toys.

A new line is a handsome assortment of fancy baskets for all sorts of use and the big lot of elegant umbrellas, gold and pearl handles, is a source of wonderment to everybody. Never before has there been such bargains in umbrellas. In the housefurnishing goods department there is a large assortment of china, sample lots, which is being offered cheap. In addition to these special attractions, the usual large stock of staple goods is to be found.

The men's furnishing goods department is more complete than ever and offers specials in ties, shirts and Dent and Myer gloves. There is also a fine line of women's neckwear, chiffon collars, etc., and a complete stock of furs of a superior quality. This firm is doing a great deal to keep trade at home and it is receiving the best patronage that formerly went to New York.

INSTITUTION OF RECTOR.

Will be Held at Grace Episcopal Church Tomorrow Morning.

Rev. Edward Vicars Stevenson will be instituted into the rectorship of the Grace church parish at the 10:30 o'clock service tomorrow morning by Right Rev. Dr. Scarborough, Bishop of New Jersey. The sermon will be preached by Rev. John P. Peters, Ph. D., Sc. D., D. D., rector of St. Michael's church, New York City.

The programme of music will be as follows: Processional hymn, "Ancient of Days," Jeffey; venite, Gregorian; glorias to psalter, Gregorian; benedicite, Clare; benedictus, Dykes; hymn, "Thou Who in the Night of Prayer," Dykes; introit anthem, "Thou Wilt Keep Him in Perfect Peace Whose Mind is Strayed on Thee, "Torrance; Kyrie Elusion, Gloria Tibi, Eyre; hymn, "On Jordan's Bank the Babtists Cry," Orasseluns; offertory anthem, "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings Fair," Spohn; Sursina Corda, Sanctus, Agnus Die, Eyre; Gloria in Excelis, Cramer; Sevenfold Amen, Staurer; 117th Psalm, Messiter; recessional hymn, "Thy Kingdom Come O Lord," Hayne.

Concert Postponed Again.

On account of the stormy weather last evening the concert scheduled for the Mt. Olive Baptist church was deferred until Monday evening. The fair which has been held this week will also be continued until Monday evening with several extra attractions. The attendance was small last evening, but the talent was present and would have given the concert had the weather been more favorable.

Making Red Men.

Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, Improved Order Red Men, met Thursday evening and worked the chief's degree on one and the adoption degree on one.

THROWN DOWN BY TROLLEY

WALTER L. HETFIELD, SR. WAS SERIOUSLY INJURED THURSDAY NIGHT.

Alighted From One Car and Struck by the Fender of Another—Confined to His Home.

Former Councilman Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., lies at his home on East Front street, with severe injuries received in a trolley accident, Thursday night. Alighting from an east bound car on East Second street to cross the west bound tracks to his home, he was struck by the fender of a car going in the opposite direction and hurled some distance. He was picked up by the crew and brought to the office of Dr. J. T. Fritts, of Park avenue. An examination showed his hurts to be a broken ankle bone, a severe scalp wound and numerous cuts and abrasions.

A cab afterward conveyed him to his home where he remains still in a comatose condition. Last night he failed to recognize the members of his family and spoke only in disjointed sentences. Although but a slight change was noticed, this morning, the physicians declare there is no danger of a serious culmination.

It is a rule of the trolley company that cars passing each other should proceed slowly, especially when one of them is discharging passengers. It is alleged that this rule was being violated when Mr. Hetfield started to cross over the tracks.

ALIS MAY WIN.

But Hope Y. M. A. Boys Are Likely to Give Them a Good Fight in Next Basket Ball League Game.

According to the schedule of the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League, the next game will be played Monday evening in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium between the teams from the Hope Y. M. A. and the Alis A. A. A meeting of the executive committee of the league will be held before that time to fix on officials for the game. As the members of both the Hope and Alis teams have been satisfied with the local officials, it is probable that no out-of-town men will be asked to officiate.

According to the way the previous games have gone, both Hope and Alis ought to win. Alis has beaten the Y. M. C. A. in its own gymnasium and the Y. M. C. A. has beaten Hope but Hope has beaten Alis. The conditions in the Y. M. C. A. differ considerably from those at the Hope gym and it can fairly be said that Alis ought to win. Hope is playing a strong game and can be counted on to make a good fight. If the Alis boys show the accuracy in goal throwing that they did against Y. M. C. A., they will probably win as their team play is likely to be superior to Hope's.

The Catholic Diocesan Union has set the date for its celebration in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of Bishop O'Connor's ordination to the priesthood. January 7, a celebration will be held in the Krueger auditorium, Newark, after a procession from the Newark Institute. All the Catholic societies in Elizabeth have received invitations to take part in the affair, which promises to be conducted on a large scale.

December 22 is the date of the anniversary of the bishop's ordination to the priesthood, and on that day the priests of the diocese will unite to do honor to their superior. The cathedral at Newark will be the scene of a celebration in observance of the event. The clergy will present his lordship with a purse on the occasion.

WHERE TO GO.

Putnam & DeGraw Have an Excellent Assortment.

No one in search of Christmas presents for father, mother, sister or brother, need go further than Putnam & DeGraw's store on West Front street. This year they have everything in the line of hand embroidered handkerchiefs, gloves, perfumes in fancy boxes, toilet, manicure and work sets for women, a complete line of dolls for the children, together with all their necessaries in the way of clothing, gloves, collar and cuff boxes, half hose, ties and initial handkerchiefs for the men. A feature at this store this season will be a splendid line of men and women's umbrellas.

AFTER THE SHERIFF NOW

INDICTED FOR LETTING MURDERER CHAS. GRETHER ESCAPE.

Negligence of Sheriff Mervine at Stroudsburg Jail Called Down General Condemnation.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Stroudsburg, Pa., Dec. 13—Censure of the severest kind is heard on all sides for Sheriff V. O. Mervine for allowing the convicted murderer, Charles Grether, to escape, in company with a man named VanBuskirk last Sunday morning, and there are hints freely made that if he does not resign he will be impeached.

Once before the man Grether escaped but when the matter of removing the sheriff for negligence was brought up it was voted to retain him in office for another trial. This last attempt to escape means that he will be removed without further delay.

In his charge to the Grand Jury on Monday Judge Allen Craig said:

"It seems to me that the escape of the prisoners was the grossest kind of negligence on the part of the Sheriff. We are informed that he, Grether, was allowed to mingle with the other prisoners and go out in the halls. It has a very suspicious look and one is almost concluded to believe that Grether had assistance."

The Grand Jury later brought in an indictment against the Sheriff and his deputy and watchman too.

BOEHM READY FOR CHRISTMAS

ATTRACTIVE DISPLAY NOW TO BE SEEN AT HIS STORE.

Basement and Main Floors Crowded With Attractions for the Holiday Buyers.

There are few stores in this city whose display of stock for the holiday trade is as attractive as that of I. H. Boehm at his emporium on West Front street.

In the basement will be found a most complete stock of toys, express wagons, doll carriages, velocipedes, tricycles, dolls, and mechanical toys of all prices. An attractive feature of this department is a counter on which are displayed a large assortment of ten cent toys.

On the main floor a most complete stock of holiday novelties, in both wood and celluloid, gloves, dress goods, linenware, men's furnishing goods, umbrellas and underwear may be found arranged on the counters and shelves. Skirts and waists in silk or cloth and flannel at most reasonable prices will be found in the custom department.

On the floors above will be seen on display blankets, comfortables, go-carts, dress suit cases, valises and trunks which make excellent presents for both men and women. The assortment of suitable presents for the holidays at the store of I. H. Boehm is not only large but is as generous as those found in some of the New York stores.

CHRISTMAS TREE.

Perseverance Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Makes Great Plans for Its Christmas Festival.

Continuing its list of social features for the members, Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., at its meeting, last evening, made arrangements for a Christmas tree festival to be held Friday evening, December 26. A similar affair was given last year in charge of Chancellor Commander William N. Runyon and is conceded to be the most enjoyable entertainment ever conducted by the lodge. An attempt will be made to eclipse it and a committee of three, composed of S. J. Robinson, Thomas Muir and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., was appointed to assume charge.

Other business was the conferring of the first and second rank upon eleven candidates and the receiving of one proposition.

Anniversary Mass.

An anniversary mass will be offered for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Frances A. O'Keeffe, Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock, at the church of St. Francis Xavier, corner Carroll street and Sixth avenue, Brooklyn.

Change of Meeting if Stormy.

If it is stormy at the time of the Sunday-school services tomorrow, the Christian Endeavor meeting of the Congregational church will be held at the close of the Sunday-school instead of the evening hour.

EMINENT WRITERS EXPECTED

AT THE COUNTRY DANCE OF THE PAD AND PENCIL CLUB.

Have Promised to Attend if Possible—Great Plans Being Made for the Dance.

Interest in the Pad and Pencil Club country dance which is to be given in the I. C. T. rooms, Wednesday evening, has increased ten fold since the committee has announced some of the arrangements that are to be carried out.

As the organization is composed of newspapermen it has issued invitations to some of the foremost writers attached to the staffs of leading dailies in the Metropolitan district. Among some of those who have promised to attend, if possible, are Julian Hawthorne, who reported the Molineaux trial for the New York Journal; Ella Wheeler Wilcox, who has already visited in this city several times; Fred Opper, the cartoonist who originated "Happy Hooligan," "The Katzenjammer Kids" and "Alphonse and Gaston;" Walt McDougall, originator of "Hogan's Alley;" Thomas Riley, Jersey editor of the Standard News Association; and reporters from papers in Elizabeth, Newark, Bayonne and New Brunswick.

All expect to come attired in country costume which the committee demands and the effect will be laughable. A feature will also be "Tune" Melick, the mayor of Pluckamin, who is known all over the State and who has attended more functions than many a high official. Local invitations have been issued to the number of 300.

Suhr's "Possum Hollow" orchestra, attired in Colonial costume and seated on barrels, will furnish music and between dances selections will be given by Pawson's Prideville band. The committee has secured costumes that will be a revelation and it declares that only those in "rube" rainment will be permitted to dance. The club rooms will be decorated to represent a corn field while refreshments of pumpkin pie and doughnuts with grape juice will be served.

THE DOG SHOW.

New Jersey Kennel Association to Have Meeting Soon to Arrange for Next Exhibition.

The New Jersey Kennel Association is growing. Many new members have joined this fall, including some of the most noted dog owners in America.

The second annual show will be held February 17 to 20, the week following the famous New York show. The annual meeting of the committee was recently held to elect new officers, hear the annual report and to decide on important details connected with the coming show.

FUNERAL OF MR. PEET.

Former Business Associates Turned Out to Honor His Memory.

The funeral of Charles B. Peet, who passed away at his home on Putnam avenue Wednesday morning, was held yesterday afternoon at the Grace P. E. church. The services were conducted by Rev. Edward Vicars Stevenson, assisted by the rector emeritus, Rev. Erskine M. Rodman. The church was very nearly filled with a large number of prominent New York business men, who had been associated with Mr. Peet in the clothing and insurance business, and members of the clubs of which the deceased was a member.

The interment, which was held at Bridgeport, Conn., was private and took place today.

Great Sachem Married.

MECCA FOR XMAS SHOPPERS

HILL & SHUPP ARE WELL PREPARED FOR THE HOLIDAY TRADE.

All the Old Friends and Many New Ones to be Found—Several Important Features.

A mecca for holiday shoppers is Hill & Shupp's big dry goods store. There was a time not long ago when people felt obliged to shop in New York. This time is past for at this store the people are able to find desirable goods at low prices. The store just now presents a fine appearance, being decorated in green and white. Griffith Jenkins and Caspar Waglow have worked hard to make the store unusually attractive and they have succeeded. Throughout the store are pretty arches and booths arranged artistically. A centre of attraction is the basket booth near the housefurnishing stock.

This year for the first in several years, the basement has been stocked with toys of every description. The muslin underwear department is very complete. A special feature is the art department, where all kinds of material for art work are to be found. The firm has just introduced a new feature which is sure to be popular. Glove certificates are sold as Christmas presents and the one receiving a coupon can go to the store and make a selection of the size and color desired.

A complete line of Rogers silverware, the "1847" make, and a large stock of fancy chinaware is displayed in the housefurnishing goods department. A most desirable line of goods is offered in the men's furnishing goods department. During the holidays there will be recitals every day on the auto-piano players and next week there will be a song recital. The firm will also open a hot chocolate counter on Monday.

"Santa Claus" will be in the store next week and you should watch the window display.

RED MEN'S FAIR.

The Committee Decided on January 26 As Opening Night.

The committee having in charge the arrangements for the Red Men's fair, met last evening and decided to hold it during the week beginning January 26 in Saengerbund Hall. The music for the occasion will be furnished by Eugene O'Reilly. Instead of holding an entertainment at intervals every evening, it is planned to give an entertainment every evening from 8 to 9 o'clock, with a change each night. After this there will be dancing.

The various sub-committees composed of braves and scouts, are now at work securing talent for the entertainment. In addition to this there will be the usual features.

JUST A LITTLE RUN.

Horse and Baker Wagon Passed Through It Safely.

A horse attached to John Wirth's baker wagon, standing in front of R. W. Barne's grocery on Park avenue, this morning started to run away. The animal ran from Park avenue to West Second street and into the alley next to Trinity Reformed church. At this point a butcher, who happened to be close by, caught the horse and held him until the driver put in an appearance. There was no damage, athough as the rig made a turn from Second street to the alley, it looked as though it might crash into the corner of George Cole's undertaking establishment.

Miss Edith Robinson, of West Third street, is confined to her home with a severe cold which has settled in her throat so that she is deprived of the use of her voice.

MINISTER BOWEN ONCE LIVED IN PLAINFIELD

The Most Prominent Figure in the Venezuelean Troubles is Well-Known in This City.

BROTHER RESIDES HERE

HERBERT W. BOWEN HAS ALREADY FIGURED IN INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS.

Was a Consul in Spain When War Was Declared—His Wife Traveled Across the Desert to Wed the Minister.

The eyes of the world are now centered on Venezuela and the people of both hemispheres are awaiting with much interest the future developments of the trouble there between the English and German governments and the South American Republic. But perhaps in no city in the United States is the interest more keen than it is in this city because of the fact that one of Plainfield's former residents is one of the most prominent diplomats at the scene of the difficulties. It has been for some time a most remarkable co-incidence that in almost every great event in any part of the globe this city is represented in some way or another, and in the present troubles in South America it is the United States minister at Caracas, Herbert W. Bowen, who formerly resided here with his brother, Henry E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue, that the interest of the people of Plainfield is centered upon.

During the recent difficulties in that country Minister Bowen has acted for England and Germany in the absence of their representatives and in a recent telegram to the Philadelphia Record from Berlin an account was given of the great esteem in which the American minister in Venezuela is held by the Germans, as a result of the prompt intervention taken by him in favor of the German and British governments at Caracas.

Minister Bowen was the consul at Barcelona, Spain, at the time of the outbreak of the Spanish-American War and his bravery and rare diplomacy at that time won for him world-wide fame. The story of how he came out of the porch of the house there when the Consulate was being bombarded by the Spanish mob and successfully prevented them from ruining the place is well known in this city. He was appointed consul by President Cleveland and when the late President McKinley was elected he appointed him as Minister at Caracas where he has been ever since.

German and English papers have been publishing pictures and sketches of the life of the "great Minister," as they are pleased to call him, and the outlines of his eventful life are most interesting.

He was born in Brooklyn where he resided for some time until his parents moved to this city where his brother, Henry E. Bowen, Jr., now resides. His father, Henry E. Bowen, Sr., was the proprietor and editor of the New York Independent, but died in this city some time ago.

Minister Bowen has been married twice. His second marriage was a very interesting romance. He was engaged to a young woman from New York but as he was at a distant point in Asia in the land of the Khedive he was unable to come to this country to be married. His fiancee made the journey to Asia alone and a part of her journey was over the great deserts in a sedan chair carried on the backs of stalwart Arabians. For thousands of miles she journeyed over the burning sands in the heat of a torrid sun and was united in marriage to Minister Bowen at a small town near Cairo. Mrs. Bowen is now with her husband in Venezuela where she has been for the past six or eight months.

Red Men Busy.

At the meeting of Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order Red Men, last evening, there were three adoptions and after the business the members enjoyed a smoker and a social time during which there were short speeches.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Stephen Blazier, of Madison, is spending a few days with Plainfield relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. George White, of the borough, have been visiting relatives at Millstone.

Miss Grace Cramer, of Pluckemin, has been spending a few days with Plainfield friends.

Elmer TenEyck and Charles Backer, of Plainfield, have been visiting friends at Whitehouse.

Mrs. M. Weinberger, of Craig place, has returned from New York where she was under treatment at a hospital.

Miss Estella Brooks, of Duer street, is confined to her home seriously ill. Miss Brooks some time ago developed a severe cold which has turned into a mild form of pneumonia.

IN DARKEST IRELAND.

Hugh Sutherland's Masterly Presentation of the Irish Cause.

The North American is publishing a series of letters by Hugh Sutherland on conditions social, industrial and political as they are in Ireland. The first article was printed December 8, and was followed by others which, for graphic description and masterly presentation of facts, have no parallel in recent newspaper writing. They will continue until the subject is fully exploited.

Mr. Sutherland is familiar to newspaper readers. As Commissioner for The North American to the Boer Republic in the concluding days of Kruger's Presidency, as a staff correspondent for the same paper in the mining districts of Pennsylvania, his work attracted widest popular interest as well as the closest consideration of the students of economics, political and otherwise. Mr. Sutherland is conservative and of the truest intelligence. His articles are of unique interest, as they are characterized by truth. Prejudice, either for or against a master-ridden race, does not enter into the work. So far as one of blood and flesh may do so, Mr. Sutherland has divested himself of human sympathy and gives the plain cold facts of the situation. Ireland's wrongs, her real constitutional injuries and her oppressed state have not been told of late. Government espionage, the certainty of a term in jail, social and business boycott operate as a press censorship in Great Britain as thorough, if less direct, as in autocratic Russia. Newspapers dare not print, correspondents dare not tell the story of Ireland's woes. Public speech is a felony, the printing of a Nationalist newspaper in Ireland a crime without defense.

In order that the truth might be known, therefore, The North American commissioned Mr. Sutherland as chief of an expedition into Darkest Ireland. For weeks the searchers for truth traversed the country. They have touched every side of every question; talked politics with the peasant in his cabin, discussed land tenures with the English owner in London.

They have got at the heart of one of the greatest political revolutions the world has experienced, one that is taking place without the world being aware of it. Fortunately for contemporaneous history, there is Mr. Sutherland to write and The North American to print the story.

The New York Tribune Farmer.

The Tribune Farmer has no superior anywhere in this wide world as a publication for farmers and their families. It does not, to be sure, tell how to extract green cheese from the moon, but everything worth knowing about the theory or practice of farming is treated by men recognized as experts in their various lines. But The Tribune Farmer does more than supply such valuable information. It keeps the farmer in touch with all the latest improvements by text and pictures, and pays special attention to the work being done at agricultural colleges all over the country. Besides all this it has features to interest the women folk. The price is $1 a year. For a free sample copy send a postal card to The New York Tribune, New York.

—Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., will elect officers at a communication to be held Tuesday evening, December 16.

Exposure to a sudden climate change produces cold in the head and catarrh is apt to follow. Provided with Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh. Price 50 cents at Druggists or Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York, will mail it. The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation, cleanses and cures. Cream Balm quickly cures the cold.

PIANO OWNERS ATTENTION!

Old pianos, of any make, made new at an extraordinary low price by Leo H. Battalia, 56 Lenox avenue, New York City, without removing the piano from the house. Old pianos reconstructed with new parts is a great success and inexpensive. The action only is required, as they are the parts that become worn with usage, while the frame and sounding board, in nearly every case remains intact, and in fact improves with age as does a violin. Any reliable piano manufacturer will vouch for the above statement.

He has on file in his office a great many testimonials from leading music teachers and citizens of Plainfield for fine tuning and making their old pianos good as new when expert tuners and repairers have failed. Before you exchange your old instrument why not let him examine it. It may be the means of saving you many dollars.

Bear in mind, in renewing parts, it costs you no more than ordinary repairs you pay to a tuner. Pianos examined free of charge. Branch store. 426 Watchung avenue, this city.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

Traveling Library System Likely to be Abandoned—Readers Like Modern Novels Best.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Dec. 13—State Librarian Henry C. Buchanan, in his annual report to Governor Murphy, notes the falling off of interest in the travelling library system, and it is regarded as likely that no appropriation will this year be made for continuing the scheme. The popular taste is for fiction, and Mr. Buchanan observes that it is doubtful if the Legislature intended that the State should go into the business of providing especially for novel readers.

At the close of the fiscal year twenty-three of the sixty-two travelling libraries were in use, as against forty-two a year ago. During the year twenty-two towns discontinued their use, while only four new towns applied for them, and there are practically no inquiries nowadays concerning the libraries.

Mr. Buchanan reports 61.909 volumes in the State library. He suggests an appropriation of $1,000 to bind a complete set of reports according to subject for easy consultation, and $12,000 to increase the shelf capacity of the law library.

THEATRICAL.

Nothing that the New York stage has seen has surpassed the success of Mrs. Fiske's magnificent production of "Mary of Magdala" that is now being presented at the Manhattan Theatre, New York. Seldom, if ever, has a play excited the widespread attention that has been given to Paul Heyse's powerful drama. The play, bearing as it does on the greatest story in the world's history, has been pronounced remarkable in plot and treatment, and the beauty of the English adaptation has been greatly admired. Mrs. Fiske in the title role does what is undoubtedly the most superb work of her brilliant career. The wonderful art of this foremost of American actresses is seen in its fullness amid surroundings that befit its quality. Both the play and its sumptuous staging are considered to work a distinct advance in drama presentations. "Mary of Magdala" is declared to have, without exception, the most beautiful setting ever seen on the American stage.

To counteract the customary lull in theatrical traffic during the week before Christmas, Manager F. F. Proctor has scheduled especially attractive offerings at his popular theatres. The continuous vaudeville at the Twenty-third Street will have the funny Russell Brothers in George M. Cohan's clever sketch, "A Romance of New Jersey," as the topping feature of a twenty-five act programme. The Fifth Avenue Stock Company will present a sumptuous revival of Henry Arthur Jones' and Wilson Barrett's famous English melodrama, "Hoodman Blind," with its stirring features faithfully depicted. "Fallen Among Thieves" will be the sensational offering of the Proctor Stock Company at the Fifty-eighth Street. William Gillette's successful comedy, "All the Comforts of Home" will be played by the Proctor Stock Company at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street with Adelaide Keim in the leading role. The "twice daily" vaudeville entertainment, at Proctor's Newark will have Charley Case, the witty black face comedian, as its headline.

James Fitzgerald, of this city, has been visiting relatives at Raritan.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Iron Production Curtailed—Cereal Market Strong.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

As industrial peace is essential to national prosperity, the week has been most fruitful. The annual meeting of the Civic federation brought together labor leaders and capitalists and facilitated interchange of opinions. Little friction occurred, and there is every prospect that hereafter amicable adjustment of most disputes will be reached. This organization effected numerous settlements during the year, in some cases involving important industries, but the work has been done so quietly that the public does not appreciate its service.

Considering the extent to which blast furnaces were handicapped by inadequate supplies of fuel, the production of 1,464,423 tons of pig iron during November was much larger than generally anticipated, although smaller than in any other month of the half year except September.

Decided strength appeared in the wheat market owing chiefly to higher cables and eager purchases for export. The upward tendency of foreign markets must be attributed to less favorable crop reports from producing countries, notably Argentina. Total exports from all ports of the United States, flour included, were 4,354,042 bushels compared with 5,340,799 bushels last week and 3,847,859 bushels in the corresponding week of 1901.

Quiet conditions prevail as to corn, receipts of 3,350,240 bushels comparing with 4,133,431 bushels last year, while Atlantic exports were 718,562 bushels against 307,803 bushels in 1901. Although smaller than last week's outgo, shipments are beginning to exhibit a material gain over last year's figures.

Failures for the week numbered 269 in the United States against 273 last year and 30 in Canada compared with 17 a year ago.

Woman Found Dead In a Wagon.

DETROIT, Dec. 13.—A Tribune special from Kingston, Mich., says: "Suspicions of foul play which were occasioned by the discovery of the dead body of Ella Beardsley tied in a buggy about four miles south of this village have proved groundless. A postmortem revealed no indications of violence and showed peritonitis and kidney trouble as the probable cause of death. The theory now is that the young woman strapped herself in the buggy when her illness became acute enough for her to realize that she was liable to lose consciousness before reaching her home in this village."

Animal Fight Stopped.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 13.—An attempt to have an exhibition of fighting of bulls, dogs and chickens near Rockhill, in York county, almost resulted disastrously. Governor McSweeney had instructed the sheriff to prohibit the fighting. The owners of the show claimed that nothing but an injunction from the court could stop the animal fights The sheriff thereupon called on the Catawba rifles of the local militia for aid, and the bull, dog and chicken fights were stopped.

Corporation Bill Defeated.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 13.—The new corporation bill recently introduced in the general assembly of Rhode Island met defeat in the house of representatives by the close vote of 26 to 24 when there were twenty-two members absent. This bill would offer very liberal inducements to incorporators and bring the state in line with New Jersey and Maine as a home for trusts and merger concerns.

Seven Break Jail.

THE STRIKE HEARING

Miners Continue to Pile Up a Stong Case.

PRESIDENT MITCHELL AGAIN CALLED

He Presents Figures to Show That Soft Coal Workers Are Better Paid Than Anthracite Men—Testimony Is Not All In.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 13.—The greater part of yesterday's sessions of the anthracite coal strike commission was taken up in presenting cumulative testimony on matters that have already been heard by the commission. This testimony tended to show that there has been excessive docking, that many men were discriminated against because they went on strike rather than do the work of strikers, that they are paid one price for mine cars of all sizes, that they do not get paid for all the coal mined, that they should have the eight hour day because the mines are unhealthy and dangerous and that they ought to receive higher wages.

Late in the day President Mitchell was called to the witness stand and presented comparative figures which showed that men paid by the day receive from 40 to 50 per cent higher wages in the bituminous regions than they do in the anthracite fields. His figures of the anthracite fields were gathered by his own officers, and a hurried comparison with the figures handed to the commission by the Delaware and Hudson company, he said, showed that his were generally higher. The Delaware and Hudson's statistics are the only ones officially before the commission.

The attorneys for the miners do not expect to close their case until the early part of next week, probably Tuesday. It is not known to the lawyers for the companies whether they will be able to immediately proceed with their case, and it is possible they will ask for a short recess.

Murder and Arson.

BALLSTON, N. Y., Dec. 13.—Fire in the farmhouse of Mrs. Zadoc Miller, five miles south of this village, disclosed what is believed to be a murder following an attempt at robbery and succeeded by arson. The fire was discovered by neighbors who knew that Mrs. Miller and her son Jay had driven to Saratoga in the forenoon. An old man who boarded with the Millers and whose appearance was familiar to the neighbors was not seen when the fire was discovered. Joseph Davey quickly entered the old man's room with the aid of a ladder and found his dead body on the floor. The head and hands were burned, and there were five wounds on the head, apparently inflicted with an ax. The body was lowered to the ground just as the roof feel in. The house was destroyed by the fire. An examination of the old man's body indicated that he had fought his assailant or assailants.

Princeton Won Debate With Harvard

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 13.—The ninth annual Princeton-Harvard debate, held here last night, was won by Princeton. Harvard proved strong in her first speeches, but failed to successfully rebut her opponents on argument. Princeton excelled by collective strength. The judges were out four minutes and rendered a unanimous decision. William M. Lanning of Trenton presided, and the question debated was: "Resolved, That whenever in the event of continued domestic violence lives and property are not adequately protected by a state it is for the public good that the president should have the power to afford protection without the application of the state for federal aid."

Cadets Sent Home.

LEXINGTON, Va., Dec. 13.—For further indulging in disorder thirteen cadets, all members of the third class at the Virginia Military institute, have been dismissed from the school and ordered to return to their homes. Among them were the class president and vice president. The remaining members of the third class engaged in Tuesday night's fireworks, some forty in number, are under arrest pending the action of Superintendent Shipp.

Fire In Spokane Hotel.

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 13.—Flames and smoke drove nearly 100 guests out of the Ridpath hotel at an early hour yesterday morning, some of the people fleeing in their nightclothes. All escaped safely, the cooler ones having time to save their valuables. The firemen confined the blaze to the air shaft and the top story of the building. The damage is estimated at $20,000 to $30,000, fully covered by insurance.

ARBITRATION ASKED

Venezuela Desires Intervention of Uncle Sam.

POWERS SAY IT IS NOW TOO LATE

It Is Believed In London That Force Is the Only Solution — Lord Lansdowne's Version of the Affair.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—It is officially announced here that Venezuela has asked Minister Bowen, the United States representative at Caracas, to intervene and ask that the dispute with Great Britain and Germany be submitted to arbitration.

It is believed here that it is now too late to accept the good offices of Mr. Bowen and that President Castro will not be allowed to further delay a settlement. The impression is that he is merely playing to gain time, as has been his policy from the first. It is also pointed out that one of the chief claims is for defaulted interest on railroad bonds which was guaranteed by the Castro government, and quite naturally, it is explained, there can be no arbitration so far as that is concerned.

Germany, it is also known, regards the question of arbitration at this late day unfavorably.

Hourly the impression is gaining ground that a resort to force is the only solution of the problem.

A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Willemstad, Curacao, dated Dec. 11, says that the foreign residents of Puerto Cabello are taking refuge on board the German cruiser Vineta and the British cruiser Ariadne and that these vessels are threatening to bombard the port.

Foreign Secretary Lansdowne was the principal guest at the annual banquet given last night in London of the United club. In a speech of considerable length the foreign secretary touched upon the most prominent topics of the day. He said he did not believe that in any part of the world was Great Britain open to the charge of bearing inveterate antipathy to any one, not even to Venezuela. "If that republic," said Lord Lansdowne, "would desist from committing outrages upon British subjects and British property, if she would pay her just debts and if she would reply to the diplomatic representations made her in perfectly courteous language there would be no need whatever of any quarrel.

"I might add," said the foreign secretary, "that Venezuela should be content to put herself on a moderate allowance in the matter of revolutions. In less than seventy years Venezuela has indulged in the luxury of 104 revolutions. Three revolutions in two years seems to me to be altogether unreasonable."

PREPARING FOR WAR.

Venezuelan Government Taking Vigorous Measures For Defense.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Dec. 13.—The government has taken preservative measures at La Guayra. All the deposits of coal at the navy yard and all the British cars on the La Guayra railroad have been brought here, rendering impossible the transportation of the allied troops by rail. General Ferrer, the minister of war, spent all day in choosing spots in the mountains where trenches are to be dug.

The governor of Caracas has issued the following decree:

"All Venezuelans living in the federal district, between the ages of eighteen and fifty years, must enroll themselves in the militia; any such person refusing to enroll voluntarily, as patriotism demands, will be declared a traitor and sent before the tribunals."

The defensive preparations at the strategic points on the heights back of La Guayra are being vigorously pushed forward. The deposits of powder in the fortresses of Lavigia and San Carlos have been removed. Great patriotic demonstrations are being made, and every one capable of bearing arms is offering his services. The embargo placed upon the harbor corporation has been removed.

WILL NOTIFY POWERS.

Washington Officials Receive Arbitration Request.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—A cablegram received at the state department from Minister Bowen, at Caracas, states that the Venezuelan government has requested him to propose to Great Britain and Germany that the difficulties arising out of the claims for alleged damages and injuries to British and German subjects during the civil war be submitted to arbitration.

In conformity with the understanding already reached with the representatives of the British and German governments here this proposition from President Castro will be duly laid before those governments by the state department acting as a channel of communication.

The PIANOLA

The means of obtaining Full Enjoyment from the Piano

The PIANOLA is an amplifier of or adjunct to the piano.

It is not mechanical, except as the best musician is mechanical.

It separates the technique from the expression.

It does all the hard, mechanical, drudging work and leaves the performer free to express his individuality.

There are probably one million useless pianos in this country, pianos that are not opened more than three or four times a year, and then they are opened for some visiting indifferent player, who, after years of instruction, plays but a few piece and those not accurately.

We cannot all be Paderewskis or Hofmanns or Carreños, but the PIANOLA can and does do everything that the best musicians can do.

Any one can play upon his piano with the aid of a Pianola whether or not he knows one note from another.

There is nothing to be done but to control the expression. All the mechanical part is attended to by the PIANOLA.

The repertory of the great musicians averages fifty to one hundred compositions. There are at present available for the PIANOLA 8,385 selections and about two hundred new ones are added each month.

The PIANOLA is the most practical investment the owner of a piano could possibly make.

Playing upright piano with aid of Pianola.

The Pianola is an Ideal Christmas Gift

Instruments selected now will be reserved for Holiday delivery.

The cost of the Pianola is $250. Purchasable by monthly payments.

favorable reception of the proposition, as it is felt that the difficulty has progressed too far for a settlement by the peaceful methods of arbitration. The reprisals made by the Venezuelans for the destruction of their navy in the seizure of British ships and the arrest of German and British subjects practically have developed the relations between the countries into those of real war, although technically the principals prefer to designate it as something less.

Sinking of Ships Not Ordered.

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—As the result of fresh inquiries made regarding the reported sinking of Venezuelan vessels off La Guayra it is stated that the orders given to the German and [illegible] commanders were to examine the vessels before [illegible] the [illegible]. No orders were given to sink them. If however, any vessel has been sunk, this was a military measure necessary in carrying out the foregoing orders. No report has yet been received from Commodore Scheder, the German commander.

Captured Boats In Service.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Dec. 13.—The captured Venezuelan gunboats are now manned by British sailors and are doing British work. There is one British cruiser at this port. The men-of-war continue to blockade the Venezuelan coast. The navigation of the Orinoco river has been reopened.

SITUATION IN GUATEMALA.

Craters That Caused Such a Heavy Loss Are Active Yet.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 13.—The two new craters which appeared in the Santa Maria volcano on the morning of Oct. 24 last and devastated a large section of Guatemala are still smoking. From one of the craters beneath the cloud of smoke white hot lava exudes in a sluggish stream, and from the other cold mud is thrown in spasmodic fashion.

This information has been brought here by people arriving on the steamer Acapulco. On her trip down the coast the Acapulco was at Champerico a week after the outbreak of Santa Maria, when the inhabitants of the town and those who had fled from the neighborhood of the volcano were in a state of terror. The Acapulco carried 170 of them to the port of San Jose. One of the refugees, Alfred McKinnon, an American, died on the steamer from the effects of inhaling volcanic gases.

Time of Georgia Officials Extended.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 13.—A bill has been passed by the Georgia legislature over Governor Terrell's veto which extends the terms of the governor and other state officers eight months beyond the time at which they otherwise would have expired. The bill also provides that the legislature shall meet on the fourth Wednesday in June instead of the fourth Wednesday in October, as at present. The legislature adjourned sine die last night, the fifty day limitation having expired.

Pennsy Won From Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 13.—The Cornell-Pennsylvania debate held in the Lyceum theater resulted in a victory for Pennsylvania. The subject debated was: "Resolved, That the present tariff on raw materials and rough products of iron and steel, such as pig iron, bar iron, rails and steel ingots, is justified on the ground of protection of American industry against foreign competition." Cornell supported the affirmative and Pennsylvania the negative.

Packing Houses Short of Coal.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 13.—Unless relief shall be secured very soon packing house managers of South Omaha assert that they will have either to close down their plants or curtail the output for want of coal. Three of the managers were quoted as saying that the situation is becoming alarming. All agreed that it is the shortage of cars and not of coal and that there is plenty of fuel, but no way of getting it drawn to the consumers.

Third Fire In a Year.

MERIDEN, Conn., Dec. 13.—The Connecticut Saddlery and Hardware company's factory was last night gutted by fire for the third time within a year, causing a loss of between $8,000 and $10,000, mostly on stock. The plant was insured for about two-thirds value. An overheated chimney started this blaze. Fifty hands are thrown out of employment. The firm lost $6,000 by the first fire and $3,000 by the second.

Anglo-Abyssinian Treaty.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—The foreign office has issued the text of the Anglo-Abyssinian treaty, which was ratified Oct. 28. By this treaty Great Britain obtains the lease of a slice of territory near Itang, on the river Baro, as a commercial station and the right to construct a railroad through Abyssinia connecting the Sudan with the Uganda territory.

COULD NOT LAY CABLE

Attempt to Place First Span to Honolulu Fails.

SAN FRANCISCO CROWDS DISAPPOINTED

An Unfavorable Tide and Accidents Mar the Beginning of the Great Project to Connect Us With New Possessions.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 13.—An unsuccessful attempt was made yesterday to lay the shore end of the Pacific cable. As a result the big steamer Silvertown, with the cable in her hold, is still floating idly on the waters of San Francisco bay, and aboard of her there is keen disappointment that adverse conditions made a failure of the attempt to lay the first span of cable toward the new American possessions.

A strong unfavorable tide was the chief cause of the failure of the first step of the great undertaking, and minor casualties marked the efforts of the workmen at the shore end, one of the victims being no less a personage than Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Commercial Cable company, who was not seriously hurt. The day was perfect as to weather conditions, and the occasion had been made the cause for a semiholiday, fully 25,000 people being gathered at the beach, one-half of them school children, to witness the beginning of the cable laying.

The Silvertown got under way from her anchorage in the bay soon after daylight and was at anchor off the beach two hours later. The surf was breaking heavily off shore, but the seas were rapidly moderating. It was decided to delay hauling the cable ashore until the water should become somewhat smoother.

Clarence H. Mackay and his fellow officers of the Pacific Commercial Cable company had two large tents erected on the sands of the beach close to where the shore connection was to be made, and there they entertained their friends as they arrived.

It was nearly 11 o'clock before the life saving crews from the south side and the Baker's Beach stations appeared on the scene with their surfboats ready to lend any assistance that might be needed in communicating between the steamer and the shore. The crews of these boats and the crews of two boats launched from the steamer carried a large rope from the Silvertown to a point outside the breakers and waited there while another boat from the life saving station came out through the surf to carry the end of the rope to the land. The boat, drawn by horses, came into the surf, and the crew climbed into their places. There was a cheer from the crowd as the men met the breakers, and that cheer frightened the horses. The team broke away from the driver and, with the boat carriage dragging after it, plunged into the crowd of people who had gathered on the beach.

Several children were knocked down in the scramble to get out of the way of the maddened horses, but the animals were caught before serious injury had been done. After several attempts the life saving crew succeeded in getting ashore a hawser to which was attached the cable. A wait of four and a half hours for water was had before an attempt was made to draw the cable ashore. The hawser sagged so that it was impossible to draw it ashore through the strong tide. Just before the attempt was abandoned for the day several men took hold of the hawser for a final pull. The hawser flew up and struck Clarence Mackay, who was hit on the chin and knocked off his feet. George W. McNear of this city was struck in the back of the head and rendered unconscious for a short time. Frank Hotaling of New York was struck in the face, sustaining a severe cut.

Darkness coming on, the Silvertown returned to her anchorage in the bay. Another trial will be made Monday.

Coal Scarce In Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 13.—There is a great scarcity of coal in some portions of Kansas. Considerable suffering has resulted already, and much more will ensue unless the famine shall be relieved at once. The complaint is made that the railroads confiscate to their own use nearly all the coal that is being shipped to the western portion of the state.

NEW NORMAL SCHOOL.

Another Normal School for New Jersey seems a necessity and the advantages of Plainfield for such an institution are again pointed out. This subject was discussed a year ago and it became apparent at that time that there was little or no chance of securing it for Plainfield. It may be, however, that the present effort will be more productive of good results.

There is certainly no city in New Jersey that is more adapted for the location of such an institution. It is generally conceded that the new Normal School will have to be in the northern section of the State and within easy reach of the centres of population in that section. While Paterson and Passaic, with some of their neighbors, have not the best of transportation facilities for reaching Plainfield, Essex and Hudson counties are near neighbors and the Jersey Central runs direct to both. There may be some sites that have perhaps a more central location but the difference is slight and more than made up by the other advantages which Plainfield offers.

For a city of its size, Plainfield has no rivals in New Jersey as an ideal suburban community. The undesirable element is almost without representation here. It is a clean city, morally and materially, a place where the young people of a Normal School could come without fear of injurious influences. There are plenty of comfortable houses where the pupils for such an institution could find board if the dormitory plan was not adopted at the start. Then there are plenty of excellent sites to be obtained at a very reasonable cost.

Plainfield has always been famous for its school system. The very atmosphere of the place seems to favor educational work. A Normal School, while essentially a State institution, would necessarily gain much from a location in such a community. The pupils would have one of the best, if not the best school system in the State, right under their personal observation. Then the local school system would have the advantages which would naturally accrue from a State Normal School. While it may happen that the school will not be located here, there can be no doubt that Plainfield has superior advantages to any other city in the State.

Stories have been circulated with more or less frequency about the storage of coal by the big railroads when the people were in great need of it. Investigation has proved the uniform falsity of such reports. Another instance has just come to public notice when a Hackensack preacher declared that the Erie Railroad was storing hundreds of tons of coal at Rochelle Park when the people of Hackensack were without coal. He declared that such a course would inevitably bring on mob violence. Investigation proved that the Erie was unloading buckwheat coal, which would only be used in soft coal locomotives so that the cars could be sent back to the mines for more coal.

One of the most prominent figures in the present excitement in Venezuela is United States Minister Bowen, a brother of H. E. Bowen, of this city. Not only does he represent the United States at the scene of action but he is looking after the interests of both Germany and England as well, now that their consular representatives have taken refuge on board their respective warships. Minister Bowen has visited in Plainfield and has a number of friends here who are watching the progress of affairs with double interest.

It is said that there have only been three hangings in Union county, and one of these was in charge of Former Sheriff W. T. Kirk, of this city. In view of the capture of a murderer at Elizabeth this week, it is within the range of possibility that Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, also of this city, may have this unpleasant duty to perform. If this should become true, it would be strange that out of four hangings, Plainfield sheriffs were called upon to officiate at two of them.

A retail merchant tells a Detroit newspaper that it is easy to sell articles which are well advertised by the makers or wholesale dealers, relates the Philadelphia Record. According to his experience advertising is the best remedy for substitution, since people will not usually accept a substitute for an article which has been widely advertised.

The Newark newspapers are crying for the time to come when the wires in that city shall be placed underground. Plainfield set an example along those lines some time ago but a further extension of the underground system would be a still greater benefit to the city.

The Christmas numbers of the various publications have begun to arrive. All of the magazines are gay in their yule-tide array and filled from cover to cover with interesting reading and artistic ads. Never has a Christmas tide seen the ad columns of such attractive appearance.

George J. Coe was slated for journal clerk at the Republican Assembly caucus Tuesday afternoon. Mr Coe has proved a very efficient officer and been very satisfactory to Republicans and Democrats alike. Mr. Coe is a resident of Plainfield.

Plainfield is far more fortunate than most of its neighbors. There is a fair stock of coal in the local yards and more is expected here. Local dealers declare there is no prospect of an increase in the local price.

One of the very worthy Christmas efforts of the Y. M. C. A. will be to give the poor boys of the city a royal feast in honor of the day. That is another very proper movement started by that association.

Good roads are becoming decidedly popular in Somerset county. The Board of Freeholders of that county has another request for a macadamized road to be built with State aid.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

M. Carney, a blacksmith at the Levering & Garrigues factory, added another accident to the list at that place yesterday. While at work he was struck on the back of the right hand by a flying piece of iron and one of the small arteries was severed. Dr. Brakeley was sent for hurriedly. He stopped the bleeding and took two stitches in the wound so that the man was able to return to work.

Although the weather was decidedly unfavorable last evening quite a number attended the dance which was given last evening in Apgar's Hall. The committee of arrangements consisted of R. B. Carpenter and Herbert Wyckoff. Music was furnished by Witton, of Elizabeth. Dancing was kept up until a late hour.

The funeral services of Mrs. Sophie Wyhusky were held this morning from her late home on Jefferson avenue. Rev. S. K. Doolittle was in charge of the services. Interment was made in Flemington.

The Bound Brook trolley cars have been running in desolutory fashion all day owing to the blocking of the road by snow.

Rev. N. J. Sproul will exchange pulpits with the pastor of the Presbyterian church at Westfield, tomorrow.

The Aluminum Press Company is reported as beginning building operations on the new factory soon.

Arthur Palmer, of Philadelphia, has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Shotwell, of Greenbrook

Miss Marjory Thatcher, of Glen Gardner, is visiting at the home of Mrs. Alvah Gray.

Miss Emma Nelson has been entertaining Miss Lou Smalley, of New Brunswick.

The regular meeting of the Building and Loan Association will be held Monday.

John Conklin who is ill with typhoid fever remains about the same.

Paul Reusch visited in Plainfield this morning on business.

W. H. Cole predicts eighteen snow storms this year.

NEW MARKET.

The Daughters of Liberty propose holding monthly socials in Friendship Hall. If the plan is carried out the first will be held shortly.

Miss Irene Day will play at an entertainment to be given this evening by the Senior Class of the Plainfield High School.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davis have decided to postpone their departure for the west until after the holidays.

The aged father of Ziba Osmun died at Plainfield, Wednesday, while on a visit there.

Regular services will be held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, today.

The G. E. Club was entertained this week by Miss Alice Pierce.

W. B. Smith is on a hunting trip in New York State.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

There is some talk of a butcher shop being opened in town. There is a fine opening for an up-to-date meat market. There is probably not another town of its size in the State that does not have at least one butcher shop, but Scotch Plains at present is without one and is depending upon wagon service and trips to the Plainfield markets for the supply of meat.

The hunting season for rabbits, etc., is fast drawing to a close, much to the sorrow of the local hunters who have been obliged to lay aside their guns for a week now on account of it being unlawful to kill game while there is a tracking snow.

The rain of Thursday night, which froze to the already icy sidewalks as fast as it fell, made walking rather a dangerous occupation Friday morning, for those who were obliged to wander out. One needed a pair of skates to travel with safety.

If the skating should improve so as to make the sport a pleasure, the boys in town are talking of organizing a hockey team. There are a number of good skaters in town from which some excellent material for a team could be selected.

Services at the Baptist church tomorrow will be: Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching by pastor, subject, "Simon, The Farmer," 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 7; evening preaching in the parlors of the church, 7:45.

A number from town will attend the closing scenes tonight at the six-day bicycle race being held this week in Madison Square Garden, New York.

The Saturday evening prayer meeting at the Methodist church tonight will be led by Rev. Mr. Bayliss.

The newly-elected officers of Fanwood Council, R. A., will be installed on Tuesday evening, Janary 13.

Naylor's orchestra, of Plainfield, will furnish the music for dancing at Ivamy's pavillion tonight.

The next meeting of the Township Committee has been called for Friday evening, December 26.

SLEDS IN COLLISION.

Two Boys Thrown Off, But Neither Was Seriously Injured.

While coasting down a hill on a new bobsled yesterday afternoon, Stryker Hoagland, of Linden avenue, and John McCullough, of Steiner place, were thrown off the sled in a collision with another. The sled was mashed to bits and the boys were thrown against a tree with great force but they were not injured seriously.

This morning it was said that young McCullough was rendered unconscious but the boy's father said that there was no truth to that report.

At Willow Grove.

An entertainment was held last evening at the chapel at Willow Grove when several Plainfield people were present. The entertainment was in charge of Miss Florence Darby and among those who took part in the programme were John H. Carney who recited and Miss Edna Sebring who rendered several selections on the piano.

Death of a Lad.

The death of John, the five-year-old son of John and Kate Ward, who reside on West Front street near Rock avenue, occurred last evening, after a short illness from diphtheria. The funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and the interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Music for Christmas.

An orchestra of six pieces, two violins, 'cello, flute, piano and organ, will furnish music for the Christmas exercises of Trinity Reformed church, Sunday evening, December 28. A large chorus choir will also be a feature at this year's exercises.

Former Pastor to Preach.

Rev. Father Smith will preach a sermon tomorrow evening at St. Mary's church before the Holy Name Society of that church.

George Reilling, of Harrison avenue, who has been ill for some time with appendicitis, is now recovering.

It is Easy to Say

"Be careful," but we must all go from heated houses into chill outer air, and the change sets us coughing and wheezing. Avoiding winter colds is difficult; curing them is not hard if you take Allen's Lung Balsam. Better begin when the cold is young and not wait until it settles deep into the lungs, for then, even with Allen's Lung Balsam, complete relief will be slower.

Pay Day and Charity.

The collection globes of the various aid societies are a pretty reliable index to the public paydays. Most firms pay their employes on Friday or Saturday, hence on Saturday and Monday the high-water mark of these voluntary contributions is reached. Monday having been adopted by some concerns as a good day to discharge their liabilities, Tuesday naturally brings forth a smaller crop of charitably inclined folks, who then pour in their mite. On Wednesday and Thursday only small sums are contributed, and Friday is the slimest day of all. Week after week and month after month this system of fluctuation is pursued without variation, which proves that when New Yorkers are flush they are anxious to share their prosperity even with the charity globes.—N. Y. Times.

Bite of the Gila Monster.

The gila monster is a native of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas. It is fat and soft and about two feet in length. A kind of bead work, very regular and brilliant, covers it in patterns of black and salmon pink. It is sluggish in its habits and of a mild disposition, but when angered or alarmed it fights obstinately. It sinks its teeth into an object—into a thumb, a cheek or a wrist—and clings with the tenacity of a crab. And while it clings it bites down harder, for its poison lies in a spongy tissue at the crown of each tooth, and unless the bitten flesh is brought into actual contact with this tissue no infection can result. Hence, the gila monster holds and grinds on its victim, determined to sink the teeth so deep that the poison-oozing sponges at their base may be rubbed and squeezed upon the flesh.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Filipinos Steal U. S. Mail.

The Manila Freedom prints a circumstantial account of the finding of empty mail sacks in the possession of natives along the wharves. A customs inspector, while endeavoring to straighten out a number of cargoes which were massed together, thereby nearly blocking the passage of the river, noticed a United States mail bag on one of the boats, as a curtain to keep out the sun and rain from the little shelter built on the end of each. The customs inspector took note of the fact at the time, and later, by inquiring of the Manila postal authorities, learned that all old bags that cannot be of further use are returned to the United States. The finding of the mail sacks, in view of the fact that many valuable letters have been lost recently, leads to the belief that the natives have been robbing the mails.

Sir Joseph Porter's Reply.

A British warship recently collided with another while clearing out of Portsmouth docks and had her bowsprit carried away. The captain promptly notified the disaster to the admiralty in a dispatch worded as follows: "My Lords: I regret to have to inform your lordships that H. M. S. —— while leaving the harbor came into collision with another vessel and her bowsprit has been carried away. Awaiting instructions from your lordships, I have the honor to remain," etc. Promptly came an admiralty dispatch in reply: "Report who carried away bowsprit and where it has been placed."—Chicago Chronicle.

Sabbath Observance in Scotland.

As an instance of the observance of the Sabbath in Scotland, an English paper tells of a postman having a route between Stirling and Blairdrummond. He was observed to ride a bicycle over his six miles on week days and to walk the same distance on Sunday, and when asked why, replied that he was not allowed to use the machine Sunday. An investigation followed, and the postman's explanation proved to be correct.

Advanced Royalty.

"We are more advanced than our civilized brethren," boasts the king of the Umgaloolo islands. "When our coronation was postponed because of appendicitis we sent an understudy for the surgeons to operate upon instead of to attend the coronation rehearsals."—N. Y. Times.

Particular.

Mr. Justwed—Shall I order anything for the house on my way to the office, this morning, my dear?

Mrs. Justwed—Yes, love. Stop at the grocery store and tell them to send up a five pound bag of salt right away. And, George, tell them to be sure and see that it is fresh.—Judge.

Fur stoles are growing wider and even flatter. One of the newest ways of wearing them consists in tying the stole in a loose knot directly over the bust and letting the ends hang unevenly.

this way with three little groups of paws and tails. The loose sack coat of squirrel is often lined with ermine and has a wide shawl collar of the same fur. This makes a very artistic garment.

The expensive Russian sable is closely imitated in this year's dyes of fine baum marten.

Next to the sack coat, the blouse style postilion back is the favorite style in fur coats.

The illustration shows one of these garments. It is made of sable with wide revers, a blouse front and a tight fitting postilion back.

Walking suits are made with the skirts just clearing the ground. The materials are usually speckled tweeds or zibelines.

There is no doubt the craze for motoring has given a great impetus to the fur trade. Many of the motor coats have fur hoods large enough to throw entirely over the hat or toque. Those that are long have the fullness of the skirt of the coat secured by buttons or loops on either side of the front, which certainly makes them very comfortable wear, for they are ready to let in and out at will. The sack shape and the three-quarter length characterize the newest garments of the moment, while pouched bodices are the mode for gowns.

Nearly all the jackets for out of door wear accompanying gowns are made wide enough to cover the chest well, and a great many have capes on the shoulders. Deep cuffs to the sleeves are still in favor.

The brown tailor made in the cut has a three-quarter length coat trimmed with applications of panne. The collar is especially smart.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

"Looks as if Hestor had started a hotel or boarding house," reflected the managing editor. "A 12-room boarding house. That is not the kind of furniture he would put up in a New York house. He has his own bachelor apartment. I have been in it scores of times. It is full of furniture, and mighty fine furniture."

He read and reread the furniture bill. Then he leaned back in his chair and invoked the resources of a memory trained to its work and responsive as the muscles of an athlete or the fingers of a virtuoso.

"It is about a year," he reflected, "since Hestor invited Bob Van Horne, Blake and myself to dinner at the Waldorf, and after dinner we went to his apartment. He was loquaciously mysterious about some house he was building. Bob Van Horne had been talking about a summer joint he was going to erect out on Long Island. Hestor said he was building one which would make Bob's look like 30 cents. He raved about the scenery and all that. Seems to me as if he said something about palm trees. Bob asked him where it was, and he shut up like a clam."

Chalmers reflected. "He said 'palm trees' all right. Seems to me as if he said something about alligators. Then he closed up and said nothing."

Chalmers examined the other statements. They were bills of various kinds—for stocks of canned goods, smoked meats, condensed milk and the multitudinous articles which would be used by a well equipped camping party. They were dated between the 25th and 29th of April, and were rendered on the first of the month. It was late in the afternoon when he was through with this work.

About 11 o'clock that night Chalmers received a telegram from Mr. Bernard Seymour dated from Chicago. Mr. Seymour had been detailed by Jack Stevens to hunt up the Chicago record of L. Sylvester Vincent.

Seymour was first heard of in the following bulletin, filed in Chicago at eight o'clock that night.

Chicago, May 8.

To William Chalmers, Managing Editor the New York Record:

L. Sylvester Vincent is the kidnapper. He formed plan in Chicago two months ago. Has been seen in conference with Joseph Reiterman and other big stock operators. Was probably backed by them to abduct Rockwell, Carmody, Kent, Pence, Haven and Morton. Vincent is a plausible but desperate character. Have big story. Can send 10,000 words. How much do you want?

BERNARD SEYMOUR.

Chalmers wired the impetuous Seymour to send nothing except a brief statement of the facts he had learned; not for publication, but for the private information of Mr. Stevens and himself. Chalmers then wired Stevens to put his men at work at Provincetown, and return to New York at once. He received a telephone message from Miss Carmody asking him to call at her residence if convenient, and in 15 minutes an automobile landed him at the Carmody mansion.

He found Miss Carmody with Miss Edith Le Roy, Miss De Neuville and Mrs. Isabel White, the latter being the widowed aunt of Miss Carmody, and a most charming chaperone to that young lady. Mr. Chalmers was acquainted with all the ladies except Mrs. White. All were eager for the latest news. Mr. Chalmers repeated Mr. Van Horne's instructions about the reward, and displayed a copy of the headlines and the leading article for the following day. He told what had been done in the way of forming a detective staff.

"We now have 40 men detailed exclusively to this work," he said. "Ten are with Mr. Stevens at Provincetown and others are at various points selected by Mr. Stevens and myself. I know you ladies will excuse me if I ask for a few minutes' private conversation with Miss Carmody. We must all do what we can to advance her interests, and this is a matter in which she is especially concerned, and no precautions can be omitted."

"Certainly we will excuse you," said Mrs. White.

"Why, of course," said Miss Le Roy and Miss De Neuville. But these young ladies were devoured of curiosity and would have given anything quietly to have stepped into the adjoining room and overheard the subdued conversation between Miss Carmody and the managing editor.

Chalmers briefly recited the story of L. Sylvester Vincent and told of the telegram he had received from Seymour at Chicago.

"This is a clew well worth following," said Mr. Chalmers. "I do not suppose you have ever heard your father speak about a man named Vincent?"

Miss Carmody was sure that her father had never mentioned the name. It was an odd one and she would have remembered it.

"Did Mr. Vincent ever call here? Your butler or footman might know."

Miss Carmody rang a bell. A servant appeared.

"Tell Smith I wish to see him," said Miss Carmody.

"Do you keep the cards of all who call on Mr. Carmody?" asked Miss Carmody as the butler stood in the doorway.

"Yes, Miss 'Elen."

"Bring me the cards which have been received in the past three or four weeks."

The butler bowed, disappeared, and soon returned with a formidable assortment of cards. These were spread out on the table, and Miss Carmody and Mr. Chalmers began an examination of them.

"This is a new game of cards, Miss Carmody," said Chalmers, glancing at his lovely companion. "The one who finds the right name wins."

"I win!" said Miss Helen, her eyes flashing with excitement. "Here it is!"

She passed a neatly engraved card to Mr. Chalmers. That gentleman took it and read:

L. SYLVESTER VINCENT.

Inventor, Mechanical Expert and Promoter.

CHICAGO.

"Here is another one," said Miss Carmody. They looked at all the cards and found four with the name of L. Sylvester Vincent. She sent for Smith.

"Do you remember the gentleman who presented these cards?" she asked.

Smith looked at the cards a moment and said: "I remember 'im very well, Miss 'Elen. The first time 'e came 'e walked right in and 'ung up 'is 'at before I could stop 'im. 'E said 'e 'ad an happointment with Mr. Carmody. I told 'im Mr. Carmody was not at 'ome. 'E said 'e would wait. I told 'im that Mr. Carmody saw no one on business at his residence. 'E said 'e knew that, but 'e 'ad to sail for Lunnon the next day and must see Mr. Carmody that night. Finally 'e went away."

"Very well, Smith, that is all," said Miss Carmody. She looked at Mr. Chalmers with an expression half of interrogation and half of confidence in his ability to solve the riddle. The chatter of Miss Le Roy sounded musical as it came through the drawn portieres. Two newsboys were "working the street" with a late edition. In the distance their cries sounded like the "honking" of wild geese.

"It is remarkable that so many things should point to this man Vincent," said Mr. Chalmers. "He disappeared the same time your father did. He had been here several times the week before. And, on top of this, our man Seymour wires that Vincent is the man."

"Do you think that he is, Mr. Chalmers?" Miss Carmody looked eagerly into the eyes of the managing editor, and that gentleman was so hypnotized that he was lost at the moment for an answer.

"I—I—no, I do not think he is," said Mr. Chalmers. "It is probably nothing more than a coincidence."

"But your Mr. Seymour seems so sure that Vincent is at the bottom of the mystery," said Miss Carmody.

"Seymour is a good reporter, but he is too emotional at times," said Chalmers, smiling. "He is like many of our detectives who first make up their minds, and then make the facts fit to prove their theory. It is better to get the facts first, and form your theory later. Of course Seymour may have some important clews, but he did not send them in his bulletin. I have good reason for suspecting a certain person of complicity in this matter, and I have some facts which seem to fortify my suspicions, but I would not dream of making a charge against him. In a few days I shall know more."

"By the way, there is something you can do, if you will," added Chalmers.

"What is it?" Miss Carmody was much interested.

PARTRIDGE RESIGNS.

The New York Police Commissioner Pleads Loss of Health.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—by handing in his resignation Police Commissioner John N. Partridge forestalled the action of the City club, which had planned to demand his head from Mayor Low. While a committee appointed by this club was in session at the As[illegible] House preparing to move on the city [illegible] with a recommendation that the police commissioner be dismissed Mayor Low was reading the resignation of that official.

Commissioner Partridge asks that his resignation take effect on Jan. 1, 1903. His successor, while not yet decided upon, will, it is rumored, be First Deputy Police Commissioner Ehrlein of Brooklyn. Other names mentioned are those of former District Attorney Eugene A. Philbin and F. Norton Goddard.

Commissioner Partridge gives as a reason for his resignation that he is tired, his health is impaired and he needs rest.

That he was in a considerable measure influenced by the complaints of his critics, however, is evidenced by his assertion that he also steps aside to give an opportunity to the friends of Mayor Low who think a better man may be found for the place.

Mr. Partridge states that he is well satisfied with what he has accomplished during his year at the head of the department, and he furnishes to the mayor a record of his work.

Schwab as Santa Claus.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 13.—Charles M. Schwab, assisted by his wife, will play Santa Claus at long range for the deserving poor of Braddock, North Braddock and Homestead, just outside of Pittsburg, where many of the largest plants of the United States Steel corporation are located. Oliver Wren, Mr. Schwab's private secretary, made this announcement at a conference of representatives of the three boroughs. This committee, which will include all the clergymen of the district, will determine what form the Christmas gifts shall take. The cost will amount to thousands of dollars. Work is so plentiful in these places that the beneficiaries will be almost entirely the very aged and orphans.

An Open Switch Accident.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 13.—The Southern railway's fast passenger train No. 39 ran into an open switch at High Point and collided with the engine of a freight train. Both engines were wrecked. Two passengers were injured slightly. Engineer Rousit of the passenger train had a leg broken and an ankle so badly crushed that amputation may be necessary. Engineer Sweeney of the freight also had a leg broken. The two firemen were severely bruised.

Strikers and Police Clash.

MARSEILLES, France, Dec. 13.—The first collision between the strikers and the police has occurred, and as a result several persons on both sides, including a commissary of police, were injured. The clash was an outcome of an attempt on the part of the strikers to destroy the track in front of a car loaded with coal which was being sent to the port.

Flood Warnings at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 13.—The almost steady downpour of rain for the past thirty-six hours has decided Weather Forecaster Ridgway to issue a preliminary flood warning. Mr. Ridgway thinks an eighteen foot stage will be reached, but should the weather continue warm a flood stage may be reached by Sunday night or Monday morning.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

A Christmas present that will be a thing of beauty and a joy forever is one of those handsome pianos sold by G. H. Kenyon, of West Front street. He sells only the best makes and they are guaranteed to give entire satisfaction.

Of course you'll have a Christmas tree for the children and of course you'll want some oranges to decorate it with. They can be had at all prices at T. L. Walsh's North avenue market. The best Florida, Indian River and Tangerines.

G. Meissner, the hand laundry man, of Watchung avenue, has built up a flourishing laundry business through the thoroughness and rapidity with which he does the work. He makes a specialty of fine work especially lace curtains and shirtwaists.

For this evening only, the Rogers' Seafood Company will have some bargains in fish that will surprise you. Bear in mind that this firm keeps nothing but the freshest of seafood, oysters and clams being featured. All breakfast orders are delivered promptly.

Don't run away with the idea that because snow is on the ground it is out of the question to think of summer. It is highly proper to do so, inasmuch as preparation should be made now to beautify your grounds. Drop a postal to the Belleview Avenue Nursery for its rates on trees and shrubbery of all kinds.

One of the most attractive display windows in this city is that of E. S. F. Randolph, at the Watchung Pharmacy, at the corner of North and Watchung avenues. By means of an ingenious arrangement of the syphon plan Mr. Randolph has arranged a miniature fountain in the basin of which have been placed about 50 gold fish. Around the sides of the basin is a display of perfumery and toilet articles.

Bids for Engine House.

An advertisement will be found in another column in which will be found a call for bids on the new fire engine house in the borough which has been changed in design. The bids will be received by the borough clerk at 218 West Front street until 7:30 o'clock, December 23. The bids are for all labor and material to be used on the house and will be opened at the Council Chamber of the borough by the committee, on Dec. 23, at 8 o'clock.

—The union Bible class, taught by Rev. D. M. Stearns, will meet at the Y. M. C. A. Hall Tuesday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock.

JERSEY AT THE CAPITAL

CITIZENS OF THIS STATE HOLDING OFFICE AT WASHINGTON.

Jersey Does Not Have Its Fair Share of Patronage at Present—No Fear of Changes.

Jerseymen who hold positions in the Capitol are not at all worried by the convening of Congress. There will be no distribution of patronage this year, and it is expected all of the Senate and House employes will continue to discharge their respective duties until March 4, at least. Unless there is an extra session it is not likely that there will be any changes made before next December.

New Jersey has a few men at the Capitol, although not quite all she is really entitled to. In the Senate, William Jeffers, of Hackensack, is the chief telegrapher, he having been appointed through the influence of the late Vice President Garret A. Hobart. John M. Biddle, of Elizabeth, is the secretary of Senator Kean and clerk of the committee on geological survey.

Col. William M. Palmer, of Camden, is one of the clerks of the committee on enrolled bills, a position he has held for several years. W. H. K. Depue is a messenger, Frank S. Hemmick a telephone page, D. H. McLean telephone operator, H. L. Hart a folder, Fred Gordon and C. B. Elliott laborers, and all credited to New Jersey.

In the House the important position of chief clerk has been held for seven years by William J. Browning, of Camden. Frank Barto, of Camden, is clerk of the committee on pensions, and John G. Shreve, of Atlantic City, is clerk of the committee on labor. M. E. Matlack, of Mount Holly, is printing clerk, and J. M. Thompson, of New Egypt, is chief telegrapher. G. C. Randall, of Camden, is a clerk in the office of the folding room. John Rome is a messenger, and August Rupper and Frank McQuaid are employes in the folding room.

As yet Congressman Fowler has not appointed any one as clerk of the committee on banking and currency.

There are only three Jerseymen on the Capitol police force—T. C. Meeker, Francis Mulvey and J. C. Boe.

The Blue Book, or official register, gives the following Jerseymen employed in the various departments: Department of State, one, salary $1,600; Treasury Department, eighty-seven, salaries $114,150.09; War Department, twenty-six, salaries $31,240; Navy Department, nine, salaries $8,780; Postoffice department, eighteen, salaries $22,980; Department of the Interior, 127, salaries $152,110; Department of Justice, three, salaries $4,800; Department of Agriculture, twenty-two, salaries $26,640; Government printing office, seventy-five, salaries $87,299.68; Department of Labor, four, salaries $5,200; District of Columbia, sixteen, salaries $14,460. The aggregate is 388 employes, whose salaries amount to $469,259.77.

The District of Columbia has 5,652 employes, whose salaries aggreggate $4,506,321.55, and New York has 2,010 employes, who receive $2,471,993.13.

TOO MANY GUESTS.

So the Police, at Jefferson's Request, Gathered Them In.

Becoming disgusted with the way his wife was entertaining visitors while he was away from home, Charles Jefferson appealed to the police, yesterday afternoon, to have the domicile cleared of unwelcome guests. Patrolman Higgins swooped down on the place, which is located on West Third street near Liberty, while a typical Boulevard "pink tea" was in progress. He captured Jennie Jefferson, Amanda Hooper, Louise Carr, Bertha Lane, John Taylor, Lewis Moon and William Stevens. In the city court, this morning, City Judge Runyon sentenced all to thirty days straight.

NEW TRUST COMPANY.

Westfield Trust Company Has Just Filed Articles of Incorporation.

Articles of incorporation were filed at the county clerk's office at Elizabeth, yesterday, by the Westfield Trust Company. It is capitalized at $100,000 divided into 1,000 shares of $100 all of which have been subscribed for. The company proposes to open an office in Westfield in the near future and conduct a general banking business. The incorporators are William W. Connolly, Hiram L. Fink, Augustus Gale, Joseph R. Connolly and Charles F. Wittke, of Westfield and William F. Arnold and Alfred D. Cook, of this city.

Scientist Will Tell of Pelee.

Dr. E. O. Hovey, assistant curator of the Museum of Natural History in New York City, who was one of the scientists who went to investigate the recent eruption of Mount Pelee, on Martinque, and of Soufriere, on St. Vincent, will give an illustrated lecture on Tuesday night, Dec. 16, in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, and will relate his experiences of the ascent.

NEW RECTOR INSTITUTED

The Ceremonies Took Place at Grace Episcopal Church Yesterday Morning.

BISHOP WAS PRESENT

Keys of Church Presented to New Rector, Rev. E. V. Stevenson, by the Senior Warden—Impressive Services Were Held—Sermon by Rev. J. P. Peters.

With the impressive form and ceremony of the Episcopal church, the new rector, Rev. Edward Vicars Stevenson, was instituted at Grace Episcopal church, yesterday morning. This important event in the history of the church attracted a very large number of members and friends of the parish, who took an especial interest in the services. Every seat in the handsome edifice was filled at 10:30 o'clock, the hour for the service, when the vested choir led the way in the processional, followed by eight priests and the Bishop of the Diocese, the senior and junior wardens of the church.

Rev. Edward Vicars Stevenson.

After the choir there walked Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector emeritus, Rev. J. P. Taylor, Rev. William Bryce Morrow, Rev. Dr. W. H. Neilson, of Plainfield; Rev. Mr. Harris, of Somerville; Rev. Dr. J. P. Peters, rector of St. Michael's church, New York; Rev. Dr. John Charles Roper, of the General Theological Seminary; Rev. Edward Vicars Stevenson, the new rector; Bishop Scarborough and De Witt C. Ivins and Marion S. Ackerman, senior and junior warden of Grace church.

The services opened with morning prayer by Rev. Dr. W. H. Neilson, after which Rev. Erskine M. Rodman read the first lesson, followed by Rev. William Bryce Morrow, who read the second lesson. Dr. Neilson read the prayer, after which Bishop Scarborough took charge of the institution of the new rector. During this part of the service, DeWitt C. Ivins, as senior warden, presented the keys of the church to the rector.

Following the institution, which was brief, the morning sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. John P. Peters, rector of St. Michael's church, New York, where Mr. Stevenson was the assistant prior to his coming to Plainfield. Dr. Peters delivered a strong and impressive discourse, taking for his text, "The Shepherd Giveth His Life for His Sheep." The divine dwelt at some length upon the duties of a pastor saying that he should be a devout and earnest student of God's Word and that he must realize that all truth is of God. He said that a pastor must be a student of political and social problems and exemplify the true meaning of the brotherhood of men.

Dr. Peters continued by saying that it is the duty of a pastor to study the life of Jesus and the writings of His followers. He must be self-sacrificing and thoroughly devoted to his calling. Turning to the congregation, Dr. Peters told them what the rector had a right to expect of them. He said that they should give their entire support to him in his every effort for the welfare and growth of the church and that they, too, must be close students of God's Word.

"The relationship between pastor and people," said Dr. Peters, "should be one of love, service and sacrifice; a unit, both seeking to enter that

TO MEET MISS SCOTT.

Charming Tea Given by Mrs. Wm. H. Murray, of Watchung Avenue.

Miss Scott is the fiancee of Dexter O. Tiffany, brother of Mrs. Murray. The event afforded an excellent opportunity for Miss Scott to meet a number of Plainfield people, at the same time enjoy the social features provided by the hostess. There were no special decorations. Mrs. Murray and Miss Scott were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Dexter Tiffany and the Misses Tweedy.

SECOND ISSUE OF QUIVER

PUBLICATION BY YOUNG WOMEN OF RANDOLPH-COOLEY SCHOOL.

The Clever Little Paper Has Just Made Its Appearance—The Editors.

The Christmas number of The Quiver, a paper published by the Qui Vive Society of the Randolph-Cooley Collegiate School, of this city, has just made its appearance in its second issue since it was started by the members of that institute. In appearance its attractiveness of design and composition at once catches the eye and its contents are equally interesting to the pupils as well as to the alumni. It is fresh and breezy from the pens of its editors and contributors.

On the first page are the names of the editorial sponsors of the publication and at the head of the list is Miss Helen T. Batchelor as editor-in-chief. Associated with her are Miss Elinor G. Waring, Miss Margaret Lowe, Miss Ruth Fredericks and Miss Helen M. Cruikshank. The advertisements in this publications, like all other magazines, are not the least interesting reading by any means and those who have charge of this important department are Miss Dorothy Burke and Miss Marion Smith.

Among the contributions to this month's issue of the paper is a poem by Miss Helen Batchelor, in which each member of the school is mentioned in bright witticisms. Toward the last part of the reading matter are some really clever jokes which are entirely original. All things considered the paper continues to improve with every issue.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS HEARD IN SHAKESPEARE

Scenes Given From "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Class of '03 of High School.

WAS VERY SUCCESSFUL

FAIRIES AND THE COURT OF THE DUKE OF ATHENS FIGURED IN THE SCENES.

The Costumes Were Pretty and the Young People Made a Decided Hit in Their Acting—It Will be Repeated on Friday Night.

Despite the wintry weather Saturday evening, over two hundred and fifty people attended the first performance of Shakespeare's comedy, "Midsummer Night's Dream," given in Franklin Hall by the class of 1903, seniors of the City High School. The full play was not given but merely the scenes in which the clowns figure and those setting forth the quarrel and reconciliation of Oberon and Titania, king and queen of Fairyland. The last scene is that in which the clowns give the tragedy of "Pyramus and Thisbe" before Duke Theseus and his bride.

Throughout the performance, Mendelssohn's obligato to the play was pleasingly rendered by Miss Dorothy Waldo, violin; Miss Jessie Utter, piano; Fullerton Waldo, violin; and Miss Elizabeth Long, soprano.

The makeup of the clownish mechanics was most ludicrous, their swarthy complexions, matted hair, and knotty hands well portraying their rough callings. All took their parts with an ease and perfectness which showed careful rehearsing. Robert W. Meeker, who took the part of Nick Bottom, the weaver, went through his long and difficult speeches with a swing and character which excited much applause. The part of Flute, the bellows mender, was taken by Alden E. Moore. Ralph S. Lane took the part of Quince, the carpenter, Charles N. Doolittle was Snug, the joiner, Vincent B. Miner, Snout, the tinker, and Norman C. Hill made a decided hit as Starveling, the tailor.

In the next scene Titania and her fairies met Oberon and his attendants in the woods. The light effects, together with the beautiful costumes of the King and Queen of Fairyland and their elves, rendered this the most beautiful scene of the play, and the sight of the fairies, in their green and white gowns dancing to soft music about their King and Queen in the forest, could not fail to please the eye.

Arthur F. Conant and Miss Helen C. Moodey, as Oberon and Titania, were very skillful in the execution of their parts and Cyril Brown, as Puck, "tripped" about the stage in a manner highly pleasing. The Misses Gertrude and Harriet Moodey, dressed in white and carrying yellow scarfs, took the parts of Oberon's attendants while the Misses Edna Long, Alice Pugh, Annis Kinsman and Ethelyn Davis, dressed in white and carrying green scarfs, formed Queen Titania's bodyguard of fairies.

The following scenes where the clowns rehearse their play in the forest and are there surprised by Bottom, who enters, wearing an ass's head and causes wild confusion among the rustics were well acted and caused continuous laughter from the audience.

In the last scene, the clowns gave their play, supposedly a tearful tragedy, mid roars of laughter. Merriment reigned in the audience from the time when Ralph Lane, as Quince, entered for the prologue of the tragedy until Alden Moore, as "Fairest Thisbe" fell in the throes of death across the already lifeless body of Pyramus "her" lover, fatally wounded by the too-vigorous use of the "trusty blade," a glittering tin sword.

Frederic T. VanAuken took the part of Theseus, Duke of Athens, before whom the tragedy was given. Miss Lucy Coriell took the part of Hippolyta, and Albert Beers played Philostrate, master of revels. Miss Harriet Randall and Miss Grace Ten-Eyck took the parts of court ladies and G. Archibald Brakeley and Michael T. Moynihan were the Duke's courtiers.

The play will be repeated on Friday evening. Miss Katherine F. Ball and Miss S. Lena Bass had charge of the rehearsals and were assisted by Miss Harriet Goddard, who took the part of Bottom when the play was given by the Shakespeare Society of Wellesley College last June. Lindsey Best was stage manager.

At the close of the play, the evening broke up with an informal dance.

UPSET OIL STOVE.

Set Fire to Bathroom at Home of James L. Love, of Duer Street, Saturday Evening.

While taking a bath Saturday evening at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Love, of 22 Duer street, Roy Love upset an oil stove in the bathroom and in a few minutes the room was ablaze. An alarm was sounded from box 148 at the corner of Duer street and Lincoln place and the borough fire department responded with promptness.

The firemen arrived at the scene of the fire before the alarm stopped sounding and soon had the flames extinguished. The blazing stove was thrown out of the window together with some blazing oil soaked rugs. The damage will probably amount to about $150.

Box 148 has never been used before and the key was secured from the home of Dr. Buchanan.

ENDEAVOR ANNIVERSARY.

Observed by Society at the Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

The eleventh anniversary of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church was observed Saturday morning at the church. Orra S. Rogers was in charge of the service. After a few appropriate remarks, Miss Mildren Green, secretary, presented her report. This showed that the society was organized December 9, 1891, with thirty-five members. At present the active membership numbers seventy-six, and during the past year $300 was raised and expended for benevolent purposes.

After the reading of the report an excellent address was delivered by Ira J. Ordway, of Chicago, in which the society was congratulated for its prosperous condition and good showing.

BROKE HIS ARM.

Released From Arrest Proved Unfortunate in One Case.

Leniency on the part of Chief Kiely made Robert Hart's misfortune in getting arrested for drunkenness, Saturday, a double header. He was picked up on West Front street by Patrolman Vanderweg but not wishing to hold him over until this morning the head of the force released him on his own recognizance. He had hardly left the station when he fell on the pavement and broke his arm. His case was called at today's session of court but was laid over until he recovers sufficiently to appear.

BARBERS COMING.

Newark Barbers Will Come Here on Tour of Inspection.

A delegation of journeymen barbers from Local Union No. 319, of Newark, are contemplating a trip to this city for a tour of inspection and visit to Local No. 315. It will take place in all probability the first of the year and the delegation will be headed by Harvey Wentrick, who was formerly a leading worker in the Plainfield organization. He is now located in Newark and is credited with being the means of securing better hours and wages for the barbers in the State metropolis.

Saved From Freezing.

Falling into the hands of the police was probably all that saved Charles O'Brien, of the West End, from freezing, last night. He was found wallowing about in the snow on Watchung avenue by Patrolman Flynn, almost exhausted from the effects of cold and liquor. He was taken to headquarters and this morning received a reprimand and suspension of sentence from City Judge Runyon.

Cut His Head.

A. L. Cadmus, of the Commercial Mills, had a fall Saturday, while at work and sustained a severe gash in his head. He went to Muhlenberg Hospital, where Dr. Gaston gave the proper treatment. Mr. Cadmus is now at his home, 112 Plainfield avenue, but will be out again in a few days.

MISS FLEMING'S DEBUT INTO LOCAL SOCIETY

Was Formally Introduced at a Reception Given by Her Mother Saturday Afternoon.

SOCIETY IN ATTENDANCE

AFTER THE RECEPTION AN INFORMAL DANCE WAS HELD IN THE EVENING.

Residence of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fleming, of Park Avenue, Was Charmingly Arranged for the Event—The Receiving Party.

A most brilliant coming out reception was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fleming at 1012 Park avenue, in honor of the debut of their daughter, Miss Marjorie Fleming. The reception was held between the hours of 4 and 7 o'clock, during which time there was a constant coming and going of prominent society folk who assembled at the house to welcome the debutante into the realms of Plainfield society. During the latter part of the afternoon a dinner was served and in the evening dancing was enjoyed until a late hour by the younger set.

The house was tastefully decorated with flowers and potteed palms and ferns. In the parlors the predominating colors were white and green. Carnations were interspersed with the green leaves of ferns and palms and here and there white ribbons were arranged with much taste.

Shortly after the hour set for the reception carriages began to arrive bearing well-known society folk of this city and other places, notably from Boston, New York, Boston, Jersey City, Newark, and many other cities. Those who received with Mrs. Fleming and Miss Fleming were Miss Helen Brown. Miss Margaret Goddard, Miss Marie Finch, Miss Elizabeth Bowen, Miss Helen Martin, Miss Elizabeth Harman, Miss Margaret Wadsworth, Miss Efna Strong, of this city, and Miss Emily Goold and Miss Agnes Steele, of Brooklyn; Miss MacCabe, of Jersey City, and Miss Katherine North, of Philadelphia.

After the reception an elaborate supper was served to the guests. The dining room decorations were very attractive and, like those in the parlors, carnations and palms were arranged in a most artistic manner.

During the evening dancing was enjoyed until a late hour, the music for which was provided by an out-of-town orchestra.

An elaborate programme is being planned, to be followed by a banquet. There will be short addresses by the visiting chiefs and others prominent in the organization. This affair will also be in the nature of a reception of the great pocohontas, Mrs. Lavinia Holstein, recently elected to the office.

ANOTHER OLD RESIDENT GONE

MRS. ELIZA VAN NEST DIED AT ALTON YESTERDAY MORNING.

Was in Her Ninety-Fourth Year—Injured in Fall Three Years Ago—Leaves Four Children.

In the death of Mrs. Eliza VanNest, widow of the late Peter VanNest, which occurred yesterday morning at the home of her son, William VanNest, at Alton, another one of the oldest residents is taken away. She was in the ninety-fourth year of her age, having been born in the vicinity of New Market in 1809. Up to three years ago she enjoyed excellent health but at that time she had a fall, which crippled her and, up to the time of her death, she was compelled to keep to her bed.

Mrs. VanNest was a thoroughly devoted Christian woman and was the oldest member of the Baptist church at South Plainfield. Her faith was strong to the end. Recently her son, Firman VanNest, of this city, died suddenly, but on account of her condition she was not informed of the fact. Mrs. VanNest lived with her son, William VanNest, the greater part of the last twenty-five years, and the funeral services will be held there tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The interment will be in the Baptist cemetery at South Plainfield.

Mrs. VanNest leaves four children, William, Thomas and Nelson VanNest and Mrs. Morgan Compton, the latter of Metuchen. She was a grandmother of Mrs. Charles Conover, of Elmwood place, and Mrs. Ida Harris, of South Plainfield.

LEAGUE WILL BE CONTINUED

Y. M. C. A.'S Place in Basket Ball League Filled by the I. C. T. Club.

A GAME THIS EVENING

Hope Y. M. A. and Alis A. A. Will Meet This Evening in Y. M. C. A. Gym—Other Games Postponed Until After the Holidays—I. C. T.'S to Complete Schedule.

This evening will mark a temporary cessation of activity in basket ball circles until after the holidays when the games in the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League will be resumed. The league will continue a triangular contest, the I. C. T. Club taking the place of the Y. M. C. A., and completing the schedule left open by the resignation of the Y. M. C. A. This evening, the teams of the Hope Y. M. A. and the Alis A. A. will meet in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, as guests of the latter organization, and play the game which was scheduled for there. This game will end any participation of the Y. M. C. A. in the basket ball league.

It was told in Saturday's Daily Press that the Y. M. C. A. intended withdrawing from the league when the other clubs refused to allow the demand of Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood that he referee or umpire every league game played in the association gymnasium. A meeting of the executive committee of the league was held at the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon when the Y. M. C. A.'s resignation was formally presented. It was accepted without discussion. The invitation of the Y. M. C. A. to hold this evening's game in the association gymnasium so as not to disappoint either players or spectators was accepted and the secretary was subsequently instructed to send to General Secretary J. H. Manning a hearty vote of thanks to the association for courtesies extended in the past and for the use of the gymnasium for tonight's game.

Anxious to see the league continued, now that so much interest has been aroused in the game, the members of the I. C. T. Club had decided to offer to take the last place in the league, left vacant by the Y. M. C. A.'s withdrawal, and complete the schedule of the Y. M. C. A. A communication to that effect was received from V. W. Nash, Jr., president of the I. C. T. Club. This offer, made purely in the interest of good sport, was accepted and the members of the executive committee were loud in their commendation of such sportmanlike conduct.

Owing to the numerous counter attractions for the holiday week, it was decided to postpone the remainder of the league schedule until the new year when the games will be resumed Monday evening, January 5.

Officials were fixed for this evening's game as follows: Referee, Charles B. Morse; umpires, S. B. Joseph and George E. Fuller; timekeepers, J. Fred Wharton and Harry Cuming; scorer, John H. Doane.

Trolley Current Cannot Escape at Watchung Ave. Bridge Any More.

All danger of further pyrotechnic displays along the fence at the North Avenue station has been removed through repairs being made to the trolley feed wire beneath the Watchung avenue bridge. A new running board has been put in place and the connections and all metal in the immediate vicinity have been perfectly insulated. A test was made Saturday and at no time did the current get beyond its proper confines.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

There is a bare possibility that a concerted effort is being made to throw the support of the Democrats of New Jersey to William Randolph Hearst in the coming struggle for the Presidential nomination. Attention has already been called to the thrilling indorsement given Mr. Hearst by Duke Thompson, and now a rumor comes from Plainfield that the former is about to establish a penny newspaper there. It may be that this report, following so soon after the Thompson announcement, is merely a coincidence, but it looks so suspicious that it will justify the placing of a detective on its trail.—Newark News.

Senator Dryden's promise of support to Senator Strong has forced him to ignore the claims of the man who at the critical moment in last year's caucus for United States Senator, turned the tide in favor of the Essex insurance man. It was Mr. Cross who on the last ballot with Mr. Dryden one vote short and Edward Stokes close behind, left the band of three still clinging to the hopes of John W. Griggs, and accomplised Dr. Dryden's election. Under these circumstances Mr. Dryden is naturally deeply indebted to Mr. Cross, but aft nearly so much as to Mr. trong who stuck to the Dryden forces from first to last and kept the three Middlesex Assemblymen also in line — New Burnswick Home News.

The great damage done to poles and wires by the storm yesterday was a rough reminder to the street-using corporations of the business policy of operating their wires underground. The loss upon the companies by storm damage is twofold, the expense of replacing the erections blown away and the loss of business. Half a dozen such storms as that of yesterday in a year would make a very serious difference in the dividends of a corporation.

The danger as well as loss and inconvenience to the public by the prostration of electric poles and wires should be gravely considered. There was peril in many of Newark's streets yesterday, and much greater perils would have been presented if the severity of the storm had been much prolonged or if the sleet had frozen upon the electric wires in quantity enough to drag them down.

Public policy and the interests of the street using corporations alike demand the removal of all poles from the streets and the burial of the wires as soon as practicable.—Newark Advertiser.

The people of seven of the counties in the State will now realize how foolish they were not to elect Republicans to the Assembly, for they have been entirely overlooked in the distribution of the patronage at the disposal of the members of the lower house of the Legislature. Of course they were prepared for this, because it is an unwritten law that a county that fails to fall in line with the majority is to be snubbed when the plums are handed around. The counties under the ban this year are Hudson, Hunterdon, Ocean, Salem, Somerset, Sussex and Warren. In two or three of these counties the Rebpublicans have only received their just deserts, but what shall be said of those in Ocean? There the rank and file of the G. O. P. taught their party a needed lesson, although they had to use severe measures to impress the teaching upon mind and heart. But now these patriots are made to suffer because of their courage, and they will have to stand at one side and see Senator Shinn pick out one of those whose actions they rebuked at the polls and give him a place of honor. There is one consolation for these martyrs, however. They can remember the saying of that noted leader, "I had rather be right than be President," and take the flattering unction to their soul that they haven't done wrong.—Newark News.

The enactment of a law requiring non-resident gunners to pay a license fee of $10 for the privilege of gunning in this State, has caused a considerable diminution in the number of visiting sportsmen this season, as compared with former years. But those who paid the fee complain of poor sport, due, they say, not so much to scarcity of game as to the posting of trespass notices by farmers and enclosing of large tracts of land as private game preserves.

There was a time, not many years ago, when the man with a gun could roam at will throuh the woods and great stretches of uncultivated land in this State and no one would say him nay. But things are different now.

Wealthy New Yorkers have preempted the best shooting ground in North Jersey and the same thing is being done in this end of the State. A club composed of wealthy Philadelphians has just acquired a tract of 4,000 acres in Cape May county for a private preserve. The shooting will be confined to the twenty members of the club and their guests. The best wild fowl shooting grounds on Barnegat Bay are being taken up in the same manner.

If the acquiring of large tracts of land and of water rights goes on the public will be shut out from the best shooting grounds. Fish and game will then be preserved only for the wealthy. Complaint is now made that the State appropriation for preservation of game and fish is largely used in stocking the woods and ponds either in or adjacent to private preserves.

Legislation to prevent monopolizing of gunning and fishing privileges seems to be in order.—Camden Post Telegram.

THEATRICAL.

The fourth month and last two weeks of the pleasing musical comedy "A Country Girl" at Daly's Theatre, New York, are announced although the piece could easily run the entire winter, judging from the crowded houses which have greeted it since the opening in September last. But existing contracts for attractions booked last year, could not be changed and the popular piece will go on the road for a short season after December 27, returning to New York later in the season to finish out its run. The 100th performance will be given next Monday evening, and Miss Ashley, Mr. Norris, Miss Freeman, Miss Marvin, Miss Deyo and the other members of the cast will unquestionably be greeted by a crowded house on this occcasion and also at the extra matinee to be given on Christmas Day.

THE "ROYAL LIMITED."

Two Famous Trains That Run Every Day Between Two Great Cities.

The "Royal Limited," is "the finest day-light train in the world."

The name is applied to two trains, one of which leaves New York daily via the New Jersey Central at 3:40 p. m., arriving Washington at 8:40 p. m.; the other leaving Washington 3 p. m., arriving New York 8 p. m. They are exact counterparts, and are composed of splendid coaches, Pullman parlor cars, parlor observation buffet cars and dining and cafe cars.

The parlors cars "Empress," "Czarina," "Queen" and "Countess" are superbly finished in vermilion wood with an inlay of Persian design; the ceilings of royal blue and the upholstery of the same color. The drawing-rooms in the cars are finished in different designs; some are in green and gold; others in rich red. The general design of the main parlor of all the cars is Persian.

The cars are the most magnificent and largest ever built; seventy feet in length with all modern appliances, including wide vestibules with anti-telescoping device, empire deck, steam heat, Pintsch gas and air pressure water system.

The parlor observation buffet cars, "Jupiter," "Mercury" and "Neptune," are of the same general appearance, except the unusually wide windows in the observation ends, and the extended platforms. The observation parlors are finished in beautiful Circassian walnut and upholstered in olive-green leather; the ceilings are in red and gold, the general design being of Italian Renaissance.

Marked attention has been given to the beautiful and practical furnishings of the dining cars. They are the "Waldorf" and "Astoria." One-half of each car is devoted to the regular dining-room, the other half to the cafe. The linen, silver and glassware are in keeping with the other excellent features of the cars. The service in the dining-room is table d'hote.

FORTRESS SILENCED

German and British Cruisers Bombard Puerto Cabello.

SEIZURE OF THE TOPAZE A PRETEXT

Mob of Venezuelans Had Pulled Down the British Flag From a Merchantman—Italy Is to Press Her Claims.

PUERTO CABELLO, Venezuela, Dec. 15.—The British cruiser Charybdis and the German cruiser Vineta have bombarded the fortress here and quickly silenced it.

The Charybdis and the Vineta arrived here in the morning. The captain of the English merchant steamer Topaze, which was seized by the mob last Wednesday, visited the English commodore on board the Charybdis and returned an hour later with a detachment of fifty marines, who took charge of the Topaze. The populace were greatly excited at this incident and raised the cry, "To arms!" but no incident occurred.

The English commodore then sent a demand to the authorities for immediate satisfaction for having pulled down the British flag from the Topaze and advised the government that if satisfaction was not forthcoming in two hours the fortress and the custom house would be bombarded. The authorities on the receipt of this demand sent a message to President Castro asking for instructions.

At a quarter before 5 a reply was received from President Castro, who authorized the chief official here to give the British commodore ample satisfaction. Before this answer could be communicated to the American consul the hour stipulated for its receipt had arrived.

At 5 o'clock the Charybdis and the Vineta opened fire on the fortress and custom house. The fort replied, but was soon silenced. No damage was done to the town.

The United States consul went on board the two cruisers and was informed by their commanders that they had come to this port in search of the Venezuelan warships.

AFFAIRS AT CARACAS.

Recruits and Leaders Arriving. President Castro's Kindly Act.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Dec. 15.—A note from the commanders of the allied Anglo-German fleet which the Venezuelan government refused to receive at La Guayra was sent to United States Minister Bowen, at Caracas, and forwarded by him to the proper government official here. The note is in the name of Great Britain and Germany. It requests all Venezuelan ships after the lapse of five days to refrain from sailing from the port of La Guayra until the present difficulties are over.

The question what right Great Britain and Germany have to coerce Venezuela without declaring a blockade is being asked on all sides here.

"El Mocho" Hernandez and certain other revolutionary leaders have left Maracaibo for Curacao on their way to Caracas. Hernandez is probably the most popular of the revolutionary leaders. President Castro has kept him imprisoned at Maracaibo for several years past.

The news of the shelling of the fortress and custom house at Puerto Cabello by the British cruiser Charybdis and the German cruiser Vineta reached Caracas at a late hour last night. It caused considerable excitement, and in spite of the preventive measures taken by the police of Puerto Cabello trouble is feared at that port.

President Castro learned yesterday morning of the illness of Mme. von Pilgrim-Baltazzi, and in the afternoon, accompanied by his wife and a number of Venezuelan officers, he called at the German legation. Here the visitors were received by United States Minister Bowen, who escorted them to the room of the invalid.

President Castro greeted Mme. von Pilgrim-Baltazzi and spoke to her of her husband in a friendly way, saying he held the German envoy in high regard. The president of Venezuela produced a favorable impression upon Mme. von Pilgrim-Baltazzi, and before he left the German legation he offered her the hospitality of the Yellow House, the capitol at Caracas.

The statement that Italy, through her legation here, is to demand payment of her claims against Venezuela has been confirmed.

The arrival of the United States gunboat Marietta at La Guayra was due to a rumor that United States Minister Bowen was in danger. There has been no ground for such a rumor, and the presence of the Marietta was not requested by Mr. Bowen.

The situation here continues to be critical, and there is much excitement among the German residents of Caracas, many of whom have called at the American legation to seek refuge there.

The people of Caracas are astonished that the government at Washington remains silent in spite of the recent act of the allied fleet.

The enlistment of Venezuelan soldiers continues. Two thousand men from the interior reached Caracas Saturday.

The boycotting of British and German goods continues. It is reported that ninety Germans living in the country have offered to support the Venezuelan government against Germany.

As Seen at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—There are no important developments in the Venezuelan situation so far as the state department is concerned. The officials are watching events with keen interest, so as to be able to act promptly should such a step become necessary, but nothing has been done except to make some representations to the German and English governments in the matter of the peaceful blockade now being enforced by those governments in Venezuelan waters. Secretary Hay took dispatches from Minister Bowen over to the White House during the day and discussed the situation in Venezuela for some time with the president, but he had nothing to make public on the subject. In the matter of the blockade the secretary has instructed our ambassadors at Berlin and London to represent to those governments that the United States must not be understood as giving its consent to any extension of the international right of peaceful blockade. It is not known that this instruction was called forth by any incident making such representation necessary. It was made simply as a cautionary measure and gives the attitude of this government should any development arise making its position a matter of importance.

London Becomes Interested.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The news that the first shots have been fired in Venezuela has awakened the most apathetic of the critics to the gravity of the situation which is developing in that country, and the demands that the government present the official papers in the matter to parliament are now most insistent. These demands are accompanied by comments to the effect that Foreign Secretary Lansdowne has failed to display either in the war office or the foreign office such conspicuous ability as to induce the nation to trust him with a "blank check" in such a complicated and combustible matter as Venezuela threatens to prove. It is understood that the papers will be issued by Wednesday at the latest.

Italy's Claims.

ROME, Dec. 15.—Italy's claims against Venezuela are for damages sustained by Italian subjects during the Venezuelan revolutions of 1898 and 1900. When Great Britain and Germany agreed upon a common course of action toward Venezuela, Italy thought to join them. Two Italian men-of-war which left Otranto with secret orders, supposedly for Tripoli or Morocco, were in reality destined for Venezuela. Other warships have been ordered to Venezuelan waters.

Blockading La Guayra.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—In a dispatch from Willemstad, Curacao, dated Dec. 14, the correspondent of the Daily Mail says the Anglo-German warships are blockading La Guayra. The steamer Yucatan was warned by the British cruiser Indefatigable not to enter La Guayra and returned to Curacao. The Venezuelan government has declined the offer of a loan, made by a German banker of Caracas, to settle the claims against it.

Mexican Finances.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 15.—In sending his budget of income and expenses to congress Finance Minister Limantour makes a full explanation of the state of trade and revenue as affected by the fall in the price of silver. He estimates the total revenue for the ensuing fiscal year at $67,959,000 and disbursements at $67,597,097, showing an excess of nearly $362,000. Last year's actual surplus was over $3,000,000, but the minister is always most conservative in his estimates. The actual accumulated surplus on hand at the beginning of this fiscal year in July last was $26,000,000 in silver and over $3,000,000 in gold, and it is the possession of this surplus that gives strength to the government's financial position.

Sunday Distribution of Coal.

BOSTON, Dec. 15.—With the streets of the city blocked with snow it was no easy task to supply coal to suffering families yesterday, but much was accomplished. Hundreds of vehicles and thousands of men were at work, and a great quantity of coal in the aggregate was distributed in small amounts. Nearly all the city departments used their horses and vehicles in the work of distribution, and if it had not been for this assistance comparatively little would have been accomplished, as the horses and men of the coal companies were exhausted by the trying days of the past week. At no time before during the coal shortage has private aid been so freely offered.

Heavy Snow In Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 15.—The first heavy snowstorm of the winter prevails all over Kansas. No severe cold accompanied the storm, and great good to the wheat crop in central Kansas will result. Trains on all the roads were delayed. There has been no relief of the fuel famine in Kiowa county, and should the weather grow cold much distress will ensue.

Shot by Lawless Negroes.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 15.—Four negroes, with drawn revolvers, entered the store of John Koonzeman, in the western part of the city, and attempted to rob the store. Koonzeman and his clerk were cleaning the store before closing. Koonzeman attempted to drive the negroes from the store and was shot to death. The negroes escaped.

Exploding Boiler Kills Two.

KINGMAN, Ariz., Dec. 15.—The boiler of a locomotive pulling the second section of a passenger train on the Santa Fe railroad exploded at a point sixty miles east of this place. Engineer Thomas Martin and Fireman George Vanetta were instantly killed.

Terrible Gales at Sea.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Dec. 15.—Masters of incoming vessels bring reports of terrific gales and hardships encountered and state that the weather of the past eight days and especially of Saturday has been the most severe ever experienced by them.

MRS. U. S. GRANT DEAD

Widow of Great General Succumbs to Long Illness.

HEART FAILURE FOLLOWS BRONCHITIS

Her Daughter, Mrs. Sartoris, the Only Child to Witness the Closing Scene—Sons Had Been Notified Too Late.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant, wife of President Grant, died at her residence in this city at 11:17 o'clock last night. Death was due to heart failure, Mrs. Grant having suffered for some years from valvular disease of the heart, which was aggravated by a severe attack of bronchitis. Her age prevented her rallying from the attacks. Her daughter, Nellie Grant Sartoris, was the only one of her children with her at the time of her death, her three sons, who had been summoned here, all being out of the city.

Mrs. Grant had been suffering with a severe attack of bronchitis for some time, and later valvular disease of the heart, together with kidney complications, developed.

A sudden change for the worse in her condition occurred Saturday night.

Telegrams were sent to Mrs. Grant's sons, General Fred D. Grant, commander of the department of Texas; Ulysses S. Grant, Jr., and Jesse Grant, both of whom are at San Diego, Cal., notifying them of their mother's condition and urging them to come at once to Washington.

Mrs. Grant spent last summer at Coburg, Canada, but her condition at that time was far from good. She was taken quite ill in October, and on the advice of her physicians there she was brought hurriedly to Washington in a special car, arriving here on Oct. 17. She had been confined to her bed most of the time since then, although on several occasions she had succeeded in walking about the house and had been out of doors once or twice. Mrs. Grant was about seventy-five years old.

In early life Mrs. Grant had always been noted for her rugged constitution. She decided in 1899 to make Washington her permanent home and bought from former Senator Edmunds his handsome residence in Massachusetts avenue. She paid $50,000 for it out of her private funds and has lived in it almost continuously since.

Fake Story Man In Trouble.

WICHITA, Kan., Dec. 15.—A warrant has been issued for William R. Draper, who is charged by the Philadelphia North American with imposing upon the paper a story which accused White Buffalo, an Indian of Darlington, Okla., with three separate murders. The county attorney, Mr. Conley, refused to make a complaint. Failing to get a warrant directly through the county attorney, James Gordon of Pennsylvania and Judge T. B. Wall of this city went before Judge Harvey of the city court and, submitting to him evidences of Draper's action, asked him personally to issue the warrant. Judge Harvey did so, but the clerk of the court refused to put it in the hands of the city court marshal without the approval of Mr. Conley. Upon this refusal Judge Harvey personally delivered the warrant to the marshal.

Damages Claimed For Electrolysis.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 15.—Application has been made to the district court in behalf of the board of water commissioners for a permanent injunction against the city railway company to restrain it from using the mains of the city water system as a conduit for its return electrical current. The action of the electricity, it is asserted, produces electrolysis, and the pipes are disintegrated rapidly. The board asks that the company be required to make restitution to the extent of $500,000 for the damage alleged to have been done.

Five Victims of Railway Wreck.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 15.—A special to the Star from Bucklin, Mo., says that a serious wreck occurred on the Hannibal and St. Joseph railroad. A local freight was wrecked four miles west of Bucklin. A steam wrecker was sent to the scene from Brookfield. The wrecked engine went through the bridge at Yellow creek. Five persons were killed, and Engineer Good was fatally injured and half a dozen others seriously hurt. All the dead and injured were railroad employees.

Indians Badly Diseased.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Dec. 15.—Dr. Wyman, government physician at the Sac and Fox Indian agency in Oklahoma, announces that a large majority of the tribe are afflicted with tuberculosis, scrofula and other incurable diseases and adds that the tribe will be extinct within a few years. The latest report says there are left but 479 members of this once powerful tribe.

Maryland Town Burned.

CENTERVILLE, Md., Dec. 15.—The business portion of this city has been destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of about $150,000, with insurance of $80,000. A high wind rendered the work of the local volunteer fire department inadequate, and a special train brought two engine companies from Wilmington, Del., whose work soon subdued the flames.

International Exposition Opened.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 15.—The International exposition has just opened here. A great many people, including President Riesco and other officials, were present. The exposition promises to be a great success.

Weather Probabilities.

THE CHRISTMAS DISPLAY.

It can be truthfully said that the local shops never presented such a host of attractions for the Christmas shoppers as they do this year. The time was when Plainfield stores were not up-to-date but that time has passed. The holiday shopper no longer has to go to New York or Newark in order to find what he or she is in search of. A trip through the local stores is all that is necessary.

This enterprise on the part of the local merchants in giving such a variety of choice is the direct result of the excellent patronage that has been accorded them in past years. As soon as the public discovered that their wants were being catered to, they went to the local stores. The result is that today Plainfield has the best and most complete assortment of all kinds of wares to be found in any suburban city near the metropolis. If the present patronage is continued, then the public may expect to see even a larger display of goods in the future.

supreme light wherein a consecrated service for God is to be found." In conclusion, Dr. Peters spoke a few words to the new rector.

At the end of the sermon, the communion service was held, the celebrant being the new rector. During this service, Dr. Roper read the epistle and Dr. Peters read the gospel. A pleasant feature of the services was the short address by Bishop Scarborough, in which he congratulated Grace church upon securing such an efficient and able rector and he also spoke words of praise for Rev. Mr. Stevenson. He expressed himself as being sure that the new rector and his people would work in unity and harmony for the upbuilding of the Kingdom of Christ. It was nearly 2 o'clock in the afternoon when the services were concluded.

The new rector of Grace church enters upon his duties under most favorable auspices, being well qualified for the work. In 1890, Mr. Stevenson graduated from Trinity University, Toronto, Canada, and received his degree from same college in 1892. He was ordained deacon by Rt. Rev. Arthur Sweatman, Bishop of Toronto, in July, 1892. The same Bishop ordained his priest in advent in 1893. From 1892, to 1895, he was curate of St. Stephen's church, Toronto, and from 1895 to 1899, curate of St. John's church, Peterborough, Canada. In 1899 he came to St. Michael's Parish, New York, and was appointed curate in 1900.

For the last ten months the rector of St. Michal's, Rev. Dr. John P. Peters, has been abroad and Mr. Stevenson had charge of the parish which is one of the largest in New York City. He is very fond of outdoor sports and especially an ardent golfer. He is athletic in build and full of vigor. He is exceptionally well pleased with Plainfield and he has strong hopes that his new charge will be not only a prosperous, but a very happy one.

This evening the members and friends of Grace church will give Mr. Stevenson a reception in the parish house and all of the pastors of the city have been invited to be present and meet the new rector.

The musical programme as published in The Daily Press of Saturday, was rendered in its entirety under the efficient direction of Mrs. W. A. Freeman, the organist and choir director.

In falling Mrs. Robison threw out her hand to save herself and fell with her entire weight upon her wrist. At first it was thought that a small bone in the wrist was broken but Dr. Westcott, who was called in, found the hand and arm severely sprained and it will be sometime before she will be able to use that useful member again.

The trolley service on Saturday afternoon and night was almost completely out of business on account of the storm. Belated passengers arrived in town after several hours of misery on the cars. Pupin's Telephonic Inventions Adopted Abroad.

GREAT TRANSMITTING POWER PROVED

Professor In Columbia University Has Just Sold Patents Recently Perfected to German Firm For Half a Million Dollars.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—European rights of the patents of Michael Idvorsky Pupin of Columbia university governing his improvements in modern long distance telephony have been sold abroad by Professor Pupin for a sum aggregating more than $500,000. His invention makes telephony possible over a distance four times greater than by the system generally in use at present. So perfect is the transmission in articulation that it has been found in actual experiments by the German government that conversation can be satisfactorily maintained at a distance of thirty feet from the receiver, although those telephoning are a hundred miles apart.

Professor Pupin's invention was first brought into publicity in January, 1901, when he sold the patents governing his American rights to the American Bell Telephone and Telegraph company for a sum said by Professor Pupin at the time to be about $500,000. His invention, while not new, has now its details and capability first authoritatively described in the recent official report of the German government on the system, which verifies not only all that was claimed for the invention in this country, but even goes far beyond the American estimates.

For his foreign patents Professor Pupin not only received $500,000, but will also get a substantial royalty. From his invention, therefore, he is put in possession of at least $1,000,000, with probabilities of a large future income from royalties.

In this country Professor Pupin's invention easily makes possible telephonic communication between New York and San Francisco and has already been installed by the American Telephone and Telegraph company between this city and Chicago, with great improvements resultant.

Abroad it offers no difficulty in the way of establishing direct telephonic communication between Berlin and London, Berlin and Copenhagen, Paris and St. Petersburg, Berlin and Stockholm, etc. The problem of transatlantic telephony has also become a possibility through this invention, but will only be feasible by the laying of a new Atlantic cable at a very large expense.

It was to the Siemens & Halske company, the great electrical firm of Europe, with houses in Berlin, Paris and St. Petersburg, that Professor Pupin sold his European patents. For a year Messrs. F. Dolezalek and A. Ebeling, two engineers of the Siemens & Halske company, conducted investigations of the Pupin invention in conjunction with the German imperial postal telegraph and telephone bureau.

It was not until last week that the investigations of Pupin's system of telephonic transmission over long distance air lines and cables were satisfactorily completed and negotiations for its purchase consummated. The two Berlin engineers conducted their research for a period of one year on plans and specifications worked out by Professor Pupin in his laboratory in Columbia university, in this city. The results obtained were in perfect agreement with Professor Pupin's mathematical theory, and they were so remarkable that their very recent publication in German scientific journals has produced quite a sensation among German scientists and in the German press.

While all these marvelously satisfactory experiments have been conducted in Germany the American Telephone and Telegraph company has been quietly installing the Pupin system of inductance coils on its telephonic conductors in this country. The cable with coils is being manufactured and laid as fast as possible. It is interesting to note that this wonderful new invention will soon be in operation in the very heart of New York.

Professor Pupin is about forty-two years old. He was graduated from Columbia in 1883.

Schooner's Crew In Peril.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 15.—The schooner Molly, carrying a crew of seven men, was struck by a gale. The vessel was heeled over until the stove in her cabin upset. This resulted in setting fire to the woodwork, and the schooner was soon a mass of flames. The crew ran the Molly for Outer Gooseberry island, an uninhabited island twelve miles off Bonivista bay. Here the schooner was beached, and the crew landed on the rocks. All were finally rescued after great suffering.

McCormick's St. Petersburg Home.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 15.—The Von Bervic palace, which has been leased by Ambassador McCormick, cost $1,500,000 to construct. The palace is one of the finest residences in the city. It faces the river and contains a notable marble stairway and hall. It has an enormous number of spacious reception rooms. The ambassador will occupy the building Jan. 1.

Quebec Hotel Destroyed.

QUEBEC, Dec. 15.—The Victoria hotel in this city has been completely destroyed by fire. The guests and employees escaped uninjured. Loss about $120,000; insurance, $75,000.

Death In a Water Tunnel.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 15.—Two men were killed and half a dozen others hurt in an explosion in the water tunnel under Lake Erie.

PHILIPPINE COMMERCE.

A Comparative Statement Issued by Bureau of Insular Affairs.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The bureau of insular affairs of the war department has issued the following comparative summary of the commerce of the Philippine Islands for the seven months ended July 31, 1902 and 1901:

The total value of merchandise, exclusive of gold and silver, imported during the seven months ended July 31, 1902, was $19,310,437 as against $17,132,205 for the same period of 1901. The principal increase in 1902 was in foodstuffs, the purchase of rice alone exceeding the figures for 1901 by nearly $1,500,000. Gold and silver were imported during the seven months of 1902 to the value of $3,026,747; same period of 1901, $1,230,294. The value of imports coming from the United States in 1902 was $2,433,889, a gain of approximately $500,000 as compared with 1901.

Agricultural industries throughout the archipelago have been materially affected owing to the unfortunate destruction of the work cattle by an epidemic of rinderpest, a disease that has practically annihilated the carabao or water buffalo, and the outbreak of cholera, which has curtailed the already limited supply of labor.

These unfavorable conditions in addition to the effect of frequent changes taking place in the present currency standard, an early and satisfactory solution of which situation, the bureau says, is absolutely essential to the business interests of the islands, produced a falling off in the exports for the seven months ended July 31, 1902, of nearly $1,000,000 as compared with the corresponding period of the previous year, the figures for 1902 showing $13,883,263 against $14,815,701 in 1901.

OUR EXPORTS.

Manufactures Now Form One-third of the Whole.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Manufactures now form one-third of the exports from the United States, a larger proportion than in any preceding year.

The figures of the bureau of statistics for the ten months of the year for which data are now complete show that manufactures formed during that period 32.61 per cent of the total exports of the country, while the highest percentage in any preceding fiscal year was that of 1900, in which the exports of manufactures formed 31.05 per cent of the total exports. In no other fiscal year have manufactures formed as much as 30 per cent of the total exports. The figures of the ten months now available indicate that the total exports of manufactures during the calendar year 1902 will reach about $415,000,000, or more than in any preceding fiscal year save in the exceptional year 1900, when the total was $433,000,000.

One feature of the exportation of manufactures which is especially interesting and important is the large proportion of manufactures which find a market in the chief manufacturing countries of the world. A statement prepared by the bureau of statistics shows that more than one-half of the manufactures exported from the United States now go to Europe, the great manufacturing section of the world.

Storm Was Severe.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 15.—Reports from all parts of the state show that the heavy fall of snow and strong winds have delayed traffic considerably and that the shortage of coal has been further accentuated, causing intense suffering to the poor. A continuation of the blockade and low temperature will bring added discomfort. Pennsylvania and Connecticut are also in the grip of the storm king, and in some quarters conditions are described as "the worst known in many years." A dozen shipwrecks are reported along the coast from Maine to Delaware, and loss of life is feared.

The Queen's Christmas Plans.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Queen Alexandra intends to mark her sympathy for the sufferers in the recent South African war by giving a Christmas dinner to all the widows and children now in London of those who fell in the war. The dinner will be given Dec. 27 at the Alexandra Trust restaurant, of which the queen is president and which was founded in March, 1900, by Sir Thomas Lipton for the benefit of the poor. Sir Thomas Lipton has charge of all the arrangements for the dinner.

General Nord In Haiti's Capital.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Dec. 15.—General Alexis Nord, who was war minister under the provisional government, entered the capital of Haiti yesterday at the head of his army. He was accorded a sympathetic reception by the people. General Nord's intentions are not known. It is generally believed that in case he announces himself a candidate for the presidency his election to that office is assured by reason of the numerous force at his command.

Von Bulow Honored.

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—Count and Countess von Bulow took luncheon with the emperor and empress at Potsdam. During the visit his majesty handed the chain of the Royal Hohenzollern order to the chancellor. It has transpired that the emperor intended to elevate Count von Bulow to the rank of prince in recognition of the successful passage of the tariff bill, but at Count von Bulow's request his majesty relinquished this idea.

Heavy Fall of Snow.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 15.—The weather bureau records show that during the past twenty-four hours sixteen inches of snow fell in this vicinity. It is still snowing. The mercury registers 7 above zero. Trains on all the railroads are very late.

SEPARATE WAISTS.

They Must Harmonize With the Skirts With Which They Are Worn.

Although separate waists are not considered as dressy as gowns, yet a great many of them are worn for theater and informal dinner wear. The blouse, however, should not be of a contrasting shade, but should match as nearly as possible or at least harmonize with the skirt. Pretty all black and all white waists look smart with corresponding black and white skirts.

Plain skirts of white broadcloth are very useful to wear with white chiffon or lace waists, and these skirts are economical as well, for they admit of much cleaning.

Some of the prettiest evening waists are of black chiffon trimmed with fine white lace or else banded with black chantilly and made with transparent effects on the shoulders and arms.

Very smart stitched taffeta and liberty satin waists are sold ready made in blue, black, brown and deep red. They are to match the tailor made, and the somewhat somber effect is relieved by a collar trimmed with white and a white tulle or lace bow.

The smart dinner waist shown is of black chiffon trimmed with white lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WHAT IS WORN.

Much Lace on Dresses—Revival of Yellow.

Black skirts for evening wear shimmering with jet look more than usually stylish below full white satin low bodices with large embroidered motifs in subdued artistic colorings, the whole veiled with falling jet fringes. White satin is a capital background for the new chine velvet painted garlands in the same subdued tones mingled with lace.

Tea jackets are more or less embroidered, and they all have bell shaped sleeves.

Yellow is coming in a great deal, especially yellow accompanied by light peach colored flowers for the evening.

SACK COAT.

and a great deal of gray is also being made up with this shade as trimming.

The smartly dressed woman cannot have too much lace on her garments, and there is hardly any kind which is not fashionable. Old embroideries are invaluable worked on any kind of muslin or jaconet. They are laid on a backing of silk muslin and then interrun with gold thread, sometimes mingled with spangles.

The loose sack coat shown in the cut is of novelty goods lined with the same color of satin. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Perils of the Deep.

"Indade! An' which one of his trips was it he was drownded on?"

"Oi'm not sure, but Oi think it was the twinty-sivinth."

"He was lucky. Manny a man would have wint to the bottom on his first v'yage instead of waiting till the last."

"Right ye are. More people are drownded by water than by railroad wrecks."

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

"It has but an indirect bearing on this case," said Chalmers. "Mr. Van Horne cabled me to-day to have Mr. Walter B. Hestor work on this mystery. Now, Mr. Hestor has gone to Europe with Mr. Sidney Hammond. I forgot to ask him where he would make his first landing. Hestor and Miss Le Roy are friends. Hestor said something to me concerning a dinner party he gave about a week before he went away, and if my memory serves me right, he said Miss Le Roy was present. Will you ask her about this dinner party? It is likely that Hestor may have talked over his plans with Miss Le Roy or Mr. Hammond. We wish to get into communication with Mr. Hestor at once. He is the most brilliant newspaper correspondent of the time. His assistance would be invaluable."

"I will do so before Miss Le Roy leaves to-night," said Miss Carmody. "I am glad there is something I can do. Is it not too bad that Mr. Hestor went away just when he did? He is so fond of big sensations that he would have delighted in this one, and would have done all in his power to solve it."

"Find out who made up the members of this dinner party and I will call you up to-morrow and you can tell me," said Mr. Chalmers. "The Record is to be congratulated on so charming an addition to its reportorial staff."

"My assignment is an easy one," said Miss Helen, as Chalmers rose to go. "Must you go so soon, Mr. Chalmers? Won't you stay and join us in a cup of coffee?"

"I should be more than pleased to do so," said Mr. Chalmers, "but we have an important paper to-morrow, and one difficult to handle. I promised my assistants I would return at a certain hour, and I have just enough time to make the distance in."

Mr. Chalmers made his apologies to Mrs. White, Miss Le Roy and Miss De Neuville. Miss Carmody accompanied him to the door and thanked him earnestly for the interest he was taking in solving the mystery. She extended her hand at parting and shook hands, not with the cold conventional touch, but with the hearty clasp of a good friend.

"That girl is a trump," said Chalmers to himself, as he settled back in the auto and was whirled down the street. "She is a daughter to be proud of. What a wife she would make! How would it read? 'The wedding ceremony of Mr. William Chalmers, the gifted journalist, and Miss Helen Carmody, heiress to the Carmody millions, was the fitting climax to the social season. The church was thronged with'—I wonder how in the devil I am going to put four big stories on the first page of to-morrow's paper?"

When Miss Carmody returned to her guests, Miss Le Roy at once monopolized the conversation.

"Isn't Mr. Chalmers handsome?" she said, clasping her hands. "I think he is perfectly lovely. Such deep brown eyes and such wavy hair. And he is so easy in his manner. Did you see how he disposed of us as if we were children who were in his way? I would resent such a thing in most men, but it comes naturally to Mr. Chalmers. I suppose he is so used to managing a lot of newspaper men that the handling of a few women is a matter of no consequence. But he is just splendid; don't you think so, Helen?"

"He certainly is," said Miss Carmody. "I can talk to him just as if he were my big brother."

"The adopted big brother is always an interesting character," said Mrs. White. "Sometimes he changes his relationship."

Miss Carmody blushed, laughed good-naturadly, and changed the subject.

"By the way," she said, addressing Miss Edith Le Roy. "Mr. Chalmers informs me that Mr. Van Horne has cabled him to ask Walter Hestor to take charge of the search for the missing men. Mr. Hestor sailed for Europe before this happened. Mr. Chalmers thought that possibly you might know his first destination abroad. He left no word with Mr. Chalmers, and he is anxious to communicate with Mr. Hestor without delay."

"I am sure I have not the remotest idea," said Miss Le Roy. "I have not seen Walter since the night we went to the opera and then had supper at Delmonico's. He said nothing about his European trip at that time. The first I heard about it was on Saturday, when I received a brief letter from Walter saying he had to go abroad on business and would write or cable as soon as he landed. I remember now that I was real angry with him at the supper. He did not talk to us girls at all. He and Sidney Hammond were talking about trusts and all that dreary sort of thing."

"Who were at the supper?" Miss Helen asked.

"Oh, I forget. Who were there, Miss De Neuville?"

Miss De Neuville wrinkled her pretty brows and thought deeply for a few moments.

"We go to so many places it is difficult to remember," she said. "Let me see; there was Sidney Hammond and his sister Olive—that's two—Walter Hestor and Miss Le Roy—that's four—Mr. Blake and Miss Meredith—that's six—and Mr. Converse and myself—that's eight."

"You are right, Lillian, I remember now," said Miss Le Roy. "What a splendid memory you have! I can never remember anything."

"Walter and Sidney were talking about a big convention of the leaders of trusts," said Miss De Neuville. "I know Walter was very enthusiastic about it, as he always is about everything. I did not hear either of them say anything about going to Europe."

Soon after this Miss LeRoy and Miss De Neuville rolled away in their carriages, and the big Carmody mansion was dark as it frowned on Fifth Avenue.

CHAPTER IX.

SOME DETECTIVE WORK.

Mr. Chalmers found a telegram awaiting him from Chicago. It read as follows:

"Chicago, May 6.

William Chalmers, Managing Editor New York Record:

L. Sylvester Vincent undoubtedly head of conspiracy. He has been planning it for months. Left Chicago three weeks ago with letters of introduction to Carmody, Rockwell, Morton, Haven and Pence. Has frequently been heard to boast that he would 'do them.' Have just obtained information of Vincent's whereabouts. Will wire all developments. Wire me $400 to Planter's Hotel, St. Louis.

BERNARD SEYMOUR."

Chalmers expressed the opinion that Seymour was "barking at a knot," but he answered the telegram and sent the money as requested. The managing editor was far from sharing Jack Stevens' high opinion of Mr. Seymour's detective abilities, but was too much of a disciplinarian to interfere with the latter's plans. He knew that Mr. Seymour would prove an expensive luxury, but Chalmers had been trained to ignore money as a factor in newspaper ventures. He dismissed the enterprising Seymour from his thoughts.

The following morning Jack Stevens returned from Provincetown. He had learned nothing, but had assigned his men in such a way that he predicted results would follow. Chalmers explained to Stevens what he had learned from following up the clew offered by the letters found in Hestor's office.

"I will give this my personal attention," said Stevens. "Within two hours I will find where that furniture and stuff went to."

"Be very careful what you say or do, Jack," cautioned Chalmers. "The fact that Hestor bought a lot of furniture proves nothing in itself. Say nothing to make these furniture people suspicious. They are likely to wonder at our sudden interest in Hestor's affairs."

"Dont' you worry about that," said Stevens. "I will not see the members of the firm at all. I will trace the stuff from the teamster who hauled it, or get the facts from the shipping clerk. I will make no bad breaks."

Stevens had not been away two hours before he returned. He was excited but happy.

"Well?" said Chalmers.

"That furniture went on board the 'Shark,'" said Jack Stevens. "It not only went aboard the 'Shark,' but it went into the hold of the boat. I found the two teamsters who hauled it. I made them believe I was one of the clerks of the furniture house, and explained that a complaint had been made that two chairs were missing. They told me all about it. The 'Shark' was anchored off Twenty-fourth street. They took the furniture there and help put it in the yacht. I told them the matter was of no consequence, and convinced them that suspicion was not directed against them. I also found out about the billiard table. That also went on board the yacht. So did the piano."

"There is no use bothering about the rest of the stuff," said Chalmers. "It went to the same place. Well, what do you think of it?"

"I do not know your man Hestor," said Stevens. "Were he not worth more millions that I have dollars, I should say he was under suspicion."

"We will so regard him, notwithstanding his money," said Chalmers deliberately. "Pick out two or three good men and trace his actions as best you can up to the time he went away. He keeps bachelor apartments up town. I will get you the address. He has several servants, including a coachman. He is quite modest in his tastes. The servants should not be suspicious if you go at them discreetly."

Stevens had no trouble in interviewing the servants of the Hestor establishment. He learned nothing of any consequence until he located the coachman. That dusky gentleman proved a mine of information.

PACIFIC CABLE LANDED.

Daughter of California's Governor Christens the Great News Carrier.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—"In memory of John W. Mackay I christen the Pacific cable. May it always carry messages of happiness."

With these words Lucille Gage, the eleven-year-old daughter of H. T. Gage, governor of California, christened the transpacific cable and, breaking a bottle of champagne over the shore end, inaugurated a new era in the commercial development of the Pacific coast. The landing and splicing of the shore end, which is to connect the mainland with Honolulu, was accomplished without hitch and was witnessed by nearly 40,000 people. Ideal weather prevailed, there being scarcely any surf.

The steamer Newsboy, carrying six miles of cable, steamed close inshore early in the morning and by a life saving boat's crew sent a rope to which the cable was attached ashore. Word was sent to President Clarence H. Mackay and the cable and Postal Telegraph officials that all was in readiness. The work of hauling in the cable was done so expeditiously that the officials arrived on the beach only two minutes before the cable, which touched the beach and was christened at 9:55 a. m. While the cable was being spliced to the land end Mayor Schmitz delivered a short speech, congratulating Mr. Mackay on the successful beginning of the work. He also spoke of the importance of the undertaking and the benefit to the world at large that would result from its completion.

Clarence W. Mackay, president of the Pacific Commercial Cable company, thanked the mayor and those present.

Governor H. T. Gage on behalf of the state of California paid a fervent tribute to the late John W. Mackay. The formal exercises closed with cheers for the cable and all those taking part in its landing.

MUCH CHRISTMAS MONEY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—More than half a million dollars—to be exact, $616,618.82—is now in the strong rooms of the big ocean steamships Kronprinz Wilhelm and Umbria, which cleared the port of New York Saturday bound for Bremen and Liverpool respectively. This money is in the shape of 34,442 postal money orders drawn by the New York postoffice on fifteen countries of Europe and sent home as Christmas money to fathers, mothers, sweethearts and friends by former residents of those countries who now make the United States their home and who are anxious to share the general prosperity of this country with those "at home."

The 1902 shipment exceeds that carried away by the Umbria on Dec. 9 of last year by $296,256, being, in fact, almost double that of the previous year.

For thirty-six hours Superintendent Joseph Elliott and his corps of 150 clerks worked to get the enormous shipment ready for the steamers. Never before in any postoffice of the globe has such a gigantic shipment of money orders, either in numbers or amount, been made.

In addition Superintendent Hoff of the foreign mail branch says the regular mail pouches were packed full with Christmas presents for relatives and friends on the other side. This year's Christmas mail, Superintendent Hoff says, in every way, including registered money orders and other mail matter dispatched Saturday by the Kronprinz and Umbria, exceeds by many thousands of pounds any previous shipment of Christmas mail.

The White Star liner Cymric will reach New York on Wednesday next, having on board 2,600 sacks of Christmas mail for the United States.

Maine Village Scorched.

BOWDOINHAM, Me., Dec. 15.—Fire has made a big gap in the business section of this village, the buildings destroyed including a hotel, four blocks and eight dwellings. Families whose aggregate membership is fifty lost their homes. The losses total $20,000, with about $9,000 insurance. In the blocks burned were the town offices, the Masonic, Grand Army, Modern Woodmen and Grange halls and a drugstore. The town records were saved, but the fraternal orders lost all their property. Many people were frostbitten in going through the snow to places of safety after their homes were on fire.

Nova Scotia Town Burned.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 15.—A message from Liverpool, N. S., states that practically the entire town has been burned. No details are given, and wire communication with that place is interrupted. Several churches and business blocks, the Hotel Thorndyke and a number of dwellings are known to have been burned. Liverpool is a seaport of 3,000 inhabitants and was swept by flames in 1895. Most of the territory burned over was occupied by buildings built during the last seven years.

Large Shipments of Coal.

READING, Pa., Dec. 15.—The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad company had over fifty locomotives in service transporting coal to market Saturday and Sunday. The company claims that 75,000 tons were started. Most of the coal is destined for the large eastern cities. The motive power of the company has never before been taxed as it is at present.

TROLLEY IN TROUBLE.

The Traffic Between Plainfield and Elizabeth Was Blocked Saturday.

The trolley company has had its troubles the last few days trying to operate cars on schedule time. For some time Saturday night traffic between this city and Elizabeth by trolley was effectually blocked. Drifts covered the tracks with snow at numerous points along the line. The cars from this city to Dunellen were able to run on half schedule until the sweeper arrived and cleared the tracks. Ice forming on the trolley wire made the electrical contact poor and the cars were unable to make very rapid headway.

CAKE AND BREAD SALE.

Although Day Was Stormy, Everything Was Disposed Of.

Despite the storminess of Saturday afternoon, the home-made bread and cake sale given in the Monroe Avenue church, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, proved a success. While the attendance was not large, every article contributed was sold. Some of the members who made cakes for the church and did not attend sold them to their neighbors and in this way helped out. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Nicholas Brouard, Miss Annie Stafford and Mrs. Hinton.

Although it seemed to be a case of equal blame, Kennedy agreed to pay for the damage.

FIRST SLIDE ALMOST PROVED FINAL ONE

Little Ethel Campbell Nearly Dashed Her Brains Out Against a Tree Yesterday.

WHILE OUT COASTING

THE ACCIDENT OCCURED ON THE ROCKVIEW AVENUE HILL.

Daughter of Chief Marshal Campbell Was Out Playing With Children of Mayor Smalley—Was Badly Cut—Teeth Knocked Out.

Ethel Campbell, the six-year-old child of Chief Marshal William T. Campbell, met with a serious accident while sliding down a hill yesterday afternoon in company with Lizzie and Helen Smalley, the young children of Mayor Newton B. Smalley, and narrowly escaped having her brains dashed out against a tree. As it was she received very severe injuries to her throat, face and head, besides having four of her teeth knocked out.

Yesterday morning she begged her father to buy her a sled and at noon the toy arrived at the house. After lunch she started out to the home of her little playmates. Together the children dragged their sleds to the hill on Rockview avenue. The children were coasting down the hill on their sleds when the sled on which the little Campbell girl was riding got away from her and dashed down the hill at tremendous speed.

She was unable to steer the sled and it dashed against a tree with such force that the child was thrown against it, striking on the side of her face. A deep cut was made in the child's throat, narrowly missing the jugular vein and four of her teeth were knocked out. All the skin on the right side of her face was scraped off, leaving the flesh bare and she was also painfully cut about the head. The sled was wrecked.

Her companions rushed to their home where they told their mother what had occurred and she hurried to the spot and carried the child to her home. A telephone call was sent to the office of Dr. A. H. Dundon and he dressed the child's wounds. Upon examination he found that no bones were broken.

Mrs. Smalley then telephoned to Chief Campbell and he came after his daughter and the remains of her sled. Today the child was resting easily and, although still suffering from the shock, she appeared to be doing nicely.

A little bush was all that saved the child from having her head crushed in by the force of the impact. As the sled rushed down the incline one of the runners caught in the bush and this served to swerve the sled so that the child struck the tree a glancing blow instead of a straight one. The Smalley children, who were on another sled close behind, escaped uninjured.

They Met Saturday.

Contrary to the impression inadvertently conveyed by the types in yesterday's Daily Press, the meeting of the executive committee of the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League was held Saturday afternoon and not Sunday afternoon. Although the trouble of the league have sometimes continued its sessions to an almost unreasonable length, it has not yet been found necessary to disturb the sanctity of the Sabbath.

THROWN OUT OF CUTTER.

Horse Ran Away and Upset Cutter on Madison Avenue.

While Fred Ivamy, of Scotch Plains, was making some purchases in Harry Dreier's store, yesterday afternoon, his horse became frightened at a passing trolley car and ran away. It dashed across the sidewalk to Madison avenue, upsetting the cutter to which it was attached and throwing out Lynus Marsh, also of the Plains. The animal was captured after a short run and Marsh was taken into Dreier's store. He was uninjured beyond a painfully bruised shoulder.

BUSY TIME FOR RECORDER

FIVE VIOLATORS HALED BEFORE THE BOROUGH COURT LAST NIGHT.

Motley and Robinson Fined $10 Each—Hansen and Fitzgerald $5 Apiece—Annie Hart Escaped.

The busiest session of the borough court which has been held in almost a year was presided over by Recorder Doud last evening when five violators of the law appeared before the magistrate and came in for a severe reprimand at the hands of that official.

The first prisoner which appeared on the stand was Michael Motley, who was arrested with Wm. Robinson, George Hansen and Edward Fitzgerald, on Somerset street Sunday evening by Officer George Wise for raising a disturbance on that thoroughfare.

Motley and Robinson were each fined $10. The other two prisoners, Hansen and Fitzgerald, were released on payment of a fine of $5 each.

Annie Hart, who told the Recorder that she lived near the standpipe of the water company, was arrested yesterday afternoon charged with being helplessly drunk on Somerset street and causing a disturbance around the Crescent Hotel. Recorder Doud read his famous "riot act" to her and, upon her promise never to drink another drop of liquor again, he suspended sentence.

ALIS WON OUT FROM HOPE FIVE

Prettiest Contest of the City League Saw Veteran Team Win by Two Points.

AT THE Y. M. C. A. GYM

Great Team Play by Alis, But Hope More Accurate at Goal Throwing—Both Sides Covered Well, Particularly in Second Half—The Score in Detail.

PLAINFIELD AMATEUR BASKET BALL LEAGUE.

	Won.	Lost.	Ave.
Alis A. A.	2	1	.667
Hope Y. M. A.	2	2	.500
I. C. T. Club	1	2	.333

In the prettiest game since the Plainfield Amateur Basket ball League was opened, the Alis A. A. defeated the five of the Hope Y. M. A. at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last evening by a score of 15 to 13. For the first time this season, the Alis boys began to develop the team play for which they have been so famous in the past. At goal throwing, the Hopes were a trifle superior. Had they had the team play to back them, the result might have been different.

From the start, the play was clean but lively. Alis assumed the offensive but Hope's aggressiveness evened things. It wasn't long, however, before the Alis team work became apparent. Alis had many more opportunities at the goal but Dilks and Whitley were throwing more carefully than usual and so Alis only managed to score one more field goal in the first half although that team had the advantage of the unobstructed goal. Dilks was again a host in himself and failure to guard him cost Alis a goal. Porter and McCombe guarded well although they found the combination work of their opponents troublesome. The play in the first half was remarkaly clean, only three fouls being called on Alis and four on Hope.

The score stood 11 to 7 in favor of Alis when the first half ended.

Both teams started off with a rush in the second half and fouls became a trifle more frequent although the game was not a rough one at any time. Alis' guards were more effective while their team work kept chasing the ball away from the goal. The Hope boys were playing the game of their life and so well did they cover their men that Phillips was the only one who was able to score from the floor and that on a rather unusual carrom shot. Alis' new men, Phillips and Robeson, were both a little inclined to foul as the excitement began to grow. There it was that Dilks' wonderful accuracy came to Hope's aid. Out of thirteen trials, he scored six times. Smith made but one goal in six and Long one in two trials.

A foul was called on Alis just as the ball went from one Hope man to another and Cose tossed it in the basket. As the foul was called before the try for goal was made, the goal was not allowed. As the end drew near, the game became more and more exciting but neither side could score from the floor and the decision finally went to Alis by two points when time was called.

It was expected that the Alis boys, most of them being at home in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, would have no trouble in winning but the Hope five was playing an unepxectedly strong game and the result was the prettiest contest that has been played since the league was started.

The teams lined up as follows:

ALIS A. A.		HOPE Y. M. A.
H. Phillips	right forward	Whitley
Smith	centre	Cose
Long	right guard	Porter

Score—Alis A. A., 15; Hope Y. M. A., 13. Goals from the field—Phillips (2), Smith (2), Long, Whitley, Dilks (2). Goals on fouls—Smith (4), Long, Dilks (7). Fouls—Alis A. A., 16; Hope Y. M. A., 12. Referee—Charles B. Morse. Umpires S. B. Joseph and Robert W Meeker. Timekeepers—J. Fred Wharton and Harold A. Chandor. Scorers—John H. Doane and George R. Firstbrook.

ENOUGH COAL FOR SCHOOLS

BOROUGH SCHOOL BOARD INVESTIGATES THE COAL QUESTION.

But it is Not All at the Schools—Will be Sent to Them and Stored There.

The coal question occupied part of the meeting of the Borough Board of Education at its meeting in the office of Superintendent of Schools Homer J. Wightman last evening. It was found that there was a supply on hand sufficient to meet the demands of the schools during the winter but it was not all in the schools. It was decided to have the total supply moved to the school houses as soon as possible.

Usually the board meets on the last Monday of each month but on account of the holiday vacation it was held last evening so that the teacher's salaries migt be paid before vacation. Other claims were also ordered paid. Necessary repairs to the buildings were ordered made. None of the repairs will be very extensive.

At last night's meeting it was decided to thoroughly investigate the merits of the vertical and slanting penmanship and an exhaustive report will be made at the next meeting which will be held on the last Monday evening in January. There is still some discussion about the relative merits of these two systems and it is proposed by the board to make a most thorough report on the results as shown in the improved penmanship of the pupils.

Branches are to be established in every town in this State and then the movement will be spread throughout the entire country. More rigid immigration and naturalization laws are among the objects aimed at by the association.

A. C. Rogers, chairman of the organiaztion committee appointed from the Carpenter's Union, has received applications for membership from places as far west as Chicago and from many cities in this State.

A SMOKER AT PARK CLUB

TRIO OF PROFESSIONAL ARTISTS ENTERTAINED MEMBERS AND FRIENDS.

An Enjoyable Time at Annual Event at the Park Club Last Evening.

The annual "smoker" at the Park Club, last evening, attracted a large number of members and their invited friends, and everyone had a good time, thanks to the efforts of the house committee.

At 9 o'clock the guests adjourned to the main room, where the balance of the evening was passed in a social manner. There was plenty to smoke, and while the Havanas and pipes were being enjoyed, a trio of professional artists entertained. H. O. Winans and Eugene G. Cassler gave musical selections and incidentally cracked a number of jokes, while Charles H. Simerson, a clever impersonator, kept his audience convulsed with laughter while relating humorous stories and singing popular songs. The trio was assisted by Andrew G. Carpenter on the piano.

After the entertainment the committee furnished refreshments in abundance. The house committee in charge consisted of Samuel Townsend, chairman; George D. Hallock, S. St. John McCutchen and Augustus VanDeventer.

ATTACKED BY RACCOON.

Two of Them Chased Into a Stump, Where One Showed Fight.

Mair put his hand in the tree and pulled one of the animals out but the other showed fight and boldly attacked the men. They were obliged to fell the animal with a club. One of the raccoons weighed sixteen pounds. The other one weighed but ten pounds.

NEW QUARTERS.

Woman's Exchange Will Move to Watchung Avenue and Fifth St.

The exchange will occupy its new quarters on the first of the year. The old quarters on Park avenue have proven too small for the needs of the institution, and it has been felt by the managers for some time that it was necessary to have larger quarters.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A queer notice has been posted in the offices of the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company, in its New Brunswick and Bound Brook offices, which reads as follows:

"Conductors are hereby notified, that during the hunting season dogs are allowed on the cars of this company, provided they are tied on the front end."

Now, the dog editor wants to know if it is not generally customary to tie dogs and animals in general, on the front end.

Brass dimes plated with silver is the latest counterfeit specie to make its appearance hereabouts. Just how many of these spurious coins have been put in circulation is not known, but several persons report having received them. The counterfeits are fair imitations of a genuine dime except for the milling, which looks as if it might have been done with a file. Otherwise the imitation article might easiiy be passed for the genuine unless examined with more than a passing glance.

In the course of a conversation a few days ago, a well known local citizen referred to a matter which has undoubtedly been thought of by many Plainfielders and also boroughites. It was remarked that there are often times when the fire alarms of the two municipalities do not work right, especially over the brook, and the box is not sounded correctly thus causing a delay. In many other cities, the entire system is tested once a month and it was observed that it would not be a bad plan to adopt locally. While Plainfield's system is generally in excellent shape there are times when a box goes wrong and a test would locate it before some one tries to summon the department. An instance of this was revealed when a box was pulled for the Casino explosion. The houses received different alarms and the greater part of the apparatus went in the wrong direction.

Fred Bowden, of this city, who was a member of the Second U. S. Cavalry Band, now stationed at Fort Myer, Virginia, recently received a copy of the bill of fare enjoyed by Uncle Sam's boys at Thanksgiving time. The menu is that furnished the members of the band on that holiday, and it gives one a fair idea of the generous manner in which Uncle Sam takes care of his soldiers. Here is the menu: Oyster soup, (New York style) roast turkey with giblet dressing, cranberry sauce, German fried pork chops, with escalloped salad, table celery, mashed potatoes in cream, stewed peas, (English style,) butter and bread. Dessert: Mince pie, custard pie with Arctic frosting, Sullivan's pound cake, French jelly rolls, chocolate, jelly cake, lemon cookies, Florida oranges, Porto Rican bananas, maiden blush apples, assorted nuts, cocoa, coffee, marmalade, port wine and Saratoga punch.

In thinking back several decades ago, old time Plainfielders distinctly remember as they pass the present site of the Babcock building, the time when Laing's hotel stood there. In those days the long front porch was a favorite gathering place for visitors from the agricultural districts who came into town to dispose of produce or hear the latest in political gossip. The advent of the big building and the swift conveying trolley has practically wiped out these gatherings, as Plainfield is daily becoming more urban.

Once in awhile, however, a few genuine specimens of the genus agricola are encountered in town and such was the case, Saturday afternoon, when two of them were seen talking at Madison avenue and Front street. A reporter for The Press, who chanced to pass, heard them give expression to the following:

"I've hearn tell, Enos, thet the people who own the Babcock building are goin' to fix it up right smart and make a church outen it."

"Thet aint so," remarked he addressed as Enos, "'cause I seed in the papers a short time ago they air goin' to make it a passenger station for the Lehigh Valley Railroad."

"Wal, I swow," was all the other said, and then they both started off in the direction of Washington Valley.

THEATRICAL.

"The Ninety and Nine" runs smoothly along on its sucessful career at the Academy of Music, New York, and it needs only a few nights to cover fifty consecutive performances. This means that the management are discussing souvenirs for the one hundredth night. The advance sale of seats far ahead is something wonderful for so successful a house as the Academy; and it looks now as if "The Ninety and Nine" were to divide honors with "The Old Homestead," in the way of popularity and durability. "The locomotive scene," as it has come to be known, is of course the distinctive feature of the play in the way of a thrilling sensation, but the quiet scenes hold the audience with a grasp equally as firm as that obtained by the strong situations, in fact no story seen in recent years on the Metropolitan stage has exercised such a potent spell over it's audiences. It is full of humanity with it's sunshine and shadow; and a woman's boundless love, and her steadfast enduring sense of duty, illume the darker side of the story brought about by the hero's weakness, like a beautiful ray of light. And the hero in spite of his downfall is a man to be loved; for the audience feel that "the one who was out on the hills away," will be brought back safely to the fold in the end. "The Ninety and Nine" is being seen by crowded audiences, and it is safe to say, so great is it's appealing force, that hundreds of people have witnessed it over and over again.

MINERS CLOSE CASE

Nineteen Days Spent In Examining Their Witnesses.

IMPORTANT DECISIONS BY THE COURT

Commission Averse to Widening the Scope of Investigation—It Is Assumed That Coal Companies Can Pay Fair Wages.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 16.—The mine workers, after occupying nineteen days in presenting about 160 witnesses, closed their case before the anthracite coal strike commission late yesterday afternoon, excepting that they will call one important witness later. The afternoon session was one of the most important sittings the commission has yet held, because the question of whether the close relationship of the coal carrying railroads with the mining companies shall figure in the commission's effort to adjust the controversy came squarely before the arbitrators. The decision of the commission, if Chairman Gray's remarks can be so called, was briefly this:

That the commission in a general way is averse to widening the scope of the investigation beyond the terms of the submission of the miners and the operators; that in carrying on the investigation it assumes the coal companies can afford to pay fair wages; that if the coal companies in presenting their side of the case maintain they cannot afford to give an increase in wages then the commission will hear what the miners have to say on the ability of the companies to do so and that if a business cannot pay fair wages the employer ought to get out of it.

These points were brought out during the two hours consumed by the miners' lawyers reading documentary evidence, to the whole of which the coal companies entered specific and general objections.

The mine workers depended a great deal on the evidence they had to present to show that the coal carrying railroads control the coal companies and that the railroads charge exorbitant and discriminating freight rates, thus greatly decreasing the revenues of the mining properties. The miners wanted to present this evidence in documentary form, but as objection was made to it and sustained by the commission with the above rulings the matter was not pressed. Clarence S. Darrow and Henry D. Lloyd, representing the miners, said after the adjournment that they are well satisfied with the attitude of the commission and will fight out the matter along the line indicated by the commission.

The early part of the afternoon session was taken up in hearing the testimony of the remaining witnesses who are or have been in the employ of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company.

Poor Suffering In Austria.

VIENNA, Dec. 16.—The unprecedented severity of the weather throughout Austria has caused acute suffering among the poor and the unemployed, who are more numerous this year than for many years past. In the iron trade alone there are 140,000 men without employment. Many factories are closed or are running on half time. The authorities fear an epidemic of typhus and farreaching famine. The emigration agents are thriving. The best workmen of Austria are leaving for the United States, a fact which economists greatly deplore, because it assists the United States to compete with Europe.

Dr. Lorenz In New York.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Out of twenty-five cases of congenital hip disease which had been chosen from more than 200 at the New York Hospital For the Ruptured and Crippled at Forty-second street and Lexington avenue Dr. Adolf Lorenz during yesterday chose four for his bloodless operation. Most of the little patients presented to his attention were girls. He picked the four most difficult subjects, and 200 surgeons interested in orthopedic work were present at the clinic held during the afternoon in the operating room of the hospital.

ASKED TO EXPLAIN.

Secretary Hay Sends Notes to Germany and England.

PUERTO CABELLO ACTION IN QUESTION

The Powers Also Notified That This Government Will Not Remain Passive if Rights of American Ships Are Molested.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Secretary Hay, after a conference with President Roosevelt, has written a note to Germany and England, asking for an explanation of the bombardment of the forts at Puerto Cabello. The note inquires what is expected to be gained by this action.

In view of the fact that a warship of Great Britain assisted in the bombardment of the forts it is regarded as very significant.

Secretary Hay was the first caller at the White House. He was in conference with the president some time and then went to the state department, where he dispatched the notes to the two powers. Upon the reply to these two notes will depend the future action of this government.

Secretary Hay expresses himself as well satisfied with the situation. To members of congress, however, the president and Secretary Hay admitted the situation was critical.

It is known that the policy outlined to the United States by Great Britain and Germany did not contemplate the bombardment of any Venezuelan forts and at the most was to be a peaceful blockade of the ports.

Chairman Hitt of the committee on foreign affairs of the house is opposed to favorably reporting any of the resolutions regarding Venezuela which have been introduced. He believes that should the Shafroth resolution be favorably reported it would result in all European governments looking to the United States as the guarantor of the debts of South and Central American states.

Secretary Hay has notified the governments of Germany and Great Britain that the administration will not remain impassive in Venezuela if the rights of American ships are interfered with.

The German government informed the United States that when the blockade was established it would turn back all shipping, though no effort would be made to seize the ships. The United States government made no response to this statement at the time (last year), not feeling called upon to do so before the presentation of an actual case.

But now that the blockade is sought to be established Secretary Hay has informed the German government that American ships should not be interfered with in their trading except the inhibition applies to all shipping, and, further, the note intimates a disapproval of stoppage at all. In so doing the state department is following a precedent, for during the efforts of the powers to establish a "peaceful blockade" of Crete in 1896 Secretary Sherman formally recorded a refusal to be bound by it.

It happened that no American ship had occasion to enter a Cretan port during the brief period of time the blockade was in force, so the issue was not made then, but in the present case, with regular lines of American steamers entering Venezuelan ports at short intervals, a test case must soon follow. It is within the legal right of the allies to close these ports.

But probably this can be accomplished without protest on our part only after a formal declaration of war. The hope is growing here that such a declaration can, after all, be avoided owing to the energy with which Mr. Bowen has acted. The proposal of President Castro to the allied powers for a peaceful settlement was suggested by Mr. Bowen, and it came to the state department through his hands.

It has been forwarded to London and Berlin through the embassies here, and as both Great Britain and Germany have heretofore professed a desire to settle the issues peaceably it is hoped that they will avail themselves of this opportunity.

The proposal did not mention the method of arbitration nor the limitations, and the point of doubt which may prevent the acceptance of the scheme is believed to be Castro's unwillingness to bind himself in advance to the recognition of the principle of liability. He would leave the arbitrators to determine whether or not he is liable at all.

INACTION AT CARACAS.

Castro's Resignation Talked Of. Strange Doings at Puerto Cabello.

CARACAS, Dec. 16.—Inaction reigns in government circles here. The officials do not know what to do and are depending entirely on the United States to help them. A movement is on foot here, headed by prominent doctors and lawyers, to request President Castro to resign and to ask Vice President Ramon Ayala to assume the presidency and form a cabinet without party tendencies. It is also proposed to summon congress to appoint a temporary president and arrange the questions in dispute in a manner satisfactory to all concerned.

The Venezuelan government announces Great Britain has reopened the navigation of the Orinoco river. Two warships will patrol the mouth of the river and the river itself. This measure applies only to foreign ships. Vessels flying the Venezuelan flag are excluded.

The patriotic parade here Sunday passed off without any extraordinary incidents. President Castro during the day visited the tomb of Bolivar.

Minister Bowen, at the request of the Dutch minister, Dr. Van Leyden, who is sick at Curacao, has taken charge of Dutch interests here.

The leading merchants of La Guayra have arrived here, abandoning that port owing to fear that it will be shelled.

At 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon four loud explosions alarmed the city of Puerto Cabello. On investigation it was found that British marines had blown up the subterranean prison cells of Castle Libertador with dynamite. They also burned all the wooden buildings surrounding the castle and carried away everything that could be transported.

After the bombardment of the forts at Puerto Cabello and the landing of marines on the island where the castle is situated the forces of the powers acted just as though they were at home, causing great indignation among the Venezuelans. When everything had been destroyed, the marines re-embarked.

The Venezuelan government warship Miranda has escaped the vigilance of the German cruisers Falke and Panther, which were searching for her, and arrived at Maracaibo.

United States Should Act.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—Senor Maubourguet, the diplomatic agent of Venezuela, gave out the text of President Castro's speech delivered to the people before the palace at Caracas urging them not to resort to reprisals against the British and Germans and appealing to the people to preserve calm while the two great powers of Europe "place themselves in the attitude of pirates." The Temps at the conclusion of a lengthy review of the situation says, "The time has arrived when the United States should exercise its legitimate moral influence in the western hemisphere by offering mediation, which Venezuela will gladly accept and Germany and Great Britain could not with good grace reject."

Italy to Aid Blockade.

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—The foreign office announces that Italy will participate in the blockade by agreement with the allies and that a portion of the coast will be assigned to the Italian ships. The proceedings against Venezuela thus become in every respect tripartite.

FUNERAL DELAYED.

Arrangements For Last Rites to Mrs. Grant Await Son's Arrival.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The arrangements for the funeral of Mrs. Julia Dent Grant, the widow of the former president, will not be made until Brigadier General Fred D. Grant, one of her sons, arrives from the west. It is expected that he will reach here Thursday.

Adjutant General Corbin has telegraphed to him to proceed to Washington, waiving the usual strict requirements that army officers before leaving their posts must have their requests for leave of absence approved officially.

The president will take no action on the death of Mrs. Grant beyond the sending of a handsome floral piece from the White House conservatories, conveying an expression of his grief and that of Mrs. Roosevelt.

Heavy Rains In Mississippi Valley.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 16.—Heavy rains in the valley of the Mississippi, which have continued in some instances since last Thursday, have sent many streams out of their banks, with consequent damage to railroad and other property. No loss of life has occurred as far as known. Washouts are reported on the Illinois Central below Memphis and on its Kentucky lines in the vicinity of Paducah and on the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis near Paducah. The tracks of the Louisville and Nashville are covered in various places between Hopkinsville and Nortonville, Ky., but up to this time the roadbed remains intact. The town of Gracey, Ky., is submerged, with four feet of water flowing through the main street. An unofficial report says that nearly a foot of water has fallen at Paducah in four days.

To Avert a Panic.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Concerted action has been taken by Wall street banks and trust companies to avert a possible panic and disastrous failures in the stock market between now and Jan. 1. A money pool, with $40,000,000 in cash, has been formed to extend relief by lending money in the call market, and it will tide over all financial institutions or Stock Exchange houses which legitimately may be helped. J. Pierpont Morgan, James Stillman, president of the National City bank, and George F. Baker, president of the First National bank, constitute the committee appointed by the banks to have full control of the emergency fund.

End of Strike Near.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—An end to the strikes at Marseilles seems to be in sight. While the sailors' organization is still holding out, a committee representing the other trades unions has decided that the members of the unions may resume work. Even many sailors are already seeking re-engagements on their old vessels. Three hundred dock laborers are at work on the quays.

Found Dead In Her Home.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 16.—Mrs. Eliza Jones, aged ninety years, was found dead at her home here. Her late husband, Dr. Samuel Jones, was a member of the house of representatives prior to the civil war, and her father, James R. Lawrence, was a justice of the supreme court in this state.

Hot In New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 16.—The weather is the hottest for this season of the year in nearly a century. Straw hats and shirt waists are out in full force, and flowers are in full bloom.

WHAT CONGRESS DID

Senate Discusses Militia and Statehood Bills.

HOLIDAY ADJOURNMENT DATE FIXED

House Passes Senate Measure For a Union Railway Station at Washington to Cost $4,000,000; Also the Indian Allotment Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The senate yesterday discussed the bill to promote the efficiency of the militia and also the omnibus statehood bill. After agreement to the concurrent resolution of the house for an adjournment from Dec. 20 to Jan. 5, Mr. Proctor called up the militia bill. An amendment by Mr. Pettus striking from the bill section 24, having particular reference to the reserve force of trained men, provoked some discussion, Mr. Pettus raising the point that the section if enacted into law would be an infringement of the constitutional authority of the states and put the control of the militia of the several states into the hands of the general government.

The bill was laid aside for the omnibus statehood bill, Senator Dillingham of Vermont, who is opposed to the bill, occupying the time of the senate for the remainder of the day in rehearsing the testimony taken by the subcommittee of the committee on territories during its tour of investigation in Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

After a brief executive session the senate adjourned.

The house passed the senate bill for a union railroad station in this city to cost $4,000,000. The station is to be situated north of the present site of the Baltimore and Ohio depot at Delaware and Massachusetts avenues, and in front of it is to be a large plaza park. The Pennsylvania railroad by the terms of the bill is to remove its tracks from the mall and reach the site of the proposed station through a tunnel to run between the capitol and Library building. The government is to pay the Pennsylvania railroad $1,500,000 and the Baltimore and Ohio $500,000 in addition to providing for the plaza park. The house also passed an urgent deficiency bill which carried among other items an appropriation of $500,000 for eradicating the foot and mouth disease in New England. A bill was passed to provide for the allotment in severalty of the lands of the New York Indians. The bill provided that prior to the allotment the claim of the Ogden Land company should be decided in the courts, and if found good it should be purchased for the benefit of the Indians for a sum not exceeding $200,000.

The house judiciary committee gave a hearing on the proposed amendment changing the date of the inauguration to the last Thursday in April. Representative Parker (N. J.), who made an investigation of the whole subject for the committee, proposed an amendment to the pending resolutions fixing Dec. 1 as the date for the beginning and ending of congress and Jan. 1 as inauguration day. The committee took no final action.

Pleased With Proposed Treaty.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 16.—The text of the Bond-Hay treaty, which provides for limited reciprocity between the United States and Newfoundland, has been published here. It gives general satisfaction and is warmly commended by the business community. That it will make for a substantial betterment of trade with the United States and prove in case it is ratified by the American senate beneficial to both countries is generally believed.

Lava Fills Up River Bed.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—The French scientific mission to the island of Martinique has reported to M. Doumergue, minister of colonies, that since the crumbling of the cone of Mont Pelee the Blanche river has been completely obliterated by lava and that ashes are spreading over the valley of the river to a distance of three miles. Very high temperatures have been recorded on the island lately.

GREAT STORY OF STANDARD OIL.

"Miss Tarbell's work is of unequalled importance as a 'document' of the day. Her story has live men in it; they suffer and work and win and lose their battles with the verisimilitude that removes the tale from the dry statement and clothes it with the color of human interest and the vivid rainbow garment of human sympathy. * * * The results of her work are likely to be far-reaching; she is writing unfinished history."—Boston Globe.

DESERVES ATTENTION.

One of the first measures, which should receive the attention of the legislators at Trenton this winter, is that one which prohibits the wanton and inhuman killing of pigeons or any other kind of live birds in contests at the traps. A bill with such a end in view was introduced in the Legislature last winter but it was held up by one member of the State Senate. Since then the trap-shooters have been slaughtering thousands of these feathered creatures and calling it sport. Common humanity demands a cessation of such practices. No one desires to interfere with legitimate sport and the experts with the shot gun can find plenty of it by using the clay targets instead of live birds.

That there will be a bill introduced into the Legislature prohibiting the killing of pigeons or any other kinds of birds in such contests, there is no doubt. And such a bill, if introduced, will have almost the unanimous support of the press of the State. The effort to secure its passage should, however, be seconded by the citizens all over Jersey. Members of the Legislature should be made to feel that there is no question about the feeling of their constituents on the subject. Senators and Assemblymen should hear verbally and by letter how the people think on this question. It is only by strong and active pressure that the movement can succeed as there are strong although unseen influences against it.

This campaign against live bird shooting will not affect many trap shooters as there are hundreds who are now willing to show their skill at bringing down the clay targets. That sport is perfectly legitimate and no one desires to interfere with it. Many pleasant hours have been spent behind the traps. This is no attempt to end the pleasure of the lovers of this sport. But the good of the community demands that thousands of birds shall not be killed or maimed and left to die in agony simply to satisfy the desire for amusement on the part of a few. New Jersey has many just laws on its statute books and this should be one of them.

Quibbling over a small point will never win a battle for any great principle. The opponents of progress in the borough gain nothing by declaring that the State Board of Sewerage Commissioners have not approved the local disposal beds, and that therefore the beds are a failure. As a matter of fact, the system, as now in operationn here, was first approved by the State Commission before it was put into operation and since then the Commission has had an expert here who has reported that the system is doing what it was intended to do. The annual report of the Commission now refers to the Plainfield disposal works as a success. All this would satisfy the ordinary man unless he had made up his mind at the start that he would not be convinced.

Jersey is frequently offering something new to the world. The latest novelty is a trial by telephone. A violator of the game laws was captured near Basking Ridge. The nearest justice was some distance away and was consulted by telephone. As the man pleaded guilty, the justice announced the fine which was collected by the constable and taken to him while the offender was allowed to go on his way rejoicing.

The Philadelphia Record points out that the Pittsburg newspapers publish the letter of a banker telling about the great increase of depositors owing to newspaper advertising. This does not mean that the advertising bank has simply drawn depositors from other banks, but that it has caused a great many people to become savers and depositors.

It certainly looks as if the coming Legislature would have to listen to the public demand for the repeal of the Meeker election law. It has been proven that the consolidation of local and State elections is not a success. It is therefore in order to repeal the law without delay.

In the strenuous times incident to the holiday season when housekeepers find their time fully occupied with Christmas preparations, some of them wish they might put the printed tag on their front door, "Not to be opened until Christmas."

Think of it, the best sleighing for several years and Christmas isn't here yet. Decidedly this winter has deviated from the customs of the usual Jersey winters.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

In fixing up the house, don't neglect a new tiled bathroom or finished off mantel. VanArsdale, of Central avenue, is a practical tile setter and would be pleased to furnish estimates.

If you visit the Oriental tea store on West Fron street you will fine hundreds of articles suitable for Christmas gifts and you will be surprised how cheap they are. These articles are both useful and pretty. A feature is the oriental delicacies always in stock.

A most substantial gift for Christmas is a pair of good shoes, and you will find a large stock to select from at John H. Doane's store on West Front street. He keeps all sizes in men's, women's and children's shoes, but the quality is of the best and prices low.

Don't go any further than Powlison & Jones' great furniture emporium if you are looking for anything in that line. They have one of the largest displays in the State and any article selected now will be kept until Christmas week. Over 100 new designs in rockers, Morris chairs and couches.

Christmas without candy is like Shakespeare's Hamlet, with Hamlet left out. For that reason it behooves all Sunday-school officials and teachers to make their selection of sweets at Fowler's candy kitchen immediately. Special prices are quoted where large lots are purchased and boxes are furnished if required.

Owing to the great rush at Woodhull & Martin's, they are seriously considering the advisability of closing the doors at certain intervals, as they did at the fire sale. They earnestly request the townspeople to do their shopping as much as possible in the evening and to take all small purchases with them.

C. L. Stanley, the North avenue florish, is now prepared for the Christmas trade with one of the finest display of flowers ever seen in any florist shop in this city. He has an excellent assortment of hot house flowers on sale and is also making a special sale of potted plants, which make very acceptable presents for women.

It is positive that father or brother will appreciate the gift of some useful article of wearing apparel for a Christmas present. At Harry Werner's clothing house on West Front street there is an endless line of gloves, hats, neckties, collars and cuffs in boxes, shirts, underclothing and many others. He also has a nice line of initial handkerchiefs in boxes, and silk umbrellas.

One of the chief attractions at Hill & Shupp's store this week is the visit of Santa Claus, who occupies one of the big show windows and entertains young and old with his antics. The window represents an old-fashioned fire place in a kitchen, with the children's stockings hanging from the mantle-piece. Santa appears and fills the stockings with appropriate gifts such as you can find at this store in a great variety.

Mr. Maynard has a fine line of goods suitable for holiday gifts, such as cigars, toilet articles and new razors.

Captured Wild Cat.

Allan Wilson, of Grove street, has just returned home after a two weeks' hunting trip in the northern part of the State, near Newfoundland. Among his captures was a full grown wildcat, of which there are said to be many in that vicinity. He intends to have it mounted.

REP ON ATEHOOD.

Minority of Committee Favors the Omnibus Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Senator Bate presented in the senate the minority report from the committee on territories favoring the immediate passage of the house omnibus statehood bill without amendment. The report opposes the uniting of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory into one state. It shows minutely the condition of each of the three territories as to population, wealth and general features of the territories and says that these are such as to call for immediate statehood.

It shows that both the Republican and Democratic parties in their last national convention adopted with perfect unanimity platform planks recommending each of the three territories by name for statehood. Such expression, the report continues, should be respected by both parties.

The report says, among other things, "It never was intended that congress should bar by party objection admission when population, wealth and institutions were the same as in the case of other states."

With reference to the qualifications of the population of the territories the report contends that "it ought to suffice that 95 per cent of the population are white in Oklahoma, and the 90,000 white population in Arizona and the 122,000 white population in New Mexico are quite sufficient to leaven all the foreign born in each of these territories."

Then follows the remark that "whether some of the northwestern states now booming with foreign population had as large a leaven of American born people when admitted need not now be discussed, as their successful example of statehood shows how soon the whole mass becomes Americanized."

The report is signed by Senators Bate, Heitfeld, Bailey and Patterson, constituting the Democratic membership of the committee on territories.

Government Food Tests.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—About a dozen young men have begun boarding on a diet furnished by the agricultural department and designed to test the effect of food adulterations. Borax and other preservatives are to included in the meats which are to be furnished the young men for a long period under the direction of Chemist Wiley of the department. He believes that the results will show the harmlessness of preservatives whose presence in exports of the United States has led to exclusion of such food products in a number of instances. The young men have been taking their meals for two weeks under Dr. Wiley's direction, but no adulterants were used in the food until now. The object was to put them in the best possible physical condition before beginning the actual feeding of the preservatives.

Government Buildings Without Coal.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The coal famine already is affecting the government buildings, and the supply in most cases is nearly exhausted. Some of them would have to be closed in event of anything like blizzard weather, and rigid economy has been ordered. The coal supply at the postoffice department was exhausted early yesterday morning, and all the electric lights above the first floor and the private elevator of the postmaster general were shut off. The steam plant at the interior department also was shut down for over an hour, but a limited supply finally was secured from local dealers. The capitol building has exactly two days' supply on hand.

Roundhouse Roof Collapsed.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—The roof and supports of the roundhouse in the Pennsylvania Railroad company's West Philadelphia yards collapsed, burying more than a score of workmen and thirty-one locomotives. A fire broke out in the ruins, but the flames were quickly extinguished. Several of the injured sustained broken limbs, but none was seriously hurt. The roof of the structure, which was erected many years ago, was of wood covered with slate, supported by iron uprights. It is believed the weight of snow and ice which had lain on the roof since Saturday weakened the building. Seventeen locomotives were badly damaged.

Chinese Ill Treat Foreigners.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—A special dispatch received here from Peking says that upon the occasion of the return of the imperial court from four months' residence at the summer palace it was learned that certain foreigners who visited the court on its journey had been ill treated, arrested, compelled to make obeisance before the populace and detained until the court had proceeded. Among the persons arrested were the members of a party from the American legation at Peking, including two women.

Gomez Pleads For Strikers.

HAVANA, Dec. 16.—A delegation headed by General Maximo Gomez waited upon President Palma and requested that no further prosecutions be brought against the men who were concerned in the recent strike. President Palma promised to consider the matter. The veterans have shown considerable feeling over the prosecutions of former strikers, as they believe they contracted an obligation to protect the strikers after the workmen promised to return to work at the veterans' request.

Another Eruption Feared.

KINGSTOWN, St. Vincent, Dec. 16.—Premonitory symptoms of another volcanic eruption have been experienced here. The Soufriere has been disturbed, and there are peculiar electrical discharges and detonations from that volcano. The agitation is apparently increasing, and extraordinary heat prevails.

KODOL
Digests What You Eat.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Kodol

Digests What You Eat

Mrs. Loring Nichols of Penn Yan, N. Y., writes: After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders, and gives the heart a full, free and untrammeled action.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

FIRM FOUNDATION.

Nothing Can Undermine It in Plainfield.

Poeple are sometimes slow to recognize true merit and they cannot be blamed for so many in past have been humbugged. The experience of hundreds of Plainfield residents expressed publicly through newspapers and other sources places Doan's Kidney Pills on a firm foundation.

Mr. Richard Day, of 134 East Front street, says: "I had a miserable pain across my back and a sort of lame feeling over my kidneys. Standing any length of time, or walking any distance aggravated it greatly. I was never sick much in my life and consequently never took much medicine, so when I first began having these attacks I paid little attention to them. They, however, grew worse instead of better so I had to look about for a remedy. I read quite frequently in our papers about cures brought about by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills so I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store and after taking them I felt greatly relieved. I have recommended them to my friends and those who have used them speak very highly in their praise."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

FOR STREET WEAR.

Champagne Tint Fashionable—Useful Tailor Mades.

Unless a woman can afford a large variety in her wardrobe it is better for her to remain faithful to dark things, for one easily tires of a color if it is seen constantly.

Champagne tint, which has been so popular in Parisian millinery, will appear in evening stuffs mixed with white. Several shades of this color mixed with dead white can be very effective.

Black and dark blue are after all the most serviceable colors for street wear. What is more charming than the tailor frock of the moment in dark blue serge or zibeline cloth with some hand worked embroidery perhaps on a green ground? Black serge can be treated in the same way; the wearer of such a gown always feels well dressed.

If you can only afford one good gown, put all your money in a tailor made and be sure that it fits nicely and is of serviceable material. It is always better if you can afford to pay a good price to have it made to order, but if you cannot go to a first class tailor buy it ready made. Cheap tailors and dressmakers are a snare and a delusion.

The useful gown here shown is of zibeline and is trimmed simply with tassels and with tuckings of the material. JUDIC CHOLLET.

MILLINERY FASHIONS.

The Popular All White Hat—Foliage Shapes.

The all white hat continues to rank first in the popular favor. Mink, squirrel and sable are the principal furs used to trim hats. The fur hats this year are made in as attractive styles as those of other material and have the wide, rolling brims so becoming to youthful faces.

The small turban seems to be relegated to a few mannish milliners; also the three cornered hat has seen its day. The regulation tailor made hat is the French sailor, with its upturned brim and jaunty bow drooping over the hair in the back.

Foliage hats made of satin or velvet leaves will be worn all through the winter.

Ostrich plumes are placed under the brim of the most stylish hats which have this kind of trimming. An all black shape is particularly effective trimmed with a single white ostrich plume drooping over the hair in the back.

The dressy hat shown is made of cherries and their foliage, and it is trimmed with touches of deep red chiffon. JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Good Investment.

Five acres of land about Charing Cross, London, are held by the Marquis of Salisbury. These acres were obtained by his ancestors 250 years ago for grazing land at the modest rate of $2.50 an acre for 500 years. What that little bargain has been worth to the Cecils it would be rather difficult to accurately compute.

dun see Marster Walter wuz on de pier, an' he shook hans good-by an' left er $20 gold piece dar." And Napoleon looked at his hand as if to again see that treasure sparkling in his palm.

"Where was that, Mr. Spencer?"

"Down by de pier at der Battery," explained Napoleon. "Deres whar de 'Shark' was a-lyin'."

"Who was with Mr. Hestor? Did any one ride with him in the carriage? Tell me all about it."

"Thar ain't much to tell, boss," said Napoleon. "Marster Walter tole me to drive down town an' meet him in front of de Record office at half-past three. I dun so, an' he tole me to drive over ter Broadway, as he 'lowed ter pick up Mister Hammond and another gemman who was gwine ter see him off on de 'Shark.' I done so and dese gemmen comes down de steps, gets in de carriage and I drives dem away. Dat's all der is to it."

"What building did you go to?"

"De Carmody buildin', on Broadway, sah," said Napoleon.

"Do you know Mr. Hammond when you see him?"

"No, sah."

"What kind of looking men were those who got in the carriage? Will you have a fresh cigar, Mr. Spencer?"

"Thank yer, boss. Dey was moighty fine lookin' gemmen," said Napoleon. "Dey was oldish lookin' gemmen, and dey 'peared mighty impo'tant, sah."

"Did you see anyone else on the yacht?"

"Dar was sev'ral gemmen on de upstairs part of de boat," said Napoleon. "Dat's a mighty fine seegar you smoke, boss. Dat tastes like de kine Marster Walter smokes."

"You don't know how long the yacht remained at the pier, do you?"

"De 'Shark' sailed right erway as I left, sah," said Napoleon. "While I war a-fixin' ther harness of ther off hoss, de cap'n gave de orders an' de 'Shark' sailed out inter de bay. Marster Walter didn't say nothin' ter me erbout whar he was a'gwine or when he would come back. Marster Walter's a mighty particlar man erbout sich things, sah."

"Much obliged, Mr. Spencer," said Jack Stevens. "We want to send a cablegram to him as soon as possible. Good day."

"Good-bye, boss. Sorry I cawnt tole yer nothin' mo' erbout him. Marster Walter's a mighty hard man to find when he's gwine erway, sah. Good-bye, sah."

Jack Stevens lost no time in acquainting Chalmers with what he had learned. They no longer had any doubt they were on the right track.

"But what did he do such a thing for?" asked Stevens. "It is all Greek to me. Talk about motives! What motive would a man like Hestor have in kidnapping such men as these? He has plenty of money. He would not demand a ransom. Most of these men have known him since he was a boy; so I am told. His father was a big figure in Wall Street. What the devil was his motive?"

"I will never tell you," said Chalmers. "He has always been more or less crazy about the newspaper business. That interview with the Czar turned his head. This is probably his coup de maitre. If so, it is a wonder!"

"How much better off are we now that we believe Hestor is the man?" asked Stevens. "Where is he? That is the question. How are we to find him?"

"You may as well call off your men at Provincetown," said Chalmers, after a pause, in which both did some hard thinking. "They can find nothing there. If Hestor did this job, he probably brought the 'Shark' into Cape Cod bay and posted the letter from Provincetown. Then he dropped a man off at or near Boston and had him mail the various letters from Springfield, Albany, and the other places. It requires no great reasoning to see through that. The last letter came from Philadelphia. Hestor may have made the trip himself. It would be just like him. If so, the yacht probably picked him up at some point along the South Atlantic coast."

"It strikes me that the thing to do is to ascertain if Hestor loaded any building materials into that yacht," said Stevens. "If he did he is planning to build a house to put that furniture in. If not, the house probably is built."

"I have reason to believe the house is already constructed," said Chalmers. He told Stevens of Hestor's talk about his house, the night after the Waldorf-Astoria dinner. While they were considering this phase of the case the news editor entered with a telegram. It read as follows:

St. Louis, May 7.

To William Chalmers, Managing Editor New York Record:

Have arrested L. Sylvester Vincent. He refuses to make confession. How much shall I send? Big story. Can wire 10,000 words before midnight. Wire $200.

BERNARD SEYMOUR.

"Your man Seymour is a dream," said Chalmers, passing the telegram to Jack Stevens. "Wire him to send us 1,000 words information, not for publication, and tell him to stick to Vincent and make him talk." Stevens sent the proper dispatch. Another telegram was received, an hour later, from St. Louis. It read:

St. Louis, May 7.

To Editor New York Record: Man arrested as L. Sylvester Vincent by your representative proves to be Rev. Hilton Wesley, of Chicago. Where can your representative be found?

P. SULLIVAN, Chief of Police.

"I don't believe he can be found," said Chalmers. "Wire the chief that the man who represented himself as our correspondent undoubtedly is an impostor. I wonder where Mr. Bernard Seymour is?"

He was not long in doubt. Shortly before midnight this telegram was received:

Illinois Central Train No. 47, En Route South. To William Chalmers, Managing Editor New York Record: Will explain later. Am hot on trail. Send $500 to St. Charles hotel, New Orleans.

BERNARD SEYMOUR.

"I am glad he is headed for New Orleans," said Chalmers. "We can use him there. Now, I tell you what we will do: Your Wall street men have found out nothing. You notice I was right about the books of Street & Rogers. An examination was made to-day, and it panned out just as I predicted. The account is in the name of the firm. I am going to break into Hestor's desk to-night and see if I can learn anything. If his check books are there they may prove something. It is hardly likely that they are. What I was about to say is this: "You find out if any lumber went aboard the 'Shark.' In the meantime have your men interview every contractor, builder and architect in New York, and see if any work has been done for Hestor in the last two years."

"That is a great scheme!" said Stevens.

"Send men to Boston and Philadelphia on a like mission. I will wire Seymour at New Orleans and have him do the same thing there. Send four or five men to New Orleans and Galveston to-night. Instruct them to interview every man who may have had anything to do with building a residence of any kind for Walter B. Hestor. Swear them to absolute secrecy. I am going to have an interview with Miss Olive Hammond to-night, at the Carmody residence."

"Where does Sidney Hammond come in in this case?" asked Stevens. "He is supposed to have sailed with Hestor."

THE GLEN TRIAL.

Generals Chaffee and Smith to Be Summoned.

MANILA, Dec. 16.—The court martial which is to try Major Edwin F. Glenn of the Fifth infantry has decided to summon Generals Chaffee and Smith from the United States to testify as to orders given during the conduct of the campaign on the island of Samar and to the character of the campaign waged there.

The court martial was organized yesterday, and Major Glenn was arraigned. The formal charge against the major is that he unlawfully and willfully killed seven prisoners of war to the prejudice of good order and military discipline and in violation of the sixty-second article of war.

Major Glenn first entered a special plea denying the jurisdiction of the court on the ground that it lacked power to try a prisoner charged with murder in times of peace. Judge Advocate Godier denied that Major Glenn was charged with murder, and the court overruled the objection. Major Glenn then pleaded not guilty.

The defense submitted a request asking the court to summon four witnesses, including Generals Chaffee and Smith, from the United States. This request was granted. The prosecution then asked for an adjournment owing to the nonarrival of certain witnesses from Samar. This point was not decided.

Captain W. C. Rogers of the Twenty-seventh infantry is being tried before the Glenn court martial today. Captain Rogers is charged with using disrespectful language to General Davis and other officers. He applied for leave, which was denied. It is alleged that the captain thereupon created a scene in General Davis' anteroom.

To Test Torpedo Boats.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 16.—Admiral Dewey, commanding the battleship fleet, with the exception of the Massachusetts, sailed for Culebra yesterday morning and engaged the vessels in tactical evolutions. The warships returned here at 4 o'clock. These evolutions are preliminary to the great exercises which are to follow the holidays. The details of the blockade problem are announced. The torpedo boats inside of Great harbor will steal out and attack the battleships lying not less than two miles distant. Judges will be appointed to determine which side is victorious. The value of torpedo boats will thus be demonstrated, and the commanders are confident that the prejudice against this type of vessel will be swept away as a result of their behavior.

Civil Service Reformer Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—Colonel John W. Ela, delegate to the recent National Civil Service Reform league convention and president of the Civil Service Reform league of Chicago, is dead in a hospital here. Mrs. Ela, who had been summoned from her home in Chicago when her husband's condition became critical, arrived here and was with Mr. Ela when he died. After making an address at the banquet of the National Civil Service Reform league last Friday night Colonel Ela returned to his hotel, where he was stricken with paralysis. He suffered a second stroke Saturday and was removed to the hospital. Colonel Ela was born in New Hampshire, but resided in Chicago many years. He was about sixty-five years old.

ORDER OF TEMPLE.

Conferred at Meeting of Trinity Commandery in Unusually Impressive Fashion—Visitors.

At a regular conclave of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., last evening, the Order of the Temple was conferred on three candidates by Eminent Commander Samuel Bingham, assisted by Past Grand Commander Leonard L. Gree, of Passaic, who acted as prelate, in place of Rev. J. W. Richardson, who was detained. In the conferring of the order, the beautiful work was made more attractive with selecions by a quartette composed of the following members, Harry Smith, George W. Smith, Nelson Y. Dungan and E. E. Runyon. A feature was the solo work by George Smith, tenor of the First Baptist church choir. W. E. MacClymont presided at the organ.

There were nearly sixty members of Trinity Commandery present, also six members from York Commandery, No. 55, of New York, and a delegation from Somerville. After the conferring of the order a bountiful repast was served under the direction of a committee from Trinity Commandery.

PERTH AMBOY'S NEW BRIDGE

NO DELAY IN CONSTRUCTING BRIDGE OVER THE RARITAN.

Only Freezing of River is Likely to Put a Temporary Stop to the Work.

Visitors to the new bridge over the Raritan at Perth Amboy are surprised at the headway that is being made. The work has not been held back to any extent and since the first pile was driven the progress has been steady.

Two of the huge center piers are about complete and the third on the south side of the channel will be finished in a few days as far as the piling is concerned. These three giant pillars are in the middle of the river. The center one, in the channel, will support the long draw and serve as the base on which it will swing. Naturally, this pillar is much larger and many more piles have been used in building it than in the other two, because of the immense weight that it will support when the draw swings. The other two pillars are the butting places of the draw and from them the bridge will extend to the two shores.

As soon as the last of these center piers is completed work will be commenced on the piling between the channel and the shores. There is plenty of material on hand and from present indications there will be no cause for delay unless the weather prevents the men from working. Should the river close up with ice, as it has done for several winters past, it will be found impossible to move the pile driver about and there will be a delay.

TWO DINING CARS.

Lehigh Valley Has Added Two to Its Dining Car Service.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company has just placed in service two handsome cars of the very latest pattern to supplement its present dining car service. The new cars were made at the Pullman shops and for completeness of design and richness of detail are said to exceed anything turned out at that plant in some time. The cars are exactly alike in every detail and each car will have a seating capacity for thirty pepole. With the addition of these two cars this road now has a dining car on every through train except those running at such hours as would make a meal unnecessary.

Admitted the Charge.

Thomas Lynch, a hackman, was arraigned before City Judge Runyon, this morning, charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct on Park avenue last night. Pleading guilty he paid a fine of $5 in preference to spending twenty days at the county expense.

Mrs. Jacob Voehl, of Somerset street, is the guest of Mrs. George Mantz at Mt. Horeb.

PROMOTERS OF PARK WANT CITY'S HELP

If City Will Make Improvements, Philadelphia Capitalists Will Build Park Here.

IN WESTERN SECTION

PROPERTY BOUNDED BY PLAINFIELD AVENUE AND WEST EIGHTH STREET.

One Feature Will be An Automobile Charging and Storage Station —George Taylor is at Head of the Enterprise.

There has been for some time some talk of establishing a park in this city but it has been left to outside capitalists to secure options on property here with that object in view. These capitalists are Philadelphia men, whom, it is said have almost unlimited capital behind them, and during the past few days they have been in this city looking over the different sites on which a park could be located.

The park will be on the west side and will be bounded by Plainfield avenue and West Eighth street and extend in a southerly direction several blocks. George Taylor, of this city, is at the head of the project and it is believed that he interested the Quaker City men to come here with the view of placing some of their capital in this city for the purpose of further developing it.

Charles H. Lyman whose place of business is on North avenue, and who is interested in the future development of Plainfield, is also interested in the project and when seen at his office Saturday said that there was every likelihood of the park being a reality provided certain improvements which must be guaranteed first, were made. It is understood that the city will be asked to do its share in the matter of improving that locality but in what shape these improvements are to be made has not yet been given out.

The park will consist of a number of trees laid out in pretty drives and bordering on these will be erected between fifty and sixty houses, which when completed, will be very handsome residences equal to any of those now located in this city.

It was hinted that if these improvements are not made, the park scheme will drop through. One feature of the place will be an automobile charging and storage station which will harmonize with the other places which will be built there.

Just Missed Him.

A few minutes after H. Otis Newman temporarily abandoned his accustomed seat in the office of Boice, Runyon & Company, this morning, a large section of the ceiling fell upon his desk. It littered his books and caused a small amount of damage, but would undoubtedly have stunned him if he had been beneath it.

CITY STREETS ARE FLOODED

A COMBITATION OF RAIN AND SNOW MAKES THINGS VERY BAD.

Street Department Men Hard at Work—Several Cellars in Business Section Were Flooded.

Several cellars in the business district of the city were flooded this morning when the merchants opened their stores. The heavy rain following the snow storms of the past few days taxed the storm sewers of the city to their utmost to carry off the surface water. On some of the streets the crosswalks were in a terrible condition and it was almost impossible to cross with out rubber boots.

Although Street Commissioner Gavett had a force of men at work clearing the gutters the water accumulated in the streets making some of them look like duck ponds. Under the Watchung avenue railroad bridge the water accumulated until it was almost a foot deep. For some time in the early morning the cars were unable to pass under it until the gutters were cleared by Commissioner Gavett's men.

Green brook was rising very rapidly this morning and at 10 o'clock it was almost a foot above its normal level. The ice on Tier's and other ponds in this vicinity broke up early and all the ponds are now filled with thousands of floating cakes of ice. The sidewalks in this city and in the borough were in a very bad condition making walking difficult.

HISTORICAL HOUSE FOR SALE

A STRUCTURE OF REVOLUTIONARY TIMES IS TO BE DISPOSED OF.

Washington Stayed There the Night Before the Battle of Trenton —Little Changed.

On the banks of the Delaware river about ten miles above Trenton a small story and a half frame house is pointed out as one of the historical places in connection with the Revolutionary period. The house is the one in which General Washington spent part of the night before the battle of Trenton, December 26, 1776. It will shortly be sold in partition sale by decree of the Court of Chancery to settle up an estate.

In the time of the Revolutionary War the house was the home of William McKonkey. He was the keeper of the ferry that crossed the Delaware river at that point and he was a warm friend of General Washington. Because of his knowledge of the river and its shoals and currents his aid was engaged by General Washington in transporting the Continental troops from Pennsylvania to Jersey soil.

Mary McKonkey, a daughter of William McKonkey, lived to be ninety-seven years of age. She never tired of telling the story of the eventful night. She was at that time a girl of eleven years of age, and she waited on General Washington the morning of the battle as he ate breakfast. She said that there was a big kettle of boiling hot tea prepared for the soldiers' and that they ate as though they were famished.

The site of the crossing is marked by a bowlder which bears a plate with the following inscription:

"This tablet is erected by the Society of Cincinnati in the State of New Jersey to commemorate the crossing of the Delaware River by General Washington and the Continental Army on Christmas night of 1776." A similar tablet marks the spot on the Pennsylvania side.

With the exception of a tin roof, which was placed on the old house recently it stands exactly as it did in the days of the Revolutionary War. It is in splendid state of preservation. There has been some talk of making a National Park at the crossing of the Delaware and the plan should include the purchase of the old McKonkey house, because of its historic associations. The sale will afford a splendid opportunity for some patriotic organization like the Society of Cincinnati or the Sons or Daughters of the American Revolution to purchase the place and take means for its perservation. Other houses, known as headquarters of Washington, with less real historic interest, are now being preserved by various societies.

Came Here to Dine.

Thirty young people of the Westfield Club drove to this city, last evening, in a six-horse sleigh and took dinner at the Hotel Rosell on Park avenue. They enjoyed the evening with music, which accompanied the party, and they left on the return trip at about 11 o'clock.

A FIGHT FOR PURE FOOD

REPORT OF GEORGE W. M'GUIRE, CHIEF INSPECTOR OF FOODS.

Interesting Facts Concerning His Department Reported to the State Health Board.

The annual report of George W. McGuire, chief inspector of foods, just handed in to the secretary of the State Board of Health, gives some interesting facts in regard to the work of the department during the last year. In this period there have been 382 samples of drugs collected and analyzed, and of these 240, or sixty-two per cent., were found to be below the standard of purity required by the United States pharmacopoeia. A hundred and seventy-six samples of food, other than milk, were examined, of which seventy-seven were of inferior quality. It is a curious circumstance that of eight samples of olive oil collected from grocers all were pure, while five of the twelve samples secured from druggists were adulterated with cotton seed oil. Molasses and syrups were found to be adulterated with glucose; mince meat with salicylic acid, and boraric acid was found in sausage, hamburger steak and scrapple.

The interesting statement is made that "Hamburger steaks were collected from butcher shops in consequence of information received that decomposed meats were chopped and restored by the use of large quantities of boracic acid. Four of the eight samples examined confirmed the suspicion of the use of the drug."

Cream of tartar was found to be adulterated with phosphate of lime, alum and flour; cocoa with starch and coloring matter, chocolate with iron coloring matter, coffee with peas, chiccory, etc., and mustard with flour and turmeric.

Of 1,961 samples of milk examined, 1,821 were above the standard and 140 below it. Of 641 samples of suspected butter examined, 475 were found to be genuine and 141 to be oleomargarine.

The total amount of fines collected for violations of the pure food and drug law for the year was $4,900. On the whole these results are regarded as encouraging. They show that the State's advanced attitude on this question and the energetic prosecution of violators of the law is having a beneficial effect. Dealers are learning that it is dangerous business to deal in adulterated and impure articles and that honesty is the best policy.

FURTHER STEPS TO ORGANIZE

Presidents of Local Trades Unions in Session Regarding Proposed League.

THE FOREIGN QUESTION

Committee Appointed to Complete Plans for Organization of the League of American Workingmen—Movement Only Against Those Who Are Going Back.

The presidents of several of the trades unions in this city met last evening in Trades' Council Hall for the purpose of carriyng out the idea of organizing the League of American Workingmen. Recently, a meeting was held, when the first steps were taken in the matter and more progress was made last evening. A. C. Rogers, who was one of the originators of the movement, was made temporary chairman and John Hartpense was chosen temporary secretary. Mr. Rogers briefly outlined the purpose of the new organization, the principal object being to secure for the American workingmen protection from unnaturalized citizen labor. The new organization wants every man coming to this country from foreign shores to declare his intention and take out papers.

Remarks about the proposed organization were then made by William Bodine, Alexander B. Stills, W. C. Tracy, Charles Trottner and James D. Brown, representing several of the unions in the city. Each one expressed himself in favor of the general plan, so long as it does not become political and does not interfere with the work of other unions.

Mr. Brown talked at some length regarding labor and labor unions and referred to the troubles in the mining regions. In this connection he took exception to the presence of Rev. John McMurrray at the first meeting of the new organization. He said that the reverend gentleman's statements at that meeting were not in accordance with the facts concerning the miner and his condition as Mr. Brown knows them. Mr. Brown also took exception to Mr. McMurray's recent sermons on this same topic. He said that his father is a miner and had worked at this trade for years. He therefore knew what he was talking about.

All the speakers were very anxious that it should be clearly understood that only unnaturalized citizens are the ones objected to, the class which comes to this country, works awhile and then goes home to live a life of ease on what has been made in this country. It was agreed that neither race, color or creed should be a barrier to membership, and it was suggested that merchants, as well as tradesmen, should be allowed to join the organization, provided they would take the pledge not to encourage the hiring of unnaturalized labor.

In order to further the interest of the organization a committee of five was appointed to prepare plans to complete the same and report at a meeting to be held Tuesday evening, January 6. The committee is as follows: William Bodine and William Lunger from the carpenters; James D. Brown, from the machinists; W. C. Tracy, from the painters; Alexander B. Stills, from the barbers.

During the meeting Mr. Rogers read a letter from H. C. Adams, of Chicago, who read a clipping in a Chicago paper regarding the organization and expressing a desire to join the same. He will be communicated with and probably made organizer for the State of Illinois.

Recital by Pupils.

A piano recital was given Monday evening by some of the pupils of Miss Anna O. Marsh, of Madison avenue. The programme was very interesting, showing some of the elementary work of the younger pupils as well as the technical skill and musical rendering of selections by the more advanced pupils. The parents of the pupils were present and were very much pleased with the entertainment.

Another of Same Name.

William Robinson, who was arraigned before Recorder Doud Monday evening, is not the person of the same name who lives in East Second street, this city. He is a resident of the borough, where he was arrested.

Miss Elsie D. R. Suffern, of Sycamore avenue, is spending a few weeks in Connecticut.

WILL NOT ACCEPT CALL

REV. J. W. RICHARDSON WILL NOT GO TO STAMFORD, CONN.

Rumors That Present Pastor of Park Ave. Baptist Church Might Return to Former Pastorate.

There has been more or less rumor that Rev. J. W. Richardson, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, was about to receive a call to return to the pastorate of the Baptist church at Stamford, Conn., but such rumors are now set at rest by the announcement in "The Daily Advocate," of Stamford, that Mr. Richardson will not accept such a call if offered.

The following article from that paper of Monday, is of special interest:

"It was probable till today that the Baptist church would extend a call to Rev. J. W. Richardson, of Plainfield, N. J., to again become pastor. No definite action has been taken in this respect yet. No church meeting has been called to consider the matter of choosing a pastor, and the present plan of having different ministers in charge of the services Sundays will be followed for some weeks. It can be stated, however, with definiteness, that there was a movement on foot in the church to secure Mr. Richardson, and that the members were almost unanimous in wishing to extend a call to him. If a church meeting were held yesterday to consider the subject, it is quite probable that a unanimous call would be extended, and, so it was said in Baptist circles today, there would not be any more than five or six votes in the negative at most.

"Before leaving Stamford today, Mr. Richardson informed an officer of the church that he would not accept a call to return to the pastorate here.

"Rev. J. W. Richardson, it will be remembered by many was pastor of the church several years ago and attracted considerable attention during his pastorate. He was succeeded about ten years ago by Rev. C. L. Rhoades, who was pastor for about five years, being succeeded by Rev. George Braker, who resigned a few months ago.

"Mr. Richardson conducted the morning and evening services in the church yesterday, and preached each time. There were large congregations present, especially in the evening. Baptists were saying today that the attendance in the evening had never been so large since Mr. Richardson was pastor."

MERRY TIME COMING.

He also has a superior line of toilet waters, cut glass bottles and a special line of cigars, twenty-five in the box. It is very easy to select a Christmas gift from such a stock of goods, all of the best and at reasonable prices.

Other articles he is featuring are high grade candies and cigars in special boxes for gift making.

Met Suddenly.

A trolley car, of the Netherwood line, crashed into a delivery wagon belonging to W. W. Warnock, at the corner of Richmond street and Putnam avenue, shortly after 6 o'clock, last evening. The vehicle was almost completely demolished and the driver, Augustus Rhodes, received a severe shock. He was also slightly cut by broken glass. The horse escaped injury.

Let Them Go.

William Hart, arrested for drunkenness by Patrolman Higgins, last evening, received a suspension of sentence from City Judge Runyon, this morning. A similar disposition was made with William Emmons, who was arrested for intoxication by Patrolman Vanderweg, yesterday afternoon.

MISS LUCKEY WEDDED IN PRETTY CEREMONY

Marriage to Chas. E. Hazeltine Took Place at Bride's Home on Craig Place.

A RECEPTION FOLLOWED

THE CEREMONY WAS PERFORMED IN A BOWER OF FLOWERS.

Those Who Made Up the Bridal Party—Rev. C. E. Herring Was Officiating Clergyman—Will Reside in Plainfield—Many Gifts.

In the presence of a large number of guests at her home on Craig place, Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey, the daughter of Mrs. Robert Luckey, was united in marriage to Charles Edward Hazeltine, of Westervelt avenue, this city, at 7:30 last evening. It was one of the prettiest home weddings which has been held in the borough this winter. The home was very tastefully decorated for the occasion. After the ceremony a reception was held at which the bride and her mother received until almost train time when the couple left for an extended honeymoon.

At the time set for the ceremony to be performed Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, took his position beneath a beautiful bower of potted palms and ferns into which flowers were interwoven and awaited the approach of the bridal party which entered the front parlor from opposite directions. The bride, attended by her maid-of-honor and bridemaids, approached the minister from the back parlor while the groom and his attendant entered the drawing room from the reception hall. They met at a chancel formed of white ribbons and the solemn wedding vows were then taken and the bride was given in marriage by her mother.

The bride was gowned in an exquisite costume of peau de chine, trimmed with very handsome lace. She carried a large shower bouquet of white bridal roses. Her maid-of-honor, Miss Ella Ryder, of Jamaica, L. I., a cousin of the bride, was attired in a gown of white silk mull over white taffeta and carried a pretty bouquet of violets. The bridemaids, the Misses Gertrude and Maude Hazeltine, sisters of the groom, wore lavender silk mull over taffeta. The best man, Frank Hazeltine, a brother of the groom, escorted the bridegroom into the parlor.

The wedding march from Mendelssohn was played by Miss Alberta E. Waterbury and Walter Mosher, of this city.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served after which a reception was held until train time when Mr. and Mrs. Hazeltine were driven to the depot in a gaily decorated coach where they left for a two weeks' wedding tour for the south. Upon their return to this city they will make their home here for the present.

There were about 200 guests present from this city, New York, Brooklyn, Morristown, Jamacia, L. I., and other cities. The array of presents received by the newly married couple was very handsome and included articles of furniture, jewelry, cut glass and many other useful and fancy articles.

The committee, which consists of George E. Firstbrook, Thomas Muir end Archibald Hacquer, requests that all invited guests be accompanied by their invitations. The dancing orders, which are intended as a souvenir of the affair, are considered to be the neatest and most unique yet seen.

A Hardware Specialty Concern Is Likely to Locate at That Place Soon.

Somerville, Dec. 17—There is now every prospect of this town securing the location of a hardware specialty concern here. At a meeting of the Board of Trade Monday night it was reported that representatives of the concern, who had visited the town, were very favorably impressed with its advantages and thought it was as good a place as any they could locate in.

V. T. VanFleet said he had visited the present works of the company at Boonton and examined the books at their request. He said they had paid out $2,700 a month in salaries and shipped over a carload of goods a day. A committee will confer with the company in a few days.

MUST CLEAN WALKS.

If Snow Isn't Removed in Twenty-Four Hours, City Does Work.

Street Commissioner Gavett says that the recent storms have been in many respects different from most winter storms. After the fall of snow there was a warm spell and the snow and ice softened considerably, but during one afternoon the temperature took a drop and froze everything solid again. For this reason and at the suggestion of Mayor Jenkins, the street commissioner did not push the property owners too hard. However, twenty-four hours after a snow storm property owners or residents are obliged to clean their walks. If they don't the city is likely to do it for them and charge it up.

Failed to Clean Sidewalks.

Complaints were received at the office of the street department, yesterday, that residents along the lower part of Park avenue had failed to clean off their sidewalks, according to the ordinance. Mr. Gavett acted at once in the matter.

Singing and Supper.

Singing and a supper were the attractions last evening at Saengerbund Hall when the singing section of the Gesang and Turn Verein held its weekly meeting. There were thirty present and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

BUCKLE LIKELY TO PRESIDE AT COUNCIL

Councilman James F. Buckle Proposed as President of the City Council Next Year.

IS OLDEST MEMBER NOW

JAN VAN HERWERDEN HAS ALSO BEEN SUGGESTED FOR THE PLACE.

Caucus of the Council Called for Saturday Evening—Will Select a President and Probably the Chairmen of Committees.

Councilman Ralph I. Tolles has called a meeting of the member of the Common Council for 1903 for Saturday evening, when matters pertaining to the organization of the new body will practically be decided upon. One of the important questions to be decided will be that relative to the selection of a new president to succeed B. Frank Coriell, who has held that position for two years. It seems to be almost a certainty that Councilman James F. Buckle will be selected to preside over the new Council next year. This will be Mr. Buckle's last term and his colleagues are unanimous that he being the oldest member he is entitled to the honor.

Another candidate for the presidency is Councilman Jan. vanHerwerden, but one objection offered is to his candidacy is that he is away so much of the time. It is understood that should he be chosen, he would be in a position to arrange his affairs so that he could attend the meetings regularly. It has been stated in certain quarters that Mr. vanHerwerden would like to have the honor next year, but those who would vote for him, have said that should Mr. Buckle decide to accept the position, they would feel like supporting him for the reason that he is an older member and has had more experience in city affairs. Besides, Mr. Buckle is in Plainfield all the time and should there be any official business requiring his attention he could easily be found.

Another important matter to be decided upon at the caucus will be that in reference to the make-up of the committees. If Mr. Buckle is elected president, there seems to be excellent reasons for believing that his place on several committees, including the chairmanship of the police committee, would fall to Councilman William Gloak. He has been a member of the police committee with Mr. Buckle and his experience would be very beneficial to him should he secure the chairmanship of the police committee. As for the other committees it is difficult to say at this time just what the make-up will be, but no doubt they will all be strong ones.

AS SEEN BY EYE WITNESS

DR. HOVEY TOLD OF THE ERUPTION OF MT. PELEE.

In Illustrated Lecture Given at the Chapel of Crescent Avenue Church Last Evening.

In spite of the rain and dampness under foot a large number of people attended the lecture given last evening at the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church by Dr. E. O. Hovey, assistant curator of the American Museum of Natural History, of Washington, when he told in an interesting manner of the recent upheaval of Mt. Pelee and illustrated his talk with 100 stereopticon views of the destruction wrought by the terrible eruption in which thousands of people lost their lives.

The lecture was held in the chapel of the church and the pictures displayed upon the screen gave a very lucid idea of the loss of life and complete destruction of that part of Martinique after the eruption. Dr. Hovey was one of the first scientists at the scene after the news of the eruption reached this country and was therefore able to tell of the phenomena as viewed by an eye witness, which made the lecture all the more interesting. Great pits of boiling mud and deep crevices made by the descending lava were plainly seen on the screens and even the bodies of the unfortunate victims were shown roasted alive in the pictures.

CHRISTMAS SERVICE.

R. J. Shaw, Druggist, Is Well Prepared to Meet It.

R. J. Shaw, the druggist, is well prepared to serve his patrons during the holiday season. Anticipating an increase in his already brisk trade, he has secured a most desirable stock of the best perfumes, chamois vests, the ideal protector from the cold, toilet articles, atomizers, fancy soaps, hair brushes, themometers. He also has a full line of staple goods in the drug line. Mr. Shaw is making a specialty of hard water toilet soap and there has been a big demand for it. The goods handled by Mr. Shaw are perfectly reliable and can always be depended upon. His prices meet the popular demand.

PREPARING FOR CHRISTMAS.

Powers Drug Store Has a Fine Holiday Display This Year.

At Power's drug store on Somerset street all is preparation for the Christmas holidays. The show windows have on their holiday dress and expert skill has been displayed in arranging the goods in an attractive manner. Huyler's well known candies and a fine line of standard perfumes are on sale. Toilet articles will be found there in large assortments together with manicuring sets and brushes. Cigars are always made aspecialty of atthistore.

IN ATTRACTIVE FORM.

At the drug store of Peter B. Hodge, at the corner of East Front street and Wathcung avenue, a choice line of holiday articles has been arranged in a most attractive manner. Here will be found some of the finest toilet articles, perfume atomizers, toilet waters, brushes for all purposes of toilet use and many other attractive things which make admirable presents for the holidays. Mr. Hodge is making a specialty of Belle Meade sweets, which are superior to many other well known makes.

GIFTS FOUND THERE.

Orders are now being booked for Huyler's candies for Christmas delivery.

Met at Secretary's Home.

On account of insufficient heat at the Casino, Monday afternoon, the meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club was held at the home of the corresponding secretary, Miss Hubbell, of Central avenue.

BOARD OF TRADE TO INVESTIGATE

Committee Appointed to Visit Disposal Beds and Learn the Truth Regarding Attack.

WILL REPORT TO BOARD

Mayor Jenkins Is to be Asked to Outline His Project for Public Parks at Length—Board Starts Agitation for the Big Incandescent Electric Lights for City.

Appeals made at the recent Board of Trade banquet for increased interest and activity in its affairs, were responded to with vim at the regular meeting of the organization held last evening. There was a large attendance and many matters pertaining to the welfare and advancement of the city were brought up, discussed and action taken. The following applicants were elected members: Edward Kapp, John F. MacIntyre, E. S. F. Randolph, John J. Kenney, M. Armstrong, John Wirth, T. O. Doane, C. W. Krausse, E. P. Turner, D. C. Ivins, R. A. Meeker, R. I. Tolles, George J. Tobin, B. F. Coriell, Elston M. French and F. A. Dunham.

Improvement in the street lighting, especially in the business district, took pre-eminence over other matters and was argued pro and con. It was the unanimous opinion of the members that better light is needed, but the sentiment seemed to be in favor of a 100 candle power incandescent lamp instead of the arc, which has heretofore been advanced.

Reasons for this were given; first, that the arc is more costly, is harder to keep burning steady and the huge shadows it casts are a source of danger to teamsters through horses becoming frightened by them; second, that the incandescent gives a much clearer light, casts no shadow and does not need a lot of rigging to be kept in place. At the conclusion of the remarks President Woolston appointed a committee composed of C. W. Runyon, Herman Schwed and M. J. Cashin, to confer with the light committee of the Common Council and also the Electric Light Company officials for the purpose of getting experimental lamps.

The North Plainfield Board of Health's attack upon the sewage disposal plant was related to the board and the members decided to investigate the matter themselves and learn the true state of affairs, as it was put "for the purpose of learning if the borough people are purveying a lie broadcast about the State." H. Otis Newman, R. A. Meeker and C. W. Krausse were appointed a committee to make a personal visit to the beds, inspect them thoroughly and report at the next meeting.

Mayor Jenkins' suggestion made at the banquet in regard to public parks and a lake for the city, found decided favor with the board and it will agitate the matter. It was decided to take no action at present but to have the Mayor present at the next meeting and explain fully his ideas after which they can be better brought to the attention of the proper authorities.

The trolley company again came in for criticism, especially regarding the present system of transferring and at the next meeting a committee will be appointed to take up the matter. Other questions discussed informally were the changing of the city boundary line on the southwest in order to make it practically a square, the South Plainfield trolley matter and the giving of support to the scheme to develope the vacant plots south of the city.

No report was presented by the committee appointed at the previous meeting to secure better railroad advantages, but it was stated some would be given next month.

WORK ON DRAW.

Will be Continued on Newark Bay Drawbridge All Winter if Weather Permits.

Notwithstanding the long period of inclement weather, work on the Newark bay drawbridge of the New Jersey Central has progressed satisfactorily. All of the piles have been driven for the north half of the foundation under the west bound track, and the trestle spanning the opening is now being replaced.

Traffic will then be diverted to the west bound track and the foundation work under the east track will be commenced--upon completion of which the mammoth caisson now in course of construction near the Electric Launch Company's works will be placed and the masonry pier built, but at no interruption to the running of the trains on their respective tracks.

If the weather permits this work will continue all winter, otherwise both tracks will be restored to their normal condition and all labors abandoned until spring. The commuters on the New Jersey Central have been considerably interested in the work being done at the draw, for it is a most difficult undertaking, and many hazardous feats are attempted by the workmen.

Cold Comfort From Doctors.

Doctors say neuralgia is not dangerous. This is poor consolation to a sufferer who feels as if his face were pierced with hot needles and torn with a thousand pairs of pincers. A word of advice to him: stay indoors and use Perry Davis' Painkiller. The blessed freedom from pain which follows this treatment cannot be told. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

URGED TO ARBITRATE

Secretary Hay Asks For Answers to Proposal.

ACTION FOLLOWS CABINET MEETING

Italian Minister Announces That His Government Has Joined the Powers—Dewey's Fleet of Warships to Be Held In Readiness.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The cabinet met yesterday and discussed the Venezuelan situation. As a result of its deliberations the secretary of state sent telegrams to the United States ambassadors at London and Berlin requesting that an answer be given to the proposal of President Castro, transmitted through Minister Bowen and the state department, that the differences between Venezuela and the allies be submitted to arbitration.

A telegram was also sent to the American ambassador at Rome, proposing arbitration to the Italian government and requesting a speedy answer.

A rumor which lacks confirmation was circulated to the effect that the United States has specifically called upon Great Britain and Germany for an explanation of the sinking of the Venezuelan war vessels and the bombardment of the fortifications of Puerto Cabello.

Such a construction may have been placed by the British and German foreign offices upon the note sent last Saturday informing them that the United States had not consented to any extension of the rights of blockade.

It may be said on the highest authority that no matter what may be the outcome of the present Venezuala difficulties the administration will not recede one jot from the stand taken on the Monroe doctrine by President Roosevelt in his message to congress and by the secretary of state in his communication to Germany some time ago.

The Italian ambassador during the day called at the state department and advised Secretary Hay that Italy has joined the allies in the operations against Venezuela. He requested that Mr. Bowen assume charge of the Italian interests in Venezuela, and the secretary granted this request, subject to the approval of Venezuela. Italy enters the combination on the same plan as to abstention from territorial seizures as Germany and Great Britain.

Estimated at between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 bolivars, Italy's claims are considerably in excess of those of Great Britain, and the course of the Rome government in not acting hastily in the matter has commended itself to the state department.

Disposition of the men-of-war of Admiral Dewey's fleet during the holidays is to be made under the direction of the secretary of the navy in view of the increasing complications arising in connection with Venezuela and the wishes of this government not to arouse suspicion unnecessarily by dispatching a large naval force to Venezuelan waters. Admiral Dewey cabled the department Monday in regard to the orders for his fleet during the Christmas holidays. Orders are now in preparation for the various vessels and will be forwarded to the admiral in the next day or two.

NO SIGNS OF SETTLEMENT.

England Does Not Consider Favorably Arbitration Proposal.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Judging from statements given out by the foreign office, the Venezuelan situation does not appear to be any nearer a settlement. No suggestion has yet been made that Great Britain could eventually see its way to submitting its claims to arbitration, and the foreign office points out that Venezuela's offer to arbitrate is extremely vague. President Castro in the communication in which he expresses his willingness to resort to arbitration provides no guarantee that the rights of British subjects in Venezuela will be respected pending the award. The foreign office claims that some matters are impossible to arbitrate, instancing the disrespectful treatment of Mr. Haggard, British minister to Venezuela, and all his representations.

The willingness of Venezuela to arbitrate the financial claims, however, will meet with no opposition in official circles in London, nor is there any desire to stir up opposition here by continuing unnecessarily the present armed compact with Germany; but, quoting from the foreign office, "at the same time there is not the slightest inclination to let Venezuela go unpunished for her repeated insults and injuries. The offer to arbitrate comes very late in the day. We are not seeking a quarrel, but we must insure ourselves against a recurrence of the acts which led to the present situation."

With the guarantee of the United States, the foreign office says, arbitration in the Venezuelan matter would be an immediate probability, but with only the word of a government hitherto unreliable arbitration is difficult of accepting, even upon the points where international relations admit of such a method of settlement.

Will Push the Work.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—Captain John P. Green, first vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, expresses himself as gratified with the action of the board of aldermen of New York in sanctioning the tunnel project. He said: "We will begin work as soon as the engineers are ready. We will spend $40,000,000 in three years. It is impossible to say now how many men will be employed on the work. The details will be arranged by the engineering and construction departments. The fact that we have $10,000,000 worth of real estate in the heart of the city of New York is in itself a guarantee that we will push the work."

Spain Wants Her Pay.

CARACAS, Dec. 17.—The Spanish minister to Venezuela, Senor Gaytan de Ayala, and the Belgian charge d'affaires, M. Van der Heyde, have presented a joint letter to the Venezuelan minister of foreign affairs in which they ask, in case the claims of other foreign powers are paid by Venezuela, that the same treatment given these powers be accorded to Spain and Belgium. General Hernandez reached Caracas at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was received at the railroad station with great enthusiasm by 1,500 of his partisans, who tried to unharness the horses attached to his carriage and themselves draw the general in his triumphal return to this city. At the general's request, however, the people desisted from this endeavor.

Venezuelan Shots Were Effective.

PUERTO CABELLO, Venezuela, Dec. 17.—It has been learned here that during the bombardment of Puerto Cabello Dec. 13 by the British cruiser Charybdis and the German cruiser Vineta that the Charybdis was struck in the bow by a shot fired from a cannon on the Plaza Bruzual. The Vineta was struck twice by the Venezuelan cannon fire. The report which has been in circulation here that an officer of the Vineta was killed during the bombardment by a rifle bullet fired from the shore appears now to be true.

A Filibustering Expedition.

BUTTE, Mont., Dec. 17.—It is stated on what appears to be good authority that a filibustering party is being organized here to go to Venezuela. It is said at least one well armed company, all crack shots and old mountain men, will go south in a few days. A number of Spanish war veterans and several veterans of the Fenian invasion of Canada are among the men enlisted.

Germany Not In Favor of Arbitration

COLOGNE, Dec. 17.—The Cologne Gazette publishes a dispatch from Berlin which says it is doubtful if at the present stage of the Venezuelan difficulty arbitration can be considered by Germany. Germany can afford to wait, the dispatch adds, the outcome of the situation that is very uncomfortable for President Castro.

Italian Minister Leaves Post.

CARACAS, Dec. 17.—The Italian minister to Venezuela, Signor de Riva, received orders from Rome to leave Caracas this morning. He went on board the Italian cruiser Giovanni Bausan at La Guayra.

Three Cases of Bubonic Plague.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Three cases of bubonic plague are under treatment in the Swinburne island hospital at quarantine. The sufferers are the first and second cooks and the second steward of the Prince line steamer Saxon Prince, which arrived from Durban, South Africa, Monday. When an inspection of the crew was made, three were found to be ill. A thorough examination of the patients convinced Health Officer Doty that they had all the symptoms of the plague, and they were taken to Swinburne island, where cultures were made and taken to the laboratory. The result of the examination confirmed the diagnosis made at the inspection.

New Departure In Methodism.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 17.—For the first time in the history of the Methodist church since the civil war important commissions from the church north and the church south have arranged to hold a joint meeting on interests of like importance to both branches. This will occur on the 10th of next month, when a commission of the church north of eleven members who have in process of preparation a new hymnal for the denomination will meet with a similar commission of eleven men from the church south at Nashville, Tenn., for the purpose of considering the adoption of the same book for both branches of the church.

A Mysterious Death.

ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 17.—Burt Cowles, the Lehigh Valley assistant station agent at Levania, near Ithaca, was found dead with a bullet through his heart. Cowles was sitting in his usual chair, and near him lay a gun without a stock. Coroner Laird examined the body, but came to no conclusion as to whether death resulted from accident or not.

Disastrous Floods Threatened.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Dec. 17.—Great damage is feared as the result of the heavy rainstorm which has prevailed here. Many business places and private residences are flooded, and the country roads have been rendered impassable through water and snow. Serious damage to the railroads is threatened.

Railroad Men Killed.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Dec. 17.—Cornelius O'Mara, section foreman, and John Murphy, flagman, were ground to pieces here by two freight trains at the Foxhall avenue crossing. They were talking and stepped from one track in front of another train. Their bodies were tossed back and forth by the two trains.

Virginia Postoffice Robbed.

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 17.—At Big Stone Gap burglars blew open the safe in the postoffice, taking about $800 in stamps and $400 in money. They entered the room by boring out a panel in the door. The postmaster had received a large supply of stamps from the department which had not been invoiced.

TREATY WITH SPAIN IS RATIFIED.

Senate In Executive Session Discusses the Venezuelan Situation, but Finds No Cause For Immediate Action.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The house yesterday passed the bill transferring from the treasury department to the department of agriculture the power to establish regulation for the suppression of contagious diseases among live stock and devoted the remainder of the day to the legislative appropriation bill, on which rapid progress was made.

In the senate Mr. Dillingham concluded his remarks in opposition to the omnibus statehood bill, and by unanimous consent it was agreed there should be no further discussion of the measure until the senate reconvenes on Jan. 5.

The senate in executive session ratified the treaty of friendship and general relations between the United States and Spain. The Spanish treaty was ratified without debate or division. The attendance was small, and as soon as the treaty had been read, this formality taking about half an hour, Senator Lodge, who was in the chair, put the question, and, there being no dissent, he declared the resolution of ratification carried by the necessary two-thirds vote.

The Venezuelan question occupied the attention of the senate in executive session for almost an hour. The question came up informally almost immediately after the public was excluded. Senator Teller, disclaiming all intention of being critical and saying he merely desired information, asked Senator Cullom, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, what information he possessed as to the Venezuelan affair. Mr. Teller in inquiring said that the situation is such that senators felt that the Monroe doctrine at any time might become involved if the complication should continue.

Senator Cullom replied to the inquiry that he had no knowledge of recent events not contained in the public prints. Messrs. Bacon, Hoar, Lodge and Stewart all made remarks. In none of the addresses was anything harsh or critical said. The tone of all the speeches, whether by Republicans or Democrats, was that our position as a nation should be one of watchfulness. There was general agreement that while the means adopted by Great Britain and Germany for the collection of their debts had been quite strenuous they thus far had committed no infringement of the Monroe doctrine and therefore had done nothing to which the United States could take exception.

Joint Stock Shares Taxable.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The court of appeals has handed down an opinion holding that the shares of stock which George Jones, part owner of the New York Times, held in the joint stock association which published that paper are taxable under the inheritance tax law as personal property. This case has been pending in the courts for several years and has attracted much attention among lawyers, because the question of the taxability of shares in a joint stock association as personal property has never been decided in this country and because if they were held so taxable the same principle would cover the shares of stock in all the big express companies and other joint stock enterprises.

Assaulted Wife Who Talked Money.

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—Mrs. Martha Gregg was murderously assaulted by her husband, Robert, at their home, 6 Sawyer street, and was taken to the hospital in a dangerous condition. After the assault Gregg walked to the police station and gave himself up. Gregg says that, although earning small wages, he gave it all up to his wife. He says she talked money continually, and quarrels became frequent. During an argument Gregg says he became exasperated beyond endurance and struck his wife.

Harvard's Continued Growth.

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—This year's Harvard catalogue, issued today, shows a total of 4,261 students in all departments of the university, an increase of 120 over a year ago. Counting Radcliffe college and the summer school, which are included in the enumeration, the total number of persons enrolled for instruction during the year 1902 foots up to 5,206. The number of instructors in the university proper is 534, or thirty-one more than a year ago.

German Ship's Record Trip.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Dec. 17.—The German ship Alsterberg has arrived, sixty-eight days and twelve hours from Montevideo. This establishes a new record for this passage. The Alsterberg has saved her charter, which would have been canceled on Dec. 31. By making the fast passage the Alsterberg has saved her owners about $12,500.

Mrs. Clark Very Ill.

BUTTE, Mont., Dec. 17.—Mrs. W. A. Clark, Jr., daughter-in-law of Senator Clark, who gave birth to a boy here two weeks ago, is very ill, and a specialist has been summoned from Denver. Great anxiety is felt. The boy, if he lives, will be heir to the Clark millions.

Another Million From Rockefeller.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—President Harper of the University of Chicago at the convocation exercises announced the gift by John D. Rockefeller of another million dollars to that institution. Additional gifts were announced, the whole amount aggregating $1,525,000.

This Is a Great Store

in a thousand ways. We cannot attempt elaboration of any particular feature, and will merely outline a few of the potent ones with which you are no doubt familiar, and which interest you most just now.

It may seem just a little strange to call your attention at this time when thoughts of gift-giving are universally paramount, but a good story loses no interest when told twice.

A prominent and important factor—one which appeals to the entire populace and places this great store foremost among the modern buildings of the present day is the Fire Proof Conditions Which Surround It.

There isn't another store like it in New Jersey—you're absolutely safe here.

Having disposed of this point we turn our attention to assortments of merchandise selected for gift-giving. No need of going to New York. No need of thinking beyond the splendidly arrayed stock embodied in this great store.

Why, there isn't a piece, no matter whether intended for personal adornment or home use, that's missing. Think you well along this line. And now we come to price arrangement; that lever that regulates the entire business of this establishment. Some stores have one system for one section and one for another—here there is but one policy and it applies most religiously to every department. It's the policy, of selling our wares at a reasonable profit margin that has made this one of the World's Greatest Retail Establishments.

GOOD ROADS IN JERSEY.

Good roads have passed the experimental stage in New Jersey. They have proven their usefulness and it is only outspoken enemy of progress who now has aught to say against them. The work done along this line in New Jersey during the last twelve months is well summed up in the annual report of State Road Commissioner Henry I. Budd, which has just been presented to Governor Murphy. This report is of special interest to Plainfielders from the fact that much of the material in it was prepared by State Supervisor of Roads Robert A. Meeker, who is a resident of this city.

Last winter, the Legislature raised the State appropriation for road building from $150,000 to $250,000, and now he recommends in his report that the amount be increased to $300,000 for the coming year. There were many counties which wanted to build roads with the assistance of the State but a portion of their programme had to be omitted on account of lack of funds. As the financial condition of the State seems particularly satisfactory, Mr. Budd believes that the money could be used to no better advantage than improving the public thoroughfares.

It is interesting to note that since the State first went into the road building business in connection with the counties, there have been 796 miles of macadam roads built in that way. There is hardly a corner of the State which cannot now be reached by good roads. There are a few benited communities that still refuse to see the good things that the rest of the people of Jersey are enjoying. But slowly, one after another, they are falling in line and the work of building goods roads goes merrily on.

It will not be long before copies of this report will be issued. In past years, they have made interesting reading and there is reason to believe that this year's volume will contain facts of considerable interest to everyone who is interested in the prosperity of the commonwealth.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

The New York Painting and Decorating Company, of Park avenue, is showing a large stock of new wallpapers. Now is the time to make your selections and get the first choice.

When you want pure, wholesome confection go to Campbell's on West Front street. He always keeps a large stock of the best candies and he will take your order for the holidays and fill it promptly.

In the making of cakes or pastry of any kind, it is essential that only the best quality of milk be used. You can get this kind of Wm. Lindsay & Son, of Mountain avenue. It is guaranteed absolutely pure and at your order it will be delivered promptly.

Believing that "a pleased customer is a good advertisement," J. W. Van Sickle always makes more than the usual effort to accommodate his patrons. In order to do it he never sells anything but what is the best in the meat and poultry line. Better let him fill your order.

Careful buying meakes it possible for Foss & Jeter, the Park avenue seafood dealers, to dispose of fresh fish at much lower prices than charged by other dealers. All their fish is received direct from the nets and nothing is ever sold that is not strictly fresh.

The making over of furs should be done by experienced furriers and Plainfield is fortunate in having one of these furriers. S. Hirsch, on Watchung avenue, has made a specialty of this work for many years and is thoroughly competent to remodel fur garments so as to make them look almost like new.

Buckwheat cakes and Flemington sausage make a very appetizing breakfast these cold winter mornings. Flemington sausage is sold at the grocery store of R. F. Barnes, of Park avenue, and they are shipped direct from the factory in Flemington. Smoked liver and maple syrup are always carried in stock at this store.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, 137-139 West Front street, will give a beautiful 9x11 inch twelve-leaf Christmas souvenir calendar fastened with a large bow of silk ribbon, three-quarter inches in width free to all purchasers of fifty cents worth of teas, coffees, A. and P. baking powder, A. and P. extracts and A. and P. spices. See their ad for specials.

A Cold Wave.

The forecast of sudden changes in the weather serves notice that a hoarse voice and a heavy cough may invade the sanctity of health in your own home. Cautious people have a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure always at hand. E. H. Wise, Madison, Ga., writes: "I am indebted to One Minute Cough Cure for my present good health, and probably my life." It cures Coughs, Colds, La-Grippe, Bronchitis, Pneumonia and all Throat and Lung troubles. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the phlegm, draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes the mucous membranes and strengthens the lungs. L. W. Randolph.

Many Coal Mines Flooded.

TAMAQUA, Pa., Dec. 17.—Nearly all the mines in this section are flooded as the result of the heavy rainstorm which has prevailed in this section. As a result it is expected that the shipments to the market from this section between now and the first of the new year will be small. A dispatch from Shamokin says that the rainstorm and the melting snow have covered the upper levels of a number of collieries, and if the rain continues the mules at several of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company's mines will be hoisted to the surface.

Trolley System For Monterey.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 17.—Details of the plan by which a local syndicate will supply Monterey, Mexico, with a modern trolley system have been completed. The Monterey Electric Railway company, with a capital stock of $1,500,000 in gold bonds and a bond issue, the amount of which has not yet been announced, will be organized. The company will control fifty-one miles of street railway and will at once equip thirty miles for operation by electricity. Sperry, Jones & Co. of this city are financing the company.

Rain Timely For New York.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Yesterday's downpour of rain saved the city $160,000. Had the rain kept off another day it would have cost the city, according to the officials of the street cleaning department, $200,000 to remove the snow remaining on the streets. With the help of the rain the work can be done for $40,000.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1901, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

"I do not know. I am going to try and find out," said Chalmers. "It looks as if he was mixed up in it too. I hope not. Sidney is too good a fellow."

Later in the evening Mr. Chalmers was at the Carmody mansion. During the day he had arranged with Miss Carmody to invite Miss Olive Hammond to spend the evening at her house.

"Miss Carmody," said Chalmers, after the formal greetings were made, "I know you will excuse my apparent freedom, but I have some news of great importance, which I am going to tell you and Miss Hammond. We should have a room where we cannot be interrupted or overheard."

Miss Carmody rang for Smith.

"Unlock Mr. Carmody's private office," she said. "Put it in order and bring Mr. Chalmers some cigars. I know he smokes."

Mr. Chalmers bowed his thanks. They were soon seated in Mr. Carmody's library and private office. Nothing which taste could dictate or money furnish was lacking in this room. Chalmers took the big easy office chair, while the young ladies formed a charming picture on a near by divan.

"Miss Hammond, the news I have obtained indirectly concerns your brother Sidney," said Chalmers. Miss Olive Hammond grew pale, and uttered a half-exclamation. "You need not be in the least alarmed. I have no reason to believe he is in any degree to blame in this affair. I am going to relate the whole story, as far as I know it, and you may be able to throw new light on the mystery."

For half an hour Chalmers explained the circumstances which had led him to suspect Hestor. As he talked the two girls clasped hands. Tears glistened in Miss Hammond's eyes when Chalmers told of the instructions Hestor had left that a notice should be inserted in the Record, stating that Sidney Hammond would accompany him on a trip to the Mediterranean.

As he said this Miss Carmody released Olive Hammond's hand and instinctively drew away from her. Olive burst into tears.

"Sidney never could do such a thing! Oh, there is a cruel mistake somewhere!" she sobbed. "Sidney is the soul of honor. Oh, my brother, my noble, honest brother; why are you not here to defend yourself?"

Miss Helen threw her arms around the weeping girl. Chalmers did not know what to say. His story had been cut off at its sensational point. He stammered an apology.

"He is not guilty. I am sure he is not guilty!" exclaimed Miss Carmody. Her eyes flashed as she looked at Chalmers.

"I have said that I did not believe him guilty," said that gentleman, recovering himself. "You young ladies jump at a conclusion too quickly. It is probable that Mr. Hammond was the victim of a plot like the others."

"Why, Sidney did not know he was going until a few hours before the yacht sailed for Europe," said Miss Olive. She had regained her self-possession. "He sent me a telegram just before he went away, saying that he was obliged to take a sudden trip to Europe with Mr. Hestor. When he left home in the morning he did not know a thing about it. We had planned to go to the theater on the following evening, and he had secured the tickets. So how could he have known anything about it? Sidney tells me everything."

"That is splendid news," said Chalmers, his face lighting up with pleasure. "You need not worry about Sidney. I hope you kept that telegram."

"I have it here in my reticule," said Miss Olive.

Chalmers read it carefully. He lifted the receiver of the telephone at his elbow.

"Give me the superintendent's office—the Postal Union Telegraph company," he said.

Chalmers was well acquainted with the routine of the telegraph office, and soon arranged that the original of the dispatch be forwarded by special message to the Carmody residence. While waiting for this, they talked over the strange features of the case.

"You are sure that Hestor said nothing about going away the night he gave the opera and supper party?" asked Mr. Chalmers.

"I did not hear him say a word about it," said Miss Hammond. "Mr. Hestor and Sidney had a long talk about trusts. They were at the end of the table, and for a long time took no part in the general conversation. I was not interested in what the others were saying and found myself listening to Sidney and Walter Hestor. Mr. Hestor said it would be a fine plan if they could induce the leading capitalists of the country to meet and discuss methods to regulate the abuses which have arisen under the trust control of industrial affairs. Now that I think of it, he mentioned such names as Rockwell, Morton and Haven, and I am sure Mr. Carmody's name was used. Sidney told him that these men could not be induced to take the time to bother with such matters. Finally Mr. Hestor said that he was going to form a trust of his own. Sidney laughed, but Walter seemed much in earnest. Soon afterward the party dispersed and we went home. Sidney went to Chicago, and did not return until the following Saturday."

The messenger boy arrived with the original copy of the telegram. Chalmers gave one glance at it.

"Just as I suspected," he said. He passed the telegram to Miss Hammond. It was written in pencil on a sheet of newspaper "copy" paper, with a telegraph head pasted above it.

"Is that Sidney's handwriting?" he asked.

"Why, no!" exclaimed Miss Olive. "It is not a bit like it."

"Walter Hestor wrote that," said Chalmers. "I know his writing; having handled thousands of pages of it. You may rest assured, Miss Carmody, that we shall soon solve this mystery. Hestor has not covered his tracks. He either did not know how, or did not care. No shrewd criminal would send a forged telegram in his own handwriting. He would use a typewriter. Hestor sent this telegram so that you would not be alarmed at Sidney's absence. It is plain as day."

Chalmers enjoined the young ladies to secrecy and returned to his newspaper duties.

The following morning Jack Stevens called his staff into conference. He detailed four men to Boston, six to Philadelphia and four to New Orleans and Galveston. Twenty were assigned to work in New York, and six were held in reserve.

"Interview every architect and builder in these cities," were Stevens' instructions. "Introduce yourself as a writer who is preparing an elaborate article on summer or country residences. Be specially solicitous about specimens of tropical architecture. Then lead up to who designed the Walter B. Hestor residence. There is a special offer of $25,000 for the reporter who locates the architect, and the same amount for the one who discovers the contractor."

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods if not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

BASKET BALL.

R. W. Meeker, captain of the Plainfield High School basket ball team, announced this morning the names of those who will go to Jersey City on Saturday and play its first game with the Hasbrouck Institute team. Those selected to go are H. G. Thompson, Herbert Munro, A. F. Conant, G. A. Brakeley, L. L. Sheppard, F. K. Anderson and R. W. Meeker. From this number the team of five will be selected.

NO BILLS PAID.

Alleged That a Member of Democratic Club Collected Donations, But Failed to Settle—Suspended.

Constantly increasing dissatisfaction with one member's management or mis-management of affairs resulted in a stormy meeting of the Democratic Club, Monday evening. Allegations were preferred which resulted in his being dropped from the rolls while some others wanted further action taken.

The members in question was, it is claimed, entrusted with the collection of funds to defray the expenses of the smoker, held in the headquarters recently. It is declared he received some substantial donations but that none of them reached the club and up to Monday no bills were paid. The club heard of the true state of affairs and after doing the dismissal act, at once made arrangements for the settlement of all expenses incurred through the smoker.

IMPROVING MUSIC HALL.

New Owner and Experts Looked Over Hall and Start Work at Once.

F. S. Sherman, the theatrical manager, who recently acquired Music Hall, came to Plainfield, this morning, accompanied by two representatives of the Amalgamated Theatre Company, which makes a specialty of altering play houses. The hall was thoroughly inspected and the company will begin at once on the plans as already prepared.

In speaking of the opening Mr. Sherman stated it was his hope to have the opening by February 1, at the latest. A large gang of men will be employed and it is thought the progress will be rapid.

Poor Drainage.

During the storm yesterday the condition of the walks and streets on West Front street, opposite Washington avenue, again proved the inefficiency of the drainage system at that point. More complete arrangements should be made for carrying off the surface water there.

BASKET BALL PLAYERS IN I. C. T. CLUB

Quite a Little Good Material in That Organization for Basket Ball Five.

SOME OF THE PLAYERS

PLANS BEING MADE TO MAKE EXCELLENT FLOOR FOR PLAY.

Ample Accommodations for the Spectators and Plenty of Room for the Players—Those Who Will Try for the Five.

Although the Alis A. A. now leads in the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League, there is no certainty that it will remain there any length of time. Judging from the game put up by the Hope Y. M. A. five in its game with the Alis boys Monday night, that team must be reckoned with before the championship of the league is settled. Then there is the I. C. T. Club. With a team of novices, it could not be expected to do anything but there are a number of members of that club that have played before and it seems quite likely that the I. C. T. five will be able to make quite a fair showing after it gets in working order.

Probably the most experienced of the I. C. T. boys is Charles Peterson, now one of the Y. M. C. A. team but who is talking of being transferred so he can play in the league contests. Charles H. Bilyeu and George Morton have both played the game in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium although they have not had the experience that Peterson has. Wesley Randolph was a member of the Newark Y. M. C. A. and played there. Chas. Cumberson was quite a player at Red Bank a few years ago. Archibald Hacquer made his debut at Philadelphia and has had considerable practice. George Cose and Edward Sutton are both members of Hope Y. M. A. and tried it there. John Kelly and Herbert Utzinger are both new at the game but give promise of taking to it quickly. Then there are several others who may develop into skillful players with a little practice.

Plans are being made to so arrange the I. C. T. Club room as to give as good a floor for basket ball as there is in the city. The room is fifteen feet high which gives ample room for the game. A removable screen will border a row of posts which run down the centre of the room. One half will be used for playing and the other half for the spectators. The club will be able to care for even more than the Y. M. C. A. does in its gymnasium.

Trip to Niagara.

W. C. Walsh, Jr., district passenger agent of the New Jersey Central, has arranged for the Elizabeth Liederkranz Singing Society, a personally conducted tour to Buffalo and Niagara Falls. The trip will be taken next June and there will be 200 people in the party. The trip will be made in a special vestibuled train over the New Jersey Central to Scranton, thence by the Lehigh Valley to Niagara Falls.

THREATEN TO CUT WIRE

RAILROAD OFFICIALS PROMISE SUMMARY ACTION FOR TROLLEY CO.

Electricity Still Leaks at Watchung Avenue Bridge—Linemen and Police There.

Trouble of another nature may result now at any time from the escaping trolley current beneath the Watchung avenue bridge, which charges the depot dividing fence with electricity. The officials of the New Jersey Central have heretofore protested only by letter with the result that a new running board and better connections were installed. Now they assert the trouble is still there and yesterday men were sent to the bridge to cut the wire.

In some way the trolley people learned of their purpose and forestalled any action by placing guards all about the spot. The police were also informed that trouble was in the air and a couple of bluecoats were posted within sight of the structure. The two gangs met but beyond a heated pow-wow nothing was done.

It is the intention of the railroad people, however, to remove the obstruction by force unless all danger of escaping electricity is taken away. In the meantime the trolley people will guard the point at all times.

CHILDREN'S PARTY.

Guests Will Not be Young, But the Costumes Will—Arranged by the In and Out Club.

Another decidedly unique affair is to be given by the In and Out Club in the Park Club during the holidays which promises to be as successful an affair as the dance given by that club in the barn at the Barnaby estate Thanksgiving eve. On that occasion it was a barn dance but this time it will be a children's party at which all the members and those invited will appear in children's costumes. Invitations have already been issued for this event which promises to be equally as novel as the previous dance.

Those who have the affair in hand are Miss Charlotte F. Lowe, Mrs. L. E. Waring, Miss May Waring, Miss Florence Waring, Mrs. Clifford M. McGee, Miss Fanny C. Cox and Miss Helen Bushnell, and they are planning several novel features for the "party."

U. V. U. FAIR ENDS.

Total Receipts Amounts to Nearly $300—Winners of the Contests Were Announced.

After enjoying a successful run of seven nights, the fair of the Union Veterans' Union terminated last evening. A good crowd was in attendance and the total receipts were swelled to nearly $300. Almost all of the remaining articles on the booths were disposed of at good prices.

The contests were decided as follows: Wheel, Edward Townley; quilt, Miss Bertha Bennet; doll, Miss Mabel Perry; fascinator, Miss Madeline Edgar; ton of coal, Lewis Willet. The proper committees will hold a meeting in the near future when the exact amount cleared can be stated.

NEWARK IMPROVEMENTS.

Jersey Central is Building Bridge Over Pennsylvania Tracks.

After a delay of nearly six months the steel for the New Jersey Central's new bridge over Pennsylvania tracks at Newark has arrived and the work of putting the girders in place will now go on without interruption. The girders for the most easterly span are four in number and are about 110 feet long. Each weighs 160,000 pounds, and they are the longest single piece girders ever built. This bridge will have three tracks across it. The westerly span is constructed of girders ninety-eight feet in length and the work incident to placing them in position will proceed without interruption so long as the weather conditions permit.

LOTS OF COAL IN PLAINFIELD

Local Dealers Are Well Supplied, Although Household Sizes Are in Demand.

NO FAMINE FELT HERE

It is Estimated That Plainfield Has 4,000 Tons in Bins of Local Dealers and Lots More on the Way—The Trouble is in the Scarcity of Coal Cars.

A prominent railroad man said, when interviewed a few days ago, that the worst famine which has spread itself over this country in the midst of great prosperity is not the coal famine as is generally supposed, but a great scarcity of coal cars. The coal, he said, lies at the great railroad centers and at the mines waiting for the cars to take it away. Along the railroad tracks there are miles and miles of coal cars which are ladened with the precious fuel and are being rushed with all speed to the east.

In New York there is a most serious coal famine and the poor and rich alike are clamoring for the chunks of comfort while here in this city there seems to be plenty of it. Everywhere the once hideous sound of the coal sliding into bins through the grating in the sidewalk is to be heard with a musical effect on the ear for it means that as each lump slides into the recepticles it is so much stored up comfort during the winter month.

While other cities, not so fortunately situated along the embankments of a coal carrying railroad, are shivering in the chilly blasts of the cold winds of winter, Plainfield sits beside an open fireplace and rubs its hands with satisfaction at the thought that its coal bins are full and that the hearth throws out warmth which is not to be enjoyed by other cities.

According to the statement made yesterday afternoon by C. H. Rugg, one of the coal dealers in this city, there are about 4,000 tons of coal in this city at present and more coal is arriving here daily via the Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley Railroads direct from the coal fields. Every dealer has a good sized stock on hand and, while rushed to his utmost capacity, he is able to supply the demands of his customers to some extent.

Pea coal and furnace coal are more plentiful than the household variety such as is used in the stoves for cooking purposes. It seems to be the general opinion among coal dealers that the great demand for this size is a result of the usual custom of housekeepers to wait until the spring and summer for the lower prices, but when the prices did not lower last summer and it got to be fall and the coal strike was still unsettled, they found themselves in the uncomfortable position of facing a long, hard and cold winter without a full coal bin. With the partial settlement of the labor difficulties in the anthracite region there was a great clamoring for coal, which demand the dealers were unable to supply and therefore they drew on the mines for a greater supply of this size of coal than the breakers could supply. At present, however, the mine owners are confronted with the peculiar situation of having a large quantity of nut coal on hand but they have not the cars at hand to ship the commodity.

An idea of the exact condition of the coal situation in this city may be obtained from the statements made yesterday by the various coal dealers in this city.

Boice, Runyon & Company said, when asked if there was any likelihood of a famine in this city of the household sizes of coal, that there is no chance of such a dirth in the market as the railroads were rushing the product to this and other cities with all speed. They have a large supply of coal in their yards, of almost 200 tons and they have much more on the road.

The Consumers' Coal Company has about 2,000 tons in its yards and, that as far as another coal famine is concerned, a representative of that company ridiculed the idea and said that there is no likelihood of such a condition here. The company is having little difficulty in getting coal and is supplying the demands of its customers.

DeWitt C. Ivins, the Watchung avenue dealer, is well supplied with coal but he has been experiencing some de-

CHRISTMAS TREES.

First Shipment Arrived Yesterday and More Are Arriving Here Every Day.

The first shipment of Christmas trees arrived in this city yesterday morning consigned to the wholesale fruit dealers in this city. The supply, it is said by dealers in this city, is somewhat scarce this winter, but for the present prices will remain the same as they were last year. Small trees will sell for 35 cents but the average price will be about $1 for large sized trees.

Dealers say that it is difficult to secure enough cars to cart the trees to New York as all the railroad companies are using all the cars they can spare to ship coal in. Christmas greens are very plentiful, however, and many of the dealers have numbers of men and women in the mountains in and around Martinsville gathering the branches. Almost every local freight train which arrived in this city yesterday afternoon carried carloads of trees for this city.

STOREHOUSE OF GIFTS.

Powlison & Jones Are Well Prepared for Christmas Trade.

In anticipation of a large holiday trade, Powlison & Jones, of East Front street, have laid in the largest variety of furniture they ever had. Their immense building is a perfect storehouse of gifts, not only useful but ornamental. Standing out prominently are over 200 patterns of Morris chairs and rockers, either making one of the most acceptable Christmas gifts that could be thought of. In odd parlor chairs there are over 600 varieties. Women's desks, dressers, bureaus, couches and dining furniture are there without number, while whole suits for parlor or bedroom are especially featured. Until the holidays the store will be open evenings and all goods purchased will be retained until delivery is wanted.

WATCH-NIGHT SERVICE.

Will be Held at Trinity Reformed Church New Year's Eve.

At the Wednesday evening prayer meeting in Trinity Reformed church, December 31, the Christian Endeavor Society will join in a watch-night service which will commence at 11 o'clock. The lecture room of the church will be opened from the usual hour, 8 o'clock, for a general social time, to all who may desire to attend. Similar meetings have been held in this church for the past two years and they have been very helpful. The service this year will be conducted by some well-known Christian worker, and will no doubt be equally helpful.

CANDY FOR CHRISTMAS.

Fowler Has Just What is Needed for the Holidays.

What is Christmas without candy for both the young and old? When candy is purchased for the holidays it is very important to have it fresh and to know that it is made from the best of materials. Candy purchased at Fowler's, on East Front street, is always pure and at that store the very best assortments are kept on hand. French mixed, American mixed and broken candy is a specialty at Fowler's. His chocolate creams are well-known in this city for their delicious flavor and parents will do well to get their supplies at that store.

TWO VACANCIES.

Police Department Somewhat Crippled by Resignation and Illness.

With the acceptance of Patrolman Charles Gamo's resignation as a member of the local police force, there are now two vacancies existing in that department. It is also further crippled by the illness of Roundsman Mattox who has been detained at home for the past two wekes. The Common Council will in all probability make the necessary appointments at its next meeting.

Thirty-Seven Years of Service.

Baggagemaster George Townley at Elizabeth, on the New Jersey Central, has just completed thirty-seven years of service in his present position. His father held the position before him, being the first baggagemaster at that point on the line. Mr. Townley is very well known and popular with all who know him.

No Successor Chosen.

John P. Mosher, as business manager of the Sabbath-Recorder office, will resign his position January 1. As yet his successor has not been chosen. Mr. Mosher will devote all his time to the W. H. Rogers Corporation of which he is treasurer.

Special Christmas Exercises.

Special Christmas services will be held at the First M. E. church Sunday.

He is Chairman of Committee on Normal School Needs of State Teachers' Association—Reasons Why Newark Will Get School.

Superintendent Homer J. Wightman, superintendent of the North Plainfield High School, and who is also chairman of the committee on Normal School needs of State Teachers' Association, said this morning, when asked if there was any prospect of the proposed new Normal School locating in Plainfield if the State Board of Education decides to build another State institution of that kind, that it was very improbable that this city would get the school.

Newark, he said, will be the city to get the school because within a radius of ten miles there are no less than fifty large High Schools which graduate large numbers of pupils every year who would take a course in a Normal School if they could be near their homes. In Paterson, Passaic, and other cities not far from Newark the High School graduates who live in those cities could attend the school in Newark and go back and forth from their homes daily. The railroad transportation in and around Newark admits of this far better than the railroad facilities of this city.

Three Normal Schools are needed in this State, said Mr. Wightman, and if Newark gets the Normal School now talked of, Plainfield will in all probability get the third.

Mr. Wightman has sent his report to the State Board of Education and in it said that if the board wanted to have the original replies which have been received by Mr. Wightman in reply to his inquiries among instructors and other educational authorities in this State, he could send them to the board. Mr. Wightman intends to see one of the members of the board and present to him the necessity of another Normal School in this State. The committee of the State board is also the committee in the State Legislature and one of these will be seen and the situation will be presented to him in detail. The need of a third State Normal School will be pointed out to him at that time.

FAREWELL SERMON.

Dr. H. K. Carroll Soon to Leave for South America.

Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, who has preached at the Grace M. E. church in the borough on several occasions while the evangelistic services were being conducted there, is able to leave for South America and on Sunday morning he will preach a farewell sermon to the congregation of that church. Dr. Carroll was one of the founders of the church and was for a number of years its pastor. He will spend three months traveling among the missionary settlements in that land, during which time he will visit the Venezuelan Republic where the eyes of the world are turned at present.

Suing Trolley Company.

The suit of Mrs. Bonnell against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company will be called at the next term of court at Elizabeth. Mrs. Bonnell is represented by Lawyer R. M. Clark and is suing the company for $5,000 damages for injuries claimed to have been received riding in a car at Elizabeth some time ago.

Sermon to Young People.

Rev. Dr. E. L. Earp will preach a special sermon Sunday evening at the Grace M. E. church on Park place which will be of special interest to young people. Renewed interest has been taken in the services at the church since the revivals and the attendance at all the services has been very gratifying to the pastor.

Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

B. F. Knowles, of New York, will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when the young men of this city are requested to be present. George E. Garretson, of New York, will render handbell solos during the meeting.

WESTFIELD AT CRANFORD

ANOTHER SERIES OF GAMES IN PRESS BOWLING LEAGUE TONIGHT.

Last Year's Champions Go to Cranford for Series of Three—Park's Prospects.

Another series of games in The Daily Press Bowling League will be rolled this evening on the alleys of the Cranford Casino between the teams from that club and the Westfield Club. This will be the second appearance for both the Westfield and Cranford contingents, both having met the Parks. Westfield rolled on its own alleys and took three straight while Cranford came here and captured two out of the series of three with the Parks. Westfield's showing was by far the better of the two and that club ought to capture at least two of the games tonight.

Roselle Casino's team has twice postponed its matches and has not yet rolled any games in the league so there is more or less uncertainty as to what will be Roselle's strength this winter. Two years Roselle won the trophy and last year was only beaten by the Westfields by very little, tying Westfield in the series and only losing in the extra game. Unless some of the postponed games are arranged for this or next week, Roselle will not be seen in any league contests until after the holidays when it is scheduled to meet Westfield at Roselle, Tuesday, January 6.

Captain William R. Faber, of the Park Club, is rather discouraged over the showing his team has made. He has had all kinds of trouble in getting his men out for out-of-town games and may, in some cases, have to default. All the games scheduled to be rolled in his city will be played as there are enough of the Park bowlers who are willing to roll at home.

SPLIT HIS NOSE.

A. E. Barclay Slipped on the Ice and Fell on the Pavement With Rather Unusual Results.

A. E. Barclay, a well-known New York broker, who lives at Mrs. Truell's on Central avenue, met with a very painful and somewhat peculiar accident, this morning. Mr. Barclay was hurrying from his home to the railroad station to catch a train, and when on West Fourth street, near the Lincoln building, he slipped on some ice and fell forward. His face struck the pavement with sufficient force to completely split his nose from the top to the end.

He was accompanied by a friend, who immediately secured a carriage and had Mr. Barclay taken to Dr. Endicott's office. There the proper treatment was given, after which the injured man was taken home. The injury is not a serious one and in a short time Mr. Barclay will be able to return to business. Between the time of the accident and the arrival at Dr. Endicott's office, the amount of blood lost was considerable and a nervous shock was sustained. Mr. Barclay and his family have been residents at Mrs. Truell's home for some time past.

CHANGED TO WEDDING.

Instead of Deciding in a Criminal Case, Justice Huff Wedded Them.

Through her father, Charles Burns, of Spooner avenue, Miss Annie Burns preferred a serious charge against John Bishop, of the same thoroughfare, before Justice Huff, yesterday. Bishop was arrested in the afternoon and arraigned last night, but proceedings were dropped through his consenting to marry the girl. The ceremony was performed by Justice Huff. Bishop's age according to the complaint is placed at thirty-four years while that of the girl is given as less than sixteen

DON'T FORGET HIM.

W. W. Warnock Should Not be Lost Sight of at Christmas Time.

In looking about for Christmas goods don't lose sight of the fact that W. W. Warnock makes a feature of supplying anything in the candy, confectionery or fancy goods line. His display of chocolates for this season's trade is unparalleled. Nowhere in the city are raisin cake or New Year's cake made better than at Warnock's and he is now taking orders. And don't forget that Warnock's is the place where you get the proper kind of mince and pumpkin pies.

Discuss Missions.

At the meeting of the Boys' Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue church, this afternoon, there will be a discussion of the subjects: "Syria," and "How our missionaries celebrate Christmas."

IONA COUNCIL MARKED ITS TENTH BIRTHDAY

And at the Same Time Gave a Reception to the New Great Pocohontas.

WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

GREAT CHIEFS OF DEGREE OF POCOHONTAS AND RED MEN THERE.

Delegates From Many Neighboring Councils and the Local Tribes—Great Pocohontas Mrs. L. Holstein Received a Fine Present.

In an appropriate and pleasing manner the tenth anniversary of Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, was observed at Democratic headquarters, last evening, and at the same time a reception was tendered to Great Pocohontas Mrs. Lavinia Holstein, who is a member of Iona Council. There were present representatives from Nenemoosha Council, Elizabeth; Armista Council, Jersey City; Mohawk Council, Perth Amboy, and Bright Eye Council, Carteret, besides members of Miantonomo and Wetumpkah Tribe, Improved Order Red Men, of this city.

In addition to these there were present the following great chiefs of the Degree of Pocohontas: Great Wenonah Mrs. Estella B. Ragan, of Paterson; Great Minnehaha Mrs. Ray Wardell, of Jersey City; Past Great Pocohontas Mrs. VanHouten, of Manasquan; Great Keeper of Records Mrs. Sarah Rellstab, of Trenton. Of the Great Board of Great Chiefs of the Red Men, the following were present: Great Chief of Records Daniel M. Stevens, of Camden; Great Keeper of Wampum W. J. Smyth, of Long Branch; Great Mishinewa F. E. Leonard, of Morristown; and Past Great Sachem William Newcorn, of this city.

Mr. Newcorn was master of ceremonies and he took charge of the programme, which he opened with a pleasant introductory speech in his own happy style. In recounting the benefits of being a member of the Degree of Pocohonas, as well as the Red Men, he took occasion to refer to the successes of Iona Council, which was organized ten years ago. Today there is a membership of sixty, all very active and working for the growth of the council. During its existence the council has disbursed $2,500 in sick benefits and the membership in the State is 3,000.

Following these remarks, Past Great Pocohontas Mrs. VanHouten, of Manasquan, gave a reading. The Great Pocohontas was then called upon and in a few words congratulated Iona Council and expressed her appreciation for the noble work done in the past and for the honor conferred upon her.

Other features of the programme included a piano duet by Miss Kittie Finger and Miss Tessie Casenove; recitations by Miss Josie Murphy and Miss Ada Westphal, and every one of the Board of Great Chiefs of both the Degree of Pocohontas and Red Men were called upon and made a short address, in which Iona Council and the Great Pocohontas came in for a good share of congratulation and well-wishes. Each one of the chiefs of the Degree of Pocohontas was remembered with a handsome bouquet of flowers.

Toward the close of the programme there was a surprise. Mrs. Holstein was escorted to the platform, where Mr. Newcorn, on behalf of the members of Iona Council, presented her with a handsome solid silver tea service. The presentation was made with a few well chosen words and was happily responded to by Mrs. Holstein, who was completely surprised. She thanked one and all for the magnificent gift. Later Mrs. Holstein received a gift of a bureau scarf from the Great Wenonah.

After the programme dancing followed, music for which was furnished by Eugene O'Reilly's orchestra. During the evening refreshments were served under the direction of the following committee: Mrs. Charles Dodwell, chairman; Miss Daisy Snyder, Mrs. Nimrod Horton, Mrs. Anna Fisher and Miss Mamie Clark. This committee arranged the celebration and reception and was accorded much praise for its efforts.

Election at Franklin Council.

An important meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be held this evening when officers will be elected. The members' attention is called to the change in the time of election.

ANOTHER SWITCH.

Jersey Central Considering Establishment of One on South Side, Just West of Park Avenue.

Negotiations are now underway with the Jersey Central Railroad to put in a switch from the main tracks of the railroad to connect with the feed and grain bins of VanZandt & Voorhees, whose grainery adjoins the tracks.

The application has been made by the company through the owners of the property, Boice, Runyon & Company, and the final answer of the railroad company is expected almost every day.

At present the consignments of grain have to be carted from the railroad cars to the grainery entailing a great loss of time and money as by the side track the grain could be shifted in the cars over the bins by means of a tressel and dumped into them without any loss of time. It is probable that if the tressle is built the office of Hoagland's Express Company will have to be moved to another location.

NEEDS OF HOME.

Gifts That Would be Particularly Acceptable at Children's Home.

The Christmas tree at the Children's Home will be lighted Wednesday afternoon, December 31, at 4 o'clock, at which time friends of the home are cordially invited to be present. Among the list of articles needed for the tree are shoes and rubbers for children from three to thirteen years of age, stockings for children from five to seven and eleven to thirteen years of age, knee pants, mittens, scarfs, blouse waists for boys, undervests and drawers, handkerchiefs, gingham, outing flannel, unbleached muslin for sheets, one and a-half yards wide, and pillow slips. There are fourteen boys and eleven girls in the home.

"THIS UNUSUAL STORE."

There Are Christmas Gifts to be Found There Too.

"This unusual store," is the way people refer to the Oriental store on West Front street. P. G. DuBois, the proprietor, has purchased a fine assortment of oriental goods for the holidays and you will be surprised to learn how many suitable things can be found at this store for Christmas gifts. Space would not permit enumeration, but a visit to the store will be a delight and pleasure. The prices are exceedingly reasonable. Mr. DuBois cordially invites all to visit him and see the hundreds of pretty things on sale.

DON'T FORGET HIM.

Wirth, the Baker, is Good Man to Remember at Christmas Time.

Fancy kisses and other cakes are always to be found at the bakery of John Wirth, on West Front street, during the holidays and, this year with an increased force of bakers, he is thoroughly prepared for the Christmas and New Year's trade. Fancy cakes, New Year cakes and Scotch cakes may be purchased fresh from this bakery at all times. Mr. Wirth is prepared to fill large private orders, at short notice, for the holiday. Fancy cakes, made in figures, are made fresh every day at this bakery.

HOLIDAY DISPLAY.

Attractive One Made by Campbell's Confectionary Store.

One of the attractive holiday displays can be seen at Campbell's confectionery store on West Front street. In his window there is a large assortment of candied fruits, confections of all kinds together with innumerable things for Christmas tree decorations. Campbell's stock of candy is large and it being home-made and absolutely pure there is a great demand for it. Orders for the holdiay season will be promptly filled.

No Change in Rates.

Manager E. W. Mills, of the United States Express Company, in reply to an inquiry concerning the increase in express rates, says that there has been no increase over those fixed last summer. On certain kinds of merchandise a rate and a-half is charged owing to increased risk. This includes goods carelessly wrapped and liable to damage in transportation. Aside from that, Mr. Mills says, there has been no change in the rates.

Christmas Entertainment.

The Christmas entertainment at the Seventh-Day Baptist church will be held in the church parlors Monday evening, December 29, under the auspices of the Sunday-school.

—Delicious table and cooking apples are a feature at Neuman Brothers for the holiday trade. They will be sold at special prices for the next two weeks.

GAY TIME AT COUNTRY DANCE

Never to be Forgotten Was the Inital Effort of the Pad and Pencil Club.

HALL WAS CROWDED

Such An Assortment as Accepted the Hospitality of the Pad and Pencil Club Was Never Seen Before—Some of the Most Remarkable Ones—Just Off the Farm.

From the highways and the byways, the "gals" and "fellars" trooped in last evening to be the guests of the Pad and Pencil Club at the country dance which marked that organization's first plunge into the social swim. In all the annals of local newspaperdom, there was never anything like it. The guests, from the uncouth farmer's boy to the grand dame of the eighteenth century, who drifted in to see how it was done in the twentieth century, all declared that their fleeting glimpse of country life in "Pencil"vania was the event of a lifetime.

It had been arranged to have either Julian Ralph or Richard Harding Davis prepare the reports for the local papers so that the public might get a faint idea of the greatness of it all but word was received at the last moment that neither of them could be present and the duty of chronicling the events of the night fell to the more humble users of the pad and pencil who managed to survive last night's ordeal. Words can but inadequately picture the remarkable array of "rubes" who assembled at the I. C. T. Club rooms where the country dance was held. Their wives, sisters and sweethearts had deserted their duties in garden and dairy as well and flocked about, pictures, every one of them, of grace and happiness. The room itself was bedecked in true rustic style, the pillars in the centre being hidden away by shocks of corn and stacks of wheat, the ceiling and walls receiving their share of the country products.

At one end was Suhr's Possom Hollow orchestra, as strange a collection of beings as you might wish to see, all perched upon barrels. But greatest of them all was Kenneth Stewart, whose bald pate shone in the gas light as he fiddled away and smiled genially upon the crowd, each smile displaying an apparently almost toothless jaw. Morris Sorensen, Charles Suhr and Frank Manchester were the other occupants of the barrels. Very realistic was this part of the dance.

Before obtaining entry to this remarkable gathering, it was first necessary to run the gauntlet of a keen-eyed bearded constable, who had a voice much like that of the manager of Hope's baseball team, John H. Cose. Safely past him, it was a host of jollity unconfined that came to view and drifted back and forth in the measured rythym of the more modern round dance or the hilarious dash and whirl of the country square dance. But the greatest part of it all was the collection of characters who assembled at the bidding of the Pad and Pencil Club.

While all the costumes were good, there were some that wandered slightly from the path of the true "Reuben" and bedecked themselves in outlandish fashion. They served to add to the motley throng. An excellent team were George L. Apgar and Charles Peterson, who struck town early in the evening, and wandered along the middle of West Front street and Park avenue, huge valises in hand, inquiring the way to the I. C. T. rooms. A troop of delighted small boys followed in their train. Once in the hall, they furnished more amusement. Both promptly fell in love with "Polly Vance," a dashing damsel with curling, bobbing locks and such a coy manner. She was decidedly the hit of the evening. By a strange coincidence, she disappeared later in the evening just before Thomas Muir made his appearance, mopping his brow.

Another great admirer of the fair Polly's was V. W. Nash, Jr., in a costume wonderful to behold. It was very evident that he had abandoned the plow but a moment before. The rustic Beau Brummel, some said it was Allen E. Beals, skipped about the floor, made sweeping bows, doffed his straw hat and waved the tails of his linen duster to the accompaniment of fluttering hearts on every side. Erwin

PERFECT
Tooth Powder
AN ELEGANT TOILET LUXURY.
Used by people of refinement for over a quarter of a century

LITERARY.

For the thoughtful provider of Christmas gifts a remembrance whose value and interest do not pass with the day is by far the most satisfactory for giver and receiver. A year's subscription to a magazine—such a magazine as The Century, with its wealth of art and literature—costs no more than bon-bons or flowers, gone in a few hours, gives days of profitable pleasure, and keeps warm and bright through twelve months the cheer of a sympathetic friend's gracious thought. Attractive little certificates of subscription are provided to carry with the giver's card the Christmas message.

Father and mother are never at a loss what to give the girls and boys at Christmas-time; but the question is a sadly bothering one to bachelor uncles and friends of the family. They are willing to go down into their pockets generously; but they hate the crowds of the shops, dread the patronage of clerks, and gladly end the torture by quickly carrying off a gorgeous toy automobile for the niece who is at the beaux and clothes age, and a big box of colored candies for the little nephew who is never allowed to taste sweets. Good St. Nicholas is the patron saint of just these forlorn blundering buyers and the friend of every girl and boy in the land. Good St. Nicholas can promise more jolly times to the lucky girls and boys he visits than all the other saints in the calendar. Three dollars will buy a year's subscription of St. Nicholas Magazine for a year and a handsome big certificate of the subscription to go in the stocking or on the Christmas tree.

The special edition of the Scientific American, devoted to Transportation on Land and Sea, cannot fail to attract widespread interest, both because of the very handsome manner in which it is gotten up and on account of the voluminous amount of information that it contains. It is safe to say that anyone that reads it carefully through will find himself thoroughly posted both as to the magnitude and high quality of our railroads and shipping. The Scientific American has its own characteristic way of presenting what some people might call day statistical matter in an interesting form, and the present number is no exception to the rule. Both artist and editor have collaborated to certainly very good effect, and we believe the number will meet everywhere with a hearty reception.

The New York Tribune Review.

The Tribune Review is a handsome sixteen page weekly issued by The New York Tribune Association. It costs five cents a copy, but may be had for a whole year for $1. There is no other such publication sold anywhere for the money. It gives the essence of the week's news, with clean cut, sane and intelligent comment, and it keeps you up to date on everything worth knowing in politics (domestic and foreign) and in literature, art and music. For free sample send a postal card to The Tribune, New York.

Social and Supper.

The members of Columbia Lodge, No. 58, Ancient Order United Workmen, will hold a social meeting and give a supper tomorrow evening, at 8 o'clock, in Exempt Firemen's Hall. The committee in charge consists of J. W. A. Bauersachs, Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, Charles S. Wilson, John G. Bicknell and Henry Liefke.

The Holiday Celebration.

The Christmas service at the First Presbyterian church will be held Sunday, December 28, when an elaborate programme will be presented under the auspices of the Sunday-school. The Christmas entertainment will be held between Christmas and New Year's.

To Reorganize Whist Club.

The Fortnightly Whist Club will meet this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Smith, on Madison avenue, for reorganization. After that time the club will meet regularly throughout the winter season.

Let me say I have used Ely's Cream Balm for catarrh and can thoroughly recommend it for what it claims. Very truly, (Rev.) H. W. Hathaway, Elizabeth, N. J.

I tried Ely's Cream Balm and to all appearances am cured of catarrh. The terrible headaches from which I long suffered are gone.—W. J. Hitchcock, late Major U. S. Vol. and A. A. Gen., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Balm does not irritate or cause sneezing. Sold by druggists at 50 cts. or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., New York.

THEATRICAL.

For ten days beginning Monday and ending December 25, the Madison Square Garden, New York, is being devoted to the Novelty Exhibition, unique of its kind, where almost every kind of exhibit, representing many important industries of this country and abroad, is found.

In reality it is a mammoth Christmas bazaar. More than two hundred exhibitors have acquired all the available floor space in the arena suitable for exhibition purposes. A feature is being made of the entertainment part. Many novelties of special interest and appropriate to Christmas time are on view and are of unusual interest to children.

Among those may be mentioned the largest Christmas tree ever seen in New York. It is erected in the centre of the Garden and lighted by thousands of colored incandescent electric lights, producing a most brilliant and striking effect.

The second week of the existence of the Circle Theatre, New York, under the management of the enterprising Herbert & Etherington proved all that they could desire. They are delighted with their immediate success and Miss Bijou Fernandez, the leading woman of the Herbert Stock Company, and the members of the company should feel exceedingly happy by reason of the cordial reception they have been nightly receiving. Miss Fernandez who was always popular has won immediate favor as a bright particular star. Her work in "Jane" was greeted with roars as her part in "Aristocracy" was greeted with the plaudits of the big houses that witnessed that production.

The Circle is the hit of the city and the policy of the management in changing the bill weekly is commended everywhere as is the prices 25 and 50 cents for which sums any one can obtain the best reserved seats.

This week, the pretty play, "Young Miss Winthrop" is the attraction. It is put on in a most elaborate style, new costumes, scenery, etc., having been secured. Matinees will be given Wednesdays and Saturdays.

CHARMING PLEASURE PLACE.

Such is Lakewood, Which is Now High in Popular Favor.

Few winter resorts have the equal of Lakewood's advantages which are primarily, location, climate and surroundings. At the end of a ninety minute railroad journey you reach Lakewood. The winter home of fashion, culture and society. Fine roads in several directions lead to the hotels and cottages of the latter, of which there are many, and the life of their occupants is as merry as can be.

The climate at Lakewood is at least 10 degrees milder than at New York or Philadelphia, and by its situation in New Jersey's famous pine belt there is an exhilarating healthfulness found no where else on the Atlantic coast. The hotels are metropolitan in every sense and every convenience imaginable is found there including Sun Parlors, Palm Gardens, Artistic Tea and Music Rooms, and a wonderful appointed cuisine. There are innumerable opportunities for outdoor life and sports like pony polo, golf, cross country riding, coaching and automobiling are indulged in.

The only road to Lakewood from New York is the New Jersey Central and its express service is such that many New York business men travel daily between Lakewood and New York. To know about Lakewood write C. M. Burt, G. P. A., New Jersey Central, New York City, for book on New Jersey's pines, etc., free for the asking. c

IN CAPITAL CITY.

This is Just the Season of the Year to Visit Washington.

The Nation's Capital is a city idolized by every American, and his one thought when arranging for a traveling tour is to visit it. There is no other place in any land which can compare with Washington, it is cosmopolitan yet in a way different from New York, London or Paris. To start with the system by which the city was planned is unique. Its public buildings are in their architectural designs grand and imposing. The streets are wide, finely kept thoroughfares, unlike those of any other city. Washington boasts of a park system second to none, and its every environ bespeaks such grandeur as is due the Nation's Capital. The government buildings are wonderful mines of instructive and interesting material and Congress is the mecca for the tourist who delights in watching and listening to the proceedings of the greatest governing body known to the world.

This early winter season is the most delightful time for visiting Washington and an admirable opportunity for such a trip is afforded on December 29, when the New Jersey Central is going to run a low rate excursion to Washington. For further information write W. C. Walsh, Jr., Broad street, Newark, or C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New Jersey Central, New York. c

SESSION WAS LIVELY

Operators Open Their Case Before Commission.

RECOGNITION OF UNION NOT AN ISSUE

Counsel For Coal Companies Makes This Point In Opening Address. Unfairness of Wage Statements Shown by New Testimony.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 18.—The anthracite coal operators opened their side of the controversy with the mine workers yesterday before the strike commission, and the attorneys who are on record before the commission as representing the nonunion men, who have been admitted to the arbitration scheme, began calling witnesses. The sessions were probably the liveliest yet held by the commission.

At the morning session the miners' lawyers challenged the fairness of certain wage statements handed to the commission by the Pennsylvania Coal company, and in the afternoon Lawyer Darrow had a spirited discussion with Chairman Gray as to whether or not the miners had a right to know who is paying the lawyers representing the nonunion men before the commission. Mr. Darrow asserted that they were employed by the coal operators.

Preceding this Simon P. Wolverton, counsel for the Reading company, who delivered the opening address on behalf of all the large coal companies, made the point in his address that the recognition of the union is not an issue before the commission, which brought out a protest from Mr. Darrow. The latter claimed that if it were not then the operators should be forbidden from presenting testimony that tended to show the union was responsible for all the alleged violence committed during the strike.

The alleged unfairness of the wage statements came to the notice of the commission as a result of its inquiry into the child labor question in this vicinity. Several little girls testified on Monday that they worked all night in a silk mill in order to help their fathers along, who were employed in the mines and received poor pay. Tuesday Everett Warren, who represents the Erie company, which controls the Pennsylvania Coal company, in whose mines some of these fathers worked, handed to the commission a memorandum showing that one father last year received about $1,400 for himself and laborer and that the other father received $1,600 for himself and laborer.

At the opening of the session yesterday the miners placed the two parents on the stand, and they swore that the earnings mentioned were divided among from four to six men. This testimony surprised the commissioners, and Judge Gray asked if the figures on the memorandum were taken from the wage statement already filed by the company with the commission, and Mr. Warren replied in the affirmative.

Chairman Gray then requested counsel for the company to indicate in its statement handed up whether the figures given are for one, two or more men.

"We don't say it shakes our faith in the statement," he continued. "Unless you can show, however, that there are none of these cases, such as are suggested by this testimony, it will very materially shake our faith in it."

The company, through its general manager, W. A. May, was permitted to make a statement. He said: "The Pennsylvania Coal company has two systems, one where four men work in a place and known as a four handed place, and another in which there are only two men and known as a two handed place. There may be places where only one man works, and there may be places where there are four men working, but the fact is not known to the company itself. The company does not keep a record of the individuals in a contract or the number. It only keeps the name of the man in whose name the place is run."

Absorbed by the Steel Trust.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 18.—A large force of laborers who have been working to put in readiness for resumption the great Breaker Island steel plant, formerly the property of the Troy Steel company, have been advised that their services are no longer needed. It was announced last evening that the plant had been purchased by the United States Steel corporation for $1,500,000 and that in all probability the works will not be operated.

Chinese Cities Besieged.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 18.—Mail advices from Changking, in the Szechuen province, China, report that both the cities of Meichou and Kiatingfu have had their gates closed and a state of siege declared, owing to the numerous bodies of armed Boxers in their vicinity, it being feared by the officials that the insurgents may take the cities by surprise. Troops were sent to raise the siege of the two cities, but failed.

A Seizure of Diamonds.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Special Agent J. F. Evans, stationed at El Paso, Tex., has reported to the secretary of the treasury the seizure at El Paso of diamonds said to be worth $24,000 and which it is claimed were smuggled from England via New York. The jewels have been placed in the custody of the collector of customs at El Paso pending a hearing of the case.

VENEZUELA TO YIELD

Decision Reached to Submit to Arbitration.

CITIZENS PETITION THE PRESIDENT

A Meeting In Caracas to Discuss Ways and Means For Paying Obligations—Blockade of La Guayra In Force.

CARACAS, Dec. 18.—It has been decided that the Venezuelan difficulty shall be arbitrated, and the discussion of terms of settlement is now going on. United States Minister Bowen undoubtedly will be one of the arbitrators.

The government fears that coercive measures will follow the establishment of the blockade.

The leading citizens of Caracas have addressed a joint note to President Castro asking him to give full powers to United States Minister Bowen to effect a termination of the present difficulty.

This note was transmitted to President Castro at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. It is signed by all the leading merchants, bankers and agriculturists of Caracas. It reflects truly the consensus of current opinion among the business element of this city. The men who signed the note met again last night to discuss ways and means of obtaining money with which Venezuela can meet her obligations, as well as the guarantees which it will be possible to offer to her creditors. The note is as follows:

"To the President of the United States of Venezuela:

"Sir—The undersigned having met with the purpose of offering their aid to the government of Venezuela in the present conflicting situation which has been created by the aggressive attitude of Germany and Great Britain, and upon your request to give our opinions in writing we address you in the following terms:

"In view of the acts of violence already committed and of the absolute impotence of Venezuela to meet force with force in response to the allied action of Germany and Great Britain, in view of the fact that Venezuela has exhausted all the means required by civilization and diplomacy to put an end to the present situation and the government and the people of Venezuela having complied honorably and worthily to the demands of national honor, we consider, with all due respect, that the moment to yield to force has arrived.

"We therefore respectfully recommend that full powers be given to the minister of the United States of North America authorizing him to carry out proper measures to terminate the present conflict in the manner least prejudicial to the interests of Venezuela.

"We subscribe ourselves your obedient servants J. E. Linares, H. L. Boulton, Carlos Santana, Nicomedes Zuloaga, Carlos Zuloaga, F. de Sales, Perez & Montauban, M. Chapellin, Juan Herera, Juan A. A. Traviesa, Y. de J. Paul."

In addition to the names given the note is signed by about 200 other prominent citizens of Caracas.

The blockade of La Guayra, notification of which in the names of Great Britain and Germany was communicated to the Venezuelan government Dec. 13, went into effect yesterday. The order applies to Venezuelan vessels only.

ARBITRATION PLANS.

Government Sends Aid to Minister Bowen, Who Is Overworked.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Officials here are not surprised at the feeling which has manifested itself in Caracas of a desire to seek a termination of the unfortunate situation that now confronts Venezuela. Our government is anxious that some settlement may be found very soon, as it is realized that the present conditions cannot last long without a climax being reached quickly. With this end in view the state department already has given permission to Minister Bowen to be the bearer of any messages that Venezuela may wish to transmit to the allies on the subject of the present difficulties, such request, however, to come from the Venezuelan government. He already has been instrumental in one capacity—namely, that of transmitting a desire on the part of President Castro to settle the existing controversy by arbitration. Whether the minister would be permitted to perform the larger function of exercising full powers toward effecting a termination of the difficulty is not stated. Indeed it would be questionable whether such an arbiter as the American minister would be acceptable to the allies in view of the natural proclivities which he might have in favor of American countries.

So far as can be ascertained here no reply has come to the state department in answer to the requests of President Castro that the pending claims be submitted to arbitration.

The following cablegram has been sent by the navy department to Admiral Dewey, in command of the combined fleets, addressed to San Juan: "Send competent officer with dispatch in torpedo boat destroyer or other vessel to Caracas as assistant to American minister."

The following cablegram also was sent to Commander Diehl of the Marietta, now lying at La Guayra: "Send Vandusen (executive officer of the Marietta) as assistant to the American minister temporarily."

It is stated at the navy department that one reason for sending the officers to Caracas was the fact that Mr. Bowen is almost overwhelmed with the amount of work imposed upon him by his many charges. He has nearly all of the English residents in Caracas domiciled in the American legation and is feeding them from his own table. As for the torpedo boat destroyer, it is pointed out that it will serve as a dispatch boat to keep Mr. Bowen in touch with the nearest cable station to La Guayra, which can be relied upon to transmit messages to Washington in case the La Guayra cable is cut as an incident to the blockade.

NO "PEACE BLOCKADE."

Premier Balfour States England's Position In Venezuelan Matter.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—"If the seizure of Venezuelan gunboats does not result as we all hope, it will be necessary to proceed to a blockade."

In the speech in the house of commons during which Premier Balfour made the above statement he conveyed the impression of possible, though as yet unnecessary, further hostilities or that even arbitration on some basis might be accepted.

Immediately after having spoken these words the premier said that in the event of a blockade no difference would be made between the ships of neutral powers, who would not be consulted. He then ridiculed the idea of a peaceful blockade. When he said "I think it quite likely that the United States government would not think there is such a thing as a pacific blockade, and I personally take the same view that evidently a blockade does involve a state of war," the house expressed its approbation.

Throughout the discussion the tenor of the questions and answers showed regard for the views of the United States. Mr. Balfour assured the house that the papers in the Venezuelan matter were in course of being prepared as rapidly as possible, and, answering a question by Sir William Vernon Harcourt, he said they would include the communications with reference to Venezuela that had passed between his majesty's government and the United States. Sir William Vernon Harcourt asked this question "so we may know how we stand with reference to the government of the United States."

Premier Balfour gave no hint to the house as to the ultimate result of the arbitration proposal, and nothing further in this respect has been given out at the foreign office.

Italian Cruiser Ordered to Venezuela

ROME, Dec. 18.—The Italian cruiser Agordat has been ordered to proceed at once for Venezuela. The rejection by Venezuela of the Italian ultimatum was expected, consequently the announcement that this had been done created no sensation and no surprise. Frequent communications have been exchanged between Italy, Great Britain and Germany on the question of arbitration. The friendly attitude of the United States is particularly appreciated here. Opinion generally favors arbitration, although it is understood that Great Britain and Germany are the leaders in the matter by reason of their heavier claims and their priority of action.

Belgium's Claims.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 18.—The Belgian claims against Venezuela amount to several million francs. They arise chiefly from the nonpayment of interest on Venezuelan government bonds issued as purchase money for the waterworks at Caracas, which was promoted by a Belgian company.

Sympathetic Strike Closes Mill.

RUMFORD FALLS, Me., Dec. 18.—The Oxford Paper company has been forced to suspend work in its mills here because of a sympathetic strike, for which 600 employees were called out. This action followed a strike of 150 employees of the finishing and cutting departments who as members of the United Brotherhood of Paper Makers of America demanded the discharge of a nonunion employee, giving as their reason that he had become obnoxious to them.

Negroes Leaving South Bend.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 18.—Four shootings and one murder, in which negroes took part, have been followed not only by closing clubs and saloons conducted by negroes, but many colored people are leaving the city. They are afraid to stay here on account of a feeling against them among the white people. The negroes say they cannot get food and service at the restaurants, although they have the money to pay for it.

Earthquake In Turkestan.

ASHKABAD, Russian Turkestan, Dec. 18.—The town of Andijan (Ferghana government) has been totally destroyed by an earthquake. The number of fatalities is not yet ascertained. The population is threatened with starvation. Shocks were felt in New Margbelan and surrounding villages, and a railway at Andijan was destroyed for a considerable distance. Food and clothing are being sent to Andijan.

Swindlers Punished.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 18.—In the United States district court here Rev. T. Bright, one of the parties implicated in the Cherry Tree swindle, was sentenced to four months in jail and to pay a fine of $1,000. Others implicated in the swindle were fined $1,000. The women who were victimized to the extent of $10,000 will not recover a dollar of their money.

Japanese Steamer Wrecked.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 18.—The steamer Nagata Maru of Yokohama was wrecked during a storm forty miles from Taku, in Shangtung province, on Nov. 20. The 700 Chinese passengers and crew were safely landed.

TO FIGHT THE TRUSTS

House Votes $500,000 to Enforce Sherman Act.

NOT A DISSENTING VOICE HEARD.

Amendment of Congressman Hepburn Attached to Legislative Appropriation Bill—Senate Votes $139,847,000 For Pensions.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Mr. Bartlett, a Georgia Democrat, during consideration of the legislative appropriation bill in the house yesterday unexpectedly and without warning sprang an amendment to appropriate $250,000 to enforce the Sherman antitrust law and to direct the attorney general to proceed to the prosecution of all violators of the law. Although such a provision was plainly amenable to a point of order, not a member on either side of the house raised objection. Both sides wheeled into line, and all agreed that some such action was advisable. Some of the Republicans, however, raised objection to the looseness of the language of the amendment, and Mr. Hepburn (Ia.) offered as a substitute for it the language of the bill he introduced on the opening day of the session to appropriate $500,000 for the enforcement of the law. This was further strengthened to make the appropriation immediately available, and as amended the substitute was agreed to without division. The legislative bill was passed practically as it came from the committee except for the amendment. Jan. 31 at 3 o'clock was fixed as the time for holding the exercises in connection with the acceptance of the statues of Charles Carroll and John Hansen, Maryland's contribution to statuary hall.

The language of the Hepburn amendment as adopted is as follows:

"That for the enforcement of the provisions of the act of July 2, 1890, the sum of $500,000 is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not heretofore appropriated to be expended under the direction of the attorney general in the employment of special counsel and agents of the department of justice to conduct proceedings, suits and prosecutions under said acts in the courts of the United States; provided, that no person shall be prosecuted or be subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter or thing concerning which he may testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, in any proceeding, suit or prosecution under said acts; provided further, that no person so testifying shall be exempt from prosecution or punishment for perjury committed in so testifying. This appropriation shall be immediately available."

The senate passed the pension appropriation bill without discussion. It carries $139,847,000. An urgent deficiency bill also was passed. The amount carried by this bill is $1,140,400 and includes an item of $500,000 to enable the secretary of agriculture to stamp out the foot and mouth disease which has become epidemic in the New England states.

The militia bill was up for a short time, Mr. Bacon (Ga.) continuing his remarks against the constitutionality of the provision for a reserve force of trained men.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Dec. 18.—Baltimore and Ohio passenger train No. 2, eastbound, from St. Louis, was derailed near Oakland, Md. Mrs. David P. Miller of Cumberland and Miss Maude E. Pope of Baltimore were probably fatally injured and a number of others more or less seriously hurt. A broken rail is believed to have been the cause of the accident.

Drowned In Molten Metal.

LEBANON, Pa., Dec. 18.—Oscar Bender and George Focht met horrible deaths at the North Lebanon furnaces of the American Iron and Steel company. The men were engaged in filling a cupola. Bender was overcome by gas and fell in, when Focht, in trying to save him, met the same fate. The furnaces were at once shut down for the night.

THE COAL SITUATION.

That there is a scarcity of coal in and around New York, no one denies. It also seems a fact that there is more or less coal in the yards and pockets of the great railroads which naturally supply New York. An entirely wrong construction has been placed on the facts by several of the sensational newspapers. They claim that the railroads are deliberately tying up the coal and are making no effort to get it to market when, as a matter of fact, the railroad companies are using every energy to push the shipment of coal as fast as possible.

Severe cold and snow materially interfere with the shipment of coal. The coal becomes frozen in the cars and can only be dumped with great difficulty. In other ways does winter delay the forwarding of fuel. Then, too, there is trouble in getting cars enough at the mines to carry the commodity in question to the seaboard.

Plainfield is fortunate enough to be on two direct lines from the coal mines. The Jersey Central Railroad passes right though the city while the Lehigh Valley is only a few miles away and can reach this city by transferring to the tracks of the Jersey Central at Bound Brook. Enterprise on the part of the local dealers seems to have put this city in a position far more desirable than most of its neighbors. There is coal here, an abundance of it, and more is en route. As there is such an unprecedented demand for it from all quarters, the dealers are naturally disposing of it in smaller lots than usual in the effort to reach as many as possible with but little delay.

Judging from the facts as they exist today in Plainfield and at the terminal points, it is hardly fair to accuse the big railroads of deliberately trying to hold up the coal supply when there is evidence that such is not the case. As a general thing corporations are not philanthropists but they should not be held responsible for things for which they are really not to blame.

There will be no minority party in the Common Council next year. This is becoming such a common thing that the people are taking it as a matter of course. For two years now, the Republicans have been in complete possession and next year the same order of things will be repeated. While the personnel of the Common Council will be slightly changed, the political situation as as before.

Plainfield was quiet last evening and permitted a little coterie of newspaper men to conduct a little social stunt on rather novel lines. The boys quite surpassed themselves for originality and entertained many score of friends in a highly delightful fashion.

Carney Made a Hit.

John H. Carney, of the borough, made a distinct hit with his German monologue at an entertainment given in the Pitman M. E. church, of New Brunswick, last evening. Miss Ella Case, of this city, was also present and captivated her audience. The affair was given under the Leading Lights auspices, in which Firman A. Long, formerly of the borough, is an earnest worker.

Christmas Programme.

The Christmas service at the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock with a special programme and music by an orchestra.

Christmas Sale

OF HANDSOME

PARLOR ROCKERS.

Worth Regular $5 to $6.50.

3.98

Worth Regular $5 to $6.50.

Ninety of them all told in the lot. There is quite a story in connection with these Rockers, but the long and short of it is that they should have arrived December 1 and have just got here. We would not accept them unless the manufacturers made us a big concession in the price. This they did rather than take them back, so here they are at 3.98. Naturally early comers will get the pick of them.

Just the thing for a Christmas Present.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 21—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Christmas; its message and motive.—Luke ii, 1-20; John iii, 14-17.

Every memorable ecclesiastical and national day has its message. The Passover feast spoke to the ancient Jews of their deliverance from Egypt. The Lord's supper speaks to the Christian world of Christ's death and the world's salvation. Resurrection day speaks of the resurrection of Christ and of the confirmation of man's hope of a future life. Christmas day, the brightest, most joyous day in the calendar of the church, has its message of joy, of salvation and of good will to men.

1. The Christmas message is a message of joy. "Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy!" This joy is caused by the fact that salvation was to come through the Babe of Bethlehem. "For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord," a cause for joy, indeed, for here was a message of light to a world in darkness, a message of hope to a world in despair, a message of redemption to a world in the valley of the shadow of death. Well might the angels sing, ascribing "Glory to God" and "peace, good will, to men." Such a message of joy the world has never received before or since, and at every Christmas season this message should come to us with increased appreciation as we realize more and more what it means to us and to the world.

2. The Christmas message is one of universal joy—"I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people." The birth of Christ brought joy to heaven and to earth. The angels of God sang for joy. The Judæan shepherds returned glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them. The wise men from the east must have rejoiced. Simeon and Anna were filled with joy and prophesied of the blessings to come through the child Jesus. Christ's birth is a cause for universal joy. We may well sing, "Joy to the world, the Lord has come." If the message is not a joyous one to us, it should be and may be if we will accept Jesus the Lord as our Saviour and Redeemer. And if it is a joyous day for us, we should strive to bring joy and happiness into the lives of others.

3. Christmas has a motive as well as a message. Christ's birth was not by chance. There are motive and purpose in everything that God does. We would therefore expect this to be particularly true of such an important event as the birth of His Son into the world. And it is so. John gives us God's motive in sending Christ into the world, and that motive was love. "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son" for it. Love is the most powerful of motives, and it was this that caused Christ to be born and to live and die. It is the motive above all others also that should inspire response. Since God so loved us we should so love Him that we will give our lives to Him in return for "the unspeakable gift" which He has given to us.

Missionary Committee Points.

The missionary committee in one aggressive union sent out the following pithy suggestions to its societies:

"See to it that the missionary committee always includes some of the younger members of the society.

"Have committee meetings at least once a month and devote the evening to them. Do not allow them to be a mere 'annex' to some other gathering.

"Remember that your work is chiefly educational. If your society knows no more about missions at the close than at the beginning of your term of office, some one is responsible for the failure.

"Use leaflet literature freely, circulate your denominational magazines and have a missionary library, if possible.

"By whatever methods you raise money let them be adequate, systematic and Scriptural.

"Be aggressive and progressive. Do not rest satisfied with quarterly missionary meetings and the '2 cents a week plan.' Find new methods or invent them."

Our Watchword.

Voice of God, inspiring to victory yesterday; voice of God, inspiring to victory today; voice of God, inspiring to complete and final victory in some glad tomorrow, is the watchword of our society, "for Christ and the church."—Rev. Dr. William B. Wallace.

A Tireless Endeavorer.

Rev. Dr. Clark is an indefatigable worker. He met the entire expenses of his last six months' tour of Europe in the interest of Christian Endeavor by writing for different publications about his unusually varied trip.

19. T. M., Maine.—Rev. Dr. Clarence E. Eberman, the field secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, is an ex-president of the Pennsylvania state union. He made an exceptionally good record in that office. One year he spent his entire summer in making a tour of the state in the interests of the movement, addressing large assemblages of people and making a host of friends for Christian Endeavor.

20. X., Massachusetts.—Dr. A. A. Fulton of Canton, China, was the man to first suggest the "2 cents a week" plan for missions.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 21, "Christmas; Its Message and Motive"—Text, Luke ii, 1-20; John iii, 14-17.

"That whosoever believeth may in Him have eternal life."

From Anglo-Saxon customs and ancient times comes much of the practice of the great festival of the winter solstice. The sun has reached his farthest southern limit and wheeled on his return to the northlands. From ages beyond record our ancestors kept this time as a season of festivity and feasting. Great logs for the hearth fire, wild beasts for food, evergreens for decorating home and God's house, greetings and good cheer marked the occasion as the grandest of all festivals.

It was wise in the early Christian missionaries to recognize the worth and deep significance of this annual Yuletide observance and give to the Anglo-Saxon heathen practices new and better meanings. Under their teaching it became the festival of Christ's birth and the most joyous of all Christian holy days. Better than the sun returning to the frostbound land was the fact of the coming of the God Man to earth with heavenly salvation for all men.

Our custom of making gifts and all the other observances which have grown up and around Christmas and to which the hearts of the young cling so fondly have much to commend them beside the momentary gratification of kindly impulses. Beyond all the benefit which the business of making and trading gets from this season we prize the rehearsing of the Christ story. The wonderment grows greater as the years pass. Childhood takes the precious narrative so eagerly and realistically! Why should not angels come from heaven and sing to listening shepherds? Have not angels always been near and dear to the heart of childhood, which has no difficulty in believing in them and can almost see and hear them at all times.

To the young people Christmas means somewhat more than it used to mean. It holds vaster truth, deeper purity and reaches of love unfathomed, perhaps unfathomable. It is promise of unutterable riches and revelation unceasing. It beckons into years yet to come with marvelous possibilities of achievement and enjoyment. It means the limitless unfolding of the Christ life in self and in society—all possibility of all good.

To the middle aged it speaks no less decisively, even if more soberly. The virgin birth and angel song may be held less clearly than once, but the eternal life in prospect comes nearer, and the hopelessness of the struggle of earth without the Christ help presses more deeply home to the soul.

To the aged ones the Christmas time brings a mellowing influence to the spirit, a mystical touch to the faith almost childlike in its simplicity. Angel songs and mother sweetness mean more than in all the bygone years. Heaven lies not far away.

To all the Christmas message is eternal life for you if you believe and love Him who is life eternal.

Real Joy.

Real joy is as sacred and divine a thing as there is. You know that it is true that we may if we choose begin to enter upon our inheritance of eternal things now, here, in this life. Especially is this the case with this divine gift of gladness of the soul. Do not rest content with any more small, finite, temporary thing and call that joy; it is some mere passing earthly elevation of spirits. That is merely a selfish impression. That is not connected with any feeling of regret for our imperfection, as true joy must ever be. In true joy there can be no selfishness. It is the delight that comes from consciousness of the nearness of God, consciousness of love to Him, consciousness of sin forgiven, consciousness of living for the good of our brothers and sisters of the human family.—Sinclair.

Satisfy the Heart.

If with the heart a man believes unto righteousness, his intellect will be drawn as his heart leads. It will be a valuable servant of faith and truth. But if it is principally with the head or intellect that a man believes there is not much heart in his belief or faith in his heart. His may be the religion of scholarship, but not of experience. And while natural reason or science is his authority for the spiritual realm his heart is unsatisfied and his intellect much the less enriched.—Friend.

Pleasure In Religion.

A religion whose tendency is to make the possessor disagreeable is not the one commended of the church. Pleasure is an ordinance of God. It is a lily planted in the desert, and we thank Him for it. We may grow away from its form and color, but the memory of it remains, like the notes of an old song, in the silence of other and sadder years.—Presbyterian Journal.

A Way to Avoid Trouble.

How much trouble he avoids who does not look to see what his neighbor says or does or thinks, but only to what he does himself, that it may be just and pure!—Marcus Aurelius.

Excuses.

Beware of excuses when you feel prompted to pray. Pour forth the longings of your heart to God and you will experience great lightening of your load.—Presbyterian.

Endurance.

It profits naught to prate about our wrong
And chatter of our wound when we are hurt;
If we the wrong and wound cannot avert,
To silently endure is to grow strong.
—Susie M. Best.

FIRM FOUNDATION.

Nothing Can Undermine it in Plainfield.

Poeple are sometimes slow to recognize true merit and they cannot be blamed for so many in past have been humbugged. The experience of hundreds of Plainfield residents expressed publicly through newspapers and other sources places Doan's Kidney Pills on a firm foundation.

Mr. Richard Day, of 134 East Front street, says: "I had a miserable pain across my back and a sort of lame feeling over my kidneys. Standing any length of time, or walking any distance aggravated it greatly. I was never sick much in my life and consequently never took much medicine, so when I first began having these attacks I paid little attention to them. They, however, grew worse instead of better so I had to look about for a remedy. I read quite frequently in our papers about cures brought about by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills so I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store and after taking them I felt greatly relieved. I have recommended them to my friends and those who have used them speak very highly in their praise."

ELABORATE STYLES.

Renaissance Embroideries—Ingenious Combination.

Black pearls and renaissance scroll figure in all the many beautiful embroideries which seem to be an essential part of the dress of today, and many gowns have perpendicular bands of ribbon or embroidery carried all the way down the skirt.

The blouses are particularly handsome this winter. They, most of them, have full sleeves set into a very deep gauntlet cuff, but a few of them have horizontal puffings from the wrist to the shoulder, and many are made of materials which appear to have ribbon stripes going downward, while other materials display chine effects. Rows of insertion are deftly introduced, sometimes in a series of vandykes across the front. Pretty and warm blouses for present wear are made of zenana cloth in pink and white, and other mixtures and blue ladies' cloth make up charmingly with white cloth applications.

It is curious to see what ingenuity is brought to bear in the trimmings of dress, the braid being even fringed at the ends to form garnitures.

Blue and green combined will be very smart all through the winter. Watered silk is a favorite mode for brides, but almost hidden by lace.

The hat shown is of tucked white felt threaded through with black velvet ribbons. JUDIC CHOLLET.

UP TO DATE TRIMMINGS.

Grapes In Black and White Appliqué.

Embroideries play a great part in the dressmaking and tailoring world, and they offer great scope for ingenuity.

Grapes in white and in black appliqué are all the rage.

There is a fad at present for green, and this is very becoming to fair women. A beautiful princess gown seen recently was of green zibeline cloth fastened down the side with taffeta and chiffon bows in different shades of green. This was worn with a big chinchilla toque trimmed with a green bird of paradise and tabs of green velvet resting on the hair. There were, furthermore, a wide chinchilla stole and a chiffon muff lined with green velvet. Both chinchilla and sable are handsome mixed with emerald green.

Plaids are very popular in Paris and are worn with particular charm by the Frenchwomen. They are not very bright, but mostly of nondescript mixtures, dull reds and greens. Plaid traveling toques are now to be seen in soft crushed shapes. They are very effective when worn with a smart tailor made.

The dress for a schoolgirl shown in the cut is of camel's hair cheviot trimmed with braid and gilt buttons. The hat is of velvet.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1901, by Bodhrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

Stevens had already satisfied himself that no lumber had been loaded on the "Shark." He explained to his men such facts as were necessary for their guidance. It was not necessary to enjoin them to secrecy. The tempting rewards were sufficient to insure that caution. Each reporter was liberally supplied with money and they went to work with energy.

That afternoon, the 8th of May, Chalmers opened Hestor's desk, and with Stevens, made a minute examination of its contents. Much to their surprise, three check books were found on the glass-covered surface of the desk. On dates from April 25 to May 1, inclusive, Hestor had drawn checks payable to himself aggregating $4,648,000.

"How could he have amassed that amount of cash?" asked Stevens, as he footed up the aggregate.

"Here is a memorandum which explains that," said Chalmers. He pointed to the inside cover of one of the check books on which was tabulated sales of bonds and stocks amounting to $4,627,000.

"The Hestor estate was largely in securities," said Chalmers. "I remember Hestor told me at one time that he owned between $15,000,000 and $16,000,000 worth of gilt-edged stuff."

"What did he do with the cash?" asked Stevens, with an air which indicated that he could answer his own question.

"Street & Rogers might answer if they would," said Chalmers. "A man of Hestor's standing could margin 250,000 shares of stock with that amount of money. He was too wise to draw checks payable to anyone but himself. He must have lugged that money down there in bills. It would not make much of a package in $1,000 bills. Hestor must be $30,000,000 ahead in this deal. His insanity takes a canny form. I would like to be crazy awhile like that myself."

"But how does he propose to get out of it?"

"Give it up," said Chalmers. "It is too deep for me. Hestor is not the kind to think of details like that. He goes ahead and lets consequences take care of themselves. He did not even take the precaution to destroy these check books. We can trace him like a rabbit in a new fall of snow."

Stevens now turned his attention to such cities as Baltimore, Washington and a number of western cities, in the faint hope that some clew might be found. Instructions were cabled to London, Paris, and other European cities, and a search made in these art centers, but nothing was learned.

Chalmers was a daily visitor at the Carmody residence. He inspired Miss Helen with hope, and would not listen to her fears of failure. She was anxious to fit out the Carmody yacht, the "Helen Carmody," and begin at once a search for her father and his companions.

"That is a good idea," said Mr. Chalmers. "Go ahead and put the yacht in commission, and supply her with provisions for a month's cruise, but do not start until my men have had a chance to complete their search. It is now the 11th of the month. Give me until Tuesday, the 16th, and if we have no news by that time we will send the 'Helen.' As you know, there are a score of boats scouring the ocean now. It is a good-sized globe, this old world of ours, and there are millions of places, any one of which Hestor may have selected. For all we know, he may be cruising in the boundless waters of the Pacific. On the 16th we will make public all the facts in our possession, in case we do not in the meantime find a definite clew. I do not feel justified in doing so, except as a last resort. Hestor may not be guilty. His actions, so far as we know, can all be explained. Our evidence against him is purely circumstantial. We will give Hestor time to reach some port in Europe. We have wired instructions to every foreign harbor, and will at once hear from him if he be innocent. This is an awful charge to make against an honest man, and we must give Hestor the benefit of every doubt."

"You are right, Mr. Chalmers," said Miss Helen. "I will have the yacht prepared for a long cruise. It does not seem possible that Mr. Hestor could do such a thing. He is so kind and generous. It would be awful to falsely accuse him."

It need not be supposed that these daily interviews between the journalist and the charming heiress were entirely devoted to the solving of the mystery which was the cause of their acquaintance. Mr. Chalmers esteemed it his duty to direct her thoughts to more pleasant topics, and he led the conversation into literature and to the discussion of current events. Chalmers was an entertaining talker, with an aptitude to perceive the grotesque side of things, and he possessed the rare art of the good story teller. A few odd facts were sufficient to form the theme of a mirthful tale, and Chalmers was by nature and training an adept in the art of narrative. He had an appreciative listener in Miss Carmody, and unconsciously she found herself waiting for the hour when the self-possessed and animated Chalmers would arrive, and with news or fancy lighten the monotony of the hours.

CHAPTER X.

SEYMOUR THE SLEUTH.

No word had been received from Mr. Bernard Seymour since his departure from St. Louis, at which time he requested that $500 be forwarded to him at New Orleans. It was a peculiarity of the Bernard Seymour telegrams that they always contained stipulations for fresh funds. Mr. Stevens had a hearty respect for the Seymour luck. He overlooked any slight irregularities in methods, and accordingly telegraphed the money, and also full instructions concerning the search for the architect and contractor in charge of the suppositious Hestor country house.

No answer came from Mr. Seymour. When the staff of reporters arrived in New Orleans, they learned that Mr. Seymour had registered at the St. Charles Hotel. He had cashed the money order, but had not occupied his room, nor had he been seen at the hotel since the time of the financial transaction. The new arrivals made a vain search for the missing sleuth, and then went briskly to work without him.

When Bernard Seymour arrived in New Orleans, he was, as he expressed it, "much the worse for wear." When he learned that he had caused the arrest of a famous Chicago clergyman, instead of L. Sylvester Vincent, he lost no time in quitting St. Louis. He abandoned his baggage at the Planters' Hotel, and took the first train south.

Seymour arrived in New Orleans the following evening. He decided that the "West End"—the breathing place of the Southern metropolis,—would be the most congenial place to begin operations. The "West End" is a cluster of hotels, fringing the bathing beaches on the south shore of Lake Pontchartrain, and serves as a more aristrocratic Coney Island to New Orleans. Mr. Seymour found it brilliant with rows of electric lights. A score of orchestras and bands were blending their harmonies with the murmur of the pleasure-seeking throng.

"Hello, Seymour."

A heavy set man, with his face marked by a cavernous grin, pushed his way through a crowd and slapped Mr. Bernard Seymour on the shoulder.

"Well, you little ferret, what are you doing in New Orleans?"

"Sir!"

"That's what I said—sir! Will you have a drink, sir?"

"Yes, sir. Now I understand you," said Mr. Seymour. "Well, you old Indian, I did not know you were down here. What are you doing? Who are you doing?"

"Nothing and nobody," said Mr. Dick Bender. Mr. Bender was a newspaper man, whose natural ability was obscured by habits more congenial than regular. An excellent writer, he seldom held a position more than three months. He was the journalistic prototype of the tramp printer.

"Up against it, eh?" asked Seymour.

"I surely am up against it good and hard."

Dick Bender tossed off a big drink, and grinned as if his hard luck were something to be contemplated with joy.

"You don't drink enough, Dick," said Seymour. "You are a social recluse. Your abstinence has become a matter of common gossip. You should thaw out once in a while and become a mixer."

"Never mind my failings. Answer me some questions," said Mr. Bender, resting his foot on the rail, and swinging his arm in an easy position across the mahogany. "What are you doing in New Orleans?"

"None of your business."

LADIES!

I have added a Remodelling Department to my Ladies' Tailoring Establishment, as I find that ladies' tailors frequently produce ill-fitting garments. Such defects can be remedied by a thoroughly experienced tailor and designer.

CORN CORNER CRUSHED.

Blind Pool In Chicago Broken and Prices Tumble.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—Bulls and bears of the Chicago board of trade had a sharp and decisive struggle over December corn yesterday. W. W. McCleary & Co. failed to respond to margin calls, and the so called blind pool headed by Thomas A. Cleage of St. Louis suffered a severe setback. December corn receded almost 6 cents during the day and showed a break of about 11 cents since earlier in the month.

Mr. McCleary declared that he would pay dollar for dollar and that he probably would be ready for business today. He said that his order to have all his trades closed was forced because of excessive calls upon him for margins. Mr. McCleary is a brother-in-law of Mr Cleage.

Mr. Gleage's pool has about 8,000 members. He has been operating in St. Louis, Kansas City and Chicago and at one time is said to have had as much as 11,000,000 bushels of corn in these three markets and 4,000,000 in Chicago.

Cable Ship Heard From.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18.—The following message has been received from the cable ship Silvertown: "Four hundred and fifty-five knots from shore and proceeding at a speed of eight knots. The terrific seas that had swept the decks for twenty hours subsided considerably at midnight. There is a heavy swell on, but the weather is partly clear and pleasant. The indications are for better weather and calmer seas." These few lines are all that have been received from the cable ship, but they tell of the rapid progress of the steamer in spite of the unfavorable weather and of the heavy seas she has encountered. The Silvertown started from her anchorage, six miles off this port, at 12 o'clock Monday morning on her way to Honolulu, and this report shows that the vessel has averaged considerably over seven and a half knots an hour since her departure.

Smuggling Liquors Into Porto Rico.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 18.—Collector Cruzen yesterday seized several hundred cases of liquors which had been brought from St. Thomas on board the United States lighthouse tender Laurel. It is reported that certain army and navy officers as well as some prominent citizens of San Juan are implicated in the matter. The case will go before the federal court, and the bureau of insular revenue will also take action. It is said that this method of smuggling has been in operation for the last eighteen months and that goods amounting to several thousand dollars have been landed here.

Millionaire Bishop's Will.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—The will of Heber R. Bishop disposing of an estate valued at $3,500,000 has been filed in the surrogate's office. The sum of $55,000 is bequeathed to prepare a room in the Metropolitan Museum of Art for the reception of the great collection of jades and other precious stones, valued at $750,000, presented by Mr. Bishop to the museum last April. After small bequests to relatives the rest of the estate is divided between the testator's widow and his eight children.

Fast Cycling.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 18.—Oscar Hedstrom attempted to lower the motor cycle record for ten miles. He failed to scale the first mile, but after that up to and including the eighth he clipped seconds from each record. In the ninth mile a tire came off, and Hedstrom was thrown heavily, but was not seriously hurt. Except for the accident the ten mile record would have been broken. The trial was official and took place at the Coliseum track.

Heavy Shipment of Japanese Silks.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Dec. 18.—Japanese raw silk valued at $2,000,000 was transferred to the New York Central railroad yesterday from Canada and sent by special train to New York. The silk was shipped from Japan by Canadian steamship to Vancouver and rail to Prescott. Within six weeks thirty-eight cars of Japanese silk valued at nearly $5,000,000 have passed through here for New York over the same route.

General Swayne Very Low.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—General Wager Swayne, who has been ill for some time at his residence, is reported to be very low. His recovery is not hoped for. General Swayne served with distinction in the civil war, being brevetted major general for gallant and meritorious services, and retired from the United States army in 1870. He has practiced law in New York since 1880.

lay in receiving shipments. The commercial variety is very plentiful but the household sizes are difficult to get. He has about 300 tons on the way here from the mines which he expects will arrive in a few days.

McDonough Brothers are receiving coal every day at their yards in the southern part of the city. They are having some difficulty in supplying the demands of their customers with nut coal but with four extra teams at work and almost a score extra hands in the yards and on the wagons they are able to attend to the wants of their patrons. They have about 600 tons in their yards.

At the yards of E. H. Holmes the scene is a busy one and his wagons come and go with the regularity of a watch all day attending to the orders of his customers. At this office it was said that there was also a scarcity of household sizes of coal and therefore there was a great demand for this variety. He has a large quantity of the black diamonds in his bins and there is much more on the way here form the mines.

C. H. Rugg, who has about 400 tons at his headquarters at the Consumers' Coal Company's yard, said that while coal was scarce in some places near this city there was a good supply here. There will be no famine, he said, until after the winter but he was inclined to think that the present difficulties would be carried over until next summer when the laborers would strike again and then this country would be visited with a greater and more far reaching famine.

The general prices of coal in this city range around $6.50 per ton and it was his opinion that these prices would remain during the entire winter.

Neighbor had more characters than the hero of a dime novel. When he appeared, there was none to rival. But his greatest masterpiece was his vest, the radish buttons which he fed to his friends as the evening progressed.

With his pupils all gone, the village school master, one Archibald Hacquer, wandered in and peered over the tops of his glasses, a homeless weary mortal who roamed about with never a smile for all the gaiety.

And the country maids, with rosy cheeks and gingham gowns, were a delight to behold. Some sweet faces were hidden away in sunbonnets but most of these were discarded as the evening progressed. Probably the most typical of the rustic belles were the Misses Emma Straw, Mayme Higgins, Marion Porter, Ethel Reynolds and May Squier. There were other of the young women who looked very bewitching but who did not look the part of the country maid with such effect.

Very striking and unique costumes were worn by the following: The Misses Susie Goff, Adah VanHorn, Belle and Elsie Slorah, Emma Foster, Emily Shortman, Christine Sorensen, Elizabeth Day, Flora Roseberry, Eleanor Messinger, Mary Duvier, Mamie Eriksen, Annie and Louise Weigmann, Edith Lacey, Nellie and Margaret Baglin, Daisy and Grace Adams, Bessie Walls, Theresa McGinley, Tina and Della Voebl, Florence Bilyeu, Josie Feiler, Lizzie Herlick, Nellie Apgar, Mamie Ryan, Lena Bremmer, Annie Feiring, Anna Thain, Laura Hangliter, Mary Tripney, Addie Carney, Kate Carty, Grace and Frances Finch, Bertha Fisher and Mrs. Eugene O'Reilly, Mrs. Erwin Neighbor, Mrs. A. B. Lewis, and Mrs. Frank Manchester; Ray King, Hillaire Blatz, John Kelley, Alfred Lacey, Harry DeMeza, John DeMeza, Michael Higgins, Frazee Putnam, Alfred VanNuise, Elmer D. Cutting, William Buckley, George Fritts, William Porter, Edward Texier, Arthur Caleen, Edward Feiring, Wesley Randolph, Edward Sutton, Hiram Humes, Charles Pawson, Professor Finnigan, Arthur Beekman, Ferdinand Denecklau, George Firstbrook, Walter Foster and Harry Shortman.

"Polly Vance" and V. W. Nash, Jr., led the grand march which opened the programme of dance and led the guests a merry pace about the hall. There were seventy-five couples that participated. An impromptu march resulted from the visit of Pawson's Prideville band, aggregating a fife, drum and bass-drum, manipulated by Charles Pawson, Nelson Peterson and Fred Winn, just in from the fields. Shortly after midnight, pumpkin pie, dough-nuts and cider were handed round after which the guests sang a few good, old songs, led by the orchestra and a quartette.

It was after 4 o'clock this morning when the "gals" and "fellars," tired, of course, but happy still, wandered homeward by the light of the waning moon to steal a few winks before it was time to be up and at the morning chores. And the weary scribes, proud with the knowledge that their effort had been the most successful event of its kind, gathered round the scene of their labors and gave thanks that they lived in the good, old village of Plainfield, even if it didn't boast of the strenuousness of gay New York. It might be well to add in closing that the committee, which was to blame for this affair, consisted of George E. Firstbrook, Archibald Hacquer and Thomas Muir.

In conducting the dance, the committee was assisted by the master hand of V. W. Nash, Jr., president of the I. C. T. Club, who acted as floor manager.

SMALL-POX AT BRUNSWICK

BUT MERCHANTS ARE TRYING TO KEEP IT QUIET.

Four Cases at Isolation Hospital—Health Board Taking Every Precaution Against Spread.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Dec. 18—This city has again been visited with smallpox and the isolation hospital on the Cranbury turnpike, just ouside of the city limits, is receiving patients. There are three colored people confined in the hospital at present and Sunday afternoon James McCarthy, who is a night watchman in the business section of the city, was taken to the hospital suffering with the disease.

All the patients are suffering with a light form of varioloid but the authorities fear that with the large colonies of foreigners now in the city and who are employed on the elevation work on the Pennsylvania Railroad, the disease will spread.

The disease was brought to the city by a New York laborer on the elevation work who, when discovered by the health officials of that place came to New Brunswick where he was taken sick and was sent to the isolation camp, where he is still confined.

The merchants of the town are doing all in their power to keep the matter quiet as it is feared that if the news was spread about that there was smallpox in the town it would prevent many people from the suburban towns from coming in to purchase their Christmas goods.

In Sayreville, where the disease first broke out last winter, there have been no cases reported. The New Brunswick Board of Health has taken every precaution against the spread of the disease.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

T. H. Keller, formerly of this city but now the eastern representative of the Peters Cartridge Company, was in a hurry to catch a Jersey Central ferry boat in New York one day last week and the fact that he caught it by the skin of his teeth, is due directly to his hat. New York was the center of a stiff blow from the northeast and the sidewalks, to make matters worse, were slippery and there was not a car running anywhere. Mr. Keller started for the Jersey Central ferry with just enough time to catch the boat. He slipped once and then decided to walk slower. Just as he made that mental resolve an unappreciative gust of wind came along and he and his hat parted company, the former sailing skyward south by southeast with the shivering Mr. Keller running after it with the agility of a bird over the silvery pavements until, near an area way, he made a grand touchdown and secured the hat. He caught his boat just as the gates were being closed and as he settled back in the palatial cabin of the "Lakewood" and brushed the shining snow flakes from his linen and clothing, he soliloquized as follows: "'Tis an ill wind that blows no one good."

ALL HAPPENED ONE NIGHT

NO END OF WARRANTS AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS THE RESULT.

The Burnetts Will Have to Answer to Justice Smalley for Their Visit to Jacob Wertz.

Peter Burnett is scheduled to appear before Justice D. D. Smalley Saturday evening while Constable Pangborn, with a warrant in his pocket for Burnett's brother, Henry, is looking for the other participant in the excitement which occurred one Saturday night at Linke's hotel at South Stirling. The happenings of that evening seem likely to furnish no end of business for the courts of Somerset and Morris counties.

Henry Burnett has been arrested once already as a result of it. Previous to the visit to Linke's establishment at South Stirling, the Burnetts participated in a little excitement at Stirling. It was for assaulting Constable Amity Hye at that time that he was arrested and arraigned in Morristown a week ago. Constable Hye had attempted to put him out of a Stirling saloon, it is said, with disastrous consequences. The Morristown justice refused to look on Burnett's resistance as illegal as long as the constable didn't happen to have a warrant at the time. Now Burnett has started proceedings in the Morris county court against the proprietor of the Stirling saloon for damages he claims to have received at the hands of the constable.

It will be remembered that Jacob Wertz, who was in charge of Linke's place at South Stirling, came to town shortly after the visit of the Burnetts and swore out warrants against both of them before Justice D. D. Smalley. Peter Burnett was apprehended and arraigned last Saturday evening but his case was adjourned a week. Henry Burnett hasn't been seen in this neighborhood since.

LIFELESS BODY ON THE TRACKS

Mrs. Susan Gassner Killed by Train, Near Station, During Last Night.

NO ONE KNEW WHEN

Mangled Body Cold and Lifeless, Picked Up by Train Crew Early This Morning—Left Home Last Night to Get Laundry and Meet Husband—He Returned Alone.

Some time during last night, Mrs. Susan Gassner, of East Fourth street, met a violent death, probably instantaneously, on the New Jersey Central. Her mangled body was found on the tracks near the Park avenue bridge shortly after 5 o'clock this morning, by the train crew of the newspaper train which always backs into the siding used by the United States Express Company. It was then stone cold and the exact time of her being killed cannot be determined. The remains were picked up by the depot attaches and removed to Cole's undertaking parlors. The skull was crushed, both arms were broken and the body was otherwise cut and bruised, showing that the woman had been struck but not run over.

The unfortunate victim was the wife of Walter Gassner and came to this city with her husband from New York, three months ago. They took up their residence with Mrs. Gassner's sister, Mrs. Herbert Chamberlain, of East Fourth street, while the husband has been commuting.

Early last evening, Mrs. Gassner left the house stating that she was going to the laundry and that afterward she would proceed to the depot to meet her husband's train. When Mr. Gassner came in at 9 o'clock without her, it was then evident that she had not gone to the station and a search was immediately instituted. It ended fruitlessly and it was only when news of her death was brought to them that the family knew what had become of her.

No one who knew her can account for her getting on the track, except that she became bewildered and attempted to reach Park avenue from the bridge. It is possible that she was struck by a freight train early in the evening and that the body remained in the position where it was found for the rest of the night. The laundry was scattered about the track.

Mrs. Gassner was thirty-four years old and leaves no immediate relatives beyond Mrs. Chamberlain.

The arrangements for funeral services will be made later.

LONG RUN.

But Occupants of Carriage Escaped With Only Bad Fright.

An exciting runaway took place Wednesday evening at 10 o'clock on West Eighth street when two fine horses attached to a closed carriage ran away with two women in it.

The horses took fright at an Arlington avenue car and turned up Madison avenue. The coachman pluckily held on to the reins and thus saved the vehicle from being dashed against the curbstone and tipping over. The women were not injured when they alighted from the vehicle near the Hope Common but they were both badly frightened. Their names could not be learned.

SPOKEN IN EVERY CAMPAIGN

AND DURING ALL THAT TIME J. E. MARTINE NEVER RECEIVED A CENT.

Plainfield's Farmer Orator Has Spoken on Platforms With Many Distinguished Men.

While reminescencing the other day with a representative of The Daily Press, James E. Martine was asked how many speeches or addresses he had made to which he replied:

"Oh my," said he, "I have no idea, but it would make a long story if put in one. Suffice to say that I have spoken in every campaign since I was eighteen years old and during that time I have addressed audiences in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Missouri, Colorado and Nebraska. I have spoken from platforms with William Jennings Bryan, David B. Hill, Thomas B. Hendricks, Charles A. Towne, Grover Cleveland, Leon Abbott, and scores of others whose names I do not now recall.

"Do not speakers in large meetings such as the one recently held at Morristown, receive some remuneration for speaking?" ventured the scribe.

"Oh yes, many do," said the Farmer Orator, "but seldom very large sums. As for myself I have never received a farthing. Mayhap because it was not worth paying for, and then politics, to me, is a conviction, a religion. I love to speak my convictions. The world is unfair in its measure of a politician. I hold that there is nothing inconsistent with being a politician and at the same time being a dignified and honorable gentleman."

NERVE STILL REMAINS IF MONEY IS GONE

S. D. Drake Says He Will Settle All His Present Debts and Start Anew.

HE IS NOT DISCOURAGED

HE EXPLAINS THE CAUSE FOR HIS PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY.

Of Liabilities, $24,000 is for Endorsing Company's Notes Which Will be Paid in Full by Company—The Assets Will Meet Others.

After thirty-eight years of business activity passing through several financial panics, Silas D. Drake has been compelled to file a petition in bankruptcy. While his liabilities are given to the court as $54,000, about $24,000 is charged to him as endorser on companies' notes, that will be paid in full by the company, thus leaving $32,000. Of this amount the creditors hold land free and clear to secure claims for $5,000 and Mr. Drake has turned over other securities to his creditors for $34,000.

Mr. Drake says that since he earned his first dollar driving a canal boat from Trenton to Bordentown he has tried to manage his business affairs so that he could go through a business career with the seven in a hundred who do not fail. But the action of the stockholders of the Columbia Realty Company, who recently applied to the Court to have their stock appraised, causing the directors of the company to ask for a temporary receiver, precipitated Mr. Drake's capitulation.

Mr. Drake says still further that while he has surrendered all to his creditors he has still retained as a valuable asset, his nerve, and as he has accumulated a vast storehouse of experience, he hopes sooner or later to recover. Among the creditors there are no merchants, laboring men, or material men, and banks only to an amount of $300, and Mr. Drake has dealt with this class of people largely for many years. Mr. Drake says that he has been a public character for many years and he now wants to thank his many friends who have tried to encourage him in this misfortune.

CRANFORD ROLLED TWO STRONG GAMES AND CAPTURED ONE OF THEM.

First Game Was a Hot One, and Cranford Won by Fourteen Pins—Westfield Took Second by Four—The Third Was Easy.

Westfield's bowlers won two games in The Daily Press Bowling League last evening at the Casino at Cranford when they rolled against the Cranfords. It was the closest contested series which has been played in the league this season and the enthusiasm along the alleys as the game progressed increased until the hall rang with the cheers of the spectators.

The first game started at 8:20 when Forster led off for the Westfield Club, followed by Sharpe, of Cranford. The Westfields started off in the lead until the third frame when Cranford passed them and took a start. Westfield showed a weakening toward the finish and Cranford continued the lead, winning the first game by a total score of 869 to 855. Forster rolled a total score of 214 which was the highest score made by any of the Westfielders in that game.

Cranford took the lead in the second game and kept it until the sixth frame when Westfield took a spurt and kept that position for two frames when both teams totaled up to 643. The ninth frame was therefore a very exciting one until Messick rolled a low score, giving the Westfielders the game by four pins with a total of 813 to 809.

Westfield led in the first frame on the third game by one pin but Cranford went ahead at the third frame with ten pins but was unable to hold its position and in the fourth frame Westfield again took the lead and gradually increased its strength until at the final score Westfield stood 847 to Cranford's 779 thus giving the visitors the game by sixty-eight pins.

MISS MARY FERNALD DRANK FATAL ACID

A Former Plainfield Young Woman Met Death at Her Own Hand Yesterday

TAUGHT IN WESTFIELD

BROKE DOWN IN HEALTH LAST OCTOBER BY OVER WORK.

Was Daughter of Rev. J. B. Fernald, and Moved Away in Fall of 1893, After Graduation of Her Brother From High School.

Miss Mary G. Fernald, twenty-three years old, of 222 Jewett avenue, Westerleigh, Staten Island, died last evening from the effects of carbolic poisoning. The acid was drunk early in the day. Miss Fernald was the daughter of Rev. James C. Fernald, a retired minister, and a former resident of Arlington avenue, this city, a few years ago.

Miss Fernald was quite well known in Plainfield, having attended the High School, but left here in the fall of 1893, when her brother, Chas. B. Fernald, entered Amherst College, having graduated from the High School in the spring. She also had another brother, Harry.

She was graduated from the Pratt Institute a year and a half ago and went to Cedar Rapids, where she was instructor in art in a school. She returned east and obtained a similar position in Westfield. While there she studied hard for the State examination. In October she broke down and returned to the home of her parents, suffering from nervousness and melancholia.

On Tuesday she was so much better that she visited a school in Hempstead, L. I., accompanied by her mother. They reached home on Wednesday evening. She complained of being tired after the trip, so when she did not arise as usual yesterday morning her parents thought nothing of it. About 11 o'clock her mother called her. The door was locked and there was no response to the rappings. The door was then burst open. Miss Fernald was found unconscious on the bed and beside her lay an unlabelled bottle which still contained some carbolic acid.

FELL FROM ROOF.

Wm. Robinson, of Stone Street, Injured by Tumble From Roof of House by Giving Way of Railing.

While working on the roof of a house at Madison avenue and West Ninth street, yesterday morning, William Robinson, of Stone street, met with a severe accident. He attempted to swing over a low balustrade to the gutter when it gave way and precipitated him to the ground.

Striking on his head, he was rendered unconscious and for a time it was thought he was fatally hurt. A carriage was called and after being taken to his home it was found he was suffering only from concussion. No bones were broken but he is still confined to his bed.

MUST REGISTER.

State Board of Pharmacy Started a Fight Against Unregistered Places.

The State Board of Pharmacy has, according to George E. Clymer, its general counsel, begun a campaign against unregistered pharmacists and, it is asserted, a war will be waged against them in the courts in this State. The various associations of pharmacists have been notified to report cases where laws have been violated and as a result actions have been begun in Camden and other cities in this State.

There are about 150 drug stores throughout the State which are conducted without a proper license and it is the intention of the board to bring suits against all of them.

Thirteen Victims.

At its regular meeting, this evening, Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will confer the third degree upon thirteen candidates, one of the largest numbers ever receiving it at once. In the regular order of business, officers will be nominated.

Physical Director Heywood has gotten the boys in good trim and from present indications it looks as though the exhibition will be an interesting one.

This part of the dance was a pretty spectacle, many novel features being introduced by the leader, Thomas Morecraft. The floor was in charge of George Wyckoff and he was assisted by John Hummer.

THE EQUAL OF ANY.

M. Weinberger is Selling Clothing of High Quality at Low Prices.

As for far-reaching values, M. Weinberger, the West Front street clothier, has one important word for his patrons before the stockings are hung up. As emphasized so many times before by Mr. Weinberger, the clothing bought at his store are equal to the finest sold at the highest priced stores in New York. That he is enabled to sell this clothing more reasonably than many other stores has been demonstrated. An effort is being made constantly to exceed the past, thus giving his friends the benefit.

The line of overcoats is larger than ever before and at lower prices, also a fine selection of suits which have been marked down one-third to close out before stock-taking which begins January 2. Mr. Weinberger also has secured a full line of holiday goods, including smoking jackets, sweaters, cardigan jackets and men's furnishings.

CHRISTMAS AT HIGH SCHOOL

Usual Inter-Class Rivalry of Christmastide Prevailed at the City High School.

HELD THIS MORNING

Seniors Succeeded in Placing Their Colors at the Highest Point of Vantage—Gifts Exchanged by Classes—The Juniors' Spread for the Seniors.

The usual class rivalry and Christmas jollity reigned supreme at the City High School this morning on the occasion of the closing of school for the holidays. As is customary at such a time, the members of each class strove with might and main to make the best showing and to convince every one that their class was and ever had been the best class in the school. There was considerable good-natured rivalry in regard to the raising of class flags and staunch bands of supporters for each class strove to plant their class colors on the most commanding vantage points of the school property.

This year the seniors won out in their struggles for class supremacy and the senior colors, green and white, floated this morning from the two most sought for points of display. This victory was not without opposition, for each class was well represented in the field and the victory was hard won. Aside from this banner rivalry, the lower classes exchanged slaps and digs as to their rank. As usual, the freshmen were ridiculed in a friendly way by the sophomores who presented each freshman with a toy bed and the following poetic advice:

"Early to bed, and early to rise
Makes the good freshman happy and wise."

The "freshies," not to be outdone by their upper classmen, presented each soph with a piece of fudge, carefully wrapped and to which was tied the following:

"Dear Sophomores, as competent to judge
Of tender Freshmen, starting in to drudge
Four weary years of books and study through,
This signifies our answer sweet to you
To your puff-pated patronage we answer fudge!"

Each of these lower classes tastefully decorated its portion of the study hall with the class colors.

Appropriate Christmas exercises were held in the chapel at 11 o'clock and the following programme was skillfully carried out:

"Milton's Hymn of the Nativity," Miss Margaret Pearce; song, "Bethlehem," school; "Das Kris Kindel," by Miss Mary A. Griggs; song, "Christmas Hymn," school; story, "A Christmas Present for a Lady," read by Miss Marguerite Pierson; song, "Hymn of the Nativity," glee club; recitation "Little John's Christmas," Miss Florence B. Marsin; anthem, "Christmas Awake," school.

At the close of the exercises, Michael T. Moyniham, as "Santa Claus," distributed gifts to the members of the faculty and junior class. These gifts, each of which carried with it an appropriate verse, served in a friendly way to give a slap at the person who recieved it and much merriment was rife at their presentation.

At the close of school the juniors tendered a banquet to their upper classmen and all enjoyed a good time.

The decorations throughout the building showed considerable skill of arrangement by the various classes and the chapel, especially presented a gay and festive appearance. The seniors, with their greens and white bunting, had the main part of the chapel decoration and their decorations were elaborately gotten up. Beside the other classes of the school, the Girls' Athletic Association, the cadet battalion, and the classes of 1901 and 1902 also had their share in the decorating.

THEATRICAL.

Hall Caine might very well have labelled his new drama, "The Eternal City," "Extra dramatic," and had he done so he would have been well within the fact; but instead of resorting to a phrase, the Manxman went farther afield and discovered larger game. In "The Eternal City," which Miss Viola Allen is presenting at the Victoria Theatre, New York, there is such a wealth of novelty, in the way of incident and situation, that Hall Caine was able to rest content, knowing full well that a play built upon so ample a foundation was in no need of a catch-phrase to attract and hold the public's attention. Mr. Caine proved with his "The Christian" that he was fully acquainted with what the public desired in the way of "extra dramatic" fare, and in Miss Viola Allen's extraordinary receipts with his new play "The Eternal City," he again demonstrated his ability to please and satisfy the popular taste.

For Christmas week B. F. Keith provides an all star list of vaudeville features. A feature which will be particularly interesting to the children is Gillett's musical dogs. Charles Guyor and Nellie Daly, famous for their acrobatic comedy, and dancing with Matthews and Harris in their mirth provoking farcical absurdity entitled "Adam the Second," are the most conspicuous among those who will furnish the comedy of the bill of fare. The Pantzer Trio, the celebrated European contortionists and pantomimist; Smith and Fuller, in their refined instrumental specialty; Loney Haskell, the monologue man who tells a lot of nonsense most entertainingly; Ozaw and Delmo, comedy jugglers; Mr. and Mrs. Darrow, makers of pictures with sand and with smoke; Raymond Teal, the well known black face comedian; Orville and Frank, novelty acrobats, with other famous performers, will make up a programme sure to be enjoyed by everyone.

The New York Tribune Almanac.

Of course, it is possible to worry through life without keeping a Tribune Almanac at our elbow, but is it worth while—does it pay? For 25 cents a year this publication supplies you with a really marvellous amount of information, and the man who has it is an authority in his neighborhood. He doesn't have to be "guessing" or "supposing" about election pluralities, the names of Cabinet Ministers, Senators, Congressman, Governors or Judges. He doesn't have to rely upon his memory when anything comes up about the big events of the preceding year or in relation to our army or navy, or sporting records, or, in fact, almost anything else of record worth knowing. If you never examined The Tribune Almanac just invest a quarter for once, and see how well pleased you'll be. The 1903 one will be on sale January 1, and may be had from your newsdealer, through your local paper or direct from The Tribune office, New York.

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, discovered, some years ago, how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For Blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. House Makes Two-thirds Cut on Philippine Products.

CURRENCY BILL FOR THE ISLANDS.

Senate Committee to Report Lodge-Allison Measure Making Gold Peso the Unit and American Gold Coins Legal Tender.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The house yesterday passed the bill to reduce the duties on the products of the Philippine Islands coming into the United States from 75 per cent of the Dingley rates (the present duties) to 25 per cent of those rates. The discussion of the bill was accompanied by considerable maneuvering on the Democratic side to secure test votes on various amendments designed to lower the tariff barrier still further, and a record vote was forced on a motion to recommit with instructions to report a bill providing for absolute free trade with the islands. The division on this proposition was on party lines, with the exception of Mr. McCall (Mass.), who voted with the Democrats.

The discussion of the pure food bill, which has been made a continuing order until disposed of, was begun. Mr. Tompkins (O.) and Mr. Adamson (Ga.) opened the debate respectively for and against the bill. Mr. Gardner (Mass.) opposed the bill.

A joint resolution was introduced in the house by Representative Tawney, chairman of the house committee on industrial arts and expositions, providing that the alien contract labor law shall not operate to prevent foreign exhibitors at the Louisiana Purchase exposition at St. Louis from bringing into the United States under contract such employees natives of foreign countries as they may deem necessary for specified purposes, subject to the approval of the secretary of the treasury.

Secretary Root made an argument before the senate committee on military affairs in support of the bill for the creation of a general staff with the lieutenant general at the head of it. He presented in less detail than he presented it to the house committee, but answered a number of questions put by the committee. Senator Alger sat with the committee for the first time, and considerable interest was manifested in his position on the bill owing to the fact of his recent connection with the war department. He asked a number of questions of his successor in office and after the committee adjourned stated that it was his intention to support the bill. Secretary Root renewed his suggestion that the bill should be amended so as to postpone the date when it shall take effect until after next August, when General Miles, who opposes the measure, will retire by reason of age.

The senate committee on Philippine Islands has agreed upon a bill for the establishment of the currency of the Philippines. The bill is the joint production of Senators Lodge and Allison. It makes the gold peso of 12 9-10 grains the unit of value in the islands and makes the gold coins of the United States legal tender for all debts.

Broker Hotchkiss Retires.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Horace L. Hotchkiss, who was Jay Gould's broker and one of the oldest members of the Stock Exchange, has sold his seat and will retire from Wall street after a career of forty-five years. He has an ample fortune. Mr. Hotchkiss was one of the organizers of the Nicaraguan Canal association, and it was through his efforts, in co-operation with Admiral H. C. Taylor, U. S. N., and the late Francis A. Stout, that the Nicaraguan concession was first obtained. Mr. Hotchkiss served through the civil war as an officer in the United States navy. He was with Farragut's fleet at Mobile bay.

OPERATORS' INNING.

Testimony Given Regarding "Reign of Terror."

CHAIRMAN GRAY SPEAKS PLAINLY.

He Refers to Boycotters and Those Intimidated by Them as Cowards Who Would Not Confess Their Wrongdoing.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 19.—The coal strike commission listened yesterday to further testimony tending to show that a reign of terror existed in the anthracite coalfields during the five and a half months of the mine workers' strike. About a score of witnesses were called during the two sessions by the attorneys for the nonunion men. They told of serious boycotts, brutal attacks by crowds of men, women and boys and an attempt to burn the house of a nonunion man. In most instances the witnesses testified that the alleged offenders were members of the miners' union. The lawyers for the miners objected frequently to the admission of testimony on hearsay and sometimes objected because of irrelevancy of certain other statements.

Chairman Gray said the commission was not bound by any strict rules of evidence, but asked counsel to confine themselves in examining witnesses as far as possible to direct evidence. He said it was too difficult in trying to prove that boycotts existed to get information on the subject. The commission, he said, wanted to know whether a reign of terror existed in the anthracite region, and it could not get that information if the strict rules of evidence were applied. "The coward who will go to the storekeepers," he said, "and tell them not to sell the necessaries of life to a poor woman usually seeks the obscurity that the law of evidence throws around him. If a girl is discharged from her position in a store because she rode in a street car in inclement weather while a street car strike was on, the coward who discharged her is coward enough to refuse to testify." He recognized, he said, why some merchants will not come forward and tell who forced them to refuse to sell necessaries of life to certain boycotted persons, but if he (Chairman Gray) were a storekeeper he thought he would risk his all in order to assist in breaking up the cowardly business.

Railroad For New Mexico.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 19.—President E. P. Ripley and his associates have incorporated the Eastern Railway company of New Mexico. The charter is for a period of fifty years. It is intended to construct the line from a point at or near Rio Puerto, on the Santa Fe Pacific, in Valencia county, N. M. The road will run in a southeasterly and easterly direction through Valencia and Guadaloupe counties, N. M., to a point of connection with the Pecos Valley and Northeastern railway at or near Texico, near the eastern New Mexico boundary. The length of the line will be 265 miles. Headquarters of the new company will be in Los Angeles.

Railway Station Burned.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—The Long Island City station of the Long Island Railroad company was destroyed by fire last night. The Borden block, across the street from the depot, was also badly damaged. The depot, which is near the Long Island terminal of the Thirty-fourth street ferry, was crowded with people going home from Christmas shopping tours in Manhattan, and there was a rush to Borden avenue for safety. The long sheds which stretch out east from the depot waiting rooms caught, and the cars of the trains which had been made up to go out were penned in the flames so securely the train crews could save very few of them.

His Life Heavily Insured.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 19.—It has developed that R. C. Whayne, a Louisville business man, who was found dead in the vicinity of Jacob park with a gunshot wound in the breast, carried insurance on his life of $340,000 and had applications pending for $50,000 more. Near Mr. Whayne's body, but on the opposite side of a wire fence, was a shotgun with one barrel empty and the other loaded and cocked. His friends and family declare that death was due to accident and that the gun was discharged while he was climbing through the fence. The coroner will investigate.

Passport Fees Abolished.

COLON, Colombia, Dec. 19.—The Colombian government has notified the agents here of steamship companies of the abolition of the fees formerly collected upon passports issued to persons leaving Colon. The other fees collected from passengers leaving Colombian ports are still enforced. The abolition of the passport fees is the first step in the reduction of the war taxes. A recent decree of the Colombian government orders the nomination of electoral councils on the 1st of January in the capital of each department.

PRESIDENT OF COUNCIL.

When the members of the Common Council for 1903 meet in caucus tomorrow evening, they will undoubtedly select Councilman James F. Buckle as the member to preside over their deliberations during the coming year. The honor comes naturally to Mr. Buckle as the oldest member of the Council. He is also entitled to recognition on the part of his associates for his long and faithful services as a member of the Council.

Mr. Buckle is one of those men who believe that it is the duty of every citizen to devote a cerain portion of his time to the good of the community. For five years, Mr. Buckle has been a member of the Council and he has labored in behalf of the city's interests just as conscientiously as he has looked after his own business affairs. He has done his best and while he may have occasionally made mistakes of judgment, no one can say that he has had any other interest than that of the city's good.

Being in business in this city and therefore available at any time, Mr. Buckle has been more prominent in the work of the Council than some other members. He has always been willing to do his full share of the work both in Council and committee, and has never shirked the duties or responsibilities, despite the fact that his services have always been without recompense. It is men like Mr. Buckle who have made Plainfield what it is and maintained its municipal affairs at their present high standard. There is little enough honor to the presidency of the Common Council but what there is it is most fitting that it should go to such a faithful public official as Mr. Buckle.

There is much need for the opening of the new power house of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, which is to be located at Cranford. There is power enough under oridnary conditions but snow, water and slush and the necessity of using the slow sweeper all combine to tie up the local system. One doesn't mind walking in good weather but stormy days are just the days that the trolleys are in demand and then it is that they begin to have their troubles. The public is willing to make some allowance for unfavorable conditions but it usually wants an occasional glimpse of a car. The company is hurrying the work on its new power plant and the completion of that plant will be the cause for general rejoicing on the part of both the company and the public.

Somerville is waking up. It wants to get in the same class with North Plainfield. It is now raising $5,000 which will go to a hardware novelty concern if it locates there. Somerville is not a wonderfully attractive place for a manufactury so it is not surprising that the concern requires some additional inducement. If the awakening process continues, however, there is reason to believe that the Somerset county seat will not be such an unattractive spot after all. As soon as they assume a really progressive pace, the people of Somerville will begin to have their troubles with the rest of that rural country, similar to North Plainfield's recent experiences.

Although Plainfield is not on the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad and will not gain any direct benefits from its proposed tunnel, the news that the New York Aldermen had granted a franchise to the Pennsylvania Railroad was well received in Plainfield. If the Pennsy is successful, it will be only a question of time before the Jersey Central and the other railroads with terminals in Jersey City make some arrangements, either individually or unitedly, to get their trains on the other side of the Hudson river without waiting for the comparatively slow ferryboats.

It has seldom fallen to the fate of any man to have his hands so full of international affairs as Herbert W. Bowen, American Minister to Venezuela. Not only have Great Britian, Germany and Holland confided their national interests to his keeping at Caracas in the absence of other representatives, but now announcement is made that the Italian Minister at Caracas has requested him to take charge of Italian interests in Venezuela, as the Minister was about leaving Caracas.

It is the wise Christmas shopper who goes to the local stores well in advance of the holiday and thereby avoids the disquieting rush and bustle of the day before Christmas when every employe of every store is trying to accomplish the impossible by being in four different places at the same time.

What a relief it is to read of the coal famine that exists in so many of the neighboring cities and towns and know that Plainfield is well supplied.

ELECTION AND SOCIAL.

At Last Night's Meeting of Willing Workers of Trinity Church.

Election of officers and a social time were the features of the meeting of the Willing Workers of the Trinity Reformed church last evening when they met at the home of Mrs. LeRoy DeCamp, of Mountain avenue. During the evening a very fine picture was presented to the teacher, Horace J. Martin, by the pupils of his class.

The officers elected were, President, Mrs. R. Kenney; vice president, Miss Estella Boss; secretary, Mrs. Frank Platts; treasurer, Miss Sarah Hummer, chairman of the social committee, Mrs. LeRoy DeCamp; of the missionary committee, Mrs. L. Rosensteinl; of the visiting committee, Mrs. Jacob Higgins. The teachers' report showed that there is now $22 in the treasurer and in the secretary's report it was stated that there is a total membership of twenty-two.

A social was held after the meeting during which refreshments were served.

CENTRE OF ATTRACTION.

Paris Cloak Store's Holiday Display is Worth Attention.

The Paris Cloak Store is the centre of attraction for women who are looking for handsome silk waists, cloaks, furs, suitings and separate skirts. The holiday display at this store on West Front street is well worth inspection. The proprietor has a fine line of furs and in fact every department is filled with seasonable goods. One can easily find suitable holiday gifts at this store and at prices within the reach of all.

Holiday Pianos at Fischer's.

While the choicest products of manufacture in every department are on inspection for the holidays, an unusual display of pianos marks this season as one of the more than usual interest among the trade. The beautiful warerooms of J. & C. Fischer, No. 164 Fifth avenue, New York City, invite a visit because of the many pianos especially designed for the holiday season. Here may be seen the latest styles, and newest effects in case-architecture, and in choice, rare woods, a variety at once splendidly artistic and beautiful. The most exacting taste can here be gratified and at terms to suit everyone. Those who miss seeing the Fischer holiday display of unique and artistic pianos will certainly lose one delight of this festive season.

Worth Regular $5 to $6.50.

Ninety of them all told in the lot. There is quite a story in connection with these Rockers, but the long and short of it is that they should have arrived December 1 and have just got here. Naturally early comers will get the pick of them.

The car was one of the club cars which are run on the road and was being put up for the night. A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

I. N. Wyckoff has severed his connection with C. Conover & Company, painters and decorators, and has gone into the business for himself with office at 441 West Front street.

"Fairyland" is the way most people speak of the doll's hospital at A. M. Harper's store on Park avenue. There are countless things for the children, while the older folks will find many things for suitable presents.

Now is the time to place your orders for Christmas cakes with W. W. Warnock. This is one of his many specialties and one that has helped build the reputation of his bakery. He has also a fine lot of Schraff's chocolates for the holiday trade.

You will find sensible Christmas presents at Putnam & DeGraw's dry goods store. There is a large stock of goods in every department, including gloves for men and women, men's furnishings, and for the women there are many things to attract.

A sensible Christmas present for your wife or best girl would be one of Kurzhal's sweet singing canary birds. They are all guaranteed as represented and now is the time to make a selection while the assortment is large. Call and see them and hear the free concert at 110 West Second street.

Everybody has heard of Gold Medal flour. It is used the world over and has given universal satisfaction. For a short time Callahan & Son, of Richmond street, will give every Plainfield resident a chance to try it at the lowest price it has ever been sold locally. Don't miss this opportunity.

Novelties, novelties, everywhere in a continuous succession at Gavett's. At every turn there is something new to delight the eye. New designs in cut glass, many varieties, of chinaware, bric-a-brac and art adornments. Just at this time of the year Gavett's display is larger than ever and it is a treat just to look around.

Christmastide will be a merry one at L. W. Randolph's drug store in West Front street, where elaborate preparations are now under way to attract the people. Mr. Randolph has received a large stock of holiday goods, including toilet articles, Huyler's confection, the best perfumery and extracts. When the decorations are completed at the store they will be among the most attractive in the city.

Death of Dr. Stifler.

Many persons in Plainfield will learn with deep regret of the death of Rev. Dr. J. M. Stifler, of Crozier Theological Seminary, which occurred in Boston, Monday. He was a well-known Baptist divine and had preached several times in the First Baptist church. He was a man of unusual talent and a devout student of the Bible.

Record Breaking Safe.

The Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Company shipped from its local factory recently one of the largest vaults it has yet built. Its total weight is fifty-five tons and required a specially constructed car to transport it. The loading was done by the company's own cranes and men. It is intended for a bank in Troy, N. Y.

For New Nurses' Home.

CASTRO OBSTINATE.

Will Not Accept Anglo-German Ultimatum.

AWAITS REPLY FROM THE POWERS

"Venezuela," He Says, "Does Not Propose to Determine on Any Steps While Arbitration Proposal Remains Unanswered."

CARACAS, Dec. 19.—President Castro on being questioned regarding the report published in the United States that the Anglo-German ultimatum had been accepted by Venezuela became enraged and said that there was no truth in the report. He added:

"The acceptance of an ultimatum cannot be coupled with arbitration. Besides, the Anglo-German ultimatum is not properly speaking an ultimatum."

When asked if it was true that Venezuela was taking diplomatic steps to arrange for arbitration and that arrangements in this connection were well advanced, President Castro remarked:

"The government of Venezuela does not propose to determine on any steps while the proposition for arbitration that the legation of the United States was charged to present to Great Britain and Germany remains unanswered."

Late yesterday afternoon no answer on the subject of the proposed arbitration had been received from Washington.

Lopez Baralt, Venezuelan minister of foreign affairs, has transmitted to United States Minister Bowen a document signed by President Castro as constitutional president of the republic and countersigned by himself as minister of foreign affairs in which Mr. Bowen is recognized as the only representative of Venezuela in the matter of effecting a settlement of the present difficulty.

According to the terms of this document Mr. Bowen may act without restriction, and he is to use all means possible to protect the interests of Venezuela. The document was subjected to correction last night and again this morning before delivery. The state department at Washington has been notified of the transmission of this instrument to Mr. Bowen.

Events here are dependent upon the receipt through the state department of the answers of the governments of Great Britain, Germany and Italy to the proposal of arbitration advanced by Venezuela. These answers are expected today. Should they be favorable, the Venezuelan government strongly desires that a conference of the ambassadors of Great Britain, Germany and Italy to the United States then be held in Washington and that Mr. Bowen leave La Guayra Dec. 23 for the United States on board the Red "D" line steamer Caracas, which is due to reach New York Dec. 29. Mr. Bowen will meet the ambassadors in Washington. No meeting to discuss terms of settlement is to be held on Venezuelan soil.

Documents and letters which have been seized by the Venezuelan authorities are said to prove the connection of the Matos revolutionists with the recent demonstrations of the allies against Venezuela.

It is reported that since the capture of the Venezuelan fleet munitions of war have been shipped openly from Willemstad, Curacao, to points on the Venezuelan coast, and steamers are said to have sailed from Port of Spain, Trinidad, with the knowledge, it is alleged, of the British authorities there, bearing arms and ammunition to the Venezuelan revolutionists at Ciudad Bolivar, on the Orinoco river.

It is declared here that these statements if true sustain Venezuela's past assertions that Great Britain has been assisting the Matos revolutionary movement.

The revolutionists are showing signs of activity, but the Venezuelan government has taken steps to crush the new uprising.

MONEY WILL NOT SATISFY.

Germany Demands an Apology From Venezuela.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The state department has learned that, as reported in the Berlin dispatches, a mere money payment will not meet Germany's desires. Count Quadt, the German charge, had a long interview with Secretary Hay touching Venezuela, and the fact is now apparent that, while money will satisfy Great Britain and Italy, Germany must have an apology.

The difference between her case and that of the other powers is that the German legation at Caracas was attacked, its windows broken, the minister's sick wife terrorized and the German national honor otherwise touched in a manner that cannot be healed by money.

Touching the question of a guarantee of any obligations that may be assumed by Castro as a result of Mr. Bowen's good offices, it is suggested in official circles that, the United States being without power in the absence of legislation to assume direct any responsibility for the execution of Castro's pledges, it is still possible for the state department to give an assurance to any parties who might be induced to produce the money to pay the judgments against Castro that when the time comes for repayment the United States government would exercise its good offices to see that the obligations were kept.

It is distinctly stated, however, that no pledge will be made on the part of the United States to forcibly collect any indebtedness of this kind.

The state department is not informed by Minister Bowen, but President Castro has consented to surrender his prerogatives to Mr. Bowen and have him make the best terms he can.

State department officials are positive on this point, and they regard the news as premature, nothing having been heard from Minister Bowen.

But even if it is true it can only be the first step. The difficulties in the way of settling the matter by arbitration are so great as to be discouraging. In the first place Venezuela would have only her customs receipts to offer.

These are already mortgaged to France, and France is already engaged in collecting the customs and applying them to the extinguishment of her claims. In addition to this there would probably be great difficulty in the various powers agreeing.

ENGLAND ACTS SECRETLY.

Result of Cabinet Meeting Not Made Public.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—It is not apparent that anything definite has resulted from the cabinet meeting with regard to the transmission by the government of the United States of Venezuela's request for arbitration.

Charge d'Affaires White was in touch with the foreign office throughout the day. He transmitted a long dispatch to the state department at Washington, but this communication is not believed to contain anything in the nature of a final decision. All negotiations are being conducted with extraordinary secrecy, but it is thought probable that Mr. White's dispatches to Washington have conveyed inquiries from the British government with regard to Secretary Hay's views as to the possibility of Venezuela carrying out the award of arbitrators. It may be stated authoritatively that Great Britain is making strenuous efforts to induce the United States to guarantee Venezuela's compliance with the findings of arbitration.

Inquiries made at the foreign office subsequent to the cabinet meeting brought no response.

Germany Wants an Apology.

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—Aside from the financial claims mentioned in her ultimatum, Germany expects some form of apology from Venezuela for the diplomatic insults which the foreign office says are more serious and more gross than those of which Great Britain complains. The foreign officials point out that Premier Balfour's remark in the British house of commons about Germany having other than financial claims must be understood as applying to diplomatic reparation for these insults and not to a material indemnity, like money or territory.

Venezuelan Schooner Captured.

LA GUAYRA, Dec. 19.—The German cruiser Falke, which has been anchored for the past two days at the entrance of Lake Maracaibo, yesterday captured the Venezuelan schooner Victoria. After cutting down her mainmast, thus disabling her, the Germans abandoned the vessel. This action has caused great indignation among the Venezuelans, and excitement runs high at Maracaibo, where the people have been parading the streets uttering cries against Great Britain and Germany.

Legal Complication In Settling Affairs of Asphalt Companies.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 19.—The Land Title and Trust company of Philadelphia as trustees for holders of gold certificates of the Asphalt Company of America instituted suit in the United States circuit court during the day against Henry Tatnall and John M. Mack, receivers for the Asphalt Company of America and the National Asphalt company. The object of the suit is to have the holders of the gold certificates given preference over the holders of preferred and common stock and also to foreclose a mortgage held by the Land Title company.

The petitioners ask that securities amounting to nearly $1,000,000 and $1,080,540 in cash and demand notes of the subsidiary companies be devoted to the paying off of the holders of the gold certificates of the Asphalt Company of America.

Lighthouse Keeper Drowned.

ST. GEORGE, N. B., Dec. 19.—Warren Davidson, lighthouse keeper on the Wolves islands, in the Bay of Fundy, was drowned Tuesday by the upsetting of his lobster boat. His wife saw the accident as she stood in the lighthouse tower. The Wolves are uninhabited save for the light keeper's family. Signal fires were noticed from the mainland at Black's harbor, and a boat went to the island, returning with word of the accident.

Mrs. Greenleaf's Will.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 19.—The will of Mary Longfellow Greenleaf, sister of the late poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, just filed at East Cambridge for probate, disposes of $215,000 in personal property and $10,000 in real estate. Many charitable institutions are remembered, public bequests aggregating $83,000. Most of the public bequests go to Episcopalian institutions in this state.

The Giving Of Christmas Presents

THE library in the home of Mrs. Richly might easily be mistaken for a department store. It is nearly filled with all sorts of objects from a Louis XV. miniature costing a thousand dollars to a mechanical pony for little Tom Richly and half a dozen aprons for the cook. In the midst of this confusion Mrs. Richly's secretary wanders, pencil and paper in hand, trying to bring order out of chaos. Mrs. Richly herself lounges in a chair and lazily surveys operations.

"There now," she remarks, "do you think you have them all straight? I really have a score of things to attend to and can't waste any more time over Christmas presents. What a bother Christmas is anyway! Now see that they are wrapped up nicely in that white paper and tied with pink baby ribbon. You'll find a ball of it in that piece of brown paper. And, above all, don't forget to erase the price marks and to inclose my cards."

So much for Christmas in the Richly house, a mere matter of driving around to a few shops, of having a few things charged and sent home and of making the intelligent secretary do them up and inclose the proper sentiments.

It's a little different matter in Mrs. Stingybody's household. That lady, had she been of a different sex, would doubtless have been a successful financier. Christmas with her is purely a business proposition. It means the smallest outlay possible with the largest results. For weeks Mrs. Stingybody has haunted bargain sales, where things were to be found almost as good as certain other things which they resembled and which cost twice as much. All these $1.98 and $2.69 articles she carefully frees from all identifying marks and then sends them out beautifully done up in pink or blue cotton batting, which costs next to nothing, in boxes bearing the names of well known "swell" stores. I forget to add that one whole closet in Mrs. Stingybody's house is devoted to these boxes, which she collects during the year. She has the list of her friends carefully marked out and each one graded according to her future usefulness. The gifts are sent accordingly.

This sounds pretty bad; but, take my word for it, there are a great many women who, consciously or otherwise, follow Mrs. Stingybody's method.

Mrs. Largefamily's large family has resolved itself into a committee on ways and means. Money is scarce. There is always a pair of boots or a dress to be bought when least expected, or, worse still, doctors' bills. Still family pride makes the Largefamilys give out the same number of presents every year. If they did not, they have the firm idea that their position in their little circle would be lost forever. So each of the Misses Largefamily exploits her particular talent, or, rather, the talent she fondly believes she has. Amelia paints lopsided calendars, Bessie embroiders (?) impossible centerpieces, and even little Mary steals the time from her lessons to make wabbly pincushions. These works of art cause more than one pang of anguish among the recipients, for of course they have to be placed in conspicuous positions and kept there for a couple of months at least. However, no one has the courage to acquaint the Largefamilys with the fact that their friendship would be just as much appreciated without their gifts.

FLOWERS TO THOSE WHO CANNOT AFFORD THEM.

Take it all in all, I think Miss Bachelorgirl's way is the best. Her income is small, and so she doesn't try to give presents to all the people she knows in town. What she does select, though, while inexpensive, is in good taste and sure to give pleasure to the one who receives it. If she has to choose between a poor and a rich friend, the poor friend gets the present every time, and it doesn't take the form of the ugly serviceable things so many women make the mistake of giving to their less fortunate sisters. No, indeed! Miss Bachelorgirl's presents are meant to be rays of sunshine. She sends a bunch of violets to the struggling typewriter who can never afford flowers and a print of some fine old painting to make beauty in the little teacher's gloomy hall bedroom.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1901, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

"True, but not to the point. I know what you are doing. You are on the kidnapped millionaire case."

"Some one must have told you. The witness refuses to commit himself. Will you have another drink?"

They had several. Under their influence Seymour told Dick Bender his mission, but was too discreet to reveal any information which had been received from New York. He invited Mr. Bender to take dinner with him, and that gentleman was too polite to refuse.

When Mr. Seymour awoke the following afternoon he was in a narrow bunk, which seemed to rise and fall as to the heave of a ship. He ascribed this to natural causes and went to sleep. When he again awoke it was dark. For a moment he lay quiet. To his ears came the splash of waters and the groaning and muttering of a ship. By the smoky light of a lantern he found his clothes scattered on the floor. He put them on as fast as possible, but the operation was delayed by the swaying of the room. The heavy breathing of a sleeper in an opposite bunk seemed to beat time to the motion of the ship. Seymour opened the curtains and peered in. It was Mr. Dick Bender. Seymour shook him savagely.

"Wake up, Bender!" he said as he clawed the sleeper around the bunk. "Wake up! We are kidnapped by pirates!"

Bender opened his eyes, blinked, groaned, and dropped back into an untroubled sleep. Seymour again aroused him.

"We are kidnapped, I tell you!" he said in a hoarse whisper. "Wake up, and prepare to die like a man!"

"Forget it!" said Mr. Bender, and he again closed his eyes. But Seymour was persistent, and finally succeeded in arousing the drowsy Bender. While he was dressing, the door opened and a broad-shouldered sailor stepped into the apartment. Seymour looked for a weapon, but there was none in sight. The man surveyed them calmly for a moment and said:

"I thought I would come and wake you all up. When you gets on your togs, come on deck. You must be hungry by this time."

Seymour looked at him doubtfully.

"Who are you?" he asked.

"First mate," said the man.

"First mate of what? You don't look like a pirate."

The man laughed with a chuckle which rumbled from the depths of a massive chest.

"Guess you gents is a bit mixed," he said. "Forgotten me, hev ye? I'm first mate of the schooner 'Sam Walker.' You knew me last night all right."

"You have slipped my memory since," said Seymour. "Where are we, and where are we supposed to be going?"

"Come on deck," said the first mate. "It is hot below. Come on deck and meet Captain Parker. Prob'ly you know him better," and the sailor opened the door and went away.

"Well, what do you think of this?" said Seymour as he sat down on the edge of the bunk to collect his thoughts. "Do you know anything about it, Bender?"

"Not a thing," said that gentleman. "I remember meeting some sailor men somewhere. That's all."

They stumbled through a passageway and up a narrow flight of stairs. A draught of fresh night air struck their faces and was delightfully cool and refreshing. The outline of a short, stocky seaman, with a gleam of gold braid on shoulders and cap, was silhouetted at the head of the winding stairs. He stepped forward as Seymour and Bender came in sight.

"Haouw de ye dew, Mr. Seymour?" he said, extending a large, freckled hand, which Mr. Seymour grasped rather cautiously. "Haouw air ye, Mister Bender? Did ye sleep sound?"

"I should say we did," said Seymour, reassured by the cordiality of the greeting and by the honest face of the Yankee skipper. "We are a bit mixed about this voyage, Captain. How did we come aboard, and where are we headed for?"

"I reckon you boys war a bit slewed up last night, or rather this mornin'," said Captain Parker. "Ain't ye hungry? I reckon so. Ther cook has somethin' ready for ye. Come on and eat it while it's good and hot, and I will tell ye all erbout it."

They went into the little cabin. The darkey cook appeared with a steaming dish of steak, some hot corn bread, baked potatoes, coffee and vegetables. The voyagers fell upon the savory spread with avidity.

After eating a few minutes Seymour said to the captain: "Kindly explain to us how we happen to enjoy your hospitality on the good ship 'Sam Walker.'"

It was a long story, but the essence of it was that Bill Howe, the first mate of the "Sam Walker," was on shore leave, and at an early hour had met the convivial Seymour and Bender. They had declared the sailor the best fellow in the world, and would not listen to his departure.

"You and Bill hove in sight about [illegible] o'clock this mornin'," said Capt. Parker, as he passed the steak to Seymour for the third time. "Of course, I seen that ye was a bit under the weather, but ye talked all square and fair, sayin' ye wanted to take a cruise, and when I said the 'Sam Walker' wuz goin' to Havana, you said that wuz the place ye wanted ter go tew. So you paid me the money for passage for both of ye, and we cast off and headed out inter the Gulf erbout eight o'clock this ere mornin'. Ye fooled aroun' awhile, clim out on ther bowsprit, did various monkeyshines, and then went below. That's all thar is tew it," and Capt. Parker laughed with a vigor hearty and pleasing.

"From early childhood I have longed to go to Ha ana," said Mr. Seymour. "Why I should select this special time is not readily apparent, but it is well. Cheer up, Bender! Once again an aqueous toast to Capt. Parker and his gallant crew."

Having done ample justice to the food before them, the voyagers followed Capt. Parker to the deck of the vessel. The "Sam Walker" was a large, three-masted schooner. They found seats on the after deck. A big Swede stood at the wheel, and lazily revolved it as the fresh breeze came in irregular gusts from the southwest. The air was fragrant with the odor of newly-sawed lumber, and Seymour noticed, for the first time, that the decks between the masts were piled high with timber.

WHITE HOUSE CHANGES.

Guests at First Formal Dinner Note Great Improvements.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The president and Mrs. Roosevelt gave a dinner at the White House last night in honor of the cabinet, to which a large number of other guests also were invited. It was the first formal evening function at the White House since its remodeling and gave the guests an opportunity to view the many changes which have been made in the interior of the mansion. The table was set in the new state dining room, which has been considerably enlarged, thus obviating the necessity of holding the large dinners in the east room, to which resort was made during the last season. The room has been finished in English oak. The table was set in the form of a semicircle, and the decorations were mainly red and white roses.

The guests found many changes had been made in the interior of the house since last summer. The greatest object of interest was the east room, which has been finished in white enameled woodwork, with Corinthian pilasters and panels, the windows being draped with curtains of a subdued yellow.

The old chandeliers have been removed, and in their place are others designed in the form of a cascade of crystal in loops and festoons of cut glass, each chandelier being composed of 7,000 pieces. In the corners of the room are golden stands, surmounting which are clusters of Roman electric lights, while the old fashioned mantelpieces have been supplanted by others of varicolored marble. The red, blue and green parlors also have undergone a complete renovation and make a rich showing in their respective colors. Each room has been supplied with new furniture of exquisite workmanship.

The main feature of alteration as one enters the house is the removal of the stained glass partition which separated the vestibule from the long red corridor back of it, thus making the whole one large open space and giving a free space for moving and accommodating the large crowds which attend the evening receptions. Clusters of Roman lights on golden stands also adorn this portion of the house. The old mirrors in the vestibule have been removed, and larger ones reaching almost to the ceiling have been put in their places.

The general effect of the lower portion of the house, with the exception of the state dining room and the several parlors, is white, conforming to the outside appearance of the house and in keeping with the name of the mansion itself.

A GREAT WATERWAY.

A Scheme to Reclaim Thousands of Acres in Indiana.

CROWN POINT, Ind., Dec. 19.—Preliminary steps are under way in the northwestern counties of Indiana, including Laporte, Starke, Porter, Lake and Jasper, to construct what probably will be the largest artificial waterway of its kind east of the Mississippi river. When completed, it will reclaim hundreds of thousands of acres of Kankakee marsh lands now regarded as worthless.

A contract has been let for the first fourteen miles in Laporte and Starke counties for $120,000. The ditch will be 80 feet wide and 16 feet deep. It is the plan of the other counties to continue the ditch to the Illinois state line, a distance of sixty miles. The total cost will be about $1,000,000.

The project has been taken up by the owners of large ranches along the Kankakee. The payment is to be made by assessments on benefits derived from the ditch.

Pottery Manufacturers Reorganize.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 19.—After a two days' conference the Associated Pottery Manufacturers, including 150 firms, succeeded in reorganizing the National Association of Operative Potters, giving to its executive committee full administrative powers. The association will handle all sales of its members. W. E. Wells of East Liverpool, O., was elected president and John Moses of Trenton, N. J., vice president. The executive committee will select the other officers later. The association recognizes two territories for the operation of its authority, the eastern and western.

Inauguration Appointments.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 19.—The secretary of state has formally appointed as grand marshal of the inauguration day parade Major Hyatt of the Tenth battalion, national guard, and chief of police of Albany. Bishop Donne has been invited to offer the inauguration prayer.

Many Women Voted.

FISHKILL LANDING, N. Y., Dec. 19.—Many women voted on a $140,000 appropriation for sewer construction here. J. Harvey Cook, an attorney, filed a protest at the polls against women voting, contending that the constitution gave the sex no [illegible] ...llege.

Six Thousand Dollars Stolen.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Dec. 19.—A special from Mullins, Marion county, S. C., says the bank at that place was broken open, the safe dynamited and about $6,000 in cash stolen. The work bears evidence of professional cracksmen.

A new idea in entertaining the members of the Junior League, of the First M. E. church, was introduced at a gathering held yesterday afternoon. The children assembled in the basement of the church at 6 o'clock and from then until 9, enjoyed an "indoor picnic."

All the games were played and refreshments were served just as if the gathering was a picnic in the woods. The fun was thoroughly enjoyed as everybody entered in the spirit of the occasion. Mrs. Charles Shupp was in charge and she was assisted by Miss Helen Shupp and Rhey T. Snodgrass.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A few days ago a funeral was passing down Front street and the large number of carriages in line attracted attention but at the very end of the cortege was a coal wagon driven by a sleepy colored man and drawn by two seedy looking white nags covered with coal dust. The contrast between the fine carriages and the ramshackle coal cart was noticed by many people who were on the street at the time.

"Did you ever notice to what extent a man is a slave of the tobacco habit?" querried a man of an observing turn of mind to a Daily Press reporter yesterday. "For instance," he continued, "during the past few days of cold weather the travel on the local trolley road has been very heavy and while the women and the men who do not smoke huddled next to the stove in the interior of the cars the smokers stood on the rear platform contentedly puffing on a cigar or pipe almost unmindful of the fact that their feet and bodies were nearly freezing." Strange isn't it," remarked the thoughtful thinker as he contemplatively threw away half of a cigar as he alighted from the Dunellen car.

EVERYONE HAS CHANCE TO REMODEL CAREER

Lesson Drawn by Rev. Dr. John N. Freeman Preaching at Crescent Ave. Church.

FROM BIBLICAL WORDS

STORY AS TOLD IN JEREMIAH OF POTTER AND MARRED VESSEL.

Even After Life Has Been Marred It Can be Molded Into a Career, Useful If Not As Beautiful As It Was Before.

From a text found in the book of Jeremiah and in the fourth verse of the eighteenth chapter, Rev. Dr. John N. Freeman, of New York City, preached an inspiring sermon at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Sunday evening. Dr. Freeman is the pulpit supply at the church during the months of December and January.

The text related the story of the prophet who, on visiting a pottery, saw the potter molding a vessel which, becoming marred, was crushed and while still in the wet clay was molded into another vessel which, while not as handsome in design, was none the less useful when it was completed. With this object lesson the minister molded a sermon in which he substituted for the vessel a human life and in a convincing comparison told how God molds a young life according to His ideal but which is very often marred by the sins and temptations of the world and, instead of throwing that human vessel aside as worthless, He reshapes it and makes of it a useful disciple.

In opening his sermon the minister said that his text was one of many which are to be found in the book from which the text was taken. It is a homely illustration but full of helpful teaching.

He said that in the very next chapter the prophet relates another object lesson in which he tells of a vessel which was cast aside and was broken but which was of no more use because it had been broken into a thousands fragments and was therefore beyond the skill of the potter to reshape into another vessel. With the former illustration in mind the preacher told how Israel was molded in the clay period of its existence by the hand of God according to His high ideals but when that nation turned away at its own evil dictates it became marred but God, still not caring to turn it aside, made of the marred nation another one which was not quite according to His ideals, as it continued to show the mark of the marring. The people became corrupted among nations but God gave them another chance and it had to begin anew but it never attained the lofty ideal of God. It is the same way today, with nations, as it was then. As it is true of nations, the same is true of living souls.

God, continued the speaker, has a divine plan for each one but how few can go from childhood to old age without being marred. How few cases are there like that of Samuel and in how many cases are the lives of people devoted to fighting the scars of sin of the first half of their lives in their declining years. God will give every man a chance, the minister declared. Every man has his choice to accept or to refuse. The potter is not to blame and neither is the clay. The pastor cautioned his hearers, in applying the figure to nature, not to over draw it.

God never accidentally nor deliberately mars a life. It is marred by refusing to adhere to God's ideal and then comes discouragement, dispair and ruin to many, and it is then that the spirit of evil sorely tempts the unhappy victim. "Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest is these: 'It might have been.'"

It is at this time, the speaker said, that God molds out of the old a new life. It may not be as perfect as the first was intended to be; but is better to have an inferior vessel than no vessel at all. There is a chance for all, continued the minister fervently, and God will give each one that chance. He said that if the first chance was missed He will make another attempt to make that spirit better than it was at first.

ONCE OWNED BY MARTINE

HOUSES ON SITE OF PROPOSED RAILWAY TUNNEL TERMINUS.

Daniel Martine Owned Houses in New York, and Once Occupied One of Them.

Even in the sale of the great plot of land in New York which will be used for the new Pennsylvania terminus in that city Plainfield is represented and thus takes its place, as in many of the big doings in New York, by figuring in the recent deal.

At the corner of Thirty-third street and Ninth avenue, directly facing the plot of ground purchased, Daniel Martine, the father of James E. Martin, of this city, once owned a large row of houses and lived there for some time with his family. He afterwards moved out and came to this city but rented the houses out to tenants. Some time afterwards he sold the property to a man named White, who is said to have been the owner of the place when it was bought by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

The cottages are still standing on the site today but are now used as stores and their appearance has been altered greatly. The property has increased in value greatly since Mr. Martine's father owned them as at that time there were but few houses in that section of the town which was considered by the inhabitants of New York to be far out in the country.

HE ELOPED WITH TWELVE

UNKNOWN MAN VISITED HEN HAREM OF D. F. DRAKE, OF THE BOROUGH.

Left Portion of Trousers Behind, But Departed With Twelve Fine Hens.

Somebody in the borough is making sure that he will get a good Christmas dinner even should the snow cover the housetops. That person, whoever he is, paid a friendly visit to the hennery of D. F. Drake, of 91 Jefferson avenue, Thursday evening, and after a brief interview with the frightened inmates eloped with twelve fine hens. The fellow must have been inclined somewhat to the Mormonistic idea of elopement but his impropriety may be overlooked when it is understood that Mr. Drake considered them twelve of the best lookers in his chicken Harem.

The elopement was effected in a very romnatic fashion. The lover of the fair chickens came in the middle of the night and instead of entering through the open gate he climbed over the back fence, tearing his trousers. This is known to be true because a piece of cloth two and a half inches long by three and a quarter inches wide was found on the fence by the irate guardian of the missing hens yesterday morning.

The midnight intruder found in the yard a spade and with this he forced open the front door of the chicken house, which had been nailed fast the night before by the landlord so as to prevent the inmates leaving the house without his permission.

When the door was opened, the intruder found the ones he loved inside and offered to them his arm. Others in the house cried out loudly but it was all in vain for the twelve hens and their suitor disappeared over the fence and have not been seen since, while that part of the household which was left are now scratching gravel behind a loaded gun that stands without hitching and goes off at the sight of a midnight intruder.

It all came about through the boarding mistress going out and leaving the canine locked in the house. When she returned the scene of devastation that greeted her eyes made her hurry to the city clerk's office and get an attachment on the officer's salary for the next year. The dog had evidently gotten restless or hungry and had chewed up three pairs of lace curtains, a pair of shoes, part of the stair carpets, a table cover and had apparently tried to bite has name in the front part of the piano.

When interrupted he was just taking a fresh hold on the leg of a mahogany hand carved parlor table and outside assistance had to be secured to make him let go.

REPEAT SENIOR PLAY WITH MUCH SUCCESS

Large Audience Well Pleased at Shakespearean Effort of City High School Seniors.

IT WAS VERY CLEVER

SELECTED SCENES TAKEN FROM "A MID-SUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM."

As "Nick Bottom," Robert W. Meeker Made a Decided Hit—All the Members of the Cast Did Well—Informal Dance Followed.

Senior dramatics of the City High School lost nothing in their repetition at the Franklin school hall last evening. The audience, which crowded the hall, found the scenes from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" highly edifying for the members of the cast gave a really creditable performance and several of them displayed talent that was worthy of all the pleasant things said afterward. The limited stage accommodations and the lack of elaborate setting for the different scenes somewhat handicapped them but there was good material there and the entertainment which the class of 1903 provided was altogether a satisfactory one.

Without doubt, the greatest hit of the play was made by Robert W. Meeker, who took the part of "Nick Bottom," the weaver. The scenes selected were those which included the experiences of "Nick" and his frineds, his thrilling encounter with the fairies and the production of that wonderful drama in the palace of the Duke of Athens. Meeker's part was without doubt the most difficult of any and he took it with a spontaniety and freedom of self-consciousness that could not help but please all who saw it.

All of the band of mechanics were good but Norman Hill managed to get a wonderful lot out of a minor part and his continual byplay was highly entertaining. The fairies were good and "Puck" altogether pleasing. So was the "Duke" and the members of his court. Albert D. Beers, who originally played the part of "Philostrate," was ill and Harold Brown and Michael Moynihan divided the part between them. Mrs. Charles L. Lewis acted as pianist in the quartette which rendered the obligato to the play.

Those who saw the first night's performance declared the second was even more successful and there were only words of the highest commendation for the really clever rendition of Shakespeare's famous comedy. There were also many congratulations for Miss Katherine Ball, who did most of the coaching for the play. The members of the class were well satisfied as the net proceeds of the two performances will amount to $120. An informal dance followed the play to which many of the guests remained.

Turkeys as a rule are giving the butchers a wide berth these days but Smalley Brothers, of North avenue, have captured a fine lot of them for the Christmas trade. They also have some good chickens as well as meat at the proper prices.

You will find many choice Christmas gifts at Dudley S. Miller's drug store in Park avenue. His stock of goods comprises toilet articles, hair brushes, perfumery and a large assortment of confectionery of the best makes. Mr. Miller is sure he can please his patrons.

"What is worth doing at all is worth doing well," Shaw says, and therefore he has made no half-way preparations for the Christmas trade. His stock of toilet articles is something exceptional. And don't forget that Shaw always has the standard preparations and makes a specialty of prescription work.

If you are perplexed about the kind of Christmas gift to make, go to Charles E. Vail's jewelry store in Park avenue, and you will have no trouble in your selection. He has an unusually fine line of the best silverware, diamonds, watches, etc. He guarantees all goods to be as represented and the prices right.

During Christmas week, the A. and P. Tea Company will play Santa Claus to Plainfield people. To all purchasers of its incomparable goods at the local store on West Front street, handsome presents of china, bric-a-brac and fancy ware will be made. This is an excellent opportunity to secure useful and ornamental articles for the home.

Some of James R. Blair's offerings for Christmas customers may be summarized as follows: Hats, umbrellas, dress suit cases, Dents' gloves for dress and driving, sweaters, such as makes the heart of the small boy and his big brother rebound with joy, and some of the finest neckwear in the city. He has lots of other things which make excellent presents, too.

Florida oranges have been coming north in very heavy shipments this winter and at W. W. Dunn's, Park Grocery, one may select the best at the most reasonable prices. His mince meat is the best that is made and is sold in air tight jars. He has some of "Ye Olde Plum Puddyngs" which are unexcelled. By Bribing the Nerves with opium a cough may be stopped temporarily, but the inflammation of which the cough is a symptom goes from bad to worse. Do not waste time and money on delusive "cough mixtures." Remember that Allen's Lung Balsam does not merely put the nerves to sleep. It gets right down to the root of the trouble and so cures even deep-seated affections of the throat and lungs.

THEATRICAL.

After considerable negotiating, Manager Schorb, of the Central Theatre, has arranged for a return engagement of little Ethel Dyffren and her strong company which delighted large audiences at the local playhouse, recently. It will begin Monday evening and will continue for one week, a different play being given each night. The company is made up of first-class talent under the management of Enos Dyffren and presents only standard attractions. Little Ethel, although but twelve years of age, has already developed strong powers as an actress and has a voice of rare sweetness for one of her age. The usual prices will prevail during the company's engagement.

Out of the five musical shows now running in Boston, about the only one not seriously affected by last week's record-breaking storms was the merry "Sultan of Sulu," by George Ade, of "Fables in Slang" fame. From all reports this happy combination of snappy sstire and catchy melodies has made the biggest kind of a hit with Boston music lovers. It might continue indefinitely at the Tremont, except for the fact that Henry W. Savage has contracted to give the famous piece a Broadway production at Wallack's one week from next Monday. Those who have seen the witty opera declare that "The Sultan of Sulu" will give New York theatre-goers a new comic opera sensation.

Christmas week at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, will see a revival of the English melodrama, "The Bells of Haslemere," with Minnie Seligman and William Bromwell in the leading parts. A well arranged holiday bill will serve to entertain the patrons of the Twenty-third Street Theatre. A special Yuletide production will be given in the little Dickens playet, "The Holly Tree Inn," in which a pretty Christmas story is well told. Press Eldridge, "The Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of Fun" will return after an absence of several weeks with a new series of parodies and stories. At One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street an elaborate production of Robert N. Stephens' famous melodrama "Alone in New York." The Fifty-eighth Street Company will present a sumptuous scenic revival of "Woman Against Woman," a sensational melodrama. In Newark, Valerie Dergere, of "Mme Butterfly" fame, will be the topping feature of Proctor's vaudeville bill. She will be seen in a little playet "Billie's First Love," with a capable assisting company. Dixon, Bowers and Dixon, in an acrobatic singing and dancing turn, Alf Grant, in comedy monologue; Humes, Ross and Lewis, in a character skit; the Lowe-Hughes Trio and several other clever acts will make up the completed bill.

Awarded Judgment.

Lawyer V. W. Nash, Jr., represented the Robert Graves Company, of New York, in a case on contract in Justice W. E. Mattison's court in the borough yesterday when he was awarded judgment and costs amounting to over $100. The defendant was S. M. Sill, of the borough.

Hard Luck Enough.

Robert Hart, of the West End, who was arrested last Saturday and who broke his arm shortly after being temporarily released, was arraigned before City Judge Runyon, yesterday. As no disorder was connected with the case he received a suspension of sentence.

POSSIBLE CANDIDATES FOR IMPORTANT POSTS

Gossip About Probabilities in the Incoming Common Council of 1903.

BUCKLE FOR PRESIDENT

L. M. DANIEL WILL PROBABLY BE NEXT HEAD OF FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Frank Randolph Mentioned for Police Board Chairmanship—R. I. Tolles Will be Returned as Head of Street Committee.

"Yes," said a prominent city officials, yesterday afternoon, while discussing the probabilities for the incoming Council, "I think without a doubt that Mr. Buckle will be the president of the Council for 1903. Only don't quote me." On being assured that his name would not be used, the speaker continued.

"Mr. Buckle has served the city well and the honor is only due him for the faithful and valuable way in which he has served the city. He will be missed, though, at the head of the police board.

"Will Councilman Gloak succeed him there? I doubt it. It would not do, you know, to give all the good things to the First ward. With the president of the Council and the chairman of the street committee from that ward, it would be in better taste to let the chairmanship of the police board go elsewhere. Yes, I think without question that Councilman Tolles will be reappointed at the head of the street committee. He has been a particularly valuable man there and the harmony which has existed between Mr. Tolles and Street Commissioner Gavett is another reason for his return to the post.

"I don't know who will be chairman of the police committee. It is quite likely to be Councilman Randolph, of the Fourth, as he has taken much interest in that department. I suppose if Councilman Lee, of that ward, should desire a change from the head of the fire committee to that of police, he might have it. There's just a chance that Counciman vanHerwerden, of the Second, will be given it but I understand that he is going to be away some of the time and does not care to head any of the very important committees for that reason although he would have taken the presidency, I imagine, if it had been tendered to him.

"It was thought that there would be some difficulty in filling the place of Councilman Mellick as head of the finance committee but I guess there's no doubt now that his successor will be Councilman Daniel. He has been working on that committee and has shown special aptitude there.

"We have strong hopes that the two newcomers, Messrs. Garrigues and Tyler, will prove valuable members of the Council. Both of them have shown a deep interest in the work before them and a disposition to take hold without any delay. If I mistake not you will see them assigned to several important committees and it may not be long before they take a prominent part in the proceedings of the Council.

"It was a very harmonious Council we had last year and there is no reason to believe that it will be otherwise in '03. I really can't say what is likely to be the most important work of the year for there is no telling what may come up. If Mayor Jenkins' suggestions of public parks and a public lake are taken up, I believe that they will be one of the most important improvements that will have been given to the people of Plainfield for many ears."

BOYS BOWLED.

Harry Gilmore Won the Tournament for Boys of the Y. M. C. A.

The others finished as follows: 471, 414 and 363. The prize of a handsomely finished bowling ball with a silver plate on it was awarded to the winner, Harry Gilmore.

NEW SANITARY CODE.

On the second page of today's issue of The Daily Press will be found the complete text of the new sanitary code, just passed on its third reading by the Plainfield Board of Health. It is a public document of unusual importance to the community and, while quite voluminous, it should be read carefully by every citizen. Of course, there are some parts which may not interest many but portions of the new code affect us all and every citizen should get acquainted with its important provisions.

This code is really a revision of the old one, which has been enlarged and improved making it probably one of the most elaborate ordinances of its kind in force in any city in New Jersey. Its most important difference from the old ordinances is that it provides at length for the control of the milk supply under the provisions of the State law. Where, under the present ordinance, certificates are given out by the board to those milk dealers who conform with certain requirements of the board, the new code provides that every dealer who sells milk in the city must first receive a permit. The requirements are not as stringent as those which are provided for the present certificates but every dealer is now compelled to observe them. The dealers are also required to furnish, on demand, a complete list of sources of supply and of the customers.

While it has been customary to require all master and foremen plumbers to register with the board, a bond of $200 must now be given to ensure proper performance of work according to the terms of the code. The sanitary rules governing plumbing remain as before except that a smoke test is added to the present water test for newly installed plumbing.

Of the several additions made to the chapter of general nuisances, the one which will probably interest the public the most is the provision declaring dogs which continually howl at night to the disturbance of the neighbors a public nuisance. Failure to remove nuisances makes one liable to a fine.

Another advantage of the new code is that the amount of the fine is left to the discretion of the magistrate, a minimum amount of $2 and a maximum amount of $50 being fixed in most cases. It has often been the case that there are extenuating circumstances which make it advisible not to impose the full penalty. An arbitrary amount set for the fine has thus worked disadvantageously.

There is so much to the code that it is impossible to give but a very faint idea of even the important changes. It will be well, therefore, for everyone to look the code over and see for themselves just what the city requires. Every dealer in milk will without doubt look carefully into that subject but property owners, who have any occasion to have old plumbing altered or new installed will do well to take advantage of this chance to look into the details.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The death of Mrs. Margaret Pyatt, one of the oldest residents of this place, widow of the late Manning B. Pyatt, occurred yesterday at her home on New Market road. The deceased was eighty-seven years of age and had lived here since her tenth year. She is very well known among a large circle of friends. Mrs. Pyatt was a member of the New Market Baptist church and an active one until old age rendered her incapable of doing much. She is the mother of James M. Pyatt, the painter and paper hanger. Death was caused by paralysis with which she had been ailing for a long time. Funeral services will be held from her late residence on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in the cemetery at South Plainfield.

The scholars at Lincoln School celebrated the ending of school before the Christmas vacation yesterday by giving an entertainment. A number of pretty songs were sung and recitations given by the pupils in an excellent manner. Santa Clause was present and distributed presents of boxes of candy to the pupils.

A considerable number from here attended the performance of the "Midsummer's Night's Dream," which was given last evening by the senior class, of the Plainfield High School. Five members of that class come from here and New Market.

More complaints are being heard every day about the lack of light at the trolley terminus. Many women say that they are afraid to take a car there at night unless attended by an escort.

The cellar under the railroad station is being dug out by a gang of men. The cellar was in such a condition that it would be likely to breed disease if not cleaned out.

"Jeff" Davis, the proprietor of the waiting room at the terminus, has returned and opened his place now that the cold is over.

The death occurred yesterday of Nettie C., the young daughter of John Manning, of this place. She was only one year and seven months of age. Her mother has been dead for some time and the child has been living at the home of her grandfather, John Morris, of Piscataway. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the home of Mr. Morris.

Andrew Johnson, of this place, was fireman on an engine that was in a wreck at Whitehouse, on the Central Railroad early this morning. For a time it was reported that he had been killed but it proved false.

Pierce & Ward, the new grocery firm, started active operations this morning and will be found in the Coriell buildnig from now on.

Regular services will be held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church today.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The borough, which has been imposed upon for several years past by a gang of tramps which each winter have had a rendezvous in the big woods along Midway avenue, seems to be free from their trouble so far this season The efforts of the borough officials together with the railroad detectives made things so warm last winter for the hobos that they have probably decided to cut the borough from their list of pleasure resorts.

Thursday and Friday were the annual tax collecting days. Collector John L. Darby was on hand in the town rooms to help relieve the taxpayers of some of their superfluous cash. Those who availed themselves of the opportunity to meet him there will now have to either mail their money or journey to his home at Alton.

The Duyckinck property in Washington Valley, which was recently purchased by George Gould for the purpose of having a training stable for his polo ponies, will soon undergo a number of improvements as Mr. Gould intends to make the stable one of the best in the country.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be: Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching, 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting in the parlors of the church, 7; evening sermon by the pastor, 7:45.

The Misses Mary Westcott, May Shott and Addie Johnston, who are studying at Peddie Institute, Hightstown, will spend their two weeks' vacation at their homes.

From indications, Scoth Plains will enjoy a happy Christmas. Nearly every trolley car during the day unloads the local patrons loaded down with Christmas gifts.

Inspector John Fuller, of the Electric Light Company, continues to have trouble from the small boys breaking the electric light bulbs through the village and borough.

The live bird match between Poney Lambert and Fred Ivamy, held Thursday afternoon, was won by Lambert.

Naylor's orchestra, of Plainfield, will furnish the music for dancing at Ivamy's pavillion tonight.

The Township Committee will meet in the Township rooms Friday evening of next week.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Burglars entered the store of R. B. Manning & Brother last night by prying off the lock of the back door. The amount stolen is not yet known, but a number of small articles, such as pocket knives, and a quantity of old coins, pies and candy were taken from the store. The postoffice department was entered also, but only a few stamps were found and a registered letter. A few other letters were opened. Nothing was known of the robbery until the clerk came to the store this morning.

The little daughter of John Manning died yesterday morning at the home of John C. Morris, of Piscataway township, where the little one had resided under the care of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris, since the death of her mother about two years ago. The funeral service will be held at the home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, and will be conducted by Rev. J. A. Cubberley.

Rev. Dr. J. M. Stifler, whose death was published in yesterday's Press, was the pastor of J. A. Cubberley several years while the latter was a student in Colgate University, at Hamilton, N. Y.

Lewis D. Walker, of Piscataway, was in town yesterday. Mr. Walker is well-known as a model farmer, and is the owner of two farms in Piscataway township.

Special effort will be made to make the Christmas services tomorrow at the Baptist church enjoyable and profitable to all. A general invitation is extended.

John O'Keefe, whose foot was badly burned by an oil lamp about four weeks ago, is improving, but is not yet able to work.

George Bunting, whose membership in the I. O. F., is at Metuchen, is about to be transferred to the South Plainfield Court.

Mr. and Mrs. Mundy have moved into the house vacated by Cormack McDonough.

Walter Sisty will soon occupy Joel Compton's house on Front street.

His stock of English holly, imported mistletoe, Christmas trees, fruit, vegetables and nuts comprises a great variety to select from and cannot be surpassed. It is needless to say that Walsh's prices will be extremely low.

Last Chance to Pay.

The office of Tax Collector George F. Brown will remain open this evening until 9 o'clock so as to give all those who have not yet paid their taxes an opportunity of doing so before they become delinquent. Mr. Brown has hit upon a novel way of informing the people that this is the last day in which taxes will be received. He has placed on the front door of his office a number 20 almost a foot and a half high.

Fall May be Serious.

Miss Edna Sebring, the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sebring, of Somerset street, slipped on the ice on Wednesday afternoon and received injuries to her spine which has made it necessary to keep her confined to the bed. A physician was called in yesterday afternoon and he said that she gave her back a severe wrench which has strained the muscles to some extent.

Cold Comfort From Doctors.

Doctors say neuralgia is not dangerous. This is poor consolation to a sufferer who feels as if his face were pierced with hot needles and torn with a thousand pairs of pincers. A word of advice to him: stay indoors and use Perry Davis' Painkiller. The blessed freedom from pain which follows this treatment cannot be told. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

with a capital stock of $1,000,000, divided into shares par value of $1 each, full paid and forever non-assessable, offer to the public for a limited time only these shares at 10c each.

This company owns seven placer claims on Trout Creek in the famous Gold Belt district of Montana, one of the best paying districts in the world today. Last season three men on the same creek, with nothing but gold pans, took out over $60,000. Judge for yourself then what the profits will amount to when this company finish putting in their machinery. We propose to sell a small amount of this stock for the purpose of buying more amalgamaters and hydraulic elevators, at the extremely low price of

TALES OF VIOLENCE

Thirty Witnesses Relate Coal Strike Experiences.

BOYCOTTS, BEATINGS AND STONINGS

Men Who Remained at Their Posts In the Mines Were Submitted to All Sorts of Indignities by Alleged Strikers.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 20.—Nonunion men, some of their relatives and others to the number of thirty appeared before the anthracite coal strike commission yesterday and told their stories of alleged boycotts, intimidations, dynamiting and violence in various forms during the late strike. Each witness called was a sufferer in one form or another at the hands, they alleged, of union men. Four witnesses said attempts were made to blow up their houses, and one house was badly damaged. Many of the witnesses were threatened with bodily harm, several were beaten, one was shot in the leg and every one stoned, boycotted or hung in effigy. One schoolteacher testified to having lost his position because his father did not strike. One man was asked to resign from a Catholic temperance society, and another witness was expelled from a local lodge of the Ancient Order of Hibernians after a membership of twenty-six or twenty-eight years because they were classed as unfair workmen.

Joseph H. Dugan, the man who was requested to give up his membership in the temperance society remained at work, doing repair work and acting as a watchman. He wept while on the witness stand as he told of how they ordered him to leave after many years of pleasant social relations with its members. He was very active in the society and drilled many of those who have grown to manhood in the military branch of the society. He said he had been stoned and otherwise badly treated and added that a good clubbing would not hurt half as much as the action of the society in throwing him out of the organization. The boys he had drilled in the society stoned him on the highway, and when he displayed a revolver they all dropped flat on the road.

Chairman Gray asked the witness if he remained at work so that the pumps could be kept in good repair and thus keep the mines from being destroyed, and he said he did.

A Polander named Max Lasar, who did not quit when the strike was inaugurated, told of how a man threw a quart bottle of giant powder to which a lighted fuse was attached into the parlor of his home. He extinguished the fuse. The powder was shown to the commission.

Eugene Detty, who was not a mine worker and in no way connected with the strike, said he was going along a road at night and was mistaken for a nonunion man. He was so badly beaten that he was laid up for two months.

Thomas Kennedy, aged fifteen years, said he worked in a drug store in Carbondale. His father was an engineer in the employ of the Delaware and Hudson company and did not quit work when the strike started. The manager of the drug store, he said, was requested by a committee from the union to discharge him, and rather than have the store boycotted the druggist told the boy to quit. The father corroborated the story and added he had to keep his children from the public schools as they were being abused.

John Lewandofski, who worked during the strike for the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company, testified to an attempt to blow up his house with dynamite. The explosives and fuses were produced before the commission.

All the other witnesses testified to having been hung in effigy one or more times, that grocers, butchers, milkmen and icemen refused to serve them because they were afraid their business would be boycotted, and they were severely beaten and socially ostracized.

Much Forged Paper Circulated.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Louis Stern, a note broker, was arrested here while, it is asserted, he was attempting to dispose of alleged forged commercial paper amounting to $7,500. The police are also searching for a former prominent Philadelphia business man who is wanted on the charge of forging the alleged worthless paper. According to those who are prosecuting the case at least $20,000 worth of the alleged fraudulent paper has been circulated.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

WHITEHALL, N. Y., Dec. 20.—Horace Bemus was instantly killed, Charles Holcomb fatally injured and Frederick Bemus and Daniel Flaherty seriously hurt by the explosion of a boiler in the H. H. Mathews red slate quarry at East Whitehall. The body of Horace Bemus was thrown over a hundred feet, while the main part of the boiler was carried thirty rods from the place of the explosion.

State Boundary Guarded.

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y., Dec. 20.—In order to prevent the entrance into the state of cattle afflicted with foot and mouth disease the authorities have established a patrol of the line between Vermont and New York. The patrol is under the direction of Dr. C. H. Allen of the state health department.

Killed by Premature Blast.

YORK, Pa., Dec. 20.—Two men were killed by a premature blast in the quarries of the York and Peach Bottom Slate company at Delta. The victims were Thomas G. Williams, a foreman, and an unknown Italian laborer.

The PIANOLA

The means of obtaining Full Enjoyment from the Piano

The PIANOLA is an amplifier of or adjunct to the piano.
It is not mechanical, except as the best musician is mechanical.
It separates the technique from the expression.
It does all the hard, mechanical, drudging work and leaves the performer free to express his individuality.

There are probably one million useless pianos in this country, pianos that are not opened more than three or four times a year, and then they are opened for some visiting indifferent player, who, after years of instruction, plays but a few pieces and those not accurately.

We cannot all be Paderewskis or Hofmanns or Carreños, but the PIANOLA can and does do everything that the best musicians can do.

Any one can play upon his piano with the aid of a Pianola whether or not he knows one note from another.

There is nothing to be done but to control the expression. All the mechanical part is attended to by the PIANOLA.

The repertory of the great musicians averages fifty to one hundred compositions. There are at present available for the PIANOLA 8,385 selections and about two hundred new ones are added each month.

The PIANOLA is the most practical investment the owner of a piano could possibly make.

Playing upright piano with aid of Pianola.

The Pianola is an Ideal Christmas Gift

Instruments selected now will be reserved for Holiday delivery.

The cost of the Pianola is $250. Purchasable by monthly payments.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

"Hev a seegar," said Capt. Parker, passing a box to Mr. Seymour. "I kin afford to be generous, seein' as how you bought 'em. You gave me twenty dollars and told me to buy the best thar was; and I reckon you'll find them all right."

"You seem to be in the lumber trade," said Seymour, as he took a cigar and passed the box to Dick Bender.

"Yes, I haul a right smart of lumber an' stuff in the course of a year," said Capt. Parker. Like all New England Yankees who live in southern states, his dialect was a mixture of northern and southern idioms.

"You must know some contractors," said Seymour. Though his field of detective endeavor was limited to the area of a "lumber hooker," on the broad expanse of the Gulf of Mexico, the newspaper instinct was strong within him.

"Reckon I know erbaout all ther contractors in an' 'round New Orleans," said Capt. Parker, with some pride. "The 'Sam Walker' has carried many a batch of timber up an' down these here coasts."

"Did you ever carry any lumber for a man named Walter B. Hestor?" asked Seymour. "Talk about your thousand to one shots," he said to himself, "this certainly is one of them."

"Hestor?" said Capt. Parker reflectively. "Hestor? Thar ain't no contractor by that name that I ever heern on."

"He is not a contractor," explained Seymour. "He is a New York millionaire, whom I know very well. He built a house on some island in the West Indies a year or so ago."

"What sort of a man wuz he?" asked Capt. Parker. "What did he dew?"

"He did newspaper work for fun," said Seymour. "He had lots of money, and went all over the world looking for good stories."

"LET'S SEE; WHAT IN THUNDER WAS HIS NAME?"

"Did he own a yacht—a steam yacht?"

"Yes," answered Seymour, leaning forward in his excitement.

"Say, Bill!"

The first mate was talking with the Swede wheelsman. He stepped over and joined the group when Capt. Parker called him.

"What wuz ther name of that dude who owned the 'Shark'?" he asked. "You know who I mean. The one that Col. McIntyre built that air house for."

Seymour dropped his cigar. The temptation to yell almost overwhelmed him.

"Let's see; what in thunder was his name?" said the big sailor, removing his cap and running his hand through a mass of red hair. "Something like Hanson or Hampton. That ain't it. There was an 's' in it. He was an odd sort of a fish. Raising hell all the time. Let's see. Hisser, Hissor, Histor, Hestor—that's it. I knew dummed well I could think of it. He had the steam yacht 'Shark,' and a quiet sort of a chap named Waters was her captain. Mighty fine boat, the 'Shark!' Run like thunder and lightnin'! Why? What about him?"

Seymour gave Bender a violent kick on the shin.

"Nothin'. This here gentleman was askin' erbout him," said Capt. Parker.

"Hestor is an old friend of mine," explained Seymour. "Where is the Col. McIntyre you spoke of? Is he a New Orleans contractor?"

"He used ter be," said Capt. Parker. "He has moved ter Havana. This here load of lumber is fer him. He's buildin' a new hotel in Havana."

"Is he in Havana now?"

"Suppose so," said the captain. "Guess he'll be daown ter the dock ter see us come in. He's in er mighty big burry erbaout this 'ere bunch of lumber. Bin' telegraphin' and raisin' blazes erbaout it."

Seymour changed the subject. He was so elated that he felt like climbing the shrouds, and yelling like a Comanche Indian. The one thing which worried him was whether or not he had told Bender anything about Hestor during the preceding evening. The look of pained surprise on Bender's face, when his ankle felt the impact of Seymour's foot, was evidence that he knew nothing of Hestor or his complicity in the millionaire mystery.

Seymour vented his joy and concealed his triumph in song. The temptation to celebrate in drink was strong, but his repentance was sincere and his determination to reform was earnest. So he sang. As a vocalist, Mr. Seymour was handicapped by the circumstance that he knew neither the words nor the tune to any song. What he lacked in technique was recompensed in energy. His first effort, as expressed in words, was about as follows:

"Yo ho, my lads, the wind blows free;
A pleasant gale is on the se-a-a,
And here we rumte de te tum,
Ra le dada, te dum, dum, dum.
And 'ere we part from England's shore to-night,
A song we'll sing to home da rumty dight
Then here's to the sailor,
Here's to his heart so true (sing there, Bender!)
Who will think of him upon the waters
blu-u-u-ue.

(All together.)

Sailing, sailing, over the mountain main;
And many a stormy wind shall blow 'ere
Jack comes home again.
Sailing, sailing, der rumty, dum de dain,
And many a stormy wind shall blo-o-o-o-ow
'Ere Jack comes ho-o-ome a-a-a-again!"

The negro cook stood in the companion-way and joined in the chorus with a deep baritone, which did much to neutralize the rather harsh tenor of the eager Seymour, and the uncertain bass of Mr. Dick Bender. Capt. Parker did not sing, but was liberal in his applause.

TREATY WITH CUBA

Reciprocity Measure to Receive Prompt Attention.

MUST BE RATIFIED BEFORE JAN. 1

The Document Makes Liberal Provision For Our Imports — Cuba to Get Off With a Straight 25 Per Cent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The friends of the reciprocity treaty recently negotiated between the United States and Cuba have been assured by members of the senate committee on foreign relations that the treaty will be taken up by that committee as soon as practicable after the Christmas holidays. There were several conferences on the subject at the capitol which resulted in this understanding.

The terms of the treaty require that it shall be ratified before the 31st day of January, and its supporters appreciate the necessity for expedition in getting it out of the committee in order to avoid the necessity of an extension of time. The treaty makes more liberal provision for the importation of American articles into the republic of Cuba than has been stated heretofore, there being provision for reductions in some cases of as much as 40 per cent, in others of 30 per cent and in still others of 25 per cent. On all American grown or American made articles except tobacco imported into Cuba and not specified in the 25, 30 and 40 per cent classes there is to be a uniform tariff reduction of 20 per cent.

In return the United States agrees to a uniform reduction of 25 per cent without exception on all importations from Cuba. The new island republic does not agree to any reduction on tobacco grown in the United States or in the territory of any of its possessions and imported into Cuba.

The products of the United States which are to be admitted into Cuba at a reduction of 25 per cent from the rates of the existing Cuban tariff include pottery, salt fish, copper made machinery, cast and wrought iron and steel and articles manufacturing them, glass, cotton and some cotton goods, ships and boats, whisky and brandy.

The 30 per cent reduction includes cutlery, shoes, plated ware, drawings, photographs, engravings, etc., materials used in making labels and bands for tobacco, common soaps, preserved vegetables, butter, drugs, bottled beer, etc., mineral waters, articles made of hemp and kindred fibers, musical instruments and writing and printing papers.

The list of American importations into Cuba on which a 40 per cent reduction is made includes watches, umbrellas, knit cottons, preserved fruits, perfumery and woolen and silk goods.

There is a specific declaration to the effect that the rates fixed for each of the two countries by the other shall be preferential of each party to the convention as against all other countries. There also is a provision against discriminating tax on the articles affected in the country of their origin.

Palma Urges Early Action.

HAVANA, Dec. 20.—President Palma has sent the Cuban-American treaty to the senate, with a message urging that early action on it be taken.

Nine Amendments Framed.

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 20.—The convention for the revision of the constitution of the state has concluded its labors and taken final adjournment. It has framed nine amendments to the constitution. These provide for the prohibition of trusts, for the extension of the suffrage to women, for a tax upon inheritances and franchises, for an educational qualification of the suffrage, to strike the word Protestant from the bill of rights, to establish voting precincts, to place representation in the legislature upon a new basis, to extend the criminal jurisdiction of police courts and to require the examination of commissioned officers in the militia.

Slaughtering Infected Herds.

BOSTON, Dec. 20.—Condemnation of cattle infected with the foot and mouth disease is proceeding rapidly in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, and the slaughter of herds is reported at many places. The executive committee of the Rhode Island state board of agriculture has voted to order every barn in that state where cattle, swine or sheep are kept to be inspected and the animals examined. The loss of products of cattle sustained by quarantine will be paid after appraisement. At Nashua, N. H., numerous cases of tuberculosis among milk cows has been found, and veterinaries have slaughtered several head.

Advance For Railroad Men.

HAZLETON, Pa., Dec. 20.—Beginning with Jan. 1 the wages of the Lehigh Valley railroad brakemen on the Packerton freight and coal runs of the Hazleton and Mahanoy division will be increased from $1.75 to $1.85 and of flagmen from $1.85 to $1.95 per day. Brakemen on mine runs and yard engines will be advanced from $1.90 to $2 and all the other brakemen, with the exception of those on passenger runs, from $1.80 to $1.85.

Great Destitution In Finland.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 20.—Four hundred thousand persons are reported to be destitute and starving as a result of the crop failure in Finland. The Anglo-American church here has undertaken to feed and clothe the school children of four Finnish parishes, and Pastor Francis has issued an appeal for assistance in this work. He says the conditions are worse than those of 1867, when 100,000 persons died.

In Ten Minutes

after they have been applied for, claims have been paid by The Prudential. So you see it is no small wonder that Prudential policies are popular.

Whist Party.

Twenty people enjoyed a whist party given last evening at the home of Councilman Ralph I. Tolles, of Westervelt avenue. The prizes for the men were won by Hiram Woodruff and L. B. Woolston, the women's prizes by Mrs. John E. Low and Mrs. W. W. Coriell.

CLUBBED BY STRANGER.

Mrs. Frank Mowen, of Dunellen, Says She Was Assaulted by Man Near Her Home.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Dec. 20—Dr. Brakeley was summoned to the home of Frank Mowen, of Jackson avenue, near the brook, last evening, to dress a bad cut which Mrs. Mowen had received on the forehead over the right eye.

Mrs. Mowen says that while returning from the hennery in the rear of the house she came face to face with a strange man. She says that he struck her on the head with some blunt instrument and knocked her down. Then he fled across the fields.

Death of Mrs. Nesler.

Mrs. Nellie May, wife of Charles F Nesler, died at her home in Newark, yesterday morning, after a long suffering illness. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the late residence, 445 Washington street, Newark, at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Nesler was a daughter of George King, a former resident of Plainfield, residing on West Second street, near Madison avenue.

CHRISTMAS AT THE CHURCHES

Some Observed Christ's Natal Day Yesterday—Others to Celebrate Next Sunday.

APPROPRIATE SERVICES

Yuletide Decorations, Carols and Recitations, Together With Appropriate Addresses Were the Chief Features of Yesterday's Programmes.

While Christmas will be observed at most of the local churches next Sunday, there were a few which held their Christmas exercises yesterday. Naturally the storm reduced the attendances materially and in several cases the programme was postponed a week. The exercises that were held proved quite enjoyable despite the rain.

PARK AVE. BAPTIST.

Christmas exercises of an enjoyable order were given by the pupils of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school, yesterday afternoon. Despite the unpleasant condition of the weather they were witnessed by a large number, including many friends.

Those who took part in the programme by giving songs or recitations were all members of the junior or primary departments. They were as follows: Edith Lowry, Dorothy Smith, Anna Clarke, Marjorie Brown, Myrtle Dorman, Nellie Voorhees, Anna Smith, Marion Luce, Madeline Moy, Samuel Voorhees, Arline Brown, Ruth Pray, Walter Terry, Hilda Van Winkle, Margaret Fitch, Isabelle Harvey, Harold Marsh. In addition carols were sung by members of the two departments and selections were rendered by a special chorus choir and an orchestra composed of G. W. Moy, W. H. Spiers and Martin Korff. An opening prayer was made by C. R. Vincent, superintendent of the Scotch Plains Baptist Sunday-school, and benediction was pronounced by Rev. G. M. Shott, also of Scotch Plains.

The decorations were elaborate consisting of greens interspersed with red and a large star illumined with electric bulbs. The exercises were arranged and conducted by Mrs. Wheaton S. Lowery.

CONGREGATIONAL.

Special Christmas services were held at the Congregational church, yesterday morning, when the quartette choir, composed of Miss Etta Raybert, soprano; Mrs. Charlotte Ross, contralto; Louis Tallamy, tenor, and R. Wilson Derby, bass, rendered anthems and Miss Raybert sang a pretty solo. During the service, the pastor, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, preached an appropriate sermon on the subject of "Christ With the Children."

There was no special exercises in the afternoon, but next Friday evening the Sunday-school will hold its annual festival, with special music.

MONROE AVE. CHURCH.

Owing to the inclement weather, the exercises prepared for the Monroe Avenue church Sunday-school, were not given. They will, instead, be held Sunday.

TOO MUCH RAIN.

It Affected the Attendance at Last Evening's Regular Church Services.

The severe storm of last evening had more or less effect on the services held in the various local churches. At Trinity Reformed church there were sixteen worshippers present besides the choir and organist and the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, preached a helpful sermon.

Services were held at the First Baptist church, where Rev. Dr. Robert Bruce Hull, of Brooklyn, preached a strong sermon to forty-nine worshippers. This number included seventeen persons in the choir. There were fifty persons present at the service in Grace Episcopal church, where the rector, Rev. Edward Vicars Stevenson, preached an interesting sermon.

Chimney Blaze.

A chimney blaze at the home of Mrs. H. T. Egan, of Sandford avenue, resulted in the fire department being summoned from box 17, yesterday morning. Two extinguishers sufficed to put out the flames. There was practically no damage.

HANDBALL CHAMPION HERE.

He Will Make Plainfield His Headquarters During Eastern Games.

F. J. Henderson, of Bay City, Michigan., who is the champion handball player of the west, is a guest for a few days of Robert Ferris, of West Third street. During Mr. Henderson's visit in the east he will play some very interesting games in New York and Brooklyn in an effort to wrest the eastern championship from those who now hold it. He will make his headquaretrs in this city during his eastern engagement.

FIRST BAPTIST'S CHRISTMAS

FESTIVAL TOMORROW EVENING AND EXERCISES NEXT SUNDAY.

Primary Department Will Have Its Christmas Party Friday Afternoon—The Other Details.

A programme of considerable interest has been prepared for the First Baptist church during the coming week. Tomorrow evening the annual Christmas festival will be in the nature of an illustrated lecture on the Life of Jesus. Rev. Dr. Charles L. Rhoades will deliver the lecture and his special slides will be used. The Sunday-school will begin at 7:30 o'clock. At this time a collection will be received from the Sunday-school to be given to the poor of the city. Gifts of any kind, including money, will be acceptable. The scholars are asked to bring their friends with them, also the envelopes which have been distributed.

Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the primary department will give a Christmas party, and the mothers and babies on the cradle roll are especially invited.

Next Sunday morning the regular Christmas services will be held in the main part of the church. The Sunday-school will occupy the gallery and join in a special programme. The choir will also render special music, and Dr. Rhoades will preach. The regular Sunday-school session will be held in the afternoon and in the evening under the auspices of the Temple Builders Rev. Dr. Charles L. Rhoades will give an illustrated lecture of "Life in India," to which all are invited. On Tuesday afternoon, December 30, the intermediate department of the Sunday-school, under the direction of Miss Cairns, will hold a reception to which those interested are invited.

MEN'S LEAGUE.

Among the Speakers Was A. V. D. Honeyman on "Somerville, the Queen City of Central New Jersey."

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 22—At a dinner given Friday evening at Somerville under the auspices of the newly-organized men's league in the Second Reformed church, A. V. D. Honeyman, of Grove street, North Plainfield, responded to the toast "Somerville, the Queen City of Central New Jersey," while Prosecutor James L. Griggs responded to "The Lawyer's Place in the Church." Lewis A. Thompson is president of the league, the purpose of the organization being chiefly social and literary. Mr. Thompson was toastmaster and the address of the evening was given by Rev. Dr. W. P. Pockman, of New Brunswick.

HOLIDAY SHOPPER KILLED.

C. G. Otto, Jr., Brother-in-Law of Miss VanDeventer, Met Death.

C. G. Otto, Jr., a prominent furniture dealer of Philadelphia, was struck by a trolley car at Foulkrod street and Frankford avenue, Philadelphia, Friday evening and received a fracture of the skull and other injuries from which he died in an ambulance while being carried to the Episcopal Hospital. He leaves a wife and five children. Mrs. Otto was Miss Tillie VanDeVenter, a sister of Miss VanDeVenter, of Grove street, North Plainfield.

A very sad coincidence is that Mr. Otto was returning home after purchasing Christmas gifts.

The funeral services will be held from the late residence, 307 West Norris street, Philadelphia, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Two Months for Southard.

An attachment which "Hank" Southard formed for a parlor rug, Saturday afternoon, led to his getting a vacation, this morning. The rug was one of a display in front of a West Front street store and without asking the proprietor's permission, "Hank" made off with it. He was spotted by Patrolman Vanderweg and at today's session of court, he pleaded guilty to stealing it. City Judge Runyon made it sixty days straight.

FOUND DEAD IN HIS CELL

WM. ROANTREE, FORMERLY OF NEW MARKET, DIED AT NEW BRUNSWICK.

Pined Away Because He Was Sent to the County Jail—Sentenced to Ninety Days.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Dec. 22—William Roantree, formerly of New Market, was found in a dying condition in the Middlesex county jail here Saturday morning and before medical attention could be called he was dead. Roantree was arrested September 27 and was sentenced by Recorder Kuhn to ninety days for being disorderly in the lower part of the city. This was the man's first experience behind the bars and it is said that he took the sentence very much to heart, and during his incarceration he would pine away in his cell most all of the day.

Saturday he was in his cell as usual when some of his fellow prisoners heard him make a peculiar noise. They went to the door of his cell and asked what was the matter and while they were speaking to him the man fell forward onto the hard floor and expired before the doors of his cell could be unlocked. It is believed that the thought of being set free in a few days was too much excitement for him and having a weak heart it overtaxed his strength. Coroner Quackenboss viewed the remains and issued a permit for burial.

The body will be taken to his home in Dunellen today and the interment will be held in the cemetery at Samptown.

YOUNG MEN HELD UP.

But the Colored Man Arrested on Suspicion Was Soon Released.

Walter Emmons and George Pope, of the borough, had an experience Saturday evening which they will not soon forget. They were in the vicinity of the Brookside Sanitarium when from out of the side of the road a man stepped. The road was dark and the young men did not stop to investigate the matter but put down the road as hard as they could. They claimed that the fellow held them up and later a man was arrested under suspicion who admitted being in the neighborhood at the time but the fellow is well-known in the borough as an inoffensive colored man, who is employed by a prominent borough official and was released by order of Chief Marshal Campbell.

BASKET BALL LEAGUE.

Junior Teams of Y. M. C. A. Held Regular Games Saturday.

The Junior Basket Ball League of the Y. M. C. A. held its regular weekly games Saturday morning when the Iriquois defeated the Scouts by a score of 11 to 9 and the Mohawks defeated the Rough Riders by a score of 4 to 3.

The standing of the teams are as follows:

Team.	Won.	Lost.
Mohawks	2	0
Rough Riders	0	2

The next game on the schedule will be played Saturday, January 3.

CHOIR CHANGES.

Miss Raybert to Leave Congregational to Sing at First Presbyterian.

Miss Etta Raybert, of this city, who has been a member of the choir of the Congregational church in this city for some time, but who was formerly in the quartette of the Second Reformed church, of New Brunswick, has tendered her resignation to the music committee of the Congregational church and will accept a position in the choir of the First Presbyterian church, on East Front street. The male quartette will be abandoned on account of the resignation of several of the members.

Will Administer Sacrament.

At a church meeting, held at the Congregational church yesterday afternoon, the pastor and deacons were empowered to receive into membership Mrs. Wilkins, an aged woman, residing on Park avenue. She is critically ill and will probably not live very long. She is not a member, but it is her desire to join the Congregational church. The pastor and deacons will administer the sacrament to her at her home at the earliest possible time.

No Evening Service.

There was no evening service at the Park Avenue Baptist church yesterday, on account of the afternoon service.

Election at Unity.

The annual election of officers of Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., will be held tomorrow evening.

I. C. T. CLUB PLANS FINE PLAYING FLOOR

Basket Ball Will be Well Cared for at Club Rooms of New League Member.

TEAMS ARE AT PRACTICE

WM. DILKS HAS WON REPUTATION OF MOST ACCURATE GOAL THROWER.

Veterans of Alis Team Are Gradually Getting Back Into Their Old Form—Next Meeting of Hope and Alis Will be Exciting.

It seems very likely that the entry of the I. C. T. Club into the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League will be the means of decidedly advancing the progress of that sport in Plainfield. The great trouble heretofore has been to find a suitable place to play. Changes that are planned for the I. C. T. Club rooms now give promise of furnishing the best playing floor in the city. It will also offer increased facilities for the spectators.

According to plans now under consideration, the I. C. T. rooms will not be divided as was first suggested but the playing will be done in the centre of the floor and the spectators lined up on either side. Boundary lines will be drawn five or six feet from either side, leaving room for two or three rows of chairs. The chief objection to this plan, the posts which pass through the centre of the ball, will be surmounted by heavily padding them. There are several gymnasiums through the State which have posts in the playing floor that interfere but little with the progress of the game. These plans will give a playing space equal or larger to any in the city.

Although there will be no games in the league until after New Year's, the Alis and Hope teams are keeping in practice and the I. C. T. boys will soon be getting into trim. In the games that have been played in the league already, the team play developed has not been equal to that of the veteran five which originally played under the colors of the Y. M. C. A. and afterwards as the Fanwood A. C. Three of that combination are now with the Alis A. A. but they have not got their hand in yet. The last game played in the Y. M. C. A. gym, between Alis and Hope, showed the best exhibition of team work despite the fact that Moraller was absent. With an improvement in accuracy in goal throwing the Alis boys will be back in their old form.

Judging from the games already played, the most accurate goal thrower in the league is William Dilks. To his accuracy, Hope Y. M. A. owes much. He has scored more points for his team than all the other players combined. Of course, this would not have been possible without their co-operation but it is nevertheless a conceded fact that he is the most accurate man on his team. With a little more practice and training, he ought to equal the work which has been made by George P. Smith, Walter L. Long, Arthur Denton and Walter Cahoone, famous in the past. All of these players have, in past years, won reputations for themselves by their remarkable goal throwing. That they have not done as good work this season is probably due to the fact that they all need practice.

The cramped conditions at the Hope gymnasium have heretofore bothered the visiting teams more or less and the acquaintance of the Hopes with these same conditions has materially assisted that team in winning all the games it has played at home. The team work of the Alis five cannot be worked with much success in such a small space while the Hope boys have developed a short team work that has been very effective. A little experience, however, promises to make future games there very exciting as the Alis boys will not be in entirely strange territory and may be able to adapt their team play to the smaller quarters with better success than before. The next meeting of Alis and Hope in the latter's gymnasium will therefore be watched with special interest.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of the borough, who has been visiting in Kansas for the past week with his brother David, did not arrive in this city Saturday evening as expected. He will be delayed in Kansas for several days longer than he anticipated, owing to business, and will return home Wednesday evening.

ALARM FOR THE COUNCILMEN

COUNCILMEN SAW THE MEN TURN OUT ON TEST ALARM.

Were Well Pleased With the Way in Which the Fire Department Responded.

Without their having any previous knowledge of its arrangement, the firemen at headquarters gave an exhibition response to an alarm, Saturday night, that highly delighted the members of the Common Council and a few invited guests.

The men were all in theirv quarters on the second floor at 9:50 when the City Fathers quietly entered the lower floor by means of a pass key held by Councilman Lee. While most of them noiselessly stowed themselves out of sight in the opening of the hose tower, one member, by means of a push button, sounded box No. 12 on the house gongs, then drew back in the shadows.

Instantly the orderly hustle which follows the reception of an alarms, took place, and every man and horse was in place when the Council party stepped into view. The surprise of the department can be imagined but they were well pleased when every witness expressed his complete satisfaction with the quickness and methodical manner in which the exhibition had been given, coming as it was, unannounced.

SAW THE THIEF.

But Not Being Positive, Citizen Allowed Him to Get Away.

The store of the Sperry & Hutchinson Trading Stamp Company, on West Front street, was entered by a colored man, last night, who departed with a dress suit case, a guitar and four nickel plated watches. The fellow was seen leaving a rear door by Frank VanWinkle but not being positive that he had no business in the place, did not stop him.

He reported the fact to police headquarters, however, and was just speaking to Sergeant Frederickson when Patrolman McCarthy telephoned in that he had found the front door open. If VanWinkle had shouted on detecting the man, he would have undoubtedly been caught as the patrolman was in the immediate vicinity. He is described as being of medium height wearing a light overcoat and a white slouch hat.

During the coming week the store will be open until late each evening.

MASQUERADE BALL.

North Plainfield A. A., Planning for a Dance Next Month.

The members of the North Plainfield Athletic Association are arranging to conduct a masquerade ball in the I. C. T. Hall sometime next month. The exact date has not yet been decided upon. A meeting of the organization was held Friday evening when the matter was brought up for discussion and it was decided to hold a dance in January. The committee which has the matter in charge are George Harring, F. K. Barrie, Edward Koechline and H. C. Brose.

WANTS HIS PIN.

Was Stolen With Wallet and Cash From George Fritts Saturday.

Somewhere in the shopping crowd on West Front street, Saturday night, a member of the light fingered gentry abstracted a wallet from the vest pocket of George Fritts, of West Fifth street. It contained $15, some checks and a society pin of the Gamma Nu Tau fraternity. Mr. Fritts would gladly give up the money for the return of the other articles, especially the pin, as it was presented to him by the class of '95 of the Hill School at Pottstown, Pa.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM BEATEN

OUTPLAYED AT EVERY POINT IN GAME WITH HASBROUCH HEIGHTS.

Only Goal Made From Field by Herbert Munro—Return Game in This City, January 14.

The basket ball team from the City High School met a disastrous defeat, Saturday, when the team of the Hasbrouck Institute conquered it in a one-sided game by a score of 49 to 4.

The High School boys were outplayed in every point of the game as the only time they scored was in the first half when H. Munro threw a goal from the field. The snappy mechanical team work of the Hasbrouck boys did the business in short order and the city boys, with their lack of practice and experience were unable to accomplish anything. The boys do not feel discouraged about the game as they are agreed of the opinion that the present Hasbrouck team would have been a hard fight for the star last year's team.

Captain R. W. Meeker will have the boys out to regular practices as soon as school reopens. The Hasbrouck team will come to town for a return game on January 14.

TO OPEN ROOMS.

Reform Club Plans to Resume Activity and Offer Special Attractions for Young Men.

At a meeting of the Reform Club, held Saturday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, B. W. Hand; first vice president, David Bush; second vice president, William B. Ayers; recording secretary, Edward Smith; financial secretary, C. B. Stephens; treasurer, J. W. A. Bauersachs.

The club will open in January, probably the second Thursday, and meetings will be held as formerly Thursday evenings and Sunday afternoons. A series of evangelistic meetings is shortly to be inaugurated. The basement, which has had little or no use, will be fitted up as a club room for young men, having a complete assortment of games and a library of books and papers.

AFTER DARLING TRACT.

A New York Realty Company Preparing to Acquire Property.

A New York realty company is at present conducting negotiations for the purchase of Mrs. Emma Darling's property, consisting of a house and seven acres of ground, bounded by Woodland and Prospect avenues and Rahway road. The premises are now occupied by Francis DeL. Hyde. It is understood this is to be the first of a series of important real estate deals in the Netherwood section. The deal will be closed after the first of the new year.

Checker League.

The Borough Checker League held a meeting, Friday night, in North Plainfield when North Plainfield defeated St. Nicholas, 3 to 0, and the C. A. C. defeated the G. A. C. by a score of 2 to 1, leaving the clubs a rating as follows:

	W	L	P C
North Plainfield A. C.	12	0	1,000

TALKED OF AT CAUCUS

Members of 1903 Common Council Held a Caucus Saturday Evening—Selected a President and the Chairmen of Committees and Made Plans for the New Year.

The members who will compose the Common Council for 1903 held a caucus Saturday evening and transacted preliminary business preparatory to the formation of a regular organization for the coming year. All of the members were present and as previously stated in these columns it was unanimously decided to make Councilman James F. Buckle president of the new body. There will be a few changes in committees, though in the main they will stand as at present.

It is reasonably certain that Mr. Daniel will take Mr. Mellick's place as chairman of the finance committee, while it is also certain that Frank Randolph will be made chairman of the police committee. This will probably be done for the reason that if Mr. Gloak should be given the honor, it would result in the First ward having the president and chairman of two of the most important committees. Mr. Lee will remain as chairman of the fire committee, while Mr. Gloak will probably be made chairman of the poor committee. Mr. Tolles will remain as chairman of the street and sewer committee, where he has done fine work. Of course, it is the purpose of Mr. Buckle to place the new members, Councilmen Garrigues and Tyler, on some of the most important committees.

A most important matter introduced for discussion Saturday evening was that in reference to a police call system, a patrol wagon and a suitable police headquarters. It was the unanimous opinion of all the members that this improvement has got to come and it is almost a sure thing that next year will be the time to make it. The members believe that the city is large enough for this change and will support it.

The idea is to purchase a suitable piece of property at some convenient point in the city, not necessarily on one of the most important business streets, and there erect a headquarters that will be a credit to the city and will in every way be adapted to the purpose intended. It is the general opinion that the Gamewell system is the proper one to use and this system no doubt will be employed.

There were a few other matters of minor importance discussed and they will be reported on later. The caucus was a harmonious one in every respect and a successful year is promised in Councilmanic circles.

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN NEW SANITARY CODE

Chief Features of Code Just Approved by the City Board of Health.

IT WILL BE ENFORCED

MANY NEW PROVISIONS REGARDING THE MILK SUPPLY.

Each Milk Dealer Must Take Out a Permit—Regulation of Tenants To Prevent Overcrowding —The Other Features.

The new sanitary code drafted during the past few months by the Board of Health, with the assistance of Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, is now completed and was published Saturday in The Daily Press for the first time. It should be read by every person who has the interest of the city's health at heart. There are a few important changes made in the code and it is now constructed as a whole in such a way that prosecution can be made for any violation of it.

Among the important features of the code is that section referring to the regulation of tenements to prevent overcrowding and proper sanitary equipment. It also prevents the unnecessary barking of dogs when they become a nuisance. There is also a section providing for the abolition of privy vaults.

On the question of milk supply, a whole new ordinance is in effect. A strong feature is the fact that every dealer in milk is compelled to take out a permit for which he is charged a fee of $2 to cover cost of inspections, etc. There is no alternative from this. Another feature is that all meat markets and in fact markets of every kind must be cleaned at least once a day and all offal matter removed.

As to contagious diseases, all such cases on dairy premises must be reported at once. The State laws cover other matters pertaining to this section and they are not incorporated in the code. Provision is also made for ice and water supply, the same being very strict. In the matter of contagious diseases, tuberculosis has been put in this class as a communicable disease, and the age and address of all persons having this disease must be filed with the Board of Health.

Still another important feature of the code is that in reference to plumbing. All master and foremen plumbers are required to file a bond for $200 as a guarantee for the proper execution of work and compliance of the rules and regulations. Before commencing any plumbing work a permit must be secured at the offices of the Board of Health and there is to be a final smoke test on all plumbing work. When the work is completed according to rules and regulations, the Board will issue a certificate to that effect.

The Board of Health is given permission to enter any building, lands, etc., in the performance of duty without interference and in every essential matter the code covers the general health of the city and provides for its improvement whenever possible.

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, discovered, some years ago, how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For Blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. VENEZUELAN CASE.

Negotiations Being Conducted With Great Secrecy.

ARBITRATION BY ROOSEVELT FAVORED

In London It Is Predicted That the President Will Accept the Task. British Diplomats Marvel at American Promptness.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—It is believed that President Roosevelt's answer to the proposal made by the allied powers that he arbitrate the Venezuelan issues has been received in London. The strictest secrecy with regard to every phase of the negotiations is preserved, however, and it is impossible to make a definite statement, but such indications as are obtainable point to President Roosevelt's acceptance of the office of arbitrator.

A constant interchange of cablegrams is proceeding night and day between the United States embassy here and the state department at Washington. By Wednesday, unless some unexpected complications arise, it is believed the negotiations will reach a stage assuring a definite arrangement and obviating hostilities. It must be said that the acceptance of the office of arbitrator by President Roosevelt would greatly surprise the foreign office, which always has been doubtful of the issue of the arbitration negotiations on account of the belief that President Roosevelt or the United States was not willing to undertake the responsibility thereby involved.

With President Roosevelt acting as arbitrator the serious objections in the matter of guarantees, which frequently have been mentioned at the foreign office and in these dispatches, would disappear. The foreign office has repeatedly said that the great difficulty in its seeing a way to agree to a pacific settlement of the Venezuelan trouble was its inability to ascertain to what extent the United States was willing to go in the assumption of responsibility.

The promptness with which Washington deals with those vital matters concerning which prolix pourparlers have been interchanged in Europe astonishes diplomats here and forms an interesting phase of an engrossing situation.

Nothing New at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Officials of the state department announce that there is nothing to make public regarding the latest phases of the Venezuela imbroglio. Such dispatches from the American embassies in Europe and from Minister Bowen at Caracas regarding the Venezuelan matter as have come to Washington are of a confidential character, concerning whose nature it was impossible to ascertain anything. It is believed there has been no change of importance since Saturday, when the state department announced that in response to President Roosevelt's suggestion to the allies that The Hague tribunal arbitrate the issues the European governments suggested that the president himself act in the capacity of arbitrator. While reluctant to take up the role of mediator, the president would do so rather than to see the unfortunate state of affairs now existing prolonged indefinitely. There are no definite developments so far as can be learned, and it may be a day or two before the European governments reply to our last suggestion again urging arbitration under The Hague treaty.

Germany's Answer.

BERLIN, Dec. 22.—It has been learned here that the governments of Germany and Great Britain have adopted detailed answers to the proposal to arbitrate the Venezuelan issues. These communications will be handed to Ambassador Tower here and to Charge d'Affaires White in London today. It is also learned that the German answer agrees in all substantial effects with the British answer and makes no separate reservations in behalf of the German case.

Rome Favors Hague Tribunal.

ROME, Dec. 22.—It has been learned here that not one of the allies at present contemplates submitting the Venezuela difficulty to The Hague court. The Venezuela situation was fully discussed by King Victor Emmanuel and Foreign Minister Prinetti at their semi-weekly conference, and much satisfaction with the more peaceful turn of events was expressed.

Mr. Bryan Goes to Mexico.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 22.—William J. Bryan called here last night on his way to the City of Mexico. He stated in answer to an inquiry that a conference with President Diaz being the object of his visit was first brought to his knowledge by the newspapers and that he is going on private business.

The Choates In Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 22.—Mr. Choate, the American ambassador to Great Britain, and Mrs. Choate have arrived here. They were welcomed by the staff of the American legation. They proceeded to the British embassy, where they will spend several days as the guests of Sir N. R. O'Conor.

REAR END COLLISION

Sixteen Killed and Many Injured In California.

LOCAL TRAIN HITS DISABLED FLIER

A Flagman Was Sent Back to Give Warning to Oncoming Train, but For Some Reason the Speed Was Not Slackened.

BYRON, Cal., Dec. 22.—Sixteen were killed and twenty-seven injured in the collision here between the south bound Los Angeles "Owl" train and the Stockton flyer. It was a rear end collision, the engine of the local plowing its way into the rear coach of the "Owl," which was filled with Fresno people. The passengers who escaped death were hurled to the forward part of the coach, crushed in the mass of debris. Their sufferings and danger were intensified by the clouds of scalding steam that poured out from the shattered boiler of the Stockton engine.

After the "Owl" left the Oakland Mole it was noted that there was a leak in the flue of the engine. This increased to such an extent that it was deemed advisable to stop here and take a freight engine for relief. The train officials knew that the Stockton local train was following a half hour behind, and a flagman was sent back along the track to give warning of the presence of the "Owl."

It is said that the Stockton train, in charge of Engineer Maguire and Fireman Joyce, got the warning signal in due time and gave the usual response with whistle blasts. Why the following train was not checked, however, has not been explained thus far, the men who could give the facts being among the badly injured. So forcibly did the local meet the rear of the "Owl" that the end of the second car, the dining car, was smashed in, and the three cooks were seriously hurt. The horror of fire was not added to the disaster, but the penned up victims were spared from flame, for the oil burners were extinguished when the crash came.

Relief quickly came to the injured passengers, axes and saws being brought into play. Messengers were sent to Byron Hot Springs, a short distance away, and physicians came quickly to the station. Every effort was made to alleviate the suffering, and those who were unable to proceed on their journey were taken either to the Springs hotel or the church in Byron, which was temporarily transformed into a hospital.

None of the passengers of the Stockton train was injured, and all of the crew of the "Owl" escaped unhurt.

Coal Schooners Missing.

BOSTON, Dec. 22.—Although there is no news from the overdue coal schooners Louise B. Crary and Frank A. Palmer, both of which are known to have been in Massachusetts bay and within twenty-five miles of Boston harbor on Thursday last, the steamer Pomeranian, which came in yesterday, has reported sighting evidences of two wrecks off the end of Cape Cod, one eleven miles northeast of Highland light and the other ten miles farther to the westward. The first was a vessel's mast projecting about twelve feet out of the water and apparently firmly attached to a sunken wreck. Water in this locality is between 200 and 300 feet deep. The mast had apparently been broken off at the top, but the projecting part was painted white. Ten miles nearer Boston a second spar was discovered standing in the water about twenty-eight feet and also seemingly firmly fixed to a sunken vessel. The water in this vicinity is about 120 feed deep. These two wrecks were sighted by the Pomeranian.

Fair Commissioners Dined In Rome.

ROME, Dec. 22.—The International Artistic association gave a magnificent banquet last night at the Grand hotel here in honor of the St. Louis fair commissioners. Among the 150 guests were Ambassador Meyer, Secretary Iddings and a number of prominent Americans now in Rome. Signor Zeggio, the St. Louis fair commissioner for Italy, and the leading representatives of Italian art, science and politics were also present. Ambassador Meyer and Commissioner Cridler made speeches, and throughout the evening the greatest enthusiasm was displayed.

To Export Cotton.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The $50,000,000 Wall street pool of which J. P. Morgan, James Stillman and George F. Baker have the management, is to be utilized as a lever to force southern cotton to this port for exportation in the settlement of New York's indebtedness abroad. Statements have been made that perhaps $10,000,000 of the pool money would thus be used, because the effect of a big movement of cotton abroad would be more beneficial to the market than any other one thing.

President Hill Going Abroad.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 22.—President James J. Hill and his party, including President Harris of the Burlington, have left for the east and will arrive at St. Paul for Christmas. After the first of the year Mr. Hill announces that he will take a trip to Europe for a rest. In discussing politics he said the Great Northern was not in politics in this or any other state and would not be so as long as he could prevent it.

A Fire at Sea.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Dec. 22.—A large vessel completely enveloped in a cloud of smoke was sighted about two miles off Eastern point last night. Some minutes after an explosion was heard, and flames were seen apparently bursting from the vessel. The fire burned with great fierceness for over an hour and then suddenly subsided.

FAMINE IN FINLAND

Almost a Complete Failure of the Crops.

RECORDS FOR FIFTY YEARS BROKEN

Many Parishes Have Only Food to Last Until Christmas — Nearly Half a Million People Now Face Starvation.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 22.—The average grain crop gathered in Finland is valued at $33,000,000. The estimated value of the 1902 crop is $20,000,000. While this loss is generally distributed throughout Finland it is almost total in the northern third of the country, where are the provinces of Uleaborg, Kuopio, Vasa, St. Michael and portions of Viborg. Peas and beans generally have failed, and the potato crop has not been gathered. The hay has rotted or been swept away by floods.

The disaster is due to the late spring, the nearly continuous chilly rains and the early frost, which was recorded Aug. 10. In the north there have been only half a dozen days when it did not rain. The rains also spoiled the fishing. So complete was the failure of vegetation that dead birds by the hundreds have been found in the forests. The present crop failure is the worst that has been experienced for the last fifty years. It is hoped, however, that better methods of communication will facilitate the work of relief and avoid wholesale deaths by hunger and typhus.

There are all told about 500 parishes in Finland. One hundred and ninety-four of these parishes are now nearly destitute. The agricultural board has received reports from 140 of the 194 parishes, showing that 106 have food supplies which will suffice them until Christmas only. The unripe rye and barley, which the people are forced to use, make a bitter bread, which the hungry horses refuse to eat. In some parts of the country bread is baked from barley husks and straw mixed with a little flour. This product is purchased by the needy people with their hoarded savings. Such bread contains very little nutrition and is extremely unwholesome. The peasants have expended all their money for flour and are consequently unable to buy clothing.

The danger of famine was realized early by the public. Count Bobriokoff, governor general of Finland, issued an appeal for help in Russia. A voluntary relief committee was organized by Finlanders, with branches throughout the country. The Anglo-American church here is affiliated with this committee. The senate has decided to construct public works at an expenditure of 375,000, and it has allotted $500,000 for the purchase of grain, which will be sold to the people at cost. Seventy-five thousand dollars will be used to encourage cottage industries. The provinces and certain cities of Finland have voted various sums for relief work, amounting in all to $500,000. The voluntary relief committee has received $125,000, but it is understood that all of this sum has already been expended.

Pastor Kilburn of St. Petersburg has just returned from a sledge journey through Kuopio province. He found 1,900 school children who were in need of food. Of this number 1,155 were totally destitute. It is estimated that 400,000 will be without food after Christmas. Business in Finland is suffering in sympathy with the extreme conditions, but no failures have yet been recorded. The banks have not raised the rate of discount.

Emigration from Finland is increasing constantly. Up to Nov. 17 20,155 persons had left the country this year via Hango, while unknown numbers of Finlanders have crossed the Gulf of Bothnia to Sweden and have taken passage from there. The effects of the crop failure on emigration, however, will be felt more strongly in 1903.

Russia Plans Relief For Starving.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 22.—The Russian government has drawn up a comprehensive plan for feeding the people who are today in a state of semistarvation as a result of crop failure and generally relieving the distress which is at present widespread throughout the government of European Russia and some districts of Siberia. The sum of $3,331,500 has already been expended in relief work, but further great sums will be necessary to support the populace of the afflicted districts and enable them to resume farming in the spring.

Severe Blizzard In the Far West.

DENVER, Dec. 22.—The worst blizzard since 1895 has been general throughout eastern Colorado and Wyoming and western Nebraska and Kansas. The average snowfall was eleven inches, and a forty-five mile wind blowing across the prairies piled the snow in huge drifts. In Cheyenne business is at a standstill, and the snow is piled in drifts from three to six feet.

Seven Miners Crushed to Death.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 22.—A special to the Journal and Tribune from Big Stone Gap, Va., tells of the death of seven miners. W. F. Brown was crushed under six tons of falling slate at Mudlick mine. At Inman, Va., six miners were crushed to death while engaged in pulling in pillars. The names of the victims are not known.

THE TRUTH ABOUT IT.

Along the same line of the leading editorial in Thursday's Daily Press is the following letter which appeared in Friday's New York Sun from the crew of one of the switching engines at the Elizabethport yards of the Jersey Central. It aids in throwing light on a situation which has evidently been wilfully misrepresented by certain newspapers with the intention of securing new arguments.

The letter is as follows:

To the Editor of The Sun—Sir: We, the undersigned, would like to say a few words in regard to an article published in a New York paper as to the amount of coal that is being held by the coal trust for pecuniary reasons. If the reporters had only taken a little of the time they used in counting the cars in coming down to the wharves and seeing what strenuous efforts the Central Railroad of New Jersey is making to release the 500 cars they have at Elizabeth, they would hardly have made such an assertion, for we are working twelve to fourteen hours a day and sometimes longer.

I say we because the undersigned comprise the crew of the drill engine that has the handling of most of those cars. Where ordinarily it should take about ten minutes to unload a car, it takes from an hour to an hour and a half on account of the coal being frozen in the cars. So it can readily be seen that it is through no fault of the railroad company that the coal is standing so long. And there is no doubt that the same conditions exist at all other shipping ports.

It certainly is not conducive to good feeling between capital and labor to have such an article published without giving the true facts of the case. We have orders and bottoms covering every car we have standing, and more besides.

NEW HOUR FOR WEDDINGS.

One Performed at 3 o'Clock This Morning by Justice Mosher.

Attired in a suit of pajamas and while the rain beat a rag-time wedding march on the window panes, Justice J. E. Mosher united in wedlock at his home, shortly before 3 o'clock this morning, a couple describing themselves as James Lynch, 26 years old, of Bayonne and Dorothea Montgomery, 19 years old of this city. Dennis O'Brien and Miss Mary O'Brien, of this city, acted as witnesses. Despite his recent somnambulistic state, the justice made a solemn ceremony out of it and sent the couple on their way rejoicing. They will make their home in Greenville.

Mr. and Mrs. George White, of Washington Park, entertained company from Millstone over Sunday.

BOROUGH PAYING UP.

Over $12,000 Taken in During Two Days by Collector Brown.

Saturday evening at the office of the borough tax collector, George F. Brown, was a busy one and at the end of the two closing days of the past week he took in $12,000. The office was kept open until midnight and people continued to come in to pay their taxes until that time. After January first all the unpaid poll and personal taxes will be placed in the hands of a special constable for collection. Mr. Brown says that the tax receipts this year are a little over those of last year and the taxes were paid up much more promptly than they were a year ago.

DEATH OF MRS. STITES.

Occurred at Her Home in the Borough Last Evening.

Following an illness over a long period, Mrs. Abigal A. Martin, widow of the late Elijah Stites, passed away at her home on Chatham street, last evening. Death was due to a complication of troubles.

Railroad Man Hurt.

Fred A. Shepherd, of Park avenue, a brakeman on the New Jersey Central, met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon at Somerville. He was in a stooping position uncoupling a car from the engine and raising up he struck his face against the step on the engine tender. His nose was severely cut and Dr. Long, who treated the injury, was obliged to take three stitches in the larceration. Mr. Shepherd was able to resume work today.

Funeral of Mrs. Gassner.

DUNELLEN.

Mrs. Lewis Tinsman, of North avenue is confined to her home with illness and a severe attack of appendicitis is probable before her recovery. On Saturday she went to Newark on a shopping trip and on her return home complained of illness. Mrs. Tinsman has had attacks of the disease several times before.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Mrs. Fannie Kane appeared before Judge Clark Saturday and desired to have herself placed upon the town as her husband was not supporting her Mr. and Mrs. Kane's family troubles had been aired in the Judge's court before. As the husband is a resident of Plainfield and has never resided in the township, the Judge decided that Fanwood township had no jurisdiction in the matter. Mrs. Kane was advised to make her complaint where her husband claims residence.

Funeral services of the late M. Susan Gassner, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Boyle, of Cook avenue, who was killed on the railroad track at Plainfield sometime during Thursday night, were held from the home of her sister, Mrs. Herbert Chamberlain, of East Fourth street, Plainfield, Sunday morning. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

When you hear those sweet-toned pianos at G. H. Kenyon's store on West Front street, you will surely want one for a present. They can be purchased on very easy terms.

Of course, oysters will be on the Christmas dinner bill of fare. Rogers' Seafood Company has them; the right kind, too. Nice flavor, large and the kind that make you ask for more. Telephone 140.

Jewelry, watches and diamonds make very acceptable presents for both men and women around Christmas time and at L. Moraller & Son's on Park avenue one of the most complete lines are on display for the holiday trade.

There is no more suitable Christmas present than linen articles, such as handkerchiefs, centre-pieces, collars, towels, etc., and Peck's store is just the place to secure such articles. Only pure linen is sold and there are many other useful articles appropriate for gifts.

In Christmas fruits, and trees and decorations of all kinds, T. L. Walsh, of North avenue, is ready to quote prices. His oranges are a new stock, just in, and are a deliciously flavored fruit. All orders will be delivered promptly but to insure safety, they should be in early.

Committees having in charge the decorations for Christmas festivals would do well to bear in mind that the Belleview Avenue Nursery has an almost exhaustless supply of English holly and imported mistletoe to select from. It is being retailed at a lower price than many pay for it at wholesale. The nursery is also taking orders for Christmas trees of all kinds.

Very often people say, "Oh I wonder what to get for father or brother" but if they are smokers it is a very simple matter to select a suitable present for them if a visit is made at Dobbin's cigar store on Park avenue. Here are shown some very fine meerschaum pipes and cigar holders and in the attractive show cases are displayed a choice variety of lacquer ware snuff boxes lined with aluminum. He has some very fine buckskin tobacco pouches for the holidays.

Holiday shoppers should not forget the carpet department in charge of John S. Johnston, and the furniture and housefurnishing department in charge of J. V. E. Vanderhoff, at Woodhull & Martin's store. In both of these departments you will find lots of things suitable for Christmas gifts. There are pretty rugs, tapestry, lace curtains and handsome carpets, while in the other department you will find a complete line of furniture, chinaware, lamps, etc., in a wide variety.

HUNTERDON COUNTY TURKEYS.

Are the Only Kind Being Sold at Fred Endress' Market.

The best turkeys come from Hunterdon county, where the farmers make a specialty of raising them, and know how to feed them to make the flesh sweet and tender. They cost the butchers more money. Our supply for Christmas come from Hunterdon county and we paid fancy prices for them. But we are willing to let these turkeys go at cost prices in order to advertise our market. We offer you fresh killed Hunterdon county beauties at the same price they are asking for an inferior grade. 12 22 2

Christmas Festival.

In place of the annual Christmas festival at the First Baptist church, a story illustrating the life of Christ will be given at the church, tomorrow evening. The story will be illustrated with fine views and Rev. Dr. Charles L. Rhoades, of New York, will give the story in words. A cordial invitation is extended to all members and friends of the church and Sunday-school.

MRS. GRANT AT REST.

Remains Placed by Husband's Side In the Riverside Mausoleum.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Literally buried beneath the floral tributes of her friends and those of her illustrious husband, the body of Mrs. Julia Dent Grant now lies peacefully beside her husband, General Ulysses S. Grant, in the Grant tomb, erected by an admiring nation.

The funeral services at the tomb lasted but little more than twenty minutes.

They were conducted jointly by Bishops E. G. Andrews and Alexander Mackeye Smith, bishop coadjutor of Pennsylvania.

The reading of the burial service, a short prayer and a benediction comprised almost the entire service.

Two hymns were beautifully sung by a quartet. General Horatio C. King, who was a lifelong friend and associate of the general and Mrs. Grant, conducted the singing.

The body was carried to the sarcophagus and lowered to the bottom without ceremony of any kind. The lid of the sarcophagus, which weighs about five tons, had been raised some three feet. As soon as the coffin was in place a thin layer of cement was spread along the edge of the sarcophagus and the cover lowered.

Among those who attended the services were General and Mrs. F. D. Grant, U. S. Grant, Mrs. Sartoris, U. S. Grant, Jr., Jesse Grant, Miss Sartoris, Commander Sharp, Grant Smith, Midshipman Jesse Sharp, Mrs. Scovel, Miss. Julia Grant and Miss Mary E. Coffey, for many years the faithful maid of Mrs. Grant. Several hundred invitations were issued. Every available inch of space inside the mausoleum was occupied, and a huge throng surged to and fro for several blocks about the marble edifice.

Secretary of War Root was one of the pallbearers.

President Rides In the Rain.

RAPIDAN, Va., Dec. 22.—In a driving rain the president, Mrs. Roosevelt and four of their children, accompanied by their host, Mr. Joseph Wilmer, went horseback riding yesterday afternoon. The party left the Wilmer mansion shortly after 3 o'clock in the afternoon and did not return until 5 o'clock. In the morning the president and his family and Mr. Wilmer drove to the picturesque little Episcopal church in Rapidan to attend divine services. The trip was made in a big carriage capable of seating comfortably ten persons. It was drawn by four horses. Mr. Wilmer himself driving. Not more than a score of worshipers braved the storm to attend the service. No reference was made by the rector, Dr. Cross, to the president. Owing to the severe rainstorm the wild turkey hunt for this morning was abandoned. The president and his family returned to Washington.

To Restrict Emigration.

VIENNA, Dec. 22.—Early in January the government proposes to introduce in the reichsrath an important bill to restrict and regulate emigration. One of the main objects of this measure will be the routing of all Austrian emigrants in Austrian vessels from Trieste instead of permitting them to travel by German and other foreign steamship lines. The Fremdenblatt, a semiofficial organ, warmly supports the government bill in the interests of home shipping. This paper estimates that in the last five years Austria-Hungarian emigrants have taken from the country $28,000,000, the bulk of which has been paid to foreign railroads and steamship lines.

Natural Gas Explosion.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 22.—An explosion of natural gas in the boarding house of Mrs. Laura Rickards on McKean street resulted in the probable fatal burning of one man and the serious injury of two others. E. G. Walters, a telegraph operator, whose home is in Marietta, O., was burned about the face, chest and arms. He is not expected to recover. E. W. Barrett had his feet and arms burned and is in a serious condition. Burt Piper, face and arms burned, will recover. The men were asleep on the second floor of the building and were surrounded by fire and smoke when they awoke. Walters in his panic jumped to the ground and sustained severe bruises in addition to his burns.

Champion Jeffries Beaten.

BUTTE, Mont., Dec. 22.—Champion Jeffries lost a decision in a four round contest with Jack Munroe after four rounds of the fiercest fighting Butte has seen for some time. At one time the champion went to his knees, and a knockout looked possible. Jeffries and his manager had posted a forfeit of $250 for any one to stand against Jeffries for four rounds, and Munroe accepted the challenge. At the end of the fourth Munroe was still ready to fight. Munroe is amateur champion of the Pacific coast. Fitzsimmons has posted a forfeit of $500 to put Munroe out in four rounds.

London Banking House Fails.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The private banking firm of J. & J. W. Pease of Darlington has executed a deed of assignment for the benefit of its creditors. The firm's liabilities are placed at about $2,500,000. It is understood that the people affected by the assignment are mainly members of the Pease family and their intimate friends. The partners in the firm are two members of the house of commons, representing Durham and Essex, and A. E. Pease, formerly member for Yorkshire.

Italy's Prosperity.

ROME, Dec. 22.—The budget statement for 1901-02 shows a surplus of $6,500,000 after an expenditure of $3,400,000 on railroads, $2,000,000 on the China expedition and placing $2,800,000 in the sinking fund.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

"Naouw that I think on it," he said, "yer friend Mister Hestor was er mighty fine singer. He uster sing er song erbout an ole geezer that had er wooden leg and was always hard up for terbaccer. I don't rightly remember the words, but they was thrillin,' and Mister Hestor uster sing em and dance at ther same time. He was singen em one time in N'Orleans, an' he fell out through ther passage way an' went kerplunk inter the Mississip'. Haw, haw, haw, ha! I thought I would die a-laughin.' He didn't care a gash ding. He swum round er while and then we pulled him out. Mighty lively feller; that Hestor. He just didn't care nothin' at all erbout money. When we was a loadin' the lumber for that air house of his'n, he would stan' araound erbaout ther schooner and raise Cain with ther dock wallopers, and he gin each one on 'em ten dollars apiece ter drink his good health. They didn't show up ergain fer er week. Uster hire all ther niggers ter sing an' dance fer him, an' thar war so many of them cavoorting along the levee, that it looked like a nigger minstrel convention. Mister Hestor would sit on the bridge of the 'Shark' and throw money at 'em. He sent one nigger over to a place with a $20 bill to get broke, so he could hev more coins ter throw, an' the blamed darkey never did come back. Mister Hestor thought that a big joke. Mighty easy man ter get along with, that Mister Hestor. But he was peculiar—mighty peculiar."

The drowsy Bender was aroused, and bidding Capt. Parker good night they retired. In spite of the fact that they had slept all day, it was six o'clock the following morning before they tumbled out of their bunks and appeared on deck. The sky was overcast and the wind had whipped into the southeast and was blowing half a gale. Capt. Parker was roaring orders to the sailors, who were clawing at the canvas and half reefing the sails. The big topsails had vanished. The foam-capped waves dashed spitefully against the port side of the schooner, and scattered spray across the piles of lumber. There was the feel of rain in the air. To the north, the smoke of a liner was just discernible through the thickening mist.

"Nasty weather," said Mr. Seymour as the captain approached.

"It's going to blow cats and dogs," said that gentleman.

He was a good weather prophet.

CHAPTER XI.

SPRINGING THE TRAP.

Walter B. Hestor explained the details of the proposed newspaper trust to Mr. Palmer J. Morton on Monday, April 24, as has been narrated. He awaited word from the great financier with some impatience, and was delighted, the following Friday, to receive a note from Mr. Morton, stating that he would be glad to see him at four o'clock that afternoon. Hestor was there punctually.

"I have briefly explained your project to Andrus Carmody, John M. Rockwell, Simon Pence and R. J. Kent," said Mr. Morton, without any preliminary conversation. "Mr. Kent has agreed to broach the subject to Mr. Haven. I find that none of us have pressing engagements for next Monday afternoon after banking hours. They expressed a willingness to listen to your plans at that time, if such will suit your convenience."

Hestor was cool as ice. He thought a moment, calmly consulted a memorandum book, and stated that he had only an unimportant engagement which readily could be postponed.

"We will meet at this office, then," said Mr. Morton as he rose to signify that the interview was at an end.

"I have a suggestion to make," said Hestor. "You never have been on board my new yacht. All last season she was in commission in Indian and Asiatic waters. The 'Shark' returned to the United States about a month ago and has been thoroughly overhauled and is in fine condition. You and the gentlemen you have named—with the possible exception of Mr. Pence—are famous water dogs. I should be glad to welcome you on the 'Shark,' and promise you a good dinner, after which we can discuss matters at leisure. I will dock her at the Battery, and it is but a few steps from here to the pier."

"Rather too early in the season for yachting, is it not?" said Mr. Morton, but his face lit up at the thought. He was a famous yachtsman. "It is fine and warm to-day, but it may be disagreeable Monday."

"If it is bad weather we can meet at your office. If it is fine we will go on the yacht," suggested Hestor.

"If the weather is favorable I see no reason why we should not accept your invitation," said Mr. Morton. "We will wait and see. I will let you know by two o'clock Monday afternoon if we decide to go on your yacht. Good day."

On Friday Hestor received a telephone message from Sidney Hammond announcing his return from Chicago. Hestor at once addressed him the following letter:

My Dear Sidney:

I have accomplished great things since you have been away. I should like to see you and talk them over with you at once, but have matters of much importance on hand which will take up every minute of my time until Monday evening. I presume that you will find plenty of work awaiting your return. I have arranged to give a dinner to several gentlemen on board the "Shark" on Monday evening. Among them will be Mr. Palmer J. Morton, Mr. Carmody, Mr. Rockwell and others. You must be one of the party. I am going to surprise you.

The "Shark" will be docked near the Battery at four o'clock. Join the party at the boat. Do not fail to accept this invitation, as we shall discuss matters which will require your advice. Notify me by message at once of your acceptance of this invitation. Will see you in the meanwhile if I can spare the time. For reasons sufficiently obvious, you will kindly light a cigar with this note and maintain your habitual secrecy as a friend and a lawyer.

I remain, dear Sidney,

Sincerely yours,

WALTER B. HESTOR.

To this letter Hestor received a reply accepting the invitation and congratulating him on the evident prospects of the "trust," and expressing a lively curiosity as to its subject and object.

The Monday selected by Mr. Palmer J. Morton for a conference between his business associates and the representative of the New York Record was a perfect day, as has been stated in this history. Mr. Hestor was not surprised when the financier called him on the telephone and informed him that the invitation for a trip and a dinner on the "Shark" was accepted. Mr. Morton said that he had notified Messrs. Kent, Pence and Haven to meet at his office at about four o'clock, and that he would escort them through Battery park to the pier, the location of which was perfectly familiar to Mr. Morton.

Mr. Hestor replied that he would arrange with Mr. Rockwell and Mr. Carmody to meet either at Mr. Morton's office or to proceed directly to the yacht. This terminated the conversation over the telephone. Hestor then called Mr. Rockwell on the telephone. That gentleman stated that he had an appointment to meet Mr. Carmody at his office at three o'clock, and said that if Mr. Hestor would call for them at about four o'clock they would be pleased to accompany him. This was agreed to. At this hour the Hestor carriage, with the old family coachman on the box, stood in front of the Carmody building, and a few minutes later the three gentlemen were on their way to the boat. They found that Mr. Morton and his party had arrived, as had Mr. Sidney Hammond, who was acquainted with the members of the group of capitalists.

"Mr. Hammond is my attorney as well as my friend," said Mr. Hestor, "and he may be able to throw light on any legal complications that may arise during our conversation."

Fine Herbs.

This term used generally in recipes means parsley only, but practically it is a mixture of parsley, tarragon, chervil, shallots, chives, basil and mushrooms, chopped and sweated in fat. The following is a good formula: Place an ounce of butter in a saucepan with six shallots chopped fine. Set over the fire and cook three minutes, then add half a cupful of finely minced mushrooms and "sweat" for ten minutes; remove from the fire. Dip two sprays of parsley in boiling water, quickly removing them and mincing very fine; add a tablespoonful to other materials, season with half a teaspoonful of salt and same of nutmeg. If you do not use at once, put into a small jar and cover with melted paraffin.—Washington Star.

Many Skulls in a Crypt.

In the crypt of St. Leonarad's church at Hythe, England, are 7,000 skulls. The remains have been the subject of much discussion by scientists. They were once declared to be the bones of Danish invaders; now the balance of opinion assumes that they are the outcome of a battle fought between Vortimer, a prince of the Britons, and the invading Saxons about A. D. 456. Many of the skulls bear the marks of the battle-ax. On a table on one side of the crypt are placed two skulls, which are declared to be typical Saxon and British, one being long and narrow, the other short and broad. The custodian points out in another part of the crypt what he contemptuously describes as a "common churchyard skull."—Chicago Chronicle.

King Edward's Memory.

The king is said never to forget a name or a face. Queen Victoria made it a point in his education that the development of memory be a carefully considered feature. Many persons have been surprised at the king's remembering and singling them out for recognition in the presence of a throng of people. They tell a story in Rome of the king having noticed in a cafe there, while traveling incognito, a restaurant proprietor who had attended him elsewhere. The man, all unconscious of the identity of his patron, so the story runs, slapped the prince, as he then was, upon the back, exclaiming delightedly: "Bless you sir; you're the only man that's put foot in this place who remembers my being at Ostend!"—St. James' Gazette.

MARCONI TRIUMPHANT.

The Inventor Announces Successful Transoceanic Communication.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The following dispatch from Mr. Marconi, dated Glace Bay, N. S., Dec. 21, has been received by the press:

"I beg to inform you for circulation that I have established wireless telegraph communication between Cape Breton, Canada, and Cornwall, England, with complete success. Inauguratory messages, including one from the governor-general of Canada to King Edward VII., have already been transmitted and forwarded to the king of England and to Italy. A message to the London Times has also been transmitted in the presence of its special correspondent, Dr. Parkin, M. P."

A dispatch from London says: "The London Times confirms the receipt of a message by wireless telegraphy from Mr. Marconi at Cape Breton, N. S."

Wireless Messages to England.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 22.—Marconi announces that he has succeeded in transmitting wireless messages between Table Head station, Cape Breton, and Poldhu, Cornwall, England. He sent transoceanic messages from governor general of Canada to King Edward of Great Britain and King Victor Emmanuel of Italy.

Fire In Ladies' Seminary.

NEW MILFORD, Conn., Dec. 22.—Ingleside school, a large and fashionable seminary for young ladies conducted by Mrs. William D. Black, has been partly destroyed by a fire of unknown origin and caused damage estimated at $40,000. Flames were discovered at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in one of the rooms of the third floor in the rear of what is known as the middle section. The two upper floors of the middle section were swept by the fire, and adjoining rooms in the other two sections of the building were also burned, but at this point the flames were checked. The entire building was flooded with water, and the contents of many elaborately furnished rooms were destroyed in this manner. The servants were the only persons in the building when the fire broke out, the young ladies of the seminary being away on their Christmas vacations, as were the instructors.

Mrs. Wilson's Son Arrested.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Dec. 22.—A sensational development in the investigation being conducted by Coroner Bill regarding the death of Mrs. Julia Wilson is the arrest of George Wilson, the eldest son of the dead woman. He was locked up in the Brooklyn jail pending the conclusion of the coroner's investigation. From an official source it was learned that Wilson's arrest came about after a careful investigation. The prisoner, it is said, was the cause of Mrs. Manson being brought into the Wilson home. Her visit was looked upon by Mrs. Wilson as an intrusion, with the result that there was constant quarreling. Wilson refused to order the woman from the house despite his mother's protests. Wilson, who is thirty-two years old, was married several years ago, but has not lived with his wife for some time. She is now living in Worcester, Mass.

Car of Christmas Mail Burned.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 22.—A carload of Christmas mail en route for the west was burned yesterday. The loss was reported by the crew of mail clerks arriving here from New York on the fast mail, No. 3, on the New York Central, which left New York at 8:45 a. m. Only twenty or thirty out of 700 or 800 pouches were saved, the burned mail being for Chicago and points farther west, including the Philippine and Fiji islands. The mail was in a storage car, which carried no clerks. The crew was on the car behind and discovered the fire between Peekskill and Highland. The car was left burning at the latter station.

Grade Crossings Must Go.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 22.—Work will be commenced in the spring to rid the city of Cleveland of 134 grade crossings. The estimated cost of the work will be $10,000,000, and ten years will be required to do the work. Seven railroads are concerned in the expensive improvement. The roads are the Nickel Plate, the Wheeling and Lake Erie, Pennsylvania, Lake Shore, Big Four, Erie and the Cleveland Terminal and Valley. Legislative authority has been granted to begin the work, the city and the railroads each bearing an equal share of the great cost.

Thieves Surrounded In a Barn.

LOOGOOTEE, Ind., Dec. 22.—Word has been received here that farmers have surrounded in a barn west of this place the outlaws who held up the night clerks at Patterson's restaurant, robbed two stores and attempted to rob the White River bank here. A posse of armed men left here to assist in the capture. The detectives, who arrived in the interest of the bank and insurance companies, also went out to assist the farmers.

Ohio River Floods Subsiding.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Dec. 22.—The Ohio river, which has been overflowing the lowlands above and below the city for the past week, has come to a stand. The stage is now about forty feet, and it is expected the high water will begin to recede. The damage has been severe to farmers. Tie and lumber men along Green river report heavy losses.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, Dec. 22—A well-known Plainfield baseball player is nursing a sore head as a result of an infraction of the rules at a local dancing pavilion, Saturday night. With another young man he persisted in dancing with his bat on and argued with Special Officer Guerrier when ordered to desist. A fight followed and the Plainfielder's scalp was split by a blow, it is alleged, from the officer's club. No arrests were made.

CHRISTMAS RUSH ON AT LOCAL POSTOFFICE

Every Department Using Extra Men in Order to Deliver the Packages.

CARRIERS LOADED DOWN

IMMENSE AMOUNT OF BUSINESS CURTAILS REGULAR DELIVERIES.

Postmaster Bird Declares That His Force is Handling More Mail Matter Than at Any Time Since He Has Been in Office.

When the ancients were at work building the famous pyramids in Egypt they could not have worked harder than are the employes of the local postoffice in reducing the piles of mail matter which is poured into that office at all hours of the day and night at this time of the year. A glance through the window of the general delivery booth will show what the handling of a modern Christmas mail is in a modern city when prosperity reigns everywhere.

As each carrier leaves the delivery department for his route along the residential streets of his city he looks like Old Santa himself with the great pack of Christmas presents filling his mailbag and hanging on to his clothing by strings attached to his button holes and buttons and over his shoulder. So great has the business in the local postoffice been during the past three days that Postmaster Bird has found it necessary to supply an extra man for each carrier in order to assist him with his bundles.

Not only has the crush been great in the carriers' department but it has grown to such proportions in the office that every available man in the service in this city has been put to work behind the barred windows. The general delivery department has grown in business within a few days so that there has had to be another man placed in that department to assist the clerk.

In speaking of the rush of business at the office during this time of the year Postmaster Bird said that it is always very heavy around the holidays but he thinks the rush this year is even greater than it was at any time since he has been in office. He recalled that in all of his five years as postmaster in this city he has never seen such voluminous business done in the registered letter department. The increase in this section has made it necessary to have several extra men to handle the mailmatter and one of these men does nothing all day but stamp letters and another man does nothing but assort the letters and packages.

James Rogers, the colored porter who carries the mail from the office to the Jersey Central Railroad depot, has his hands full with the rest of the employes. On each trip his cart is loaded to its utmost capacity and it may be necessary before Christmas to have another wagon and helper to assist him.

The rush in this city has reached such proportions that the carriers have not been able to cover their four routes daily in the business district and the business men have had to be content with three deliveries a day. This, Mr. Bird said, is unavoidable and he hoped that the merchants would be patient under the circumstances.

And with all this rush of mailmatter there seems to be no relief in sight for the rush in the postoffices does not cease after Christmas but keeps up for a week or two afterwards when belated mailmatter begins to reach the city. After that time the packages stop arriving but there is a large amount of letters which come and go for almost a month after the holidays until February when the business at Uncle Sam's offices all over the country settles down to its regular regime.

Council Meetings.

Although the Common Council will meet Friday evening, December 26, in adjourned session, there will be another meeting probably Monday evening, December 29, to close up the year's business. Express Employes Rushed.

Owing to the heavy rush the employes of the U. S. Express Company were obliged to work last Sunday. The express matter is now assuming large proportions and it gives the employes of the company all they want to do to deliver it on time.

EXPRESS CO. RUSHED.

More Packages to Handle This Year Than Ever Before.

The entire outside platform used by the United States Express Company is completely occupied today with express matter. Judging by appearance every one in Plainfield should receive a Christmas present. The company is doing its best to deliver the packages on time, but no doubt there will be some delay. Manager Mills, as well as a full corps of assistants, is working from early morning to late at night and expects to for some days to come. Every train brings in additional packages so that the big pile does not seem to grow less. Manager Mills believes that this year's business will exceed that of any of recent years.

HEAVY HAUL.

Search Reveals That More Was Stolen Than Was Supposed.

A second search made by the management of the Sperry & Hutchinson trauding stamp store, which was robbed Sunday night, showed many more goods to be missing than was at first thought. The list includes many nickel plated watches, musical instruments, opera glasses and suit cases. A full description of all the articles taken has been furnished the police. It is now believed that two men were engaged in the robbery as it would have been impossible for one to have gotten away with all the plunder.

CHRISTMAS CANTATA.

This service is one of the most impressive of any held in that church and some of the beautiful customs of the motherland are carried out at the early morning services. They will be conducted by Rev. O. G. Norseen.

ENGINE CRASHES INTO BARN

NO ONE KILLED, BUT HORSE HAD TWO LEGS BROKEN.

Disastrous Wreck Which Occurred in This City Last Evening.

This city was the scene of one of the most disastrous railroad wrecks seen in this city in some time, last evening, when a wildcat engine jumped the track while making a test run and plowed through a barn and a large quantity of freight piled alongside of the track and knocked over a horse and broke two of its legs. The accident was caused by a rear end collision when the engine crashed into four loaded freight cars. No lives were lost.

The wreck occurred in the show windows of the Somerset Pharmacy where a toy railroad operated by electricity has been in operation for the past week displaying some perfumery. Yesterday afternoon the engine got out of order and it was sent away to repaired. When it returned a test run was made. The clerk who tried the experiment turned on the electric current without removing the cars from off the track. The track is about twenty-five feet long and when the engine made a complete circuit it crashed into the cars.

The engine jumped the track and plowed its way through some perfumery bottles, smashing them. The engine completed its tour of destruction by crashing through the side of a miniature barn and broke two legs off an innocent wooden horse grazing on the paper lawn about the building. The engine was just steering its course to plow through the lead mountain when the clerk reached over the partition and stopped the machine.

No lives were lost although a very pretty young woman in wax with hay rope hair of golden brown narrowly escaped losing her head as the eratic engine whizzed by and struck the pile of perfumery bottles.

BABY LEFT ALONE.

Passersby Thought it Was Forgotten, and Then Mother Thought it Was Kidnapped.

Some woman in this city became so interested in shopping for Christmas the other day that she actually forgot about her baby. She left the baby in the carriage in front of the store while she went inside to buy some little novelty for her other children which she had left at home.

The baby in the carriage was playing with a rattle. Several little street urchins saw it and remembering that their little sister asked them to bring her home a rattle they "slid" up to the preambulator and gently but firmly removed the toy from the baby's hand and "fled," leaving the baby lamenting loudly. Shoppers wandered by until a man tried to quiet the baby, but all in vain.

Just then a well-known woman came along and tried to pacify the child but all to no purpose. She took the child in her arms and went inside the store in the hopes that the mother would recognize her infant but after tramping up one aisle and down the other she returned to the street only to find a large crowd gathered around the mother who was crying out that her baby had been kidnapped. When the child was returned to her she was overjoyed and started off to buy it another rattle.

HOW CITY CAN SECURE PARK

Common Council Now Considering Co-operation With Capitalists for New Park.

PROBLEM OF SEWERS

Improvements of Property and Part Cost of New Roads is What City is Asked to Do—The Plans of the Capitalists Represented by G. H. Taylor.

Knocking at the door of Plainfield stand half a dozen capitalists of New York and Philadelphia who are willing to spend half a million dollars in improvements here providing this city will open the door and let them in. The door is co-operation and already the sound of the turning knob is heard from the Council Chambers where a special committee, at whose head is Mayor Jenkins and Street Commissioner Gavett, has been holding meetings to discuss this important subject. $100,000 will be spent in the purchase of land, which now lies practically useless, and the rest will be used in making part of Plainfield still more of a modern community.

The plan is this:

G. Herbert Taylor, proprietor of one of the largest and most influential investment concerns in New York, with offices at 149 Broadway, and who lives at 520 West Seventh street, this city, has interested a number of very prominent capitalists of New York and Philadelphia in the scheme of making a part of Plainfield into a beautiful residential park at an outlay of $700,000 or more, providing the city with co-operate with them and make some improvements to the property and bear part of the cost of building the macadam roads. That is all that is asked by the capitalists and they will build the houses, bear half the expense of laying the streets, supply the water, electric power and lighting and put up a steam heating plant which will supply all the houses in the park with heat during the cold weather.

While all the capital in the scheme has been subscribed by the capitalists which have been interested by Mr. Taylor it is hoped that some of the local men of wealth will also become interested in the plan. So far there is no local capital in the scheme, excepting that of Mr. Taylor, who is financially at the head of promoters. He has had an engineer here on several occasions and plans have been drawn up of the park and the houses which will be erected and submitted to Mr. Taylor and to the special committee of the Common Council. The cost will be somewhere near a million dollars, including everything.

The site, which covers almost fifty acres, is bounded by Field avenue on the east, running along that street to Elizabeth street, thence to Plainfield avenue, over the Barnaby estate to Sherman avenue, on the west; to Grant avenue, thence over to F. A. Pinto's property at the corner of West Eighth street and back again four city blocks to Plainfield avenue, making in all about fifty acres, including the old golf course. It is proposed to convert these fields into one of the most beautiful residential parks to be found in this part of the State.

Every house will be an attractive one, built on the plan of those which are now considered to be the show places of Plainfield. The streets will be sixty feet wide with ten foot sidewalks on each side making a street eighty feet wide including the sidewalks. These, it is proposed will be of macadam. Sewers will be laid. Water pipes and electric light wires will be placed underground, together with the steam heating pipes which will connect all the houses from a central heating plant. This plant will take place of the automobile station which was said to be considered.

Mr. Taylor, when interviewed by a Daily Press reporter, said that in locating the park at the site mentioned, he had a tremendous problem before him in considering the sewer system. He said that it would be impossible for the sewerage of the park to empty into the main trunk line of the city's system because the grade there is in the wrong direction. He said that his engineer had prepared a report on this matter which has been submitted to the committee on streets and sewers of the Common Council and that committee has been considering

TRYING TO FIX THE BLAME

BOTH ENGINEERS CLAIM THAT THEY WERE RUNNING ON ORDERS.

Fast Freight Crashed Into Side of Coal Train Just Leaving the Siding.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Whitehouse, Dec. 23—Officials of the New Jersey Central are conducting a rigid investigation in order to place the responsibility for the freight and coal train wreck which occurred at the siding east of here, Friday night. Both engineers claim they were running according to orders and the mistake rests with the dispatcher's office at Jersey City. As told in yesterday's Press, two lives were lost.

The accident was the result of the west bound evening freight coming along at a lively clip just as a coal train was emerging from the siding to take the west track. The freight engine crashed into the tender of the coal locomotive and the wreckage was piled high in the air over two tracks. Several of the cars caught fire and by the illumination people from the surrounding country made away with a lot of merchandise which had been thrown into the fields.

It is said an order was sent out from Jersey City telling the coal crew that the freight was running thirty minutes late and it was through this the engineer pulled out on the siding. The freight engineer alleges he received no order to run late and was keeping to his regular schedule when the crash came.

All the Circuit and Supreme Court causes were laid over until January 5. Dr. A. C. Adams was the only representative from North Plainfield on the Grand Jury. George F. Brown was unable to be present to sit with the Grand Jury as he was busy with the tax bills in the borough. Samuel S. Childs, the Senator-elect for Somerset county, is the foreman this term.

Tavern licences were granted to Richard C. Boice and to Joseph S Burns, of North Plainfield.

His New Quarters.

this matter at recent meetings, which was called especially for this purpose. This committee, through Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, is preparing an estimate on the cost of making it possible to connect with the sewer and this estimate will, no doubt, be handed in to the Common Council at its meeting in the near future, at which time it is expected that the Council will report on what the city will do towards opening the city gates to this outside capital for the contemplated improvements.

Those who have visited Philadelphia will probably remember visiting Ekline, Overbrook and Pelham; all suburbs which have been beautified by capitalists, where beautiful drives through the shady streets, past the handsome residences which line those streets, are a delight. It is proposed to make that part of this city, lying between the boundaries described, a residential district like those of the suburbs of Philadelphia. $10,000 houses will be built and sold to New York capitalists and business men who desire homes in a modern up-to-date city. Over fifty of these houses will be built in time in the park.

Among the accommodations for the residents of that section of the town will be an electric omnibus service between the park and the Jersey Central Railroad station. These busses will run on schedule time and will make regular trips to and from this city.

The entries of all classes are in excess of last year, and all the space in the big Garden will be required, with the platforms over the boxes, for extra space, to take care of all that Secretary Crawford has arranged for. The Atlantic Cat Club will have the responsibility of the showing of cats, to be located in the Concert Hall, and there will be a fine display, with many prizes to be competed for. HAS NOT ACCEPTED

Mr. Roosevelt as Arbitrator Would Please Powers.

PRESIDENT NOT INCLINED TO ACT.

General Opinion at Washington Is That the Venezuelan Difficulty Should Go to The Hague Tribunal.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—President Roosevelt has not accepted the position of arbitrator of the Venezuelan controversy. In fact at latest reports he had not received, formally or officially, a request from the European powers that he act as arbitrator of the dispute. These statements are made on the highest authority

In an informal manner the president has been notified that the European powers intimately concerned in the present South American difficulty desire that he should undertake the responsibility of acting as arbitrator of the points at issue between them and Venezuela. Thus far they merely have been taking "soundings" with a view probably of ascertaining how he would receive a formal proffer to act as arbitrator. The president so soon as he received the first intimation that he was desired as arbitrator of the Venezuelan controversy expressed emphatically his judgment that the matters to be arbitrated should be referred to The Hague tribunal. His view of the suggestions made has been conveyed to the European powers, together with a strong presentation of his reasons for the view he holds. No response of a formal nature to these representations has been received.

The president and Secretary Hay had a long conference after the former's return from his Virginia trip. They carefully went over the situation as it had developed since Saturday, but it is understood that nothing has arisen to warrant the president in changing his opinion as to the undesirability of his acceptance of the position of arbitrator. So far as can be learned no specific reasons have been advanced by the European powers for objecting to a reference of the Venezuelan questions to the arbitration of The Hague tribunal. It is held by the administration that the tribunal at The Hague was constituted to arbitrate just such controversies as that which has arisen between Venezuela and the powers and that it would be desirable from every viewpoint that the present dispute should go to that tribunal for adjudication. How strong the objections which Great Britain, Germany and Italy have to a reference of the Venezuelan difficulty to The Hague tribunal is not known to the administration at this time. Even the nature of the objections, if any there be, is not known. The negotiations looking to the selection of an arbitrator have not progressed sufficiently yet to develop such objections as the powers may have.

The acceptance by the powers of the principle of arbitration as applied to the Venezuelan question is a matter of great gratification to the president and his cabinet. That all the powers have intimated, too, that they would prefer the president should arbitrate the present dispute is taken as a notable compliment to the president personally and to his administration. It is the hope of both the president and his advisers, however, that while there is precedent for his acceptance of the post of arbitrator, the powers will consent to a reference of the controverted matters in the Venezuelan question to the tribunal at The Hague.

Colombia Recovering.

PANAMA, Colombia, Dec. 23.—A prominent government official has arrived here from Bogota. He says the general situation in the interior of the republic is satisfactory and that trade is increasing under government protection. The differences between Liberals and Conservatives are disappearing. Active preparations for the forthcoming meeting of congress, when several important questions will be presented, are being made. The government is desirous that all political parties be represented in congress.

Treaty Will Go to Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—President Roosevelt has let it be known that before he reached his decision to send the Cuban reciprocity treaty to the senate and not to the house he consulted freely the leaders of the house and the members of his cabinet. After mature consideration it was determined that it was unnecessary to send the Cuban treaty to the house, notwithstanding the fact that it affected revenues of the government. Precedents were looked up carefully.

Murdered and Robbed.

ALMIRA, Wash., Dec. 23.—Judge Lewis and his wife, an aged couple, have been found murdered in their home on a lonely road six miles south of here. The motive was robbery, as the safe in which Lewis was known to have kept a large sum of money had been broken into and emptied.

A PRINCESS MISSING

Great Excitement In Saxony. All Europe Searched.

CAUSE OF DISAPPEARANCE A MYSTERY

Wife of Crown Prince Has Suddenly Vanished From Palace at Salzburg, Leaving No Clew to Her Whereabouts.

DRESDEN, Saxony, Dec. 23.—The crown princess of Saxony fled from her home during the night of Dec. 11-12, The Dresden Journal says:

"The princess, in a state of intense mental excitement, suddenly deserted her family at Salzburg and went abroad. The Saxon court functions for the winter, including the New Year's reception, have been canceled."

The foregoing paragraph in the official journal, which was inserted by order of the king and crown prince of Saxony, has turned into truth what for several days past has been regarded as an incredible tale. The crown princess of Saxony, surrounded by her ladies in waiting and numerous attendants and servants of the royal household, has vanished so utterly that the police of every kingdom of Europe have for ten days been unable to trace her.

The above official announcement was made in order to obtain the aid of the general public in finding the princess and because the court fiction that she preferred to remain in retirement at Salzburg rather than to return to her husband and children at Dresden cannot longer be maintained.

The narrative of the events at Salzburg during the night of Dec. 11-12, as told in Dresden, is that the princess, who appeared to be in an unusually tranquil mood, retired after the music in the saloon before 12 o'clock. Three hours later when a maid looked into the royal bedchamber something in the appearance of the bed prompted her to go closer and examine it. Instead of the princess the maid perceived a dummy figure. She awakened the lady in waiting, and the latter, with other members of the princess' suit, searched all the neighboring apartments, then the entire castle and finally the grounds of the castle for the princess, but no trace of the missing woman was found. At dawn the police of Salzburg were informed of the disappearance, and inquiries were made throughout the whole countryside, but with no tangible result. A number of what had seemed to be traces of the princess were shown to be without foundation upon careful examination by the police

The theory of suicide was suggested, and a fruitless search for the princess' body has been made. All the ponds and other pieces of water in the vicinity of the castle have been dragged without result.

The disappearance of the princess will doubtless cause the circulation of many stories. It is already related that she eloped, but inquiries made here have brought out nothing to substantiate or support this supposition.

Vienna Greatly Excited.

VIENNA, Dec. 23.—The flight of the crown princess of Saxony has caused great excitement here. It is reported that the Archduke Ferdinand, accompanied by one of the court chamberlains, went to Geneva, whither it was supposed the princess had fled, but he failed to find any trace of her. The princess' brother, the Archduke Leopold Ferdinand, is said to be with her, but nothing can be ascertained as to her whereabouts. It is officially explained that the princess' disappearance is due to mental derangement

To Honor Washington's Memory.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 23.—During the recent unveiling of the monument to Louis Kossuth in this city a project was informally started by representative Hungarian-Americans to erect a statue of George Washington in Hungary's capital, Budapest, by popular subscription E. T. Kohanyi, editor of a local Hungarian paper, has taken up the enterprise and has received enthusiastic expressions concerning the proposition from many prominent American statesmen as well as from his own countrymen.

Speech Recovered After Long Silence

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 23.—Within a few days Miss Mary O'Brien, aged about thirty, living in East Longmeadow, suddenly recovered the power of speech after being dumb for fourteen years. She has since talked almost incessantly while awake, and her mind seems disordered. A council of physicians has been held, and the woman may be examined to determine her sanity. Her failure of speech fourteen years ago was due to a throat trouble. She has since been in fair health.

Killed at a Crossing.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 23.—While attempting to cross the New York Central tracks in this city Mrs. Theresa Hatch, aged forty-nine, was struck by a freight train and killed. She was carrying her eighteen-months old grandson, and the child was caught on the pilot of the engine and carried half a mile before the engine stopped. The child's skull was fractured, and he will die. The woman did not see the train and was trying to cross ahead of one coming on another track.

Transport Thomas Arrives.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—The army transport Thomas has just arrived from Manila. The vessel brings 122 casuals, 62 sick and 779 discharged soldiers. While the vessel was in port at Manila a riot broke out among the discharged men, and a company of regulars was placed on board as a guard to maintain order.

CONVINCING PROOF.

The Average Plainfield Citizen Must Accept the Following Proof.

The great Sir Isaac Newton, one of the most profound reasoners the world ever produced, once cut a large hole in a board fence to allow a favorite cat access to two gardens, and cut a smaller hole to allow her kitten to follow her. The weakness manifested in Sir Isaac's action was due to want of thought. Any reader who mentally debates the proof offered here about Doan's Kidney Pills and arrives at any other conclusion than that stated in this citizen's statement, is as short of reasoning powers as the philosopher when he turned carpenter.

Mr. Robert Love, of 44 Duer street, member of the firm of Love Brothers, grocers, of 257 West Front street, says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for eight or nine years—pain across the back and a lameness over the kidneys. Colds always settled there and aggravated it. At last my back grew weaker and any heavy lifting or too much standing or sitting gave me additional pain. In the morning my back bothered me greatly until I moved about and took some exercise when it became better to a certain extent. I doctored and used different kinds of so-called cures but it was throwing money away. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in our paper, and, being in bad shape at the time I got a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. Before taking half of it my condition was greatly improved and continuing their use all the pain left me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

A TRAGEDY AT SEA

Survivors of Wrecked Ships Tell of Terrible Sufferings.

THREE DAYS ADRIFT WITHOUT FOOD

Eleven Perished Before Relief Came, and Those Saved Were Frostbitten and Helpless—Collision Caused the Disaster.

BOSTON, Dec. 23.—Almost crazed from their sufferings, frostbitten and helpless, ten men in a boat have been picked up by the schooner Manhassett forty-five miles off Highland light. Then for the first time it was learned that the schooners Frank A. Palmer and Louise B. Crary had been in collision and had been sunk off Thatcher's island on Wednesday evening.

The survivors of the tragedy were landed here. Of the twenty-one men who made up the two crews six were carried down when the two vessels sank, four died during the terrible three days' drift in Massachusetts bay, and another became insane and jumped overboard.

With no food or water, their clothes frozen in solid masses and their boat being steadily driven before a bitter gale out into the Atlantic, it seems remarkable that so many managed to survive.

The two schooners, both heavily laden with coal, doubled Cape Cod in company and ran into a strong northwester on Wednesday night. Both captains put their vessels over toward the Cape Ann shore for a lee. When off Thatcher's island, they split tacks, and finally both came about at the same time and unbeknown to the captains headed toward each other, the Crary holding north on the port tack and the Palmer south on the starboard tack and therefore having the right of way.

The survivors are inclined to lay the blame of the accident on J. E. Smith of Portland, Me., mate of the Crary, who had charge of the deck at the time and who went down with the ship. They are of the opinion that he thought he could weather the Palmer; but, as in other similar accidents, the calculation was erroneous. The Crary crashed into the bow of the Palmer. The cut was deep, and it was seen instantly that there was no hope for either vessel. Most of the small boats were smashed and some of the men killed by the collision, but others of both crews by quick work launched the long boat of the Palmer, into which clambered the captains of both vessels and thirteen others.

There was not a moment for storing food or water in the boat, and the rowers had propelled it only a short distance from the schooners when the Palmer went down. Three minutes later the Crary disappeared.

Without food and water, drenched to the skin, spray freezing to their garments because of the bitter cold, the fifteen survivors underwent sufferings indescribable. Four men of the Crary on Friday lay down in the bow of the boat, and that night they died. Eleven remained up till Saturday night, when Franz Banta went insane and walked into the sea. The others were powerless to restrain him.

In the three days and a half that the men were afloat their boat drifted steadily offshore until at 8 o'clock Sunday morning it was forty-five miles off Highland light. There the lookout on the fishing schooner Manhassett caught a glimpse of the boat, and within half an hour the ten men were rescued.

The sailors at the relief hospital have improved steadily. They describe their experience as a most terrible one. The death of Banta, the Finlander, is recalled as most pathetic. In his delirium he saw home and a Christmas tree and his mother beckoning him to come to her over the water. He stepped over the side of the boat in response to the fancied summons to walk on the water and was swallowed up.

Blackmail on a Large Scale.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Dec. 23.—The local postoffice is in receipt of 2,000 letters from a New York collection agency addressed to residents here, each one of which letters contains a claim for $1.20 said to be due for the purchase of jewelry. A suit is threatened in case of nonremittance. The postoffice authorities say that the letters were sent by blackmailers who hope to frighten persons into remitting. Similar consignments of letters were sent to all the principal postoffices of the state. Postoffice inspectors are collecting evidence against the senders.

A Christmas Tree Accident.

STRATHROY, Ont., Dec. 23.—While "Santa Claus" was distributing presents from a tree in the English Church school one of the children struck a coal oil lamp, which exploded, scattering burning oil in all directions. One girl, Ida Hancock, was terribly burned on face and body. A wild panic followed the explosion, women and children being trampled upon in the rush for the exit, which was through a small hall. Many received bruises, but no fatalities occurred.

MAKING CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

At this season when the shops are full of articles designed for Christmas gifts, and when the majority of men, women and children are planning surprises, loving remembrances and gifts of greater or less value for family and friends, the ethics, so to speak, of Christmas gifts naturally present a pleasant subject for contemplation. The "good will towards men" heralded by the angels who sang of the Christ-child underlies the thought of gift-making at this season.

It is unfortunate that the demands of modern society have somewhat marred the custom that should be without flow, and the great expectations of gratuitous compensation for trifling service at this season sometimes makes a tax of Christmas giving. On the whole, the instinct is healthy and beautiful and he indeed is to be pitied who at this time of good cheer has no heart to give.

In spite of the jokes over husbands giving their wives boxes of cigars because the wives have for years given the husbands lace curtains, both husbands and wives find much pleasure in the household convenience or adornment that is smuggled into the house as a Christmas surprise, and the personal gift that is an expression of the thoughtful regard of the giver must always be a source of delight and sometimes "a joy forever."

Great tact finds expression at this season and the appropriateness of the gift often evinces deep thought mingled with loving regard. Those gifts are the finest that best express the heart and personality of the giver, as that is the noblest giving which is a part of one's self. Very often gifts that represent time and thought overrank those of greater money value. At no season of the year should money count for less and good will count for more than at the Christmas time. For this reason, he who can do little, may bring joy to the heart of the poor and friendless when he gives wisely and tactfully the trifles that represent time, thought and kindly consideration.

It still looks as if to Senator Hutchinson, of Mercer, would go the honor of presiding over the upper house of the State Legislature this winter Both Senator Cross, of this county, and Senator Strong, of Middlesex, are still in the contest but there is little or no show for either of them unless there should be a sudden and unexpected turn of events. No one questions for a moment that Senator Cross would make an excellent presiding officer but it happened that his colleague, Mr. Hutchinson, went on a still hunt earlier in the season and secured enough promises of support to land him the place.

A foreigner, stopping in Newark, was desirous of mailing a letter to his home country. Searching for a mailbox, he spied a red one with a handle on the front of it. He put the letter inside and turned the handle to notify the postal authorities that he had done so. That be accomplished his object there is no doubt but it is not usually necessary to call out the fire department to bring such a thing to pass.

A general adveriser is quoted by the Philadelphia Record as saying that when an article has been thoroughly advertised and established in England the people do not need to be reminded of it; but in America it takes only a short time for the people to be drawn away by the advertising of another product of the same nature. Therefore he finds it necessary to keep up his advertising in this country.

It seems quite likely that Mayor Jenkins will have something to say regarding his plan for city parks and a public lake in his annual message which will be presented to the Council next week. It is to be hoped that the Mayor will call the attention of the needs of the city in that direction and that the Common Council will lose no time in considering the subject.

Public schools in city and borough are now closed until after the new year begins. Pupils and teachers are enjoying the well-earned holiday. Then there is a host of young people home from college and boarding school who are bent on enjoying the Christmas season to its fullest extent. Altogether there is prospect of plenty happening in a social way.

Mayor Jenkins' suggestion of public parks and a public lake are excellent ones. A public lake of proper dimensions would be particularly appropriate in the winter time when the young people of the city are in search of a suitable skating pond. It is to be hoped that the incoming Common Council will seriously consider the subject.

That league fever, which has been prevalent here, seems to have visited Passaic as well. That city had a football league or two and now has several basket ball leagues under way. It is to be hoped that Passaic's baseball leagues are free from the happy incidents that have been troubling the local organization.

Never a winter passes by that does not impress upon the minds of pedestrians the futility of building sidewalks with the surface lower than the surrounding ground. When there is any ice and snow, it always melts and collects there and a little freeze makes walking there dangerous and unpleasant.

The fact that the Hope Y. M. A. basket ball five, which made its first appearance in public but a few weeks ago, has proven itself in the same class with the teams composed of veteran players, has done much to encourage the sport in Plainfield.

Think of it! Christmas is only two days away. You can hardly believe it, can you? How the days hustle by. One will hardly have a chance to turn around after the holidays before spring will be here.

As soon as the holiday season passes by, the legislators will begin to gather at the State Capital. There are many who wonder how long it will take them to settle down to business this winter.

Men's Club to Entertain.

The Men's Club of the Congregational church will hold a "Ladies' Night," Tuesday evening, January 13, at which time Frank M. Chapin, assistant curator of the American Museum of Natural History, New York, will give an illustrated lecture on "The Study of Birds with a Camera." This lecture is considered to be one of the best ever given and a rare treat is promised. A social, with refreshments, will follow the entertainment.

Weekly Drill.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

While counting over the money in his till Tuesday evening William Debele discovered two pennies which are seldom seen in any part of this country. One of them is without date but has the shield and the words "One Cent" on both sides. The other is much more of a curiosity as over the Indian's head are the words, "Fort Lafayette" and over these are the words "Millions to the Contractors" and on the reverse side is inscribed "not One Cent for the widow." This coin is dated 1863.

A commercial traveler got off the train at the Jersey Central Railroad station a few days ago and, jumping into a cab told the driver to take him to the Kensington Hotel which he did. Last week this same traveler got off the same train at the depot, jumped into another cab and told the driver to take him to the Kinsington Hotel and the driver obediently drove him to the hotel and received his money. It was night then and in the morning, after transacting some business in town he went back to the hotel and told "Mine Host Staats" to call a cab as he wanted to be driven to the depot. The proprietor politely told him that he did not want a cab as the depot was only a half block away, but the traveller stoutly protested he wanted to take a Central train and not a Lehigh, for in coming to the hotel the previous nights he passed under two railroad bridges. It was some time before Mr. Staats was able to explain that the wily driver had driven his patron down under the Watchung avenue bridge, over Fourth street and under the Park avenue bridge to the hotel making the traveller think that he had been driven several blocks to the hotel which was only half a block away.

TALKING ACROSS THE SEA.

London Has Been Communicating With Marconi For a Week.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The representatives of the Marconi company say they have been receiving transatlantic messages for a week. They add that messages to King Edward and others sent Sunday came through without a hitch and practically instantaneously. The instant the key was depressed in Nova Scotia the receiver at Poldhu, Cornwall, answered it.

It is calculated that the company will be able to handle 1,000 words per hour. So soon as it is able to get the postoffice authorities to connect Poldhu with the inland telegraph the company will commence regular commercial business between Cornwall and Nova Scotia.

According to a dispatch from Glace bay, Sunday's successful experiment took place in the presence of the members of Marconi's staff and a few privileged guests who had been summoned by telegraph. Among these was Dr George R. Parkin, principal of the Upper Canada college and a trustee of the Rhodes scholarship, who acted as correspondent of the London Times.

The day was fine and clear. The wire at the Glace bay end was attuned with that across the ocean, a little more than 2,200 miles away, and then the inventor signaled to the Cornwall coast. A moment of intense suspense followed until the watchers saw with delight that a response was coming. The tape showed the dots and dashes indicating that the call had been received. Signor Marconi then began transmitting a message of congratulation from Lord Minto, governor general of Canada, to King Edward, which had been awaiting transmission since Oct. 15. The speed of transmission increased, the armature whizzed, and the cracking of the electricity as it broke across the arc of transmission sounded like revolver shots. Following Earl Minto's message was one from Marconi to his royal patron, King Victor Emmanuel of Italy.

Knoxville's Loss Half a Million.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 23.—The scene of this city's $500,000 fire is but a mass of debris. Brick walls of the 500 or 600 burned structures are standing. The burned district is triangular in form, the width of five stores on Gay street and three on Commerce avenue, leaving the corner building standing. A lucky shifting of the wind was all that saved the six story McLeer block, and the collapse of the Brown Hardware company gave the firemen their chance to stop the progress of the flames westward. Three hundred people are thrown out of employment temporarily.

Can Pierce Heart Without Danger.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—After a series of experiments covering a period of more than five years J. Bryon Coakley, a well known vivisectionist of Chicago, has discovered that to administer local treatment to the heart is not the impossibility the world's scientists have always held it to be. By means of a fine, hollow golden needle seven or eight inches long which he terms an "organotone," Dr. Coakley not only has been able to pierce the heart without causing death, but to inject into it various fluids without subjecting the patient to the slightest danger.

Quarantine Lifted.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—The quarantine against Connecticut on account of the epidemic of foot and mouth disease in New England was removed formally by an order issued by Secretary Wilson. The order takes immediate effect and permits cattle, sheep and other live stock to be shipped out of the state without restriction. A most rigid investigation by a corps of experts working under the personal direction of Dr. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry, has failed to reveal the existence of a single case of the disease in Connecticut.

Mascagni In Hard Luck.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—The American tour of Pietro Mascagni and his Italian opera company has come to a sudden close in this city with the cancellation of all dates. The culmination of Mascagni's woes came when an attachment was made on his personal effects by a constable representing a local claimant for $134. As a result of his financial difficulties Mascagni is now confined to his room at the Auditorium annex suffering from nervous prostration.

A Unique Restaurant.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Curious as well as hungry New Yorkers are flocking to New York's latest novelty in the restaurant line, an automatic restaurant—that is, the service is automatic. You put a nickel, a dime or a quarter, according to the dimensions of your appetite, into a slot, turn a crank, and you have in front of you an appetite satisfier or a thirst quencher, according to your wish. This unique restaurant is in Broadway.

Part of Schooner's Crew Lost.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Dec. 23.—The schooner R. A. Plummer, twenty-four days from Gray's Harbor, lumber laden, for South America, has just arrived in port. During a storm several of the men were washed overboard and drowned. The captain and three men are the only active members left on board.

Turned Out of the Church.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Rev. G. K. MacDonald, who recently resigned the pastorate of the Bass Avenue Baptist church, Long Island City, and opened a saloon in the Bronx, has been stricken from the roll of members of the Baptist ministers' conference.

Plenty of Snow There.

PORT HENRY, N. Y., Dec. 23.—Between three and four feet of snow covers the ground in the Cold river region, the extensive lumber territory of the Adirondacks.

THE FASHION WORLD.

A Stylish Scotch Tweed Street Gown. New Skating Suits.

If there is any combination prettier than several shades of brown brought together in one material or gown, I have yet to find it. Today there was just finished a dress for one of our very smart young ladies. It is a street gown and is perfection in every way that makes a dress famous. The material of which it is made is rough Scotch tweed. The skirt is cut in seven gores, and they are all sewed in slot seams and stitched with extra coarse black silk. The tweed is a mixture of shades of brown, with the lightest almost white. Each breadth is scalloped, and a narrow circular flounce is set at the bottom. This is stitched on with three rows of the black stitches, which make a refined yet effective trimming.

The jacket is a blouse shape and has a short basque at the hips, stitched also. Slot plaits are laid in the waist on each side so that the double breasted front can be lapped over. This is fastened by horn buttons, eight of them. The collar is flat and faced with dark brown velvet. The sleeves are stitched on the cuffs, and they and the middle of the back are trimmed by a couple of buttons. A vest to be worn with a suit like this should be of cream white, canary or very pale blue.

A hat was furnished which is an ideal one, especially when one remembers that there is a rich Alaska sable boa to add its softness. This hat is made of dark brown fur and is in tricorne shape and trimmed only by drapery of heavy venetian point, held on the top by a fancy gilt ornament. Fur certainly is very becoming to most faces.

There are very stylish and desirable dresses made with the Norfolk blouse jacket and also the Russian blouse jacket. The materials most in vogue for those are the black, black and white and gray nub cloth, which, with its little knots of wool, is quite new and very striking and warm looking. It requires but little trimming and is really handsome. But the blouse shaped jackets look very well in this as well as tweeds.

Among the other new things I saw some skating suits, and these are also considered quite suitable for any really cold weather gown. The best color is Russian green, and the richest trimming is a band of fur. One suit of this kind had the upper part of the skirt of the green and the lower of drab. Both parts were of fine French broadcloth. Where they were joined there was a narrow band of beaver fur, and there was another around the bottom. The blouse waist was of the green, with drab facings, and all edges were bordered with the fur. It made a beautiful dress. There was a toque made of the same combination and a small muff.

Some ultra fashionable ladies have been seen walking down Broadway wearing a white gown all covered with rich lace, a large cape or loose and highly ornamented Monte Carlo coat, also of white broadcloth, and an immense white or seal brown boa. The hat, too, is made to match in that it is of fluffy white beaver felt, trimmed generally with some fine brown fur. Mink and Alaska sable are the prettiest of all the furs for this purpose, except sable, and that is almost out of the question on account of the price.

Many of the new dress skirts are gathered at the waist and are considerably shorter and less sweeping at the bottom, and another curious thing in this connection is the bertha, which is set upon so many of the waists to house gowns. Where there is no bertha there is a wide collar, and this often droops quite below the shoulders.

Among the novelties are hats made of glove kid. The crown or brim or both are made of this, and feathers alone are used as decoration.

They have been so far shown in white, but the other colors would be quite as pretty and as odd. Some of the hats are being furnished with extra long streamers of lace, in some cases reaching below the waist line. All kinds of hats have streamers of some description. None is prettier than veiling.

Boleros are quite as popular as they ever were, but now none has a collar, and in place of that they are lavishly trimmed with the fancy castle braids, with the breloques or the drop buttons like a fringe. Many of the skirts are cut so that there are two flounces or parts, one above the other like a double skirt. These worn with the boleros give the suit quite a Spanish air.

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

"I have not had an opportunity to discuss this matter at any length with Mr. Hestor," said Sidney Hammond, with perfect truth, "but I hope his plans may prove so perfect that from this time on the services of my profession will not be needed."

The moment Mr. Hestor arrived and found his invited guests present he gave the signal to Capt. Waters. The lines were cast off and the boat headed out past Governor's island and down the bay.

"It is a shame to talk business on a day like this," said Mr. Morton, as the group stood on the bridge while the yacht swept past the giant Statue of Liberty.

"We shall talk no business until after dinner," said Hestor. "Whenever you gentlemen are ready I shall be pleased to show you the 'Shark.' Capt. Waters and I are very proud of her."

"You have a fine boat," said Mr. Morton, as the party repaired to the aft deck-house and engaged the services of the grinning and dexterous "Bob." "How fast is she?"

"In an emergency we can drive her 23 knots an hour," said Mr. Hestor. He looked at a guage. "We are now running about eighteen knots, but I told Capt. Waters we were in no hurry. She runs very smooth at 18 knots. Don't you think so?"

"Smooth as a watch," said Mr. Kent. "You have a fine crew, Mr. Hestor. They seem to be under excellent discipline. You must introduce us to Capt. Waters. He appears to be the ideal of a marine officer."

"You shall meet him," replied Hestor with a queer sort of smile. "He is the best captain that ever paced a bridge. Capt. Waters has been in the employ of our family for thirty years. He served with my father in the Asiatic trade, and the map of the world is as familiar to him as is your office furniture to you. He is accustomed to obey orders, and to have them obeyed. He asks no questions and will answer none, once he has obtained his orders. Did you notice anything peculiar about the crew?"

"You seem to have them under the discipline of the United States navy," said Mr. Pence. "I started to go on the bridge while you gentlemen were looking at the crews' quarters, and one of the men placed himself squarely in my way and stopped me. He was polite, but decisive. He said it was against orders."

"Every man on this boat, except Capt. Waters," explained Hestor, "is an ex-member of the United States or British navy. They would not be content except under naval discipline. They are schooled to it. They regard Capt. Waters, their commander, as the greatest man on earth. They respect me only because Capt. Waters has informed them that I am the owner. But if Capt. Waters told them to put me in irons they would not hesitate for a moment to do it. If he gave the word they would cheerfully sail up the Thames and bombard the Houses of Parliament."

Mr. Pence glanced nervously at a stalwart marine who paced slowly and regularly back and forth on the after deck.

"Bob," exclaimed Mr. Hestor, "go and ask the steward when dinner will be ready. Sidney, there, looks as if he could eat a bird and not know it."

"I will confess that I am hungry," said Mr. Hammond. "This sea air is a great appetizer."

"You need not worry, Sidney, there will be plenty," Mr. Hestor replied. "We have provisions on board to last for two months if necessary." Again he smiled in a queer sort of way, and astounded the company by suddenly retiring to the corner of the saloon, where he performed with much agility a song and dance to the words:

"There was an old geezer and he had a wooden leg;
He had no tobacco, no tobacco could he beg;
Another old geezer was as cunning as a fox,
And he always had tobacco in his old tobacco box.
(Clog.)
Yes, he always had tobacco in his old tobacco box."

Hestor terminated his song with a wild "break down" which was hardly completed before Bob returned with word that dinner was ready.

"That is an accomplishment I did not know you possessed," said Mr. Rockwell with an air of mingled amusement and disgust.

"I certainly am a mad wag," said Mr. Hestor, who seemed strangely exhilarated. Sidney gave him a reproving look, and received a noncimmittal grin in response.

It was growing dusk as the eight men seated themselves in the cozy dining-room of the "Shark."

The dinner was an excellent one and any host might well have been proud of it.

The dinner ended, and coffee was followed by cigars. Mr. Morton looked at his watch.

"It is half past eight o'clock," he said, in some surprise. "You must get back before eleven o'clock," he added,

"YOU ARE NOT GOING HOME TONIGHT, GENTLEMEN," SAID HESTOR.

addressing Mr. Hestor, "That will give us plenty of time to discuss the matter which is the real object of this most enjoyable trip. Which way are we headed now?"

Mr. Morton looked over his shoulder to the starboard. The lights of Seabright twinkled faintly over some 12 miles of waters.

"We are headed about for Spain, I should say," said Hestor with an uneasy laugh.

"I must be home before 11 o'clock," declared Mr. Pence. "My folks will be worried to death." Mr. Pence seemed much annoyed and disturbed.

"That is later than I had calculated to remain out," said Mr. Carmody. "You will have to give us that 23 knots an hour in order to get us back in time."

Capt. Waters stood in the doorway, his form showing clear against the moonlit sky.

"You are not going home to-night, gentlemen," said Hestor, with studied deliberation. "I have decided to enjoy your company for an indefinite period. You are to take a well-earned vacation at the expense and under the management of your humble servant, the owner of the ocean-going steam yacht, the 'Shark.'"

"What mad jest is this, Walter!" exclaimed Sidney Hammond, as he advanced in a half-threatening manner towards Hestor. Capt. Waters also stepped forward. Mr. Morton and his associates were speechless in amazement. "Put the boat about at once, and do not mar by your ill-timed jokes, an occasion which has been so thoroughly enjoyed by all your guests." Hammond's eyes flashed in anger.

"This is no merry jest or joke," said Hestor, who though slightly pale, was cool and collected. "We are not going back to New York to-night nor for many days to come. I have determined to ascertain whether or not the universe will continue to run without the aid of you gentlemen, and have adopted this pleasant method of making the test. Of course there are bound to be some trifling annoyances and some worry occasioned, but with your aid these can be reduced to a minimum."

With the exception of Mr. Kent, the guests had arisen from their chairs. Their faces were a study for an artist. Mr. Rockwell was in a rage, and nervously grasped a heavy decanter, as if to use it as a weapon.

"If you are in earnest, this is an outrage for which you shall suffer," he shouted in a voice hoarse with passion. He dropped the decanter in his excitement and it smashed in fragments on the floor. "If you are sane, this is a crime. If it is a joke, it is an intolerable outrage. If you are crazy, you should be taken care of by your friends. I am sure," he continued, lowering his voice and speaking with more calmness, "that Capt. Waters and his crew will pay no attention to your orders. Surely he will not detain gentlemen of our standing against our will."

Mr. Kent arose deliberately and paced up and down the dining-room, smoking his cigar with the air of a spectator who was but slightly interested in the matter at issue. Mr. Pence was in an agony of terror.

"This is awful!" he groaned. "Speak to him, Mr. Carmody. Speak to the captain!"

Mr. Carmody was a gentleman of impressive mien. He had retained his dignity and his composure most admirably, and addressed Capt. Waters with the easy air in which he was wont to issue orders to the managers and superintendents of his vast enterprises. He calmly drank a little of a glass of water and stepping forward, faced Capt. Waters.

GATHERING AT DELHI.

Great Preparations For the Coronation Ceremonies.

DELHI, India, Dec. 23.—The Indian princes and chiefs, with their numerous attendants, have begun to arrive at Delhi to attend the New Year durbar, which is to proclaim King Edward "Kaiser-i-Hind," emperor of India.

Delhi is taking the appearance of a besieged town. On the plain surrounding it are hundreds of tents for the accommodation of the princes and their followers. Everybody is armed, and the artillery is planted about conspicuously, while there is a constant stream of native cavalrymen passing to and fro between the encampments and the town.

The tents occupy a stretch of ground eight miles long, and some of the biggest princes have at least 500 military and civil attendants. Some of the native rulers have quarters in the town, but most of them sleep and eat under their own canvas.

Each ruler has his tented village apart from every other. There are seventy of them, each arranged like the letter T, the crossbar being reserved for prince and household and the perpendicular acting as a main street with tents pitched on both sides. Every Indian ruler has either levied secret taxes or gone to the treasure house of his ancestors to provide for his accommodation. The tents are hung with rich silks embroidered with gold and with costly tapestry paintings.

Humbert Matter Excites Paris.

PARIS, Dec. 23.—The formalities in the matter of the extradition of the members of the Humbert family, who were arrested in Madrid last Saturday, and of escorting them back to the scene of their former triumphs are proceeding rapidly. The public awaits with intense interest the return to Paris of the famous fugitives. Not since France was shaken by the Dreyfus affair has the country been so profoundly moved as it is by the developments in this case. For the moment the Venezuelan trouble has become entirely obscured, and French newspapers are devoting all their energies to elaborate presentations of the celebrated case. Some papers assert that the arrest of the Humberts is only a prelude to even more sensational developments which involve personages in the foremost rank of the political, judicial and social world.

American Capital In Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—Five hundred million dollars gold is the amount of American capital invested in Mexico by 1,117 American companies, firms and individuals, according to estimates carefully prepared by Consul General A. D. Barlow at the City of Mexico. Practically all of this amount has been invested within the past five years. Seventy per cent of the total is invested in railroads, all of the lines in the country but three being owned by American capital. American mining interests come next, the total investment reaching $80,000,000, a large part of which has been expended on up to date mining machinery. Twenty-eight millions of American capital is invested in agriculture, which comes next to mining. Manufactures rank fifth in the list of American investments there.

Murder and Suicide.

EASTON, Pa., Dec. 23.—Frank Schmidt of Allentown, aged sixty-two years, shot and killed his son-in-law, John Grigan, aged twenty-five, last night and then killed himself. Schmidt's wife left him some time ago and sought refuge at her son-in-law's house here. The son-in-law and Schmidt had a quarrel about a week ago, and the young man was arrested for assaulting Schmidt. The case came before a justice of the peace last evening, and the prosecution was dropped. Later in the evening the two men met, and Schmidt shot his son-in-law dead on the street and then sent a bullet into his own brain.

Will Sell Beach and Sewers.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Dec. 23.—The Asbury Park city council has voted to accept James A. Bradley's amended offer to sell the beach and sewers to the city. The council also voted to issue $300,000 worth of thirty year 3½ per cent bonds. This will have to be approved of by a vote of the taxpayers which will be held on Jan. 12 and 13. The only condition was that Ocean avenue shall be widened by twenty-five feet, making a boulevard 100 feet wide. A committee was appointed to have the legislature pass any acts that may be needed to enlarge the city's powers.

Girl Imprisoned For Lese Majesty.

BERLIN, Dec. 23.—A Polish schoolgirl named Kopec has been sentenced to fourteen days' imprisonment at Inowrazlacu, province of Posen, for lese majesty in having thrown a brooch with Emperor William's picture in it to the floor and stamped upon it. Such brooches were presented to the pupils of the schools when his majesty visited Posen.

Carnegie Not Able to Attend.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Andrew Carnegie, who was to respond to a toast at the New England society dinner last night, sent word that he did not feel able to be present. Inquiry at his residence proved that Mr. Carnegie deemed it imprudent to attend a banquet so soon after his recent indisposition.

TOLD BY AN EYE WITNESS

Miss Marion Bowen's Clever Sketch of Castro and the Capital City of Venezuela.

RECENTLY RETURNED

Timely Article by Plainfield Young Woman Which Appears in This Week's Issue of The Independent—The Story of Miss Bowen Given in Full.

This week's New York Independent contains a very timely article on "President Castro and the City of Caracas," by Miss Marion P. Bowen, daughter of H. E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue, this city. Miss Bowen only recently returned from Caracas where she spent several months at the American Legation with her uncle, Herbert W. Bowen, the United States Minister, who is now a figure of international importance in the controversy in that South American republic.

The article in full is as follows:

"General Cipriano Castro, the President of Venezuela, is comparatively young, being only about forty years of age. His personal appearance is rather against him, as he is lame, short and dark visaged, being of a decided Indian type. But one cannot look at his face without reading there an indomitable tenacity of purpose and dogged persistency. His eyes are black and piercing, and he has every appearance of being a man who has perfect confidence in his own power to rule, and who is bound to rule with a rod of iron. I think no power on earth could make him change his mind after it was once made up.

"Even his enemies will admit that President Castro is an exceedingly clever man. I was fortunate enough to stand near him at the reception in 'Miraflores,' the Presidential Palace, immediately following his re-inauguration in March, 1902, and I could not but admire the way in which he received his many callers. He was surrounded by enemies and sycophants as well as by friends, and, in spite of his small size, there was something majestic in the way in which he carried himself throughout the entire afternoon. There was a steady stream of men to shake hands with him, and he had a different greeting for almost every one of them. I could almost tell what was passing through President Castro's mind as each man approached. With some he was coldly polite, with others a little more cordial, while others he would grasp warmly by the hand and would throw his arm around their shoulders, which is the South American mode of greeting one's best friends.

"His lameness is the result of a wound received in the battle of Yocuyito, where he succeeded in wresting the Presidency of Venezuela from General Ignacio Andrade. Before this wound had time to heal President Castro was awakened one night by the awful earthquake. It was on October 29, 1900, and, thinking the house was crumbling beneath him, he jumped out of a second story window in his palace, the 'Casa Armarilla' (Yellow House) and broke his wounded leg. This ignominious jump is not generally given as the cause of his lameness, for his countrymen think it sounds better to say their President injured his leg in battle. The 'Casa Amarilla' was not destroyed by the earthquake, but its foundations were so weakened by the severe recurring shocks that it was considered unsafe for occupancy, and the next day General and Madame Castro moved into their present home, 'Miraflores' ('Look at the Flowers'), which is one of the finest buildings in Caracas. A former President, General Joaquin Crespo, spent a fabulous sum of money in having this house built for his own home, but he did not remain in power long enough to occupy it himself. President Castro has also spent a good deal of money in adding to the beauties of this attractive house, and it is now one of the most beautiful places imaginable, filled with all manner of valuable paintings, tapestries and curios, while the 'patio,' or open court, around which the house is built, is fragrant with the perfume of tropical flowers and palms, which grow in luxuriant profusion around the marble fountain in the center. The air is filled with the singing of the brilliantly plumaged native birds of South America, which hang between the beautifully carved pillars surrounding the four sides of the 'patio.' But what pleases President Castro most of all is his famous earthquake room, built entirely of iron and made so that it can be shut off from the rest of the house, and which is supposed to be proof against the most violent earthquake.

"President Castro is very fortunate in having such a charming wife as Madame Yoila de Castro. She is a woman about thirty years of age and has a gracious and charming manner, which is greatly enhanced by her personal beauty. Her coal black hair is a great contrast to her ivory-tinted complexion, and her big brown eyes are soft and dreamy, but they change at the slightest provocation to the most wideawake and sparkling brilliancy. She has a quiet dignity which is rather surprising when one realizes that she was not born in a palace, but on a simple Venezuelan ranch, and no one has ever caught her in a faux-pas. She dresses with great elegance, and in the latest Parisian style, and her dressmaker and hairdresser are always close a hand to help her at any hour of the day or night when she wishes to be well gowned and groomed before presenting herself to the critical world of Caracas. She is 'at home' every Monday afternoon, and there are usually many callers who come to pay their respects to the first lady of the land. General Castro is never present on these occasions, but Madame Castro is assisted in receiving by her private secretary, General Barret de Na Yarris. As Madame Castro cannot speak a word of French or English it is necessary for Senor Barret to be near her always, as he speaks both languages fluently and is a most agreeable and courteous gentleman. Not only is Madame Castro attractive in appearance, but she has a very tender, sympathetic heart, and is always ready to help in a most substantial way her poor and less fortunate countrymen and women. There has been such suffering and want in Caracas during this past year that Madame Castro has spent $50,000 out of her own personal income. Is it any wonder that the Venezuelans love and almost worship this kind-hearted woman, who spends her time and money in trying to relieve the suffering of others?

"President and Madame Castro generally give many brilliant entertainments, but owing to the recent revolution they have lived a very quiet life during the past year, and have only once thrown open the doors of 'Miraflores' to their hosts of friends, both among the Venezuelans and the Foreign Colony. This was at the New Year's reception in 1902, when from 2:30 until 7:30 p. m. President and Madame Castro received the New Year's greetings from a throng of handsomely dressed men and women, who for the time being threw aside all their worry and anxiety over the revolution and enjoyed to the utmost the hospitality of their President and his wife.

"The Venezuelans are naturally an indolent, easy-going people, with all the excitable and emotional characteristics that are always found in the tropical countries. The ladies do nothing but sit in the windows all day long, waiting for some lover to pass along beneath and stop and chat for a while. A man has to be a favored suitor before he is allowed to do more than make a 'window call,' and even when he has gained entrance to the house of his lady love he is never left alone with her for one minute, but is always chaperoned by the father and mother, who sometimes have the kindness to fall asleep for a few seconds over their reading. The men all prefer loafing in the cafes or sitting in groups in the Plaza smoking their inevitable cigarets and twirling their canes, instead of going to work like Anglo-Saxons and making something of themselves and their beautiful country that is awlays being thrown into a state of unrest and poverty by petty revolutions. There is very little class distinction in Caracas, as some of the best families have intermarried in past years with negroes, Indians and natives of the West Indies. It seems strange to see the few pure-blooded Spanish families mingling with their countrymen of almost every shade from light yellow to jet black. But the climate of Caracas has a great deal to do with making the people what they are, for the tropical sun is so hot that one is only too glad to let the days slip lazily past, and the nights are only made to be danced or dreamed away under the beautiful tropical sky, made brilliant with the moon and the countless stars and the wonderful 'Southern Cross.' It seems as if that beautiful country is made only for peace and romance and not for political controversies and continual warfare. The very

MILITARY WEDDING AT GLENCORAN

Marriage of Miss May W. Honeycutt to Lieut. Frederic W. Hinrichs.

ARMY OFFICERS THERE

GROOM AND HIS ATTENDANTS WERE ATTIRED IN UNIFORM.

Decorations Were Very Elaborate and Appropriate—The Groom is Stationed at Fort Hamilton, Where They Will Reside.

Glencoran, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin I. Cooley, on Rockview terrace, was the scene, this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, of another military wedding, when Miss May Webster Honeycutt, was united in marriage to Lieutenant Frederic W. Hinrichs, Jr., U. S. A., stationed at Fort Hamilton, N. Y. The groom, his best man and the ushers were all attired in the uniforms of the United States Army and the nuptial knot was tied in front of a draped American flag.

The ceremony took place in the front parlors in the presence of seventy-five people many of whom were of the army. Rev. Dwight Hillis, pastor of the Plymouth church, of Brooklyn, officiated.

As the wedding party entered an aisle was made through the parlors by four ribbon girls, all attired in white. These were Miss Gertrude Mills, daughter of Colonel A. L. Mills, superintendent of the Military Academy at West Point; Miss Elizabeth Allen, of St. Louis, a college friend of the bride at Vassar, and Miss Dora Waring and Miss Margaret McCutchen, of this city.

Down the aisle the bridal party proceeded to the bow window where they passed inside a chancel rail formed of white ribbons. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Cadet Francis W. Honeycutt, of the Military Academy, West Point. The maid-of-honor was Miss Elinor Lusk, a cousin of the bride and a daughter of Colonel Lusk, of the Engineers Corps.

The bride was attired in a gown of white liberty satin with trimmings of duchess lace. She wore a veil which was caught at the brow by a beautiful jeweled pin. She carried a large bouquet of white bridal roses. The ribbon girls were gowned in white silk muslin with lace trimmings and the maid-of-honor white swiss organdie with trimmings of vaille lace.

The decorations at the home were very pretty and tasty. In the bow window were draped several large American flags and at the sides of the wall were clusters of Southern smilax and holly. Roses were the main decorations in the parlors and in the dining rooms, where a wedding supper was served after the ceremony had been performed. It was then that the bridal cake was cut and was distributed. This was followed by a reception which lasted until train time when the bride and groom departed, leaving the North Avenue station at 3:45. They will enjoy an extended honeymoon and when they return will take up their residence at Fort Hamilton where the groom is located. They will be at home Fridays in February.

Exercises Held at St. Gabriel's Academy Yesterday Afternoon —Clever Fan Drill.

A Christmas reception was given yesterday afternoon at St. Gabriel's Academy, in the borough, by the Sisters of Mercy of St. Joseph's church to the children of the Sunday-school and the afternoon was very pleasantly spent in song and recitation.

The programme was opened by Miss Marie Kenney, who made the address of welcome. "The Rogue" was the title of a recitation by Philip Boone which was followed by some special music by the Christmas chorus choir. Miss Bessie Keisse recited "The Two Kittens," and Miss Berdnette Duchesne favored with a piano solo. Regina Smith, one of the pupils of the lower classes, recited "The Empty Stocking," and Miss Madeline Noonan gave a recitation, entitled "A Child's Offering."

Miss Mary McCullough rendered a piano solo after which an exhibition by the physical culture class was given when they went through a drill in dumbbells very cleverly. A piano duet was rendered by the Misses Annie Pedefinos and Irene Duchesne, followed by a recitation by Miss Irene Duchesne, entitled "One of the Little Ones," and Miss Dorothy Heise favored with piano solos.

A feature of the exercises, especially worthy of mention, was the fan drill which was not only a novelty but was very well executed by the children. The costumes were very pretty and some of the figures through which the children marched were very intricate, but the children did splendidly and not a break or mistake was made throughout the drill.

Refreshments were served after the exercises and a social time was enjoyed among the children until late in the afternoon.

HOW THE CHURCHES WILL CELEBRATE DAY

The Exercises and Festivals as Planned by the Various Sunday-Schools of the City.

BEGAN LAST EVENING

OTHER FESTIVALS WILL CONTINUE THROUGH TO WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

Some Churches Will Hold Services Christmas Day—Plans for Elaborate Exercises Next Sunday —The Days Set.

According to the annual custom, the various churches and Sunday-schools in Plainfield and North Plainfield will observe Christmastide in a more or less elaborate manner. Some of the churches are planning for entertainments on a large scale, while others will confine themselves to less pretentious affairs. Already some of the Christmas services have been held, but nearly all of the entertainments are yet to come and the hearts of young and old will be made glad in one way or another through the skillful planning of those in charge.

The first affair in the nature of a Christmas entertainment was that of last evening at the First Baptist church when the members of the Sunday-school and their friends enjoyed an illustrated lecture on the life of Jesus by Rev. Dr. Charles L. Rhoades. The primary department of this Sunday-school will have its festival Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and on the following Tuesday the intermediate department will hold a reception.

The next events of interest will be the Christmas services to be held tomorrow. These will be held at the usual hours in the Church of the Holy Cross, Grace Episcopal, St. Stephen's and the Church of the Heavenly Rest, also St. Mary's and St. Joseph's Roman Catholic churches. Special music will be the feature. There will also be services on Christmas Day at the German Reformed, German Lutheran church and the Y. M. C. A. At the latter place the services will be held in the afternoon.

As for the Christmas festivals they will be held on various dates in some few instances several being held the same evening. Those to be held tomorrow include the German Reformed, German Lutheran churches and the Y. M. C. A., while this afternoon and evening the festival will be held at St. Stephen's church, Netherwood. A number of festivals are scheduled for Friday evening including those at the East Third Street chapel, Grace Episcopal church, St. Mary's church, Congregational church, Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

Following these entertainments will come the Christmas services in the churches on Sunday. The churches where such services will be held include the First Baptist, First M. E., Grace M. E., Trinity Reformed, Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, First Presbyterian, and Swedish Pilgrim churches, Hope chapel, Warren chapel, the last two named uniting with Crescent Avenue church, Mt. Olive Baptist church and East Third Street chapel. A Christmas service will be held Saturday at the Seventh-Day Baptist church. That will be in the morning at the usual hour. All of the other services will be at the customary hours for services.

On Monday evening festivals will be held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Grace M. E. and Monroe Avenue churches, while the Young Woman's Club will also celebrate in an appropriate manner. The following evening will see the close of the Christmas festivity, when entertainments will be held at the Park Avenue Baptist, First M. E., Trinity Reformed, Church of the Holy Cross, First Presbyterian church, Hope chapel, Warren chapel, Mt. Olive Baptist church, All Soul's church and the Friends' meeting-house. In the case of the entertainment at the First Presbyterian church it is expected to repeat the affair on Wednesday evening. This will conclude nearly all of the church festivals, although many lodges and societies and other organizations will hold celebrations on other dates, earlier and later than those given.

Calvin Laing Wanted.

C. S. Robinson, editor of the Princeton Press, has been appointed executor of an estate of which Calvin Laing, said to be resident of this city, is an heir. An effort is being made to find him. He is said to be engaged in the painting business.

MUSICALE CLUB ENTERTAINS

THE INITIAL AFFAIR HELD BY THAT ORGANIZATION YESTERDAY.

A Delightful Time Was Had at the Home of Miss Maude VanBoskerck.

The initial musicale under the auspices of the Musicale Club, of Plainfield, was greatly enjoyed yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Maude VanBoskerck, who entertained the club in a delightful way. The programme was a very select one and every number was a gem, receiving hearty genuine applause from those present.

The programme was opened with a piano selection, "Meditation," by Miss Maude VanBoskerck, and this was followed with two charming soprano selections by Mrs. William L. Saunders. The next number was a piano solo by Miss Ada Marsh, after which there was a piano duet by Miss Maude VanBoskerck and Miss Hyatt, which was very well received, as was also the next number, a violin and piano duet, by Mrs. John Doul Miller and Miss Cornelia Hyatt. The next number was a piano selection, a Christmas composition, by Mrs. George Stewart Ring.

At the conclusion of these musical numbers, Miss Elizabeth Stewart read a paper, prepared by herself, on "Bach." The closing number was a Christmas selection, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," which was sung by the entire club.

After the musicale a social time was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the hostess. During the winter these musicales will be held at regular intervals and a most successful season is promised.

WINTER WEDDING IN CHURCH

MARRIAGE OF MISS ALICE BURGESS AND WILLIAM G. BURTON.

An Event Was the Ceremony at Mt. Olive Baptist Church—Reception at House Followed.

An event of more than passing interest to the colored people of this city took place in Mount Olive Baptist church yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when the vows were pronounced which united as man and wife Wm. G. Burton, of this city, and Miss Alice Burgess, of Beaufort, N. C. Several hundred guests from this city and the south witnessed the ceremony.

Miss Burgess was attended by her sister, Miss Channie Burgess, as maid-of-honor while Miss Lucy Skinner and Miss Courtnay Brooks acted as bridemaids. Both were attired in white crepe de chine and carried pink roses. The bride's gown was of white silk with applique trimmings.

Attending the groom as best man was Fred White, while the remainder of the party was made up of the ushers, Austin Carey, Richard Harris, J. W. Brooks, R. T. Toney, Charles Barber, John Scott and W. E. Dempsey. Miss Henrietta Randolph presided at the organ and during the ceremony rendered appropriate music.

When the words, which bound them as one, had been pronounced, the bride and groom with their guests proceeded to the home of Arthur Venable, on West Third street, where a reception was held. It lasted until late last evening when Mr. and Mrs. Burton left for the south where they will spend a few weeks, principally in North Carolina. Both young people were remembered with many pretty presents. The groom is in the employ of Mrs. J. Parker Mason, of Stelle avenue.

FOR TWO HORSES.

Some Trouble in Getting Apparatus for Holding Harness.

There has been some delay in installing the extra horse at the West End Fire Company in the borough which was to have been placed in service several weeks ago. The trouble has been in securing the extra apparatus for hanging the harness although the double harness has arrived and is now ready for use. It is expected that the team will be in commission by the first of the year.

Piano Recitals.

Miss Harriette Cady, the New York pianiste, who was heard in Plainfield last winter, will be heard this year in two piano recitals at the residences of Mrs. David H. Rowland and Mrs. Rufus P. Lincoln, Saturdays, Jan. 17 and 24, at 4 o'clock. The first recital will be given with explanatory notes on the development of the piano from the spinet, and the second recital will also be given with explanatory notes on modern composers.

MORE FUNDS FOR NEW FIRE HOUSE

Borough Will Probably Hold a Special Election to Vote on Question.

WANT AT LEAST $2,000

The Committee of Borough Council Opened the Bids Last Night and Found Even With the Altered Plans That There Wasn't Enough Money to Build the House.

There will probably be another special election in the borough of North Plainfield for the purpose of appropriating $2,000 more toward the building of a new fire house in the borough. The committee on the proposed fire house, when bids were opened at a committee meeting in the Council Chambers, last evening, found that the lowest bids for the work amounted to $10,050. The original appropriation amounted to $10,000 and the committee will recommend to the Council when it meets again, the holding of a special election to appropriate $2,000 more for the purpose of building the house.

The meeting of the committee occupied in all but ten minutes, which allowed the clerk, Frank Rowley, to open the bids and to discuss the matter of recommending a special election. It seemed to be the consensus of opinion that that was the best thing to do under the circumstances, as the building cannot be erected under $12,000 with the prices of material as high as they are at present.

The lowest bid for the mason work was that of J. H. Snyder, of this city. His bid was for $4,378. If the wooden floor was to be omitted the price of the work would be $3,921, and if the cellar was to be dug by some one else the cost would be $4,237.

The lowest bid for the carpentery work was that of George Hummer, of Stone street, who would do all the work for $3,250. If there was to be no wooden flooring $394 could be deducted from the amount.

There was but one bid for the electrical work and that was one sent in by Aaron M. Higgins, which stated that all bells as specified but no fixtures would be placed in the building for the sum of $164. There was but one plumber's bid and that one was submitted by C. W. Krausse, of this city for $933.45.

There were four bids submitted by different companies for the iron work and the lowest of these was that of W. T. Kirk Company, of this city; who offered to do the work for $1,595. This covers the price of supplying all the iron work for the structure.

The other bids submitted were as follows:

Mason work, Titus H. Laury, $4,957; carpentry work, John C. Miln, $3,315.45; iron work, Hay Foundry Co., of New York, $1,695; Berlin Construction Company, New York, $1,760; Levering & Garrigues, city, $1,690.

The total of the lowest bids which will complete the house according to the revised specifications of the architect will amount to $9,117, which will not include the cost of the lot. This does not include all of the plumbing for the house. After the lot has been paid for out of the appropriation there will be but $7,500 which will not be sufficient to erect the building as was shown by the bids received last evening, and for that reason the matter of holding a special election will be discussed before the next meeting of the Council. It is said that with the extra $2,000, the building could be completed with the concrete floor which has been found to be just as cheap as the wooden floor which was at first spoken of.

He's a Grandpa.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fulton, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Brooklyn, are the proud parents of a baby daughter born to them Monday. Among those who are receiving congratulations over the happy event is "Grandpapa" E. W. Mills, the genial manager of the United States Express Company, who is the father of Mrs. Fulton.

Other Good Things.

In addition to the election of officers, there will be attractive features of the programme at the meeting of Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., Friday evening. There will be musical numbers, short speeches appropriate to Christmastide and refreshments.

LITERARY.

St. Nicholas for January starts the New Year in the happiest way. Edwin L. Sabin, Louisa M. Alcott, Howard Pyle, Clara Morris, Malcolm Douglas, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Roy Benson Richardson, Virginia Woodward Cloud, Zitella Cocke, John Bennett, Clifford Howard, Sarah M. B. Piatt, Albert Bigelow Paine, and Carolyn Wells are only part of the long list of writers and artists who contribute to the current month's feast for young folks. Really, the girl or boy who does not have St. Nicholas to read is to be pitied.

Commodore Robert E. Peary tells at some length of Hunting on the Great Ice in Leslie's Monthly for January. His remarkable photographs of the living and dead Polar animals give a unique interest to the article. There are eight short stories in the magazine, among them one by Robert Barr and another Glengarry story by Ralph Connor. An article called "The Great American Barnyard" deals with the enormous poultry industry of the United States; there is a study of Joseph Chamberlain by an Irish Member of Parliament, and a sketch of the celebrated Dr. Lorenz. The mystery of Anna Katherine Green's detective story is made clear in the last installment of that serial, which appears this month.

Following the articles on the beef and steel trusts already published, The Century gives place in the January number to a paper on "The So-Called Sugar Trust," by Franklin Clarkin, which, in part, is an authentic report of the origin and workings of the Trust from the point of view of H. O. Havemeyer, the head of the American Sugar Refining Company. A paper by Dr. Albert Shaw on "The President and the Trusts" presents what seems to be an authoritative statement of Mr. Roosevelt's position—his record, and the platform on which he elects to stand.

The fiction of the number includes the third part of "The Yellow Van" by Richard Whiteing; a short story, "The Wife of Chino," by the late Frank Norris, author of "The Octopus;" another by John Luther Long, author of "Madame Butterfly," entitled "Sixty Jane;" a humorous story by Robert Haven Schauffler called "A Russian Climax," and the first part of "When the Consul Came to Peking," by a new writer, Abigail H. Fitch—all these stories accompanied by pictures—and, last but not least, the second part of "Lovey Mary," the new story by the author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," Alice Caldwell Hegan, for which Mrs. Shinn has made attractive sketches.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

While in a majority of the Plainfield homes there will be Christmas trees for the little and older ones, there is one household which is childless, where a tree, with all its happy features will be arranged for the benefit of a pet cat. The husband and wife do not want to let the Christmastide season go by without some celebration and as they are very fond of the cat, a member of the household, they are planning to give the feline a good time.

Va., says: I have used a number of bottles of Kodol and have found it to be a very effective and, indeed, a powerful remedy for stomach ailments. I recommend it to my friends. L. W. Randolph.

Too Many Other Events.

Owing to the many other events during the next two weeks, the Christmas festival of the Loyal Temperance Legion will probably not be held until after New Year's. Many of the children attend Sunday-school and take part in other festivals. For this reason a change in date is made.

Our Friends, the Druggists.

It is a pleasure to testify to the generally high character of druggists. But because of a few exceptions to the rule, it is necessary to caution the public to be on guard against imitations of Perry Davis' Painkiller. CRANBERRIES ARE SCARCE

THE PRICE OF THE BERRIES HAS GONE WAY UP.

The Cool and Damp Summer Was Partially Responsible—The Prices of Today.

With the advance in the price of almost all household commodities the housekeeper is confronted at present with a scarcity of cranberries and while the local grocers have a fair supply on hand at present, they find it very difficult to secure extra shipments, so that if the thrifty housekeeper does not get her supply of the berries within a few days, she will be confronted with the necessity of serving her Christmas turkey without the delicious sauce.

There are several reasons why cranberries are scarce. One is that the summer was very cool and the fall warmer than usual, therefore the cranberries ripened very early and many of them became unfit for use. Others say that the demand in the west for berries has almost drained the eastern market and consequently the retailers have difficulty in supplying their customers.

The prices have gone up within the last week and the local stores are compelled to charge 14, 15 and even 17 cents a quart for them where last year they were sold here for 8 cents a quart. At wholesale the dealers here are paying $11 and $12 per barrel for them. Last week they were selling in the local stores at 12 cents a quart but at the first of this week the prices advanced 2 cents per quart and one dealer said yestreday afternoon that the prices were very liable to go up still further.

A West Front street grocer said when seen by a Daily Press reporter yesterday afternoon that the reason there is a lack of berries in this city and throughout the State was due to the fact that the Cape Cod harvest was not up to the average and the New Jersey supplies have been drawn upon to supply New York and other markets outside of this State.

THEATRICAL.

"At Home" for the season, is the way the advertisements for "The Silver Slipper," John C. Fisher's musical production, which is now in the third month of a phenomenally successful engagement at the Broadway Theatre, New York, now read. This mammoth, glittering and gorgeous production replete as it is with the catchy, tuneful melodies of Leslie Stuart, and the lavish richness of the costumes and the scenic effects cannot fail to round out the season and already preparations are being made to celebrate the one hundredth performance. The engagement at the Broadway of "The Silver Slipper" has been noted for the size and fashion of the audiences and even the holiday season has not affected them to any great extent. "The Champagne Dance" is still the hit of the play and the musical numbers that never fail to impress or to please are Miss Edna Wallace-Hopper's, "Four and Twenty Little Men" song; the "Ping-pong" duet of Miss Hopper and Cyril Scott; the topical song, "I'd Be Satisfied for Life" of Sam Bernard and the solos and duetts of Mai de Villiers, the French prima donna and Stanley Hawkins the tenor who succeeded Mackenzie Gordon.

Bank Elections.

The First National Bank directors will meet Tuesday afternoon, January 13, for the purpose of holding the annual election. A similar election will be held at the City National Bank at the same time. The election of directors at the Plainfield Trust Company will also be held on the above date between 3 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Engine Company Plans.

Next Tuesday evening the members of Warren Engine Company will hold an entertainment in the parlors over the engine room of the headquarters in the borough. Elaborate plans have been made for the entertainment by the chairman of the committee, William Debele, and an enjoyable evening is anticipated.

Annual Christmas Shoot.

The Independent Gun Club will hold its annual shoot at the Maple avenue range, Christmas Day, when the members will shoot for prizes. Some fancy shooting by local and out-of-town sharpshooters will be a feature of the shoot.

McAll Auxiliary Anniversary.

The twenty-eighth anniversary of the McAll Auxiliary will be celebrated appropriately, January 17.

POINT LOMA SCHOOL.

To Be Investigated by Commissioner of Immigration.

Serious Charges Made Against Mrs. Katharine C. Tingley, "Lotos Mother" and Chief of the "Universal Brotherhood."

The recent investigation in New York touching the admission of 11 Cuban children that were on their way to Point Loma, Cal., to become "lotos buds" in the Raja Yoga school, brought out a great mass of testimony as to that institution, its managers and management. The children were refused admission, but an appeal has been taken. News has come that the appeal will not be decided until Mr. Sargent, commissioner general of immigration, who is now in California, shall have made a personal investigation of the school.

The opposition to the admission of the Cuban children was powerfully backed by the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, which had the assistance of a similar organization in San Francisco. A few evenings ago this society decided to try to wipe out of existence the school at Point Loma, and for that purpose has given the president, Judge Vernon M. Davis, and the counsel, Mr. Eldridge T. Gerry, unlimited powers to act for the purpose of breaking up the school and the Universal Brotherhood which is back of it.

The Universal Brotherhood and the Raja Yoga school have been before the public for several years. Much of their notoriety has been due to the efforts of John J. Bohn to obtain possession of his two children that were in the school. The institution is under the control of Mrs. Katharine C. Tingley, who is the founder of one of the new cults in which theosophy, sun worship, and some old Egyptian superstitions seem curiously blended. Mrs. Tingley is the Lotos Mother, and the children are lotos buds. The school is only one feature of the Point Loma settlement, where there are extensive buildings and grounds and where a number of adults are kept in close seclusion, engaged in the celebration of mysterious rites or any other employment to which they may be assigned by the management, which appears to be quite despotic. Mr. Bohn, whose wife was also in the settlement, succeeded in getting back his children, but not until he got a decision in his favor from the supreme court of California. The stories which they have told since they were released have contributed essentially to stimulate inquiry into the methods employed at Point Loma.

Dr. Mary E. Green, of Charlotte, Mich., is the mother of Mrs. John J. Bohn. She says that her daughter is either crazed or hypnotized by Mrs. Tingley, and took her two little boys there. The father was refused admittance, and so went into court to get his children. Meantime Mrs. Tingley struck back and struck hard. Under her direction, as Mrs. Green alleges, Mrs. Bohn brought three suits for divorce against her husband, naming her own mother as co-respondent. These were in Chicago courts, and were dismissed, but another has been brought in California. The fact that the care of the children was adjudged to Mr. Bohn appears to indicate that this charge against him and Mrs. Green was not supported.

These statements are ex parte, says the Louisville Courier-Journal, but the Point Loma school has been before the public for a good while, and it is certainly highly desirable that a full investigation should be made of the charges before more children are sent there to serve as a basis for asking a confiding public for contributions.

He Hated to Tell It.

At a recent school examination by the school board, an officious member intimated that he would give a certain class a lesson on "wool," relates a writer in the Scottish American. After lecturing to the children for a considerable time without any appearance of attention from the class, he stopped short and began questioning one dull-looking boy. "Well, my boy," said he, taking hold of the boy's jacket, "what is this jacket made of?" The boy, hanging down his head, remained silent. "Come, come, my boy," the member coaxingly said: "Don't you know what your jacket is made of?" With eyes still on the floor, the boy answered: "It was made oot o' ma faither's auld breeks."

TROUBLE IN AFRICA.

Conquest of Somaliland by England Means Cruel War.

Mad Mullah Who, on October 6, Defeated Col. Swayne's Troops with Great Loss to British Must Be Conquered.

However regrettable the reverse suffered by Col. Swayne in his operations against the Somali Mahdists may be, it will have served a useful purpose, says the London Graphic, if it directs public attention to the importance of turning to account the British possessions on the Great Eastern Horn of Africa. Of the existence of these possessions the public knows little; of their great strategical importance and commercial promise they know less. For this ignorance the present deplorable situation is primarily due, for it is impossible for the imperal government to undertake costly expedtions or to establish an elaborate administrative machinery in countries which do not interest the tax-payer. The coast of Somaliland, with the important ports of Zeyla, Bulhar and Berbera, became British some 15 years ago, as a consequence of the collapse of Egyptian dominion in the Soudan. For some years it was administered as a sub-dependency of Aden, which, owing to its strategical position on the road to India, has always been a transmarine dependency of the Indian empire. In 1898, however, it was transferred to the imperial government, and was taken in charge by the foreign office. No public explanations have been given of this transfer, but to those who have watched the development of the international rivalry in the Red sea and the straits of Bab-el-Mandeb, the motives by which the foreign office was actuated cannot be very obscure. With the French established at Jibutil and the Germans and Russians casting about for coaling stations in the same neighborhood, and with the sudden growth of the military power of Abyssinia in the dominating background, the imperial government probably thought that Somaliland, which holds the principal gate to Abyssinia, the while it divides with Aden the command of the carre-four of the Red sea, should not remain a subsidiary concern of a colonial administration. Unfortunately, the prevision of the imperial government did not go beyond taking the protectorate under its immediate wing. Although an immense region has been marked off as British, in virtue of treaties with Abyssinia and Italy, nothing was done to occupy the country outside the coast towns. The result was that the Arab sheiks, left to themselves, were free to plot against the suzerain, and early in 1899 these plots came to a head in the agitation of the Mullah Mohammed Abdullah, who proclaimed himself mahdi, and called upon the faithful to rise and drive the Giaour into the sea. The disaffection spread over an immense area. Simultaneously with the movement of the Mullah in the south of the Somaliland protectorate, the sheiks in the northern provinces of British East Africa became rebellious. Consequently, in 1899 two expeditions had to be organized, one against the Ogaden sheiks and sultans in Jubuland, and the other against the Mullah. The Ogaden was effectually pacified and the Mullah was several times defeated and forced to take refuge in Italian territory. Thereupon the British retired once more to the coast, hoping that the Mullah would profit by his lesson. Last January, however, he broke out again, and another expedition had to be organized. This is the expedition which came to grief the other day at Ergo. It is very clear from all this that the policy of shelving responsibility for the direct administration of the protectorate is a failure, and that henceforth it will be necessary to hold the country with a strong hand. Happily the enterprise is one which will well repay its cost. The markets of the interior are of considerable value, and if once tranquillity is assured the trade of the ports will be enormously increased. Apart from this it is to be remembered that the strategical value of the coast must be rendered altogether nugatory so long as the interior is held by a hostile people bent on rendering England's position untenable, or, at any rate, a subject of anxiety.

Freak in Potato World.

Daniel Gilman, of Manchester, N. H., recently found a potato which had lain in his cellar for a year. The potato had sprouted and grown and burst open. On the inside were three small potatoes growing. The old potato had withered somewhat and the little ones had burst the large one open in their growth.

Two Round Towers.

Scotland boasts of two round towers, said to be stragglers from the great typical group found in Ireland. The one is attached to the handsome and recently restored Cathedral of Brechin, and the other stands in the center of Abernethy, near the entrance gate to the churchyard. The Brechin tower, built in six irregular courses, and rising over 100 feet, is the most perfect of the two. It dates from Kennith's reign, 971-95, and has a most graceful appearance. Pennant in his history speaks of having, in 1772, found handsome bells within its walls. These were afterwards removed, and now hang in a neighboring steeple. The origin of these towers is now somewhat doubtful, but archaeologists are generally agreed that they were built in connection with churches "for defense and faithfulness of watch" during the Norseman's raids. They were afterwards used as belfries, the Brechin tower having done duty as such for generations. The tower is now one of the sights of the ancient town, and is regarded as a memorial of its early connection with Ireland. —Scottish-American.

A Medieval Megaphone.

A curiosity of great antiquity is still to be seen within St. Andrew's church, at Willoughton, near Gainsborough, says a Sunday magazine. This is a quaint speaking trumpet, with an obscure early history dating back to the times of the Knights Templar. In shape it resembles a French horn, and is more than five feet long, having a bell at the end of the graduated tube. It was formerly six feet in length, but is now telescoped at the joints where the metal has apparently decayed. Tradition declares it was formerly sounded from the tower to summon aid in case of need, as when blown at a height the weird, deep notes the trumpet produced could be heard at a great distance away in bygone days. It is believed that this curious instrument has often been used to call together the villagers, thus dispensing with the usual bell, and to give additional power and strength to the choir, being probably used by the chief singer, as the trumpet intensifies vocal sound to a marked degree.—St. James Gazette.

How the Pope Gets the News.

A New York priest, recently returned from Rome, tells how Pope Leo XIII. hears the news of the world every day without reading a newspaper. He reads a journal published in the vatican, or has a secretary read it to him. This journal consists of brief abstracts of everything interesting which the papers published in Germany, England, France, America, and other lands have recorded. A large staff of secretaries, each one an adept linguist, prepares the vatican's news sheet. One man translates and abstracts German articles, another works over the French papers, still another the English and American. The resulting publication in Italian is intended not only for his holiness, but for all the hundreds of vatican attaches. Such news as would not be of interest to vatican circles is overlooked in the resume.—N. Y. Times.

Stubborn Mathematics.

Once upon a time a woman entered a shoe store and asked the clerk in attendance for a pair of No. 4 shoes.

The clerk, who was wise in his business, looked at her foot and at once brought to her a pair of No. 6 shoes.

"These are the size," he said, as he fitted the shoes to her feet.

"Yes," she answered, smiling with satisfaction, and a sale was made without any difficulty.

Cable to Honolulu.

Honolulu is getting nearer to the world. The last news she received was by the partially laid cable and the remainder of the way by steamer. It won't be long before the citizen can sit at his breakfast table and read in his morning paper what New York had for dinner that same day.

Legacies to the Pope.

The pope has been happy in legacies. It has been reckoned that during his pontificate a sum of more than £1,000,000 has been bequeathed to him in various ways, $600,000 having come to him in one year, and one recent bequest being for no less than $200,000.—Indianapolis News.

CONVINCING PROOF.

The Average Plainfield Citizen Must Accept the Following Proof.

The great Sir Isaac Newton, one of the most profound reasoners the world ever produced, once cut a large hole in a board fence to allow a favorite cat access to two gardens, and cut a smaller hole to allow her kitten to follow her. The weakness manifested in Sir Isaac's action was due to want of thought. Any reader who mentally debates the proof offered here about Doan's Kidney Pills and arrives at any other conclusion than that stated in this citizen's statement, is as short of reasoning powers as the philosopher when he turned carpenter.

Mr. Robert Love, of 44 Duer street, member of the firm of Love Brothers, grocers, of 257 West Front street, says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for eight or nine years—pain across the back and a lameness over the kidneys. Colds always settled there and aggravated it. At last my back grew weaker and any heavy lifting or too much standing or sitting gave me additional pain. In the morning my back bothered me greatly until I moved about and took some exercise when it became better to a certain extent. I doctored and used different kinds of so-called cures but it was throwing money away. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in our paper, and, being in bad shape at the time, I got a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. Before taking half of it my condition was greatly improved and continuing their use all the pain left me."

NAMED THE BABY FOR A CAT.

Wealthy Woman Had Just Lost Her Pet Maltese by Death and the Child Got Its Name.

"I have christened children every conceivable name," said a clergyman the other day, relates the Baltimore Sun, "but I think the funniest was a boy I named for a cat. My pastorate was a suburb of Boston, and one of my parishioners was a lady of a large estate and a gentlewoman in every sense of the word, generally known in the community as Aunt Esther. She was an eccentric person, who wore silken gowns very long in the train and short in the front and always several old-fashioned brooches at the same time. She visited Washington frequently, always with her pet cat as a traveling companion, and she was one of the few ladies accorded a seat on the floor of the house of congress. On the grounds of her country home was a diminutive cemetery, where her feline pets slept after life's fitful fever.

"During my residence in the parish her special favorite was a large Maltese cat, named Thomas Henry, whose death occurred just before the coming of a new baby at the lodge-keeper's home on Aunt Esther's place. She was to be godmother and name the child, while I was to baptize it. Her recent bitter bereavement still weighed on her soul, and when I asked 'By what name shall this child be known?' Aunt Esther responded, in trembling tones: 'There is no name so sweet to me as Thomas Henry,' and by that title the boy was thenceforth known."

KISSES RAISE 'PHONE RATES.

Sweethearts Monopolize the Wires to Such an Extent an Advance Becomes Necessary.

A merchant from Uniontown was lately talking about telephones the other day at the hotel where he was stopping, reports the Philadelphia Record.

"In my town," he said, "the telephone company is going to raise the rates for business 'phones from $25 to $45, and for residence 'phones from $18 to $12. Do you know why? It is to keep sweethearts from monopolizing the wires. It is to make telephones so expensive that the young men and women who love one another won't bill and coo over the wires all day long.

"In Uniontown now it is a wonder that the wires don't blush red, the love words that pass over them. The sound that a kiss makes—that ph, ph sound—is sent many times a day from one receiver to another. And such expressions as darling, and deary, and honey, and sweetheart drown out altogether the plain business talk about the price of coal, and the boom in steel, and the bills receivable that are due.

"So in Uniontown because the young men and girls have been monopolizing the wires, with their sparking, the telephone rates are to be raised nearly 100 per cent."

BENEFICIAL WALKING TOURS.

Autumn Outings Afoot Which Are the Most Healthful and Enjoyable Forms of Exercise.

Walking is an art almost said to be one of the lost arts, says Country Life in America. It is astonishing how few know how to walk—know how to acquire the measured stride, the springy step, the easy poise of the body and the swing of the arms, which make walking at once one of the most healthful and enjoyable forms of physical exercise. For the real pleasure of walking one must turn to the country. Pavements are but dead, unyielding matter at best. In the turf of the country there is a spring in response to the pressure of the foot which is a delight and an inspiration in itself. The purity of the air sets the blood to racing gloriously.

Good walkers find 20 miles a day a comfortable average, allowing of plenty of time for rest and "loafing." Two weeks thus spent will afford memories to last for all time, and with them a measure of health and strength, a quickening of vital forces, a nervous energy which will find expression in increased power for accomplishment in the world's work.

How the Earth Changes.

How does one generation of men succeed another? The fathers are not swept away in a body to make room for the children, but one by one the old drop off and the young come on, till a day is reached when none of those remain that once were here, says Harper's. How does some form of human speech become extinct? About a hundred years ago an old lady named Dolly Dentreath died in Cornwall. She could speak the Cornish language; after her death there was nobody that could. Thus quietly did the living Cornish language become a dead language; and in a like unobtrusive manner have been wrought most of the new becomings which have changed and are changing the earth.

Ancient Picture Gallery.

A picture gallery that dates from the stone age has been unearthed in a cavern near Eyzies, France. The pictures, which are all of prehistoric animals, were not only cut in the rock, as is usually the case with such representations, but were painted in several colors, and give some evidence of artistic skill. There are 80 pictures, of which 49 represent bisons of various kinds. The pigments used, which are shades of red and brown, have been found, on analysis by Moissan, the eminent French chemist, to be ochres mixed with minute fragments of transparent silica.

BAILEY SEEKS WIFE.

Made a Bet to Marry If Elected Governor of Kansas.

Chicago Friends Recall His Courtship in Illinois Twenty Years Ago —Was Jilted by a Girl He Loved Dearly.

Chicago classmates of Gov.-elect Willis J. Bailey, of Kansas, when he was attending the University of Illinois at Champaign away back in the early '80s, have recalled a college love affair of the first gentleman of Kansas that, in their minds, at least, explains why he has never become a benedict, and makes it fair to presume that when he does seek a wife he will give Illinois a wide berth.

Mr. Bailey, it seems, fell in love during his freshman year with a very pretty and likewise very charming co-ed, and soon the brawny young Kansan was her devoted slave. All during his college course he was a most attentive Lothario, and the young woman seemed to reciprocate his affection. It is said that before Bailey graduated their troth had been plighted. He went back to Kansas to his father's ranch, and the young woman remained at the university to finish her education. All during the vacation after his graduation the two lovers corresponded voluminously.

But when the fall term began a new star dawned upon the vision of the young co-ed. Another young chap, not so handsome as Bailey, but with the advantage of being on the ground, courted her assiduously. She gave her heart to him, and wrote Bailey a letter that made him swear, it is said, never again to trust a woman. An invitation to the wedding of his erstwhile fiancee and his successful rival followed shortly afterward. The couple now live in

HON. WILLIS J. BAILEY.
(Governor-Elect of Kansas Who Seeks a Congenial Wife.)

Florida, where the husband is a successful railroad man.

Since he was ijlted by this fickle little co-ed Mr. Bailey has had no eyes for womankind. But of late years he is said to have softened his heart. At any rate, he made an ante-election bet that if he was made governor of Kansas he would choose a helpmate. And his Chicago friends and classmates say that he will keep his word, but they fear that he still smarts from the jilting of the co-ed, and will pass Illinois by when he goes wife hunting.

Whether the memory of the sting left by the announcement of the marriage is still fresh in the mind of the western state executive is a question that has presented itself to a number of Chicagoans by the failure of Gov. Bailey to find a wife in Kansas to suit him.

Although the winner of the matrimonial election bet, who originally stipulated that he must marry a Kansas woman, has waived that condition and the governor is free to choose from any state in the union, he still reports that he cannot find a wife to be mistress of the $70,000 executive mansion.

Whether, remembering the past, he really wants to get married is the question.

To this George L. Douglass, a Chicago lawyer with an office in the Association building, who was speaker in the Kansas legislature in 1889 while Mr. Bailey was a representative, makes the following defense of Gov. Bailey:

"If Willis Bailey made a bet that he would marry if elected he will marry—that is all. He is a man of his word and would go through fire and water to keep it. Of course, the story of the bet may all be made out of whole cloth. But I knew him in Kansas and saw him lift himself from stock raising to statesmanship. I never knew him to fail to make good a promise."

Gov. Bailey is known to many Chicagoans. He was the guest of honor at a Kansas reunion at the Union League club when he came to the city as a delegate to the trust conference.

A description of the man who is seeking a wife with an unlimited field to choose from is given as follows by his admirers here:

Height, 5 feet 9 inches; complexion, light; hair, light brown; eyes, blue. Rather "stocky," round-faced, good-natured and genial.

Warning to Wife Beaters.

The jury in the trial of George Honaker, of Versailles, Ky., on an indictment for striking his wife, Josie Honaker, with intent to kill, and charged with two former convictions for felony, brought a verdict of guilty and fixed Honaker's punishment at confinement in the penitentiary for life.

MERRY CHRISTMAS.

A merry Christmas to you all, readers of The Daily Press! There isn't any need telling you that tomorrow will be Christmas Day. You know that too well already. All this excitement and bustle which precedes the greatest of all the holidays cannot happen without infusing some of the enthusiasm into every one of us. Troubles and sorrows there are but they will be forgotten for the once and all will unite in a proper celebration of the day.

As you sit by your comfortable hearth side, this evening, and peruse The Daily Press and think of all the good times in store for the morrow, just give one thought to the bright little lads who have brought The Daily Press to your door with such regularity, rain or shine, summer or winter. We of the pen and our fellow laborers at the type-setting machine and the press labor hard so that you may learn all the news of the day, accurately and interestingly told. But all our labors would be without avail if it was not for that corps of bright young lads who go to make up the carrier force of the office. They are the ones who see that the news is brought to your door.

Tomorrow The Daily Press carriers will visit those that they serve regularly and distribute the Daily Press calendars for 1903. As usual, they are of artistic design and have a list of the fire alarm boxes of city and borough printed on them. The picture this year is of a group of newsboys, each eagerly thrusting forward a paper to a prospective customer. There is a calendar for each regular subscriber to The Daily Press. The boys will see that you get them tomorrow. Don't forget, therefore, how faithfully these little fellows have served you and remember them accordingly.

It is said that the name of Former Clerk in Chancery Lewis A. Thompson has been mentioned as a possibility for the commissioner of banking and insurance to succeed Mr. Bettle. There may be a possibility of it but the probability of such a thing happening is not a likely one. After Somerset county, with one of Mr. Thompson's lieutenants at the helm as chairman of the county committee, went Democratic, it is hardly to be expected that any valuable job like that is going to be handed over to a defeated leader. Then such an appointment would serve to make the trouble in the county more bitter than ever. Somerset may expect to come out the little end of the horn this winter as far as legislative appointments go.

This is the night before Christmas, so famed in song and story. It promises to be far from quiet as far as Plainfield is concerned. Tonight will bring to a close the largest and most successful holiday season ever enjoyed by the local stores. Never has such a large and complete display been made and never have the people of Plainfield so plainly shown that they were willing to patronize the local stores if the wares were to be found in them.

Hardly a month passes by that one does not hear of some teacher in the public schools in this State giving up a position to go elsewhere for a better salary. Those interested in the State educational work declare that New Jersey is way down in the list of the average salaries paid teachers. The fact that small salaries are paid is said to be the reason that New Jersey loses so many capable instructors.

Now that Marconi has succeeded in sending wireless telegraph messages across the ocean, one is prepared to believe almost anything, even the story told at Somerville recently that that town was going to be the Queen City of Central New Jersey. But Somerville will have to change wonderfully before that day comes.

People talk about football games being brutal and then they go shopping in the big New York department stores during the week before Christmas. Even the greatest heroes of the gridiron grow pale at the very thought of doing such a thing.

Some phase of the Christmas rush has apparently affected our regular telegraphic news service for it failed to appear this morning and we are compelled to go to press without it. We ask the indulgence of our readess for its absence.

It is said that there are weak beams in the State House at Trenton. With so much wire-pulling going on there, it is not to be expected that even a more substantial building would stand up against it.

A merry Christmas to you and, in the words of Rip VanWinkle, "here's to your very good health and the health of your family, may you live long and prosper."

Holiday week in Plainfield promises to be unusually active this year. Never has the social element found so many things to do.

The Daily Press will not be issued tomorrow, Christmas Day.

A Victory to be Proud Of

is the final and absolute cure of a sore throat, in which the rawness and tenderness have been spreading dangerously near those guardians of life, the lungs. The luxury of a sound throat and robust lungs is most keenly enjoyed by people who, having suffered all the consequences of "a little cold, your know," have been rescued from misery and danger by Allen's Lung Balsam.

DUNELLEN.

The regular Christmas meeting of the Dunellen Literary Circle was held Monday evening at the home of Rev. N. J. Sproul. Christmas was the leading topic. Rev. N. J. Sproul read a carefully prepared paper on "The Crisis of the Revolution," telling of the most important times both in fighting and in Congress. Miss Martha Whitenack had been scheduled to give a short talk on Robert Morris but she was unable to be present. Miss Margaret Boice spoke on Nathan Hale and told many interesting phases of the hero's life. Afterwards the time was taken up with Christmas merry making and refreshments. A Christmas tree furnished much amusement to the members.

Tomorow will be the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the battle of Trenton, which so much revived the sinking hearts of the Americans during the Revolution. In celebration of the event John Merschod, of this place, who is quite a well-known artist, has made known the fact to Dunellenites by a charcoal drawing which he has placed in the postoffice. The sketch contains the United States shield, a group of weapons, together with flags and the eagle perched on top. It is very well done and is attracting a good deal of attention.

The funeral services of Mrs. Margaret B. Pyart were held yesterday afternoon from the residence of her son. Rev. Frank Fletcher spoke of the life of the deceased. "Nearer My God to Thee," and several other favorite hymns were sung by a quartette. Interment was made in the cemetery at Samptown.

At a late hour this afternoon Miss Mabel Lewis, daughter of Edward Lewis, will be united in the bonds of matrimony to Edward Shively, of this place. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride.

The Christmas exercises of the Methodist Sunday-school will be held this evening. It was expected to hold them last evening but for a number of reasons it was thought best to postpone them.

The Christmas exercises of Holy Innocents Sunday-school will be held in the church Saturday afternoon. Regular Christmas services will be held tomorrow morning at 7:30.

The Sunday-school of St. John's church will not hold any exercises this Christmas. The money will be put in the new parsonage.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bercaw, of Easton, is spending the holidays at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward Teel.

Miss Edna Smalley and Miss Mabel Palmer, of East Orange, will spend Christmas with Mrs. L. B. Nelson.

Miss Lingo, of Philadelphia, is being entertained by Miss Grace Wilcox, of Prospect avenue.

Miss Mary Coyle, of East Front street, is entertaining out-of-town friends over Christmas.

Miss Amy Sampson has returned home from the Normal School for the holidays.

NEW MARKET.

The Christmas exercises of the First Baptist church Sunday-school were held in the church last evening. As usual a large number were present. The exercises in themselves were interesting but of course the best part to the children was the presenting of gifts by the church. Rev. Frank Fletcher gave a short address and a number of children spoke, while Christmas anthems were sung by the whole school. The children were then presented with boxes of candy and oranges, and a gift. Besides the teachers of the different classes presented their pupils with pretty gifts.

The death occurred yesterday morning of the three-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliot, of this place. The child had been ill for some time and death was caused by inflammation of the brain.

Mrs. Hannah Nelson, who is visiting at Union, who has been severely ill, is much improved but is not yet able to return home.

William B. Smith is entertaining his brother, Charles Smith and family, over Christmas.

Miss Emma Hayden, of Saratoga Springs, is visiting her sister, Mrs. G. W. Coriell.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The members of the Methodist Sunday-school are anticipating a very enjoyable visit from Santa Claus at their Christmas exercises to be held in the church tonight. The friends of the school are invited to attend and enjoy the evening with the school.

On account of the Christmas exercises being held in the church tonight, no meeting of the Boys' Club of the Methodist church will be held this week.

Poney Lambert and Fred Ivamy will shoot a return match at live birds Christmas Day afternoon at Campbell's Club House grounds, Plainfield.

No meeting of Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be held Thursday night on account of the date falling on Christmas.

Miss Sadie Reger, of the corps of teachers, will spend her holidays at her home at Succasanna, Morris county.

Miss Grace Coddington, of Alton, has been spending a few days with Miss Beulah Coles, of Park avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. S. Whitenack have been entertaining Mr. Kendelky, of New York, for a few days.

No meeting of the teachers of the Baptist Sunday-school will be held this week.

There will be dancing at Ivamy's pavilion tonight. Music by Naylor, of Plainfield.

The Township Committee will meet in the township rooms, Friday night.

The public school closed yesterday for the annual Christmas vacation.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Miss Nellie H. Manning attended the dedicatory services of the East Bound Brook school building, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. William Mullins has recovered from a week of illness. She was cared for during her sickness by Mrs. Carrie Hope.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley was present at the dedication of the East Bound Brook school house and gave a short address.

Claude A. Cubberley, of Scranton, Pa., is home for a few days' vacation.

The infant son of John Geary has been ill for some days.

Several persons from here spent yesterday in New York.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 28—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Our heavenly home and the way.—John xiv, 1-6; Rev. xxi, 1-4.

Dying words are always highly prized. This is true of the dying words of great men and of our dear ones and personal friends. President McKinley's last words of sublime resignation to the way and will of God will live long after his most eloquent discussions on political topics will be forgotten. With what an interest, therefore, we come to Christ's last words to His disciples, and with what joy we read that at such a time He spoke to them of His and their and our future heavenly home and the way to it. And what Christ said at the time upon this subject is corroborated by the heavenly vision that John received upon the island of Patmos.

1. Our heavenly home. (1) We have a heavenly home. This is an assured fact. Christ said, "In My Father's house are many mansions." They are there was His testimony, and His words undoubtedly referred to an abode in the future. The Bible speaks with absolute assurance of the immortality of the soul and the resurrection of the dead. It declares that we shall live in fellowship and communion with God and Christ and all redeemed saints. Such an assurance should inspire us to faithfulness to God under all circumstances in life. (2) We shall know each other in our heavenly home. Christ says, "I go to prepare a place for you, that where I am there ye may be also." But why be together if they should not know each other and not be able to continue the friendships and fellowship of this life? Such a proposition without recognition in heaven would be absolutely meaningless. We shall know our friends in heaven and perhaps all other heavenly inhabitants, as Peter, James and John recognized Moses and Elijah on the Mount of Transfiguration. (3) Our heavenly home is a home of happiness. What we shall be and do in heaven is not entirely revealed. Perhaps it could not be. But we know that we shall be with God, with Christ, and enjoy supreme happiness. Death, sorrow and crying shall be done away with and all things shall be new. Sin and misery shall be unknown and in their place shall be joy and peace. What a comfort amid the trying experiences of this life!

2. The way to our heavenly home. Christ is the way. "I am the way; I am the door; by Me, if any man enter in, he shall be saved." Nor is there any other way to heaven. Reason and morality are powerless to save the soul. Faith in Christ that leads to repentance and forgiveness of sin is the only open sesame to the soul's future paradise. But all may enter who will believe. No easier terms could be offered, and they should be accepted by all.

Christian Endeavor In New York.

The Kingston (N. Y.) local union has had great success with a visiting committee, composed of one member from each society. The committee has visited in a body every society in the union, bringing good cheer and inspiration with it.

The Brooklyn (N. Y.) union supplies a column of local Christian Endeavor news for each Saturday's issue of one of the daily papers.

Dr. W. W. White, president of Bible Teachers' Training school of New York city, is the conductor of a Bible study class under the auspices of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) local union.

A mission study class has been started in each of the seven divisions of the Brooklyn local union. The book being studied is "The Price of Africa."

The New York Army of Endeavor.

New York state Endeavorers now number over 190,000, with 3,148 societies, representing thirty-one denominations. The amount given for missions through denominational boards is between $40,000 and $50,000.—State Secretary Kinports.

The Birthplace of the Quiet Hour.

The thought of the Quiet Hour came to Dr. Clark during a long, lonely voyage from India to Africa, in which he had much time for meditation and prayer.

Nuggets.

A thousand matters are left free and flexible in Christian Endeavor. Personal initiative, invention, resource, the constant leading of the spirit of God, are possible.—Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D.

You're an "I'll try" society. When the Lord asks you to do a big thing, count it a compliment.—Rev. Dr. Edward Taylor.

Just as the ore lies in the mountains for hundreds of centuries before it is discovered, so the ore of consecration and pledged service has lain in the lives of young people in all the Christian ages. It was only waiting for the Christian Endeavor society to unearth it and mold it into many beautiful forms for the Master's use.—Rev. W. Knight Chaplin.

21. A. B. C., New York.—The Junior Christian Endeavor World is devoted exclusively to the interests of the junior society and its members.

22. F., New York.—William B. Jones of Albany was the first New York state superintendent of Christian Endeavor prison work. He resigned that position something more than a year ago and has been succeeded by W. A. Horn of Lockport.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 28, "Our Heavenly Home and the Way"—Text, John xiv, 1-6; Rev. xxi, 1-4.

"In my Father's house. I go to prepare a place for you. I am the way."

Here we have no continuing place. Houses grow old, decay and disappear. If built more strongly than usual, their very solidity inconveniences us as we need to alter them and make improvements for comfort. The average age of the constructions of men is stated to be not above eighty years, and this estimate recognizes the many buildings which are ages old.

But, however long the houses may last, we do not last long ourselves. Counting all the aged people and the average of human life is stated to be under thirty years. It is slowly lengthening under the influence of peace, more and better food, wiser ways of living and surer cures for disease. But, whatever the length of life, death shall and must end it. There is no other door out, and we cannot stay here. All things considered, it is well for us that we cannot. We were not built right to stay on this earth much longer than we now may stay. It is a good world in which to live for a certain length of time, and we can do very well for awhile here, but if we were forced to abide for the long future many would prefer nonexistence. Our contentment with the present is based on our hope of the future. We crave more than this earth has to give. We expect more than it could contain. This will do for our cradle, but not for our home. Wider, higher, richer are our aspirations and ambitions than earth can satisfy.

An old lady who had never been beyond the bounds of the valley in which her English home was situated was one day induced to climb the hill which overlooked it. As the horizon widened her eyes grew big with wonder, and as the broad prospect from the summit spread out around her she cried, "I never knew before that the world was so big."

So we have climbed another year's length up the heights of life, and our horizon line dips lower than it did. Life is greater than it was. Home means more. "My father's house!" What shall it be?

When the toil worn Greeks after their long march caught sight of the shining sea, they cried in their joy: "Thalatta! Thalatta!" (The sea! The sea!) It meant to them the end of all journeying in the home land. They must be near home, for they were in sight of the sea.

However weary our way may be our path shall lead home if we love the Christ and serve Him truly. Never were the sentiments of Bernard of Cluni in his wonderful hymn, "The Celestial Country," more appreciated than at the present time. With increasing fervor we sing his "Jerusalem the Golden." With deeper devotion we rest our souls on Jesus' words, "Let not your hearts be troubled."

The Strength of Christ.

Our efforts in the strength of Christ constantly remind us of our dependence. Especially is this true in the face of the strong enemies which we have to encounter. He who has a proper view of the strength of these enemies and of the absolute necessity of encountering and overcoming them cannot be proud, but in all humility will throw himself upon the arm of Christ. In all his efforts to escape sin in its guilt and in its destroying power he will feel the need of divine help. This is that working out of our own salvation to which we are exhorted and which brings us to Christ for the knowledge of the truth and for help in everything that pertains to life and godliness. It is working in everything in subjection to and dependence upon Him who worketh in us "both to will and to do of His own good pleasure."—Christian Instructor.

The Dignity of It.

Consider the dignity of this—to be admitted into so near converse with the highest majesty. Were there nothing to follow, no answer at all, prayer pays itself in the excellency of its nature and the sweetness that the soul finds in it. They who love find much delight in discoursing together, and count all hours short and think the day runs too fast that is so spent, and they who are much in this exercise the Lord doth impart His secrets much to them.—Leighton.

Accept Your Lot.

Do not let us complain over the place in which we are compelled to serve. The Lord hath made us, and the whole plan of our life is so arranged as to bring to their most perfect development the faculties with which we have been endowed. Let us only be concerned that we run not counter to His plans.—Presbyterian.

Words Which Bind Us Together.

Trusting in God and doing our duty, these are the words which bind us together. If you or I can feel that those who know us best can say of us that we are trusting God and doing our duty, it is enough to teach us that this is a ground of communion which neither the difference of external rites nor the difference of seas or continents can ever efface.—Dean Stanley.

Entire Sanctification.

I believe that all who truly desire and seek it may love God with all their heart and soul, mind and strength and their neighbors as themselves. This is entire sanctification.—Bishop Vincent.

A Greater Compliment.

To be trusted is a greater compliment than to be loved.—George Macdonald.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

That gentleman was a study in bronze. He was in full uniform. The gold braid of his cap, the bars of gold on his shoulders and sleeves, and the rows of brass buttons on his coat, were in sharp contrast to the plain apparel of the group which now clustered around him. A long, livid scar across his left cheek and extending to the point of his chin, showed plain in the electric light which flooded the room. The closely-cropped gray moustache; the shaggy, black eyebrows beetling over the cold blue eyes; the iron-gray hair beneath the cap; the erect, impassive pose of the figure—proclaimed the character of the official who held in his control the immediate destiny of the group of men who now confronted him.

Mr. Kent did not join this party. He had paused by a starboard window and was gazing out as if deeply concerned in a study of the weather. Hestor stood a little back of the captain while Hammond had seated himself by the table. In his face anger and bewilderment struggled for mastery.

"Capt. Waters," said Mr. Carmody, placing his hand familiarly on the broad shoulder of that official, "on behalf of the gentlemen on this yacht, I demand of you, as its captain, that you immediately put about and return to New York. You are responsible. Mr. Hestor is clearly irresponsible. It is our wish to return at once."

"It certainly is! It certainly is!" exclaimed Mr. Pence, attempting to grasp Capt. Waters' hand. That official glanced at Mr. Hestor as if waiting for him to answer.

"You know your orders," said Hestor. "You are the captain of this yacht."

"I get my orders from Mr. Hestor and obey them," said Capt. Waters, addressing no member of the group in particular. His voice was gruff, but not unkind. "We are headed east, nor'east. When he says to change her course, I will change her course. Until then, not. That's all."

This was a long speech for Capt. Waters. He turned and walked to the door.

"The 'Shark' is yours, gentlemen," said Hestor, airily. "The servants are yours to command, but I will issue all necessary orders to the captain. You gentlemen, who have such great interests under your control, must realize that, in such an outing as I have planned, Capt. Waters must not be annoyed with conflicting orders. I have provided everything for your comfort, and am sure you will thank me for the treat I have in store for you. I will rejoin you in a few moments. I wish to study our charts and determine our course for the night. Then we will have some music in Social Hall. I would like to see you for a few moments, Sidney, if the gentlemen will excuse you."

Mr. Hammond hesitated a moment. Mr. Carmody stepped to his side and spoke a few words in a low tone. Sidney listened, and bowing to him and the others, joined Hestor and followed him into his private staterooms at the forward part of the deckhouse.

"Well, I'll be damned!" said Mr. Haven, with perhaps justifiable emphasis, as Hestor smiled graciously and departed with Sidney Hammond. "We are kidnapped."

"Did you just find that out?" drawled Mr. Kent, as he reached for another cigar. "I knew that five minutes ago."

"You take it mighty coolly," said Mr. Haven, glaring at the big speculator. "One would think that the kidnapping of six of the wealthiest men in New York was an every-day event by the way you take it."

"I have seen stranger things than this happen," said Mr. Kent. "Take it easy. Take it easy. You will get Pence excited."

Mr. Pence had passed the stage of excitement. He was lost in the depths of despair. Had one of the marines entered and commanded him to walk the plank it would not have added to the weight of woe which overwhelmed him.

Mr. Palmer J. Morton had taken no part in the brief proceedings which had accomplished this revolution. He grasped the situation from the moment Hestor made his first declaration, and realized that whether their dilemma was the result of a plot or the whim of a maniac, that arguments and force were useless. Mr. Morton prided himself that he could divine the machinations of the cool-headed business schemer, but was he expected to cope with the fantastic plots of a crazy man? It was enough to know that he had been duped. He must devise a way out of the trap which he had helped to set.

"Gentlemen," he said, "this is a serious affair, but we must meet it coolly and with deliberation. It is of no avail to storm and rage. We are caged, and it will do no good to beat our wings against the bars. I feel myself largely at fault in this affair, but all of us are likely to make mistakes and to suffer lapses in judgment. In this——"

"Mr. Morton," interrupted Mr. Rockwell, "I think I speak for all present when I say that we do not hold you in the least responsible for this ridiculous event. I should have done the same thing. So would any of us."

"I thought that newspaper trust one of the best things I ever heard of," said Mr. Pence, and his eyes brightened for the moment at the thought. "I figured it out that the stock would have paid 20 per cent. dividends on the original investment. Oh, it is awful!"

Mr. Pence evidently did not refer to the magnitude of the vanished dividends, but to his present sorrow.

"We must retire to one of the staterooms and consider what can be done," said Mr. Morton. "I presume the owner or the officers of the boat will not object to our movements, so long as we comply with the rules of discipline. We have been informed that the yacht is ours, and I suggest that we select our staterooms and meet in one of them and confer together."

"You can do anything you please," said Hestor, who had entered the room, and had overheard the latter part of Mr. Morton's remarks. "But the hour is early, and there is plenty of excellent wine straining against the corks in the effort to escape and enhance the jollity of this occasion. Besides, we are going to have music. I have attempted to reconcile Mr. Hammond to his fate, and I know he will favor us with a song."

"Mr. Hestor"

DESTRUCTION OF CITY MAINS.

Electrolysis Is Causing Great Damage and Expense in Metropolitan Systems.

Destruction of underground mains by electrolysis is rapidly nearing a point at which it ceases to be a phenomenon of technical interest to physicists, says the Electrical Review, and becomes a commercial fact of startling magnitude. Water, gas and steam mains are being destroyed so rapidly that within a comparatively brief period renewals and replacements on a vast scale will become necessary. Their postponement in the case of gas mains accounts for the rapid destruction of asphalt pavements in many cities and imposes grievous burdens upon municipalities in the effort to maintain good roadways. The eating off of service pipes and the erosion of mains accomplish rapidly what would be brought about by natural causes much more slowly, and explain why the leakage loss of water in distribution is so enormously great, and why the building of new reservoirs and the laying of new lines of mains is constantly necessary under conditions which seem to show a per capita consumption of five times as great as the combined use and waste of any city since civilization began.

CONVERSATIONAL PARROTS.

Brazilian Birds Break Out in Unintelligible Tongue Immediately Upon Seeing Each Other.

Do parrots understand what they say? A correspondent writes that a friend with a fine green Brazilian parrot has been staying with her. The parrot is a fluent and accomplished speaker, says the London Chronicle. A gray parrot was introduced one day, but the Brazilian haughtily declined to have anything to say to the gray. Then another friend, who had just been given a newly-imported green Brazilian, brought the newcomer to call. The moment the parrots caught sight of each other they broke into a torrent of apparently articulate language, consisting, as it seemed, of questions and answers, but what the language was no one present could tell. The owner of the first parrot had never during the years it had lived with her heard it speak this strange tongue. The two parrots talked to each other without ceasing all the time they were together, and a few days later, when they met again, exactly the same thing happened. Was the first parrot—long exiled from its native forests—asking eagerly for news of its people?

Poor Effort at Translation.

The English papers have lately been having fun with a new German-English and English-German dictionary. The best example of the work is said to be in the translation of our word "gimcrack." According to the London Daily Chronicle four meanings have been given for this word, which, when translated back into English are: "The handsome girl," "the bad machine," "the ordinary handshake" and "a magician."

ANTI-TRUST NOVEL.

Chicago Writer's Latest Book Withdrawn from Market Because It Attacks Combination Methods.

Mrs. Gertrude Potter Daniels' new novel, "Eshek the Oppressor," a romance dealing with socialistic and trust problems, was withdrawn from the market by the publishers, less than two hours after it was placed on sale.

The real purpose of calling in the publication, it is stated by the Chicago Inter Ocean, is to expurgate some of the parts in regard to trusts which are deemed objectionable by the publishers, and to tone down the socialistic features.

"Eshek the Oppressor" is the second book by daughters of O. W. Potter to be taken off the market. "A Social Lion," by Margaret Horton Potter, now Mrs. John Black, was suppressed a few weeks after its publication several years ago, but was placed on sale again after she was married.

The anomaly of Mrs. Gertrude Potter Daniels writing a novel attacking trusts when her father assisted in the organization of the United States Steel company by turning over his steel and rolling mill interests to the agents of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. may have something to do with the withdrawal of "Eshek the Oppressor," it is thought.

One part of "Eshek the Oppressor" to be entirely changed in the new edition, it is said, is the blowing up of an oil refinery in Texas by employes of the trust, termed in the book the Eastern Petroleum company. Another feature probably to be much changed or entirely expurgated is the resuscitation of the hero, Jarvis Kennedy, by means of a salt solution, the ideas of which seeme the author is said to have drawn from the investigations conducted by Prof. Loeb, of the University of Chicago.

Jarvis Kennedy, imbued thoroughly with socialistic doctrines and hatred of trusts, is taken through a strenuous lot of events, the first of which is the stealing of $100 "while wandering through the city streets, hopeless, penniless and out of work," to pay his fare to California, finally becoming the owner of one of the richest tracts of oil land in Texas. He prospers. The fruition of his plans seems almost attained. But suddenly the horizon is darkened. The Eastern Petroleum company, against which Mrs. Daniels makes her attacks, is rapidly getting control of the Texas oil field. The remainder of the book deals with Jarvis Kennedy's candidacy for governor, and his defeat by the candidate supported by the trust.

SENATOR DILLINGHAM.

Reelected to the United States Senate by the Legislature of Vermont for a New Term.

The state of Vermont rarely changes its representatives in either house of congress. It was, therefore, no surprise when the legislature of the state recently reelected Hon. William Paul Dillingham to the United States senate. Senator Dillingham has already served two years in the upper house of the national congress as the successor of Senator Morrill, was governor of Vermont in 1888-1890, and had previously served several terms in both houses of the state legislature. His father before him was governor of the state, and his ancestors on both sides fought in the colonial wars and in the revolution. The senator was born in Waterbury, Vt., in 1843.

Will Support Her Husband.

The uncommon occurrence is reported from Australia of a woman being ordered by a magistrate to support her husband. The man, it seems, was an old-age pensioner in receipt of six shillings a week, and, as his spouse owned some land, she was made to contribute another six shillings a week toward his maintenance.

PICTURED LIFE OF CHRIST

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT OF THE FIRST BAPTIST SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

Rev. Dr. C. L. Rhoades Gave Illustrated Talk on Scenes in Life of Christ—Collection for the Poor.

Handsome pictures, illustrating the life of Christ from his birth to the time he became a man, were given at the Christmas festival in the First Baptist church, last evening, under the direction of Rev. Dr. Charles L. Rhoades, of New York, who told the story in his usual entertaining manner. The pictures belong to Dr. Rhoades and they illustrate the subject in a very impressive way.

In commencing the entertainment, Dr. Rhoades exhibited a series of pictures depicting Santa Claus and Kris Kringle as they prepare to make their journey over the country in distributing gifts. These pictures were greatly enjoyed by the little folks. Afterward were shown the views illustrative of the life of Christ. Many of these pictures were by some of the best known artists and they gave all an exceptional idea of Christ and His early life on earth.

During the intermission, the Sunday-school sang several Christmas carols and an offering was received for the poor of the city. Every member of the school had received envelopes for this purpose, and there was a generous response from the school as well as the many other persons present. This money, as well as the gifts of dolls and other useful articles, will be given to the Organized Aid Association to be distributed by the King's Daughters' city nurse among the poor.

The lantern slides shown last evening were operated by John Nagle in a most satisfactory manner.

situation of Caracas would easily make it a valley of peace, as it lies 3,000 feet above the sea level in a green valley with mountains towering far above. To reach Caracas we must either make the trip from La Guayra, the seaport of Caracas, on the back of a donkey, a long and tedious journey, or else take one of the two daily trains on the English Railroad. This railroad is considered one of the finest specimens of engineering in the world, and the beauty and grandeur of the scenery that meets our eyes on every side is far beyond the powers of description. The line winds in and out, around and up the mountains, passing through tunnels and skirting along the edge of precipices, where, if the engine jumped the track, the train would be hurled into the yawning abyss 1,200 feet below. At times we are above the clouds, and can see nothing but mist, and again the clouds are above us, and far below is the green valley stretching out to sea in the distance. It takes two hours and a half to make the trip, and it is well worth traveling all the way from the United States for a view of the magnificent scenery. If you are fortunate enough to know the very able administrator of this road, Harry J. Almond, he will probably ask you to make the trip from Caracas to La Guayra on his private 'trolley.' And you must accept his invitation, for you will have the most exhilarating ride of your life, besides seeing the scenery to much better advantage. The 'trolley' does not come up to our idea of what a trolley should be, for it is nothing but a handcar, such as is used by our railroad laborers. It has a broad seat with cushions, large enough to hold four people, back to back, while on either side of the front seat is a very powerful brake, which can quickly bring the trolley to a standstill, even when moving at the rate of twenty-eight miles an hour.

"One can see many interesting sights in Caracas, if one of the many victorias is taken at the station and the 'cochero' is told to drive around the city. The streets are narrow, crooked, and very rough, the entire city being paved with cobblestones. On every side are dirty, half-dressed children varying in color from the blackness of the ace of spades to the fairest of the fair. We pass women from Martinique, wearing their picturesque dresses of bright-colored calico, with a kerchief tied around their necks and crossed in front, and on their heads are the most dazzling bandana handkerchiefs, tied in such a fashion that two of the corners stick up like little horns. On the street corners we pass men smoking their cigarets and standing on one foot while the other leg is twined around their canes, thus serving the purpose of the other leg. These men are inferior looking and are most impudent in the way in which they stare at women, especially American women. They are quick-tempered, and think nothing of taking out a pistol and shooting a man if they have any dispute.

"There are many squares, or plazas, but the largest and most important one is the Plaza Bolivar, in the center of the city. This is where all the promenading is done, and every Thursday and Sunday evenings the National Band, which would be a credit to any country, gives an open-air concert. The children have their concert Saturday afternoon and the Plaza is crowded with pretty children dressed in the daintiest little white dresses and Parisian hats. These small tots are never seen during the week till Saturday afternoon, when they come out, every one of them, and show themselves off in perfect imitation of their pretty doll-like mothers.

"In the center of the Plaza is a large bronze equestrian statue of General Simon Bolivar, the Liberator of Venezuela. This statue was erected in 1870 by General Guzman Blanco, one of the ablest Presidents that Venezuela has ever had.

"Facing the Plaza Bolivar are the old Cathedral, which was partially destroyed in the earthquake of 1812; the postoffice, a handsome two-storied building, and the 'Casa Amarilla,' which used to be the White House of Caracas. A few minutes' walk from the Plaza brings us to the Museum, the University, the Federal Palace and Elliptical Salon. These last two buildings face each other on a very beautiful open square filled with all kinds of flowering shrubs and tropical trees. The government offices, Senate Chamber and House of Representatives are in the Federal Palace, while in the Elliptical Salon, where the President receives the Diplomatic Corps after an inauguration and on all state occasions, is a fine ceiling painting representing the battle near Carrabobo, one of the famous battles during the War for Independence. On the walls are fine portraits of all the Presidents of Venezuela, with the exception of President Guzman Blanco, which was destroyed in 1899, and portraits of many othe prominent men and heroes. If we have a little time to spare we should walk a few blocks further on to the Municipal Theatre, a very handsome building, the interior of which reminds one of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. On our way home we pass through the shopping district, where, if we care to pay the price, we can buy almost anything. The best and cheapest way to buy the beautiful lace work is from the women peddlers, who go from house to house to sell their wares, and during the recent revolution it has been very easy to buy at very low prices valuable old fans, laces, jewelry and curios from poor Venezuelans who used to be rich, but who have lost all their money owing to the troubled state of the country, and who are now forced to part with their old treasures in order to keep the wolf from the door.

"On our way to the Pantheon, the Westminster Abbey of Caracas, situated in the extreme northern portion of the city, we pass some of the best houses, but they are far from attractive on the outside. They are all one-storied, built of stucco of different colors, yellow and light blue predominating, with flat fronts relieved only by two closely-barred windows through which the senoritas flirt with their dark-skinned admirers The interiors of these houses are more attractive, as they all have open 'patois' filled with palms, shrubs and flowers and sweetly singing birds. The houses of the rich and poor are built right next to each other, and there is no street reserved for the residences of the richer class. For instance, one day when I was waiting at the door of one of the finest houses in Caracas I was surprised to have the door of the opposite house open and to see a man walk out leading a horse. Evidently the stable was in the back of the house and man and beast had to use the same door.

"The Pantheon, which stands at the end of the street at the foot of the mountains, is an imposing building of yellow stucco. It was formerly a cathedral, but has recently been converted into the last resting place of the heroes of Venezuela. There are a few who have handsome marble monuments inside, but for the most part these are merely tablets bearing the names of the persons with the date of their birth and death. In front of the monuments and on the tablets are cheap memorial wreaths of imitation flowers and tinsel tied with the national colors—red, blue and yellow.

"Walking past the Pantheon we come to the Barracks, and a little further on to the United States Legation, with its beautiful garden at one side. This house was built by an American and is considered one of the most desirable houses in Caracas. Its situation is certainly enviable, for it is on the outskirts of the city at the foot of the mountains, and there is always a decided difference in the temperature there from that in the city itself, where the heat at noontide is often unbearable.

"Tired after a day spent in seeing the sights of Caracas, we wander up the sides of the mountains back of the United States Legation, where we gaze down at the city below us and watch the glow of the setting sun on the roofs of the many-colored houses, and on the valley and mountains beyond. The sun sinks lower and lower, the twilight deepens and night comes on, and with a feeling of strange loneliness we walk slowly down the mountains back to our home in the beautiful but troubled city of Caracas."

WEDDED QUIETLY.

Miss Carrie E. Johnston Became Wife of Elmer E. Bradley.

The marriage of Miss Carrie E. Johnston, of Somerville, and Elmer E. Bradley, of Jamaica, L. I., took place yesterday morning at the home of Rev. Dr. J. R. Bryan, who performed the ceremony. The only witness was John Zuluff, of Somerville. The couple left at once for Maryland, the former home of the groom, where the honeymoon will be spent. The groom is employed on the Long Island Railroad and both he and his wife are estimable young folks.

It was just before Christmas, when all through the city
The coal carts were creaking their musical ditty;
The folks had been worried for many a day
And hadn't much coal in their bins stored away.
The price had been high, the supply had been low
And a famine was feared e're the falling of snow.
At last, when the trouble had faded away
And visions of anthracite pleased you each day,
You made up your mind that straightway you'd go
And get the best coal of Consumers Coal Co.

TO SPEAK TO TEACHERS

SPEAKERS FOR ANNUAL MEETING OF STATE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

Letter Issued by C. L. Baxter, State Superintendent of Schools, on That Subject.

State Superintendent C. J. Baxter, of the department of public instruction, has issued a letter to all the teachers in this State in which he has given a list of the speakers who will address the New Jersey Teachers' Association at its next meeting which will be held at the Normal School Auditorium, at Trenton, on the last three days of the year. It will be the forty-eighth annual meeting of that association and in the mean time an effort is being made to secure a number of new members to the association.

The letter is as follows:

Dear Sir: Believing it will prove helpful to you in securing membership for the December meeting of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association, I beg leave to submit the following:

In addition to the several attractive department programmes, the following speakers have been engaged for the general sessions:

J. O. Dana, librarian of the Free Public Library, Newark, N. J., subject: "The Relation of the Public Library to the Public School;" Dr. James M. Taylor, president of Vassar College, subject: "The Place of Pedagogy in the Training of the Teacher;" Miss Margaret A. Haley, president of the National Federation of Teachers, subject: "The Material Welfare of the Teacher;" Earl Barnes, of Philadelphia, Pa., subject: "Can a Teachers' Retirement Fund be a Good Business Interest and also a Philanthropy?" He will be followed in the discussion of this subject by James B. Bryan, Dr. Poland and other prominent educators.

W. J. Long, of Stamford, Conn, author of "Wilderness Ways," "Secret of the Woods," "Ways of Wood Folk," and "The School of the Woods," a writer and speaker, who has intensified the interest of many in the wild life of the air and the woods and opened their eyes and ears to new sights and sounds, will speak of "The Study of Nature and Animal Life."

Rush Rhees, president of the University of Rochester, will give the last lecture at the general session, subject: "Thoroughness versus Breadth."

Many counties have already exceeded the largest enrollment ever made and it is confidently believed that the coming meeting will prove to be one of the largest and most profitable in the history of the State Teachers' Association.

Very sincerely yours,
C. J. Baxter,
President.

SERVICES HELD CHRISTMAS DAY

The Local Episcopal and Roman Catholic Churches Held Special Services Yesterday.

MANY IN ATTENDANCE

All Were Bright With the Yuletide Decorations, While the Real Christmas Weather Attracted Many to the Appropriate Services of the Day.

Christmas Day was observed by exercises at the local Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches yesterday. All the sanctuaries were bright with their yuletide decorations and the real Christmas weather brought out a goodly congregation at each.

At St. Mary's R. C. church, the first mass was sung at 6 o'clock in the morning. It was a solemn high mass. Special music was rendered by the choir under the leadership of the choirmaster, Mathew Cashin. Another mass was sung at 7:30 and at 8 o'clock the church was filled again with worshipers. The 9 o'clock mass was set aside for the children and the little folk filled the church and joined heartily in the Christmas carols. A second solemn high mass was sung at 10:30 o'clock. This was the main service of the day. During the service the choir rendered special music and Rev. Father Egan preached an inspiring sermon appropriate to the day.

Christmas services were held yesterday at St. Stephen's Episcopal church in Netherwood when the church was filled with worshipers at all the three services. The early morning service was held at 7:30 when special music was rendered by the regular choir of the church. The other services were held at 9 o'clock and at 10 o'clock. At the latter the choir rendered special Christmas anthems and Gilbert's service in G. The children's carol service will be held at the church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the church.

Christmas was appropriately observed yesterday morning at Holy Cross church in North Plainfield. The church was beautifully decorated with holly and greens and a feature of the decorations was an elaborate rood screen across the front of the chancel. The framework of this screen was compeletly covered with roping of princess pine and surmounting it was a handsome cross of greens, beautifully decorated. The body of the church was tastefully decorated with roping and holly.

Rev. W. Montgomery Downey officiated at the service which was of a choral nature. Miss Daisy M. Zerbe was at the organ. The order of service, as followed by the full vested choir, was as follows:

Processional, "O Come All Ye Faithful;" Venite, Robinson; Te Deum, Buck; Jubilate, Cooke; hymn, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing;" Kyrie, Cruickshank; hymn, "O Little Town of Bethlehem;" offertory, "Shout the Glad Tidings," Hawley; Sursum Corda, Cruickshank; Benedictus; sanctus; Agnis Dei; Gloria in Exselsis; Nunc Dimittis, Gregorian; recessional, "Angels From the Realms of Glory."

The usual special Christmas services were held at Grace Episcopal church yesterday morning, in charge of the rector, Rev. E. V. Stevenson. At 7 and 8 o'clock there was Holy Communion, while at 10:30 o'clock there was morning prayer, Holy Communion and sermon. There was a large attendance at the services and all entered most heartily into the spirit of the occasion. The church was very prettily decorated about the chancel and altar.

There was special music by the choir, in charge of Mrs. William A. Freeman, organist. There were pleasing solos by Miss Cornelia Miller, Frederick J. Pope and Arthur Freeman. Altogether the music was a most enjoyable feature of the services. Mr. Stevenson's sermon was appropriate to Christmastide and was listened to attentively by all.

Well attended services were held in the German Lutherian church both morning and evening yesterday. Rev. Mr. Duensing preached a very helpful sermon in the morning. At the evening service the Christmas exercises followed a short devotional service. A prettily decorated Christmas tree was placed in one corner of the room and the children sang Christmas

HIGH PRAISE FOR RETIRING PRESIDENT

Resolutions Passed by Trustees of Atlantic Trust Co., Regarding Mr. Randolph.

ON HIS RETIREMENT

ALSO HIS LETTER OF RESIGNATION TO THE TRUSTEES.

Fine Record Made by Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, of This City, as President of the Atlantic Trust Company, of New York.

Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, who retired, Tuesday, as the head of the Atlantic Trust Company, of New York, presented his resignation as follows:

To the Board of Trustees of the Atlantic Trust Company.

Gentlemen: I offer my resignation as President of the Atlantic Trust Company and as a member of your Board, to take effect—if convenient to you—at the end of the month. For about eight years I have served you with singleness of purpose and with uniformly good results. The statements of the company's constantly augmenting business and net earnings, as they appear on your books and in the reports made to the banking department—and especially the profit-estimates of recent date—abundantly attest the company's growth and success. Within the past five years the value of its stock has doubled. This year, 1902 is the best it has known, and the half-year just closing is the best half year in its history. Already, profits from trust and money business, arranged for up to this date and now in sight for 1903, indicate that next year's gains will be still better. The company's immunity from losses in administration and in its large transactions during the eight years of my service is unique.

Whilst these facts are pleasant for review, it is to me, if possible, still more agreeable to recall the continued confidence and friendship shown me by the members of our board. You have given me a free hand as your leader. You have adopted my suggestions and supported my plans for the company's upbuilding; and, following the good results of all this, you have repeatedly expressed in your resolutions and minutes your kind satisfaction, approbation and esteem in terms yielding me great pleasure and encouragement. For all your kindness I thank you, and I shall bear into my retirement many delightful recollections of friendly relations with my colleagues in the Atlantic Trust Company's Board. Very respectfully yours,

L. V. F. Randolph.

As an evidence of the esteem in which he was held as an official, the trustees of the organization, in accepting his resignation passed the following preamble and resolutions:

Whereas, L. V. F. Randolph, President of the Atlantic Trust Company, has tendered to the Board of Trustees his resignation, we desire to say, in this connection, that,

L. V. F. Randolph has been President of the Atlantic Trust Company for some eight years. He was called to fill that office at a time when it demanded the services of a man possessing not only more than ordinary ability, but those higher qualities of absolute integrity and unflinching courage. He had an honesty of purpose that never swerved from the right; a judgment and perception clear and seldom wrong; a will resolute, always in the path of duty; and an industry that was absolutely indefatigable. All these, and more, Mr. Randolph possessed, and no man better fitted to fulfill these exacting requirements could have been found. The results of his work, now appreciated by all, attest his worth and fitness.

At the close of his administration, the Company has a capital of one million, five hundred thousand dollars, ($1,500,000); a surplus of one million, one hundred thousand dollars ($1,100,000); a line of deposits ranging up at times to twelve million, five hundred thousand dollars ($12,500,000); and is paying dividends at the rate of eight per cent. per annum. It enjoys a high degree of credit, and possesses the full public confidence as an institution honestly and conservatively managed. These conditions are, in a large measure, the result of the eight years of persistent, intelligent and conscientious labor devoted to its service by Mr. Randolph; it is therefore

Resolved, That in parting with our

NURSED HER DYING LOVER

MISS MITCHELL CONTRACTED FATAL ILLNESS—PASSED AWAY LAST NIGHT.

While Ministering to His Wants, She Became Affected and Died Year After Him.

The culmination of a sad romance came with the death of Miss Mabel Mitchell at the home of her mother, Mrs. Diantha Mitchell, of Grant avenue, last evening.

The young woman was affianced to Arthur Peck, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., a professor in Lehigh University, when he fell ill with consumption. She forsook her duties in this city as a teacher in the Washington School to nurse him but the ravages of the disease could not be stayed. He died one year ago. Then it was discovered that in the discharge of her chosen duty, Miss Mitchell had contracted the fatal malady. She gave up her position and was practically an invalid until the end.

Miss Mitchell was twenty-seven years old and was a graduate of the Plainfield High School, class of 1896. She leaves one sister, Bertha, and a brother, Robert. Funeral services will be held from her mother's residence, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30. Interment will be at Westerly, R. I.

CHANGE NAME.

It Will be League of American Citizens Instead of League of American Workingmen.

The committee appointed to formulate plans for the organization of American citizens, which has been discussed of at two public meetings held recently, met this week, and decided to change the name of the organization from the League of American Workingmen to the League of American Citizens. This change was made so that there would be no possible chance for mistaken ideas. It is the purpose to have the organization composed of all American citizens, whether they be workingmen or not, and there will be no question relative to creed, race or color.

There will be another public meeting Tuesday evening, January 13, when the committee will report concerning their work and officers will be elected in furtherance of a permanent organization. A full attendance is requested at this meeting.

AT THE HOSPITAL.

Christmas Was Celebrated With Gift-Giving, Carols and a Short Christmas Service.

The annual Christmas exercises were held at Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, when the tree was lighted and a general good time was enjoyed by the nurses, patients, physicians, the Woman's Auxiliary and many visitors. According to the usual custom, the Grace Episcopal church choir, under the direction of the organist, Mrs. William A. Freeman, was present and sang a number of carols.

A short address was made by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace Episcopal church. He spoke in the men's ward and also the women's ward, after which he held a short Episcopal service.

After the service there was the distribution of gifts. The patients, as well as all the nurses, were remembered in a substantial manner.

Rockfellow, formerly of Plainfield, but now Cardinal, Va., was celebrated Christmas Eve in Grace Episcopal church, this place. After the wedding a large reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. The couple will reside at Cardinal.

Worshipped at Sunrise.

In keeping with a custom practiced in the mother country, the congregation of the Swedish Pilgrim church gathered for worship at sunrise, yesterday morning. The meeting is termed a Julotta service and is quite impressive. Pastor O. G. Norseen was in charge and preached a sermon appropriate to Christmas Day.

Employes of Woolston & Buckle sprang a pleasant surprise on Omer C. Moore, driver for the firm, Wednesday afternoon. On being callad to one side in the afternoon he was presented with a complete outfit of clothing and several individual gifts. Mr. Moore has been with the firm for many years.

ANNUAL OFFERING FOR THE LOCAL HOSPITAL

"Hospital Sunday" Will be Observed by Churches of City and Borough Sunday.

THE YEARLY OFFERING

BUT NEEDS OF MUHLENBERG ARE PARTICULARLY GREAT THIS YEAR.

Finance Committee Reviews the Great Work Done by That Institution and How It Must Depend on Public for Support.

The finance committee of Muhlenberg Hospital desires to remind the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield that next Sunday, December 28, is "Hospital Sunday" and that on that day a number of our city churches will make their usual yearly offering towards the support of Muhlenberg Hospital. The committee is glad to announce that several churches in the city and borough which have not heretofore taken on Hospital Sunday a collection for Muhlenberg, will next Sunday give their congregations an opportunity of contributing towards this charity.

The work of Muhlenberg steadily increases; last year the number of indoor patients was 403 against 376 the previous year and 238 five years ago; the number of dispensary visits was 2, 147 against 1,937 the previous year and 913 five years ago; and the number of operations (including dispensary) and 323 against 255 the previous year, and 98 five years ago. Of the 403 indoor patients last year 138 (over one third) were treated gratuitously, and of the remaining 265, 176 were ward patients who paid at the rate of $5 a week (or less) against the average cost per patient per week of $13 (exclusive of donations other than cash); in other words, the hospital paid out last year for running expenses (including repairs) over $18,000 in cash, and received from pay patientg, service of nurses and ambulance service, less than $5,000; the charitable work done by Muhlenberg is greater than many of our citizens realize.

With the number of patients increasing every year, the service rendered better and the cost of supplies greater, the running expenses of the Hospital have increased from year to year much more rapidly than has its income. The Hospital therefore needs a more generous support from the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield, and the finance committee asks that the Hospital Sunday collections this year be very materially increased. Last year the amount contributed by the churches of the city and borough was $333.02 and in 1900 the amount was $362. It would be very gratifying to the management were the contributions increased to such an extent as to compare favorably with the church collections received by the Montclair Hospital which, in 1900 amounted to $878 and last year to over $1,000. The Board of Governors would also welcome the adoption by some of our larger churches of the method whereby the Orange Memorial Hospital is assisted in its work by four of the churches of Orange and West Orange, namely, the annual endowment of a bed at a cost of $200 yearly.

Muhlenberg Hospital is not sectarian, but receives all applicants irrespective of nationality or religious belief and no person has ever been refused admission because of inability to pay for treatment. As it serves all the people, therefore, it must look to all the people for its support.

LONGER HOLIDAYS.

School Which Plainfield Young Women Attended Totally Destroyed.

At least three local young women have been obliged to remain here for the Christmas holidays longer than they expected because of the burning of the Young Ladies' Seminary at New Milford, Conn., on Sunday last. The school building was completely destroyed entailing a loss of $4,000. The three young women from this city who have been attending the seminary are Miss Anita Frahle and the Misses Dorothy and Adelaide Howard.

POSTMEN WERE LOADED DOWN

POSTOFFICE CHRISTMAS RUSH WAS GREATEST EVER KNOWN.

Everything Cleaned Up Yesterday, Although Everybody Had to Work Hard.

The Christmas "rush" at the local postoffice this year probably exceeds that of recent years. For a number of days previous to the holiday, as already stated, the office was the centre of attraction for hundreds of people, all of whom brought packages both large and small to be sent to friends and relatives elsewhere. In addition to this outward rush, there was the incoming mail to be handled and delivered in the city. Despite the heavy amount of mail received and sent, the office force succeeded in clearing up all mail matter and getting it off on time. Postmaster Bird and his entire force was kept very busy, but everyone worked hard and accomplished what was hoped for, the prompt delivery of mail.

The office was a sight to behold yesterday morning prior to the time the carriers started on the one delivery of the day. Nearly all of the space reserved for mail matter was occupied and everyone of the carriers looked like a veritable Santa Claus. In nearly every case the carriers started off on time, but naturally were delayed on the route.

To give one an idea of the amount of mail matter handled at the office during the holiday rush, a few figures are given. There were received 181 sacks of mail and 157 sacks sent out. There were seventy-two pouches of mail received and eighty-nine sent out. There were 219 pieces of registered mail received and 416 sent out. This is an increase of business, but much credit is due Postmaster Bird and his entire staff of clerks and carriers for the faithful, prompt and efficient work accomplished.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC.

Programme for Next Sunday Morning at First Baptist Church.

The Christmas services at the First Baptist church Sunday morning will be of unusual interest. The Sunday-school will occupy seats in the gallery and will unite in the singing of carols and hymns. Rev. Dr. Charles L. Rhoades, of New York, will preach. The offering will be for the Muhlenberg Hospital. Howard Case will conduct the music, presiding at the organ, and will be assisted by Dr. Waldo, Miss Waldo and Fullerton Waldo. There will be an instrumental trio, violin, viola and violoncello, which will play an Andante of Beethoven's and an Adagio by Graedener. The musical programme is as follows:

Anthems—"Arise, Shine Forth," Lansing; "How Brighty Dawns," Shelley; "Hark, What Mean," Stair; "There Shall Come Forth a Rod," Tozer.

Carols—"Merry Christmas," Van de Water; "Hark, Hark, to the Hymn," Backus; "Venite Adoremus Dominum," Warren.

Death of Mrs. Newman.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of Mr. Stahl.

MONEY'S GONE MAN IS DEAD

John Druff Murdered In Bound Brook's Main Street —Body Covered With Snow.

WAS FOUND YESTERDAY

Another Murder Mystery for Somerset County to Solve—Club Used for Fatal Blow Found Beside Body—Druff Had Displayed Money in a Crowd.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Dec. 26—Lying in a frequently travelled section of West Main street and covered by three inches of snow, the body of John Druff, a mason's helper, was discovered yesterday morning. He had evidently been struck down with a heavy cedar club as the face and skull had been crushed in and the bludgeon, covered with blood stains, was found near by. Robbery is assigned as the cause for the murder.

Druff was last seen in a saloon known as "The Alley" at 1 o'clock, when he was displaying $70 and a gold watch. The place was crowded at the time and the sight of the money evidently aroused the envy of one of the hangers on.

He was struck down within one block of his home and twenty-five feet from another saloon. His pockets had been rifled and a number of papers and worthless articles were scattered about the body.

Druff was unmarried and lived with his married sister. The county physician performed an autopsy, last night, and a coroner's inquest will be held today.

Hanan & Son Shoes!!!

The Slightly Imperfect Product of Greatest Manufacturers of Men's Shoes in this Country.

AN OPPORTUNITY for men without a precedent—the most collosal value giving event in the entire history of retail shoe selling. Hanan & Son Shoes are a universally accepted standard of comparison, and are the embodiment of all that is best in style, stock, workmanship and finish. None but the highest paid and most skilled labor is employed in their production. Every pair is examined and passed upon by an expert before leaving the factory, and instantly rejected from regular lines if not in every way up to the mark. It is these shoes turned out during the season, that did not meet exact requirements—that had the least defect, which we have secured and are now offering for Less Than Half and One-third the Restricted Agency Price.

These "factory imperfects" have formerly been disposed of through the Boston store of Hanan & Son, and the exception made in our favor enables us to score another triumph in big value giving, and demonstrate that now and always we are alert to those chances which redound to the benefit of our patrons. The majority of these shoes are of Ideal Kid, patent colt and patent French calf—Blucher, lace and button kinds—sizes from 5 to 12 and any width in some one of the styles—double or single soles—many calf lined—a number with narrow toes made for export trade. Not one in the entire vast assortment, including over 2000 pairs, that is not essentially as good as the best $6.50 to $8.00 shoe made. A trifling crack in enamel, perhaps a flaw in the finish—nothing more serious than that, and an hour's wear of a perfect shoe would leave it with greater defects than any in these.

A DAY OF GOOD CHEER

A "White" Christmas Generally Enjoyed.

FEASTS SPREAD FOR THE POOR.

Religious Services Important Feature In Day's Celebration In Metropolis—How President, King and Kaiser Kept the Day.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—New York enjoyed a "white" Christmas this year. Very early in the morning snow began steadily falling, and by the time people were awake the ground was thickly covered. The day was rather warm and the sky overcast, and in the afternoon the snow began to melt, making the walking unpleasant. The surface and elevated train traffic was considerably hampered.

In all the churches special Christmas services were held, the music being the feature in most of them. Bishop Potter preached in Grace Protestant Episcopal church, his sermon being delivered after he had consecrated the magnificent new altar and chancel just completed.

Archbishop Farley celebrated pontifical high mass at St. Patrick's cathedral, and the edifice was profusely decorated with holly and evergreens. The mass was the first one celebrated by him since his elevation to the archiepiscopate.

Dinners to the needy, to the sick and those in prison were given by the score. Feasts of regulation Christmas food were served in all the hospitals, prisons and charitable institutions throughout the city and suburbs. Vans filled with food were driven through the poorer sections of the city, and dinners were given to thousands in this way. Other trucks were loaded with toys for the little ones, and a seeming effort was made to see that no one in Greater New York should fail to receive some gift.

The usual Christmas charity of the Salvation Army was carried out successfully. The army gave away nearly 2,000 dinners in the morning at the Grand Central Palace. Each dinner was calculated to feed five persons. It was uncooked and served in a basket. Later in the day a feast was spread in the hall for thousands who had no place in which to cook a meal.

Judging from the tremendous crowds which filled the stores for two weeks before Christmas and the reports of the amount of business done by the firms, it is thought that the Christmas of 1902 excelled all previous ones in the purchase of gifts and the value of them.

New Yorkers are cheered by the thought that they will not have to depend on the elevated road to get to Harlem. A year hence snowstorms and sleetstorms may be laughed at instead of wept at, because then the subway will be running, and one may get to Harlem in fifteen minutes. William Barclay Parsons, chief engineer of the rapid transit commission, made this announcement to the public. It is the brightest spot in the otherwise gloomy problem of transportation which confronts New York.

The President's Christmas.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Washington presented a genuine Christmas appearance. Public and private business was practically entirely suspended owing to the heavy snowfall. Interest centered in the happenings at the White House. Early in the morning the president and the members of his family repaired to the library, where presents were exchanged and the many boxes and packages which had come from out of town opened. There were a large number of callers, and many gifts in the shape of handsome floral pieces were received. Soon after breakfast the president, Theodore, Jr., and Lieutenant Ferguson of the rough riders, who is a house guest, took a long horseback ride, returning in time to join the rest of the family at luncheon with Commander and Mrs. Cowles. At the homes of the cabinet officers the day was quietly observed, while among the embassies and legations elaborate preparations had been made for celebrating. Official dinner parties were given by the British and Russian ambassadors. In the evening the president entertained a number of friends at dinner, which was given in the newly finished state dining room.

The King's Christmas.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra spent the day at Sandringham, this being the first Christmas their majesties have spent at their favorite residence since their accession. The royal family, including the Prince of Wales, Princess Victoria, the Duchess of Fife and Prince and Princess Charles of Denmark, attended an early service at Sandringham church, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The king afterward personally directed the annual distribution of beer and game, in which every employee and tenant on the Sandringham estate always participates. London and the south of England generally enjoyed an unusually clear and cold Christmas.

Mrs. McKinley's Christmas.

CANTON, O., Dec. 26.—Mrs. McKinley for the first time since her husband's death took a holiday dinner away from her own home. She dined yesterday with her sister, Mrs. Barber, who lives in the old Saxton mansion. In the morning Mrs. McKinley made her daily visit to the tomb of her husband, and from there she was driven to the Barber home.

Christmas in Rome.

ROME, Dec. 26.—All fashionable Rome wound up Christmas day at the American embassy, where Ambassador and Mrs. Meyer entertained their friends at a dance. Among the Americans present were General and Mrs. Cloris of Washington, Miss Carew, sister-in-law of President Roosevelt; the St. Louis fair commissioners, A. W. Evarts of New York, John Mason Little of Boston and Mr. Chapin of New York. Among the Christmas felicitations received by the pope were greetings from Emperor Francis Joseph and the kings of Spain, Portugal, Belgium and Saxony.

Santa Claus For Whole City.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Dec. 26.—General Stephen Moffitt of this city celebrated Christmas day by having a turkey dinner served to every worthy person desiring it in the city. About 600 dinners were served in this way at the hotels, and cash prizes were given away ranging from 25 cents up to $20 goldpieces. Baskets of provisions were also sent to the sick and needy. Carfare and carriages were provided for those who could not walk to the hotels. General Moffitt also distributed a large bag of candy, nuts and oranges to every pupil in the public schools of the city, some 1,200 in all. In each bag of candy was a piece of money, ranging from a penny to a 25 cent piece.

The Kaiser's Christmas.

BERLIN, Dec. 26.—Emperor William spent Christmas in his usual way. His majesty took a walk in the afternoon in the Sans Souci park and distributed bright new goldpieces, fresh from the mint, among the gardeners and watchmen. After dinner at 4 o'clock Christmas trees were lighted in the shell hall of the new palace. All the children of the imperial family were present, and each had his or her own tree, of a size proportionate to the age of the child.

PHILIPPINE CABLE ROUTE.

Landings to Be Made at Midway Island and Guam.

HONOLULU, Dec. 26.—S. S. Dickinson, the special agent of the Commercial Pacific Cable company, has returned from Manila, where he has chosen cable landing sites at Midway island, Guam and Manila.

He also surveyed a route around Nero deep, a very deep hole in the ocean bed between Guam and Midway, which was discovered by the United States survey ship Nero and reported to be the deepest bit of ocean in the world.

In surveying around Nero deep Mr. Dickinson says that he went down to a depth of 4,500 fathoms, and the route chosen went around it, it being deemed impracticable to lay a cable over it.

Mr. Bassford was a musician of much repute, and had played in many leading churches in this State and New York.

It will be made similar to the one used in Plainfield and will be known as the "block" system. Mr. VanEmburgh commenced the work yesterday and will complete it within a few weeks.

RATHER UNUSUAL TERM OF SOMERSET COURT

Grand Jury of Distinguished Men Charged by Judge of Common Pleas Court.

IT FOUND THREE BILLS

THE COUNTY CLERK HAD TO ADJOURN SUPREME AND CIRCUIT COURTS.

The Illness of Justice Garrettson Caused All Sorts of Unusual Things to Happen at Somerville Last Tuesday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 26 — Everything points towards a very short session of county courts this term. Even the Grand Jury had an easy time of it, finishing its labors Tuesday night, having found only three true bills. This speaks well for the goodness of the people of Somerset.

The Grand Jury was quite a remarkable one, in one respect at least. Opponents at the recent fall election were out in force. Senator-elect Samuel S. Childs, of Bernards, was foreman and his defeated opponent, Jos. S. Frelinghuysen, of Bridgewater, was on the list, as was also William J. DeMond, surrogate-elect, and the candidate he defeated, P. V. D. VanDoren. Two Freeholders, Cornelius G. VanCleef and Edward B. Hoagland, were also on the roll.

Tuesday was the first time in many a year a Common Pleas Judge has charged the Grand Jury in Somerset county. Judge Schenck showed that he had the qualities of a Justice of the Supreme Court. In regard to the using of a knife he was very decisive. He said that no one had a right to use a knife in self-defense unless his life was in jeopardy.

Other than some licenses deferred, Orphans' Court cases, etc., there will be no more court until January 5, when Justice Garretson will take up the Supreme and Circuit list, providing his health permits. He was confined to his bed all of Tuesday at his home in Morristown.

County Clerk Somers is receiving congratulations for the off-hand way in which he adjourned the Supreme and Circuit branch of the courts Tuesday. This was the first he had ever been called on to do it and probably the first time it was ever done by a County Clerk of Somerset county.

SOMERVILLE HOPEFUL.

Expects to Land New Factory of New York Agricultural Co.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 26—Somerville is reasonably sure of the new industry that it has been itching to secure for a long time. Just as soon as some more subscriptions come in the articles of agreement with the New York Agricultural Company, manufacturers of hardware specialties, will be signed. Then the town will have a factory that it may be proud of, as this institution pays over $25,000 a year in salaries, and brings many families of skilled laborers with it. The Carpenters' and Masons' unions have contributed handsomely.

Borough's Chief Executive Home.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of the borough returned home from an extensive visit in Kansas, Wednesday morning. His brother David also returned with him. Last evening a carload of seventeen horses arrived at the depot in South Plainfield and they will be unloaded today. The horses are all fine drivers and will be sold to local purchasers.

Christmas at Children's Home.

The Christmas tree will be lighted at the Children's Home Wednesday afternoon, December 31, at 4 o'clock, at which time all persons interested will be made cordially welcome. Persons are reminded that suitable gifts will be gratefully received at the Home.

Council Meeting Tonight.

There will be an adjourned meeting of the Common Council this evening when an effort will be made to close up the business of the year. It is likely that another meeting will be held Monday evening, the last for the year.

New Year at Boys' Club.

The annual entertainment at the Boys' Club will be held New Year's night, when a programme of interest will be presented.

Preparing to Practise.

V. W. Nash, Jr., who was recently admitted to the bar, will shortly begin practising in this city. He has engaged a suite of rooms in the Vanderbeek building which are now being fitted up for him.

At Marconnier.

Special Christmas services will be held at Marconnier chapel Sunday afternoon, and on Tuesday evening following, the annual Christmas festival will be held at the chapel.

REPEAL MEEKER ACT.

After waging a vigorous campaign in behalf of good government previous to the last election, the Citizen's Union, of East Orange, is now devoting its energies to secure the repeal of the Meeker election law and the passage of a new and better primary law. This campaign is not being confined to Newark and the Oranges alone but the support of the people all over the State is looked for.

A wonderfully clear demonstration of the need of the repeal of the Meeker election law was seen in Essex county last November. And it was not confined to Essex county alone. While the city government of Plainfield lost nothing by it, yet it was very evident that the interest in the Congressional and county fights so overshadowed the municipal election that there were comparatively few who knew anything about the real local issues. As there wasn't really anything at issue as far as the city ticket was concerned here in Plainfield and the ticket that won an imminently satisfactory one, it didn't make much difference this year. Such apathy on the part of the local voters would make possible happenings in the future that are far from desirable and to be carefully guarded against.

It is therefore to be hoped that the Citizen's Union will be successful in its fight against the measure. If the trend of public opinion can be gauged by the editorial comments of the newspapers all over the State, the Union has the support of a vast majority.

In its fight to secure a new and better primary law, the East Orange organization deserves the heartiest support of every citizen in New Jersey. When the people of Plainfield remember the happenings at certain Republican primaries which were held in Union county last fall, they should be thankful, indeed, to see any legislation enacted that will prevent a repetition of such a state of affairs.

Petitions have been prepared by the Citizen's Union and copies of them may be found at The Daily Press office. If there are any desirious of placing themselves on record regarding these two subjects, the opportunity now presents itself.

A new police headquarters, a patrol wagon and a police alarm system, those are some of the things which the new Common Council, it is said, is planning to bring to pass. There is nothing very new to the idea for the people of Plainfield have heard the patrol wagon and police alarm system agitated again and again. Of course, they will cost money. If, however, they can be secured without curtailing any other advantages and without materially affecting the tax rate, it is not likely that any opposition will be offered. The people of Plainfield are only too glad to see their city improved in every way and they are willing to listen to reason. It is only rash extravagance that is objected to. Judging from the men in the Common Council at present, it does not seem likely that they will drag the city into any new scheme that will injure the fine record they have already made.

The Daily Press carriers desire to thank their patrons for the liberality shown yesterday when these bright little lads of ours distributed the new calendars. There were words of praise on every side for the calendar which is of artistic design. In many a household there was a place all waiting to receive it for The Daily Press calendar is no stranger to the people of Plainfield. If there were any of our regular subscribers who failed to receive their calendars, we would be very glad to hear from them and see that they are supplied. If there were any who happened to be out-of-town yesterday and could not remember the boy who has so regularly delivered The Daily Press to them, we will be glad to see that any remembrance left at the office for him reaches the proper destination.

As quoted by the Philadelphia Record an experienced advertiser says that is successful advertising which "connects the seller with the buyer by the shortest possible route and at the least expense." The medium which does this is, of course, the newspaper which goes directly into the homes of the people and the circulation of which is so large that the cost for each 1,000 of readers is insignificant.

That famous series of events in the Park Club, the Bachelor-Benedict bowling matches, is always looked forward to by the members of that active social organization with much pleasure. The first of the series this year will be rolled tomorrow evening and some of the veterans of the Park have promised to turn out for the occasion.

It was a merry Christmas, wasn't it? Suffering and unhappiness there will always be but the full force of the troubles was often forgotten in the gladness of the day. Yes, it was a merry Christmas in Plainfield.

So many Christmas numbers have reached us that it is impossible to acknowledge them all. Never did the newspapers of New Jersey appear to better advantage than at this yuletide season.

Poor letter-carrier! He realizes full well that the Christmas season has been here. You ought to have seen him yesterday.

There was consolation in the fact that the weather Christmas Day was seasonable.

CAME HOME LATE.

Found His Home in Possession of Members of His Class.

A very happy surprise was given to Robert A. Meeker, of West Front street, Tuesday evening, by his Sunday-school class at Trinity Reformed church. Mr. Meeker had promised to be home that evening, but was unavoidably detained and did not reach home until 10 o'clock. When he arrived he found his class there waiting to give him a cordial greeting. A delightful social time followed, and another surprise in the form of a presentation of a handsome lamp to the teacher helped to make the event one of the greatest pleasure. During the social hour refreshments were served and Mr. Meeker took occasion to thank his class heartily for the pleasant time given.

Bertram Hetfield, of Worcester, Mass., is spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Hetfield, of East Front street.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The Christmas exercises of the Methodist Sunday-school were held on Wednesday evening in the church and were very interesting. A programme, which pleased the large audience, was rendered as follows: "Do Children Know," Emil Vogel; "Stockings Christmas," Harry Giddes; "Christmas Wish," Elmer Doty; "King of Christmas Trees," Corvin Apgar; "Surprise for Santa Claus," Edna Shirley; "Christmas Aeroctic," Lillie Kennedy; "Christmas Eve in a Mining Camp," Miss Lulu Gise. Then a solo was sung by Miss Lillian Kennedy after which Elmer Doty sang "When Good Old Kris Comes Round." A piano duet was well given by Miss Elsie Peters and Miss Alice Apgar, and a dialogue, "A Day After Christmas," closed the programme. Those who took part in the diaglogue were Stella Eick, Harry Vliet and William Giddes. After the exercises the children were presented with gifts of candy and oranges from the tree. The pastor, Rev. S. K. Doolittle, was presented with a purse containing a good sum.

The Sunday-school of the Presbyterian church held its Christmas exercises in the chapel Wednesday evening. A large attendance was present. The exercises were on about the same order as previous years, consisting of recitations by the children and singing. Little Miss Ethel Case gave several selections in a charming manner. As usual Santa Claus was present and furnished the children with much amusement as well as giving them pretty gifts. His approach towards Dunellen was told by telegrams, which also told of various mishaps encountered along the road. The children were presented with candy and oranges besides presents. Howard Craig was presented with a Bible by Rev. N. J. Sproul for a regular attendance at Sunday-school. The pastor, Mr. Lake, the superintendent of the school, and John Lane, the sexton, were all presented with turkeys.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The annual Christmas exercises of the Methodist Sunday-school were held Wednesday evening in the church. The members and their many friends who gathered with them to enjoy the pleasant event filled the auditorium with one of the happiest of yuletide gatherings. The church was prettily trimmed with evergreen while in one corner at the left of the pulpit was a large Christmas tree filled with presents for both young and old. After a pleasing programme of recitations and carols, Santa Claus made his long-looked for appearance, and assisted in distributing the presents. A pressure of business at other places necessarily cut the visit short much to the regret of the younger members of the school. During the festivities Rev. Mr. Bayliss, the pastor, was presented with a substantial recognition of the event by the members of the church and congregation.

The residents of the village awoke Thursday morning to find that Santa Claus had brought a white Chritmas after all. The snow was hardly heavy enough to make sleighing good but one could occasionally hear the merry tinkle of bells during the day.

What's in a Name?

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, discovered, some years ago, how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For Blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. L. W Randolph.

with a capital stock of $1,000,000, divided into shares par value of $1 each, full paid and forever non-assessable, offer to the public for a limited time only these shares at 10c each.
This company owns seven placer claims on Trout Creek in the famous Gold Belt district of Montana, one of the best paying districts in the world today. Last season three men on the same creek, with nothing but gold pans, took out over $60,000. We propose to sell a small amount of this stock for the purpose of buying more amalgamaters and hydraulic elevators, at the extremely low price of 10c per share
Don't delay, as this offer will not remain open long. Send right away for our illustrated prospectus, explaining exactly what we have done and propose to do.

What the New Woman Is Doing

LATELY I had occasion to view the shows of Christmas goods in some of the great department stores. Never before have these wares been more beautiful, artistic and costly. A sum that would have served Martha Washington to dress on for a year is asked for a single dinner gown. There was the most dainty and exquisite ermine jacket ever a sweet girl put upon her fair body, and its price was $250. An ermine muff alone was valued at $75. An exquisite carriage wrap from Worth cost $340. An imported pale blue silk muslin dinner gown with "angel" sleeves was marked $408. Beautiful? Where they did not border on the grotesque, as some of the articles did in the effort to make them as expensive as possible, these garments were beautiful as a dream of fairyland. I looked at them and later at my desk read the morning paper. On the front page was an item telling how a dressmaker unexpectedly discharged from the employ of one of our many millioned families had killed herself by swallowing paris green. Next I read an item in which the director of charities in a great American city reported that the average wage of working women in that city was $1 below the actual cost of living. My sisters, put all these statements together and read the awful tragedy now enacting day by day throughout our so called civilization. Over the gorgeous garments worn by millionaire women hovers many a time the curse of the starving, ruined woman who worked on it. Brother, sister, think on these things. Know this: In the true Christ civilization the laborer will live as comfortably as the capitalist. The surplus wealth created by both will go to the giving of pleasure and improvement to both. This must happen. Let us hope the revolution that brings it will come quietly and peaceably.

Some women's minds are like their rooms, stuffed with cheap ornamentation.

The chief objection to a young wife having an old husband is that he will never let her call her soul her own. He usually will not let her out of his sight long enough to have any conversation with her old chums. He must hear it all. If she expresses an opinion counter to his prejudices, he makes such a row that she must take refuge in silence for fear of "exciting" him.

* *

Very old people, men or women, have no opinions. They have only set prejudices which they themselves mistake for opinions.

* *

This is the way of men and women in steam and furnace heated offices in winter: The women turn on the heat and open the windows to let in air; the men shut off the heat and close the windows.

"Fussers are generally short lived," says Eleanor Kirk.

To see a great big man coddle himself like an old male granny is a pitiable spectacle.

* *

The champion woman shot of New Jersey is Lillian Brewer, eleven years old. She has inherited the nerve and unerring eye of her father, Captain John Brewer, who was a famous wing shot. Lillian herself has sometimes broken eight out of ten glass target balls. In hunting she never shoots at any game when it is standing still, but gives it a chance for its life.

* *

Women are tender hearted, oh, yes, but did you ever see one of the "burs" some ladies use on their carriage horses to make the animals champ their bits and toss their heads? How would you like to wear next your skin a small pad made of horsehair cloth with the bristle ends sticking out all over it? You would toss your head, would you not? Well, carriage horses are often forced to wear that kind of pad, only worse, next the tender skin around their mouths just inside the guiding rein. The bur for a horse is made of very stiff bristles, not seldom even of screws or nails. This cruelty is so atrocious that one is sorry for the people who permit it—sorry on account of the sure punishment that will overtake them because of it. In this universe there is exact justice, and those who dodge it are only heaping it up to break in a bolt upon them in future.

On the east side of New York city, commonly considered the slum quarter, there are 600 clubs of working girls, and the object of every one of them is something useful and improving. How is that for women's clubs? But these east side clubs do not belong to the federation.

A Brooklyn parson preached a sermon against the awful evil of the wearing of openwork hose by the ladies of his congregation. From that day the indignant women began to boycott him, quietly, but effectually. His congregation fell off to nothing, and he was forced to resign. The women decided that the real evil was in the minister's mind, not in the stockings.

character study. He was a big, handsome man with a florid complexion, an aggressive black mustache, shrewd blue eyes and a profusion of brown hair which fell to his coat collar. There was no timidity in his attitude, yet there was some indescribable weakness in his general bearing. He was well-dressed, and had a roll of paper under his arm which he carefully guarded. Hestor looked at him in blank amazement. Mr. Pence groaned.

"Who in the devil are you?" demanded Hestor, as Capt. Waters released the arm of the new arrival.

"L. Sylvester Vincent, of Chicago," was the reply.

"What in thunder are you doing on this boat? Where did you find him, Capt. Waters?"

"He was in the aft passage way; he had just come out of one of the staterooms."

"This is Mr. Hestor, is it not?" said Mr. Vincent, who had entirely recovered his self-possession; if in fact he had ever lost it. "I recognize you from your picture. It was like this: I have been trying for ten days to see Mr. Carmody," and Mr. Vincent bowed pleasantly to Mr. Carmody, who glared back at him. "Mr. Carmody is a very busy man, and my time is of some value also. Well, I followed him down to the boat, and I guessed that he was going to take a little pleasure trip. I figured that this would be a good time to get a chance to talk to him, so I came on board. Anticipating that there might be some objections to my—er—to my being a guest, and not desiring to intrude on your company at dinner, I remained down stairs until you gentlemen had finished your repast." Mr. L. Sylvester Vincent looked hungrily at the yet loaded table and concluded: "I was just starting to come upstairs and introduce myself to Mr. Carmody when your genial captain—Capt. Waters, I believe—kindly consented to escort me here."

"You are all right," said Hestor, as he burst into a roar of laughter. "I don't know who you are, or what you do, but if I have any influence you can get a job as reporter on the New York Record any time you ask for it. Capt. Waters, how did our old college chum, L. Sylvester Vincent, get on board the 'Shark?'"

Capt. Waters looked rather crestfallen, and glared at Mr. Vincent with an expression which boded that gentleman no good.

"He came along about a minute after you and those two gentlemen did," said Capt. Waters, pointing to Mr. Rockwell and Mr. Carmody. "I supposed he was one of your party. He handed me his card and came aboard. I found him roaming around below and knew that something was wrong. So I brought him up here."

"Glad to see you aboard the yacht," said Hestor. "You will have plenty of time to talk matters over with Mr. Carmody."

"When do you go back?" asked Mr. Vincent, as a puzzled expression came into his face.

"We are not going back," Hestor replied. "We are going to the South Sea islands."

CHAPTER XII.

AT SEA.

The interview in Hestor's cabin with Mr. Sidney Hammond was brief and spirited. Hammond did not wait for any explanatins, but proceeded to denounce Hestor in scathing terms. That gentleman smiled pleasantly and waited for him to conclude.

"This is the act of a mad man or a villain!" said Hammond as he paced angrily up and down the narrow room. Hestor had seated himself at a writing desk and leisurely rolled a cigarette. "You do not look like a crazy man, but you act like one. You have not been drinking to excess, and cannot plead intoxication as an excuse for this outrage. Of all the unaccountable things! What do you mean to do? What is your object in detaining these men whom you have induced to become your guests? Have you stopped to think of the agony this will cause their relatives? Have you considered how my daughter will feel when I fail to [illegible]"

A frown o Hestor, his eyes flashing anger. His voice trembled with rage and he restrained himself by an effort from a physical attack on Hestor.

"Don't get so excited, Sidney," said Hestor, as he lit a cigarette. "There is nothing so serious about this as you imagine. Olive thinks you have gone to Europe with me. I sent her a telegram and signed your name to it. I made a copy of the message and here it is."

Hestor handed a slip of paper to Hammond, who read as follows:

Miss Olive Hammond:

It is necessary for me to accompany Mr. Hestor on a short business trip to Europe. We sail early this evening, and I shall be too busy to come home to bid you good-by. Pack my trunk and valise and send them to Mr. Hestor's office. Do not come down town, as I do not know where I shall be in the meantime. Put my scrap books and some writing paper in the trunk, as I wish to work on my essays on the trip across and back. Also enclose the matter I have already written. I shall not be gone long. Regret that I cannot see you before I leave, but know that you are used to these sudden journeys and will forgive me.

SIDNEY HAMMOND.

"That shows that while a forger you are not entirely lost to decency," said Hammond, with evident relief, but no signs of relenting. "But how about these other men? They have dear ones. They have feelings. Think of what they must suffer and how much grief you will cause if you persist in your course. You must put this boat back to New York at once."

"It cannot be done, Sidney," said Hestor. "I have this all planned out. To-morrow these men can communicate with their people. I will take care of that." Hestor's manner changed. The smile died on his lips and his face grew dark. "You are my friend," he said in a tone singularly harsh and strident. "You are my friend, but I shall not permit you to interfere in the least with my plans. This is my yacht, and we are on the high seas. The man who refuses to obey orders on this boat will be put in irons. I should not like to see you in the booby hatch, Sidney," and Hestor laughed in an unpleasant way.

"There will be some one hurt before I go in irons," Hammond said fiercely. "After what you have done I should not be surprised, however, at any attempted outrage. Do you care to give any sane reason for this affair?"

"I gave you the reasons at the dinner table," said Hestor, whose fit of anger had passed. "These men now on this yacht have managed to secure control of about everything in the country worth having. They run Wall Street, the banks, the trusts, the railroads, and dictate to the government. I want to find out what would happen if they should die simultaneously. Such a thing might happen, don't you know? Well, what would be the result? No one knows. I am going to find out. They will be cut off from communication except for one day. During that time they may be dead for all any one knows. Then I will see that word is received from them, saying that they are safe. That will relieve the strain on their families and friends. We then will see how the country gets along without them for awhile. Great scheme, don't you think?"

Hammond continued to pace the floor but said nothing. Hestor seemed intensely in earnest.

"Does Mr. Van Horne, the editor of The Record, know anything about this?" asked Sidney.

"Of course he does not," said Hestor promptly. "I have not seen Bob in six months. This is my personal affair. Just now I am working for myself. I never thought of this until a week ago, and it came to me like an inspiration. Of course I could confide my plans to no one, but I felt sure you would appreciate the scheme and give it your co-operation. You will, when you get over your foolish anger. I must rejoin our friends. They will think I am neglecting them."

There being nothing for Sidney to say he remained quiet and returned to the dining room in time to meet Mr. L. Sylvester Vincent, as has been related.

A KANSAS LYNCHING

Negro Murderer Given Short Shrift by Mob.

DISGRACEFUL SCENES AT HANGING.

Victim of Citizens' Vengeance Had Shot and Killed a Policeman Who Tried to Preserve Order at a Dance.

PITTSBURG, Kan., Dec. 26.—Montgomery Godley, a colored man, has been taken from the jail here and lynched by a mob because early in the morning he had shot and killed Milton Hinkle, a policeman, while the officer was trying to protect himself against a crowd of unruly negroes.

At the first effort to lynch the negro the rope broke. Some one in the crowd then cut Godley's throat, severing the jugular vein. After this he was hanged a second time.

The shooting of Policeman Hinkle occurred at a dance which was attended by a large number of negro men and women from neighboring mining camps. Montgomery Godley and his brother were drinking and had become very disorderly, when Policeman Hinkle interfered.

The negroes became insulting, and when Hinkle drew his club to defend himself Montgomery Godley slipped behind the policeman, grabbed the officer's pistol and shot Hinkle behind the ear. The wounded policeman was carried to the city hall, where he died several hours later.

The news of the shooting spread rapidly, and a mob gathered in front of the jail. The doors were battered in, and the mob seized Montgomery Godley, who, with his brother, had been arrested soon after the shooting. They took the slayer to a telephone pole three blocks away and there hanged him. At first the negro was defiant, but just before he was hanged he begged hard for his life.

Wanted In Frisco Also.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26.—William B. Ewing, who was arrested in Chicago on a charge of fraudulently using the United States mails, has been wanted by the postal authorities of this city for the last seventeen months. He left here on July 4, 1901, after conducting for some time the "Standard Oil Promotion and Investment company." After he disappeared his clerks stayed for two or three days, ignorant of their employer's whereabouts and trying to appease his creditors. As he failed to appear the remaining clerks quit work, and the office, with its furniture, was attached. The postal authorities took up the case and set their detectives at work. The fugitive was traced all over the country and to the United States of Colombia, from which he could not be extradited. Recently he returned to the United States, and his arrest in Chicago promptly followed.

Lumber Ship Given Up as Lost.

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 26.—The steamer A. L. Hopkins, lumber laden and bound for Toledo from Amherstburg, Ont., has been given up for lost by local vesselmen as well as by the W. W. Smith company, for which she carried a large consignment of lumber. The Hopkins left Amherstburg on Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock and ordinarily would have arrived here three hours later. Word from the Monroe Piers lighthouse, twenty-two miles from here in the direction of Amherstburg, reports having seen the vessel on Tuesday afternoon. The Hopkins was struggling against a terrific gale and was battling the ice. Finally she turned back in the direction whence she had come and has not been heard of since at any port along Lake Erie.

He was first connected with railroads in Chicago, where he was chief clerk in the office of the Chicago and Eastern railroad. Mr. Leeming went to New York, where he was chief clerk in the freight department of the Erie. He was made assistant general freight agent and was promoted to the position of general freight agent.

The Prudential Girl of 1903.

The issue of a new calendar by The Prudential Insurance Company of America is always an event of importance in the annals of tasteful advertising. The handsome Prudential Girl of 1902 was eagerly sought. She now has a rival, in the Prudential Girl of 1903, who promises to eclipse her in popularity. The new calendar presents the picture of a bewitching brunette whose beauty is effectively set off by a background of light blue tint and a gold border trimmed with chrysanthemums of many colors. The rest of the card is filled out with a green-matted effect. The whole makes a very bright and attractive picture.

The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Finley Lewis, and the Misses Helen Shively and Grace Lewis as flower girls. The flower girls were prettily gowned in white and blue. The Lohengrin wedding march was played by Miss Estella Sofield, as the bridal party entered the room. A large number of friends and relatives were present and witnessed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in castor frunello cloth, trimmed with satin and Irish point lace.

After the ceremony the young people left for Pottstown, Pa., where they will spend their honeymoon. A large number of pretty and appropriate presents showed the esteem in which they are held.

Common Council Requests Trolley Company to Return to Old Schedule.

MR. CORIELL RESIGNED

Couldn't Legally be Councilmen and Sheriff at Same Time—Councilman R. I. Tolles Elected President of the Council for Remainder of the Year.

Because it was not legal for B. Frank Coriell to hold the office of sheriff and be a member of the Common Council, it was necessary for the Council to elect a new president at its adjourned meeting held last evening. Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, at Mr. Coriell's request, gave an opinion that by reason of the fact that he is now sheriff he ceases to be a Councilman. Mr. Coriell communicated this fact to the Council and expressed his sincere appreciation for past favors. As a matter of courtesy to the retiring president, Mr. Buckle moved to accept the resignation, and at the same time he also expressed the sentiment of the Council when he moved that a vote of thanks be extended to Mr. Coriell for his faithful and untiring service.

Mr. Mellick, as chairman of the finance committee, called the meeting to order and after the reading of the communication from Mr. Coriell, entertained a motion whereby Mr. Tolles was elected president of the Council for the rest of this year. Mr. Wean was made clerk pro tem for last evening's session. Mr. Coriell and Mr. vanHerwerden were the only ones absent.

In the regular order of business, the bonds of Constables John Gjettlesen and Amos Moffett were received and they took the usual course of procedure. The resignation of Patrolman Charles B. Gamo was received and accepted.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company notified the Council that three new hydrants have been located as ordered. Two of these are on West Front street near Rock avenue, and the other is on Moffett avenue. A communication was received from the State Highway Association, of New Jersey, with offices at Paterson, setting forth the objects of the association, that of organizing all of the street commissioners of the State for the improvement of roads, and asking Plainfield to join the association. The letter was placed on the table.

R. B. Reilly, of New York, in a communication asked the Council to cancel a tax of fifteen shares of bank stock held by him, claiming that the assessment was in error. The request was granted. A petition from H. L. Moody, asking that a duplicate assessment on property owned by him and located on Leland avenue, near Cushing road, was laid on the table for next year's Council.

A similar petition was received from G. Peabody Wetmore, of New York, who claimed that there was an error in the assessment on property owned by him on St. Mary's avenue, the wrong property being assessed. The property was sold under the Martin Act, and he requested a re-adjustment and the tax which he paid applied to his property. The purchaser was Edward L. Mack, and the latter signified his willingness to surrender his certificate of sale, provided the city return to him the amount, $36.94, which he had paid the city. On Mr. Mellick's motion the requests were granted to take effect upon the surrender of the certificate of the sale.

Another communication was received from D. S. Alpaugh, of Sycamore avenue, regarding the widening of that avenue. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Street Commissioner Gavett reported that during the past six months there were forty sewer permits granted. In all eighty were granted during the year. Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported the granting of ten building permits. The annual report of City Judge Wm. N. Runyon showed that in all 603 cases were brought before him. Of this number 160 were fined, on thirty-four sentence was suspended and twenty-one committed. There was received by him $640.85 and $117.89 expended. The sum of $522.96 was turned over to the city treasurer.

At this time Mr. Mellick offered a

Elizabeth Police Think John McTammany Was Killed and His Body Thrown in the Water.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Dec. 27 — Through the finding of a body in the Elizabeth river, last night, the local police think they have a murder mystery to unravel. The remains are those of John McTammany, 24 years old, of Elizabeth avenue.

Yesterday the police found a double sack coat, such as McTammany wore, on the banks of the stream, cut and slashed and covered with blood stains. It is the opinion that McTammany was stabbed to death in a fight and his body thrown in the water.

SANTA WAS A DAY LATE

BUT HE GAVE PERSEVERANCE LODGE A GOOD TIME LAST NIGHT.

Gifts for All the Members and Each One Had a Rhyme Accompanying It.

Arriving a day late did not detract the slightest from interest in Santa Claus' visit to Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., last evening. The genial old fellow, dressed in his best plush robes and dragging a huge stocking filled with good things, was ushered into Castle Hall and distributed gifts with a lavish hand.

The presents, which were small toys, were accompanied by verses intended to interpret the "roasts" on the recipients. Much amusement was caused by the gift-making, as the doggerel was read first and the packages had to be opened in view of the gathering. Councilman Robert L. Lee received a red lantern, typifying his red light; City Judge Runyon, a huge cake, for his successful management of the lodge; Dr. Currie, a curry comb; Dr. Luckey, a pair of pincers; and many others of a like nature. Candy and fruit was also given out in large quantities.

Following the presentations the members enjoyed a social hour while refreshments and cigars were passed. The decorations for the occasion were unusually elaborate and were greatly admired.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Samuel Robinson, chairman; Wm. N. Runyon, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and Thomas Muir.

CHRISTMAS DANCE.

Park Club Affair Last Evening Was a Great Success and Was Well Attended.

The annual Christmas dance at the Park Club last evening was one of the most pleasant of the season. There was a large number of the members and their friends present, both from this city and out of town. The clubhouse was decorated very attractively under the direction of Mrs. Samuel Townsend, greens being used chiefly.

While the affair was given under the direction of the entertainment committee, the members were assisted in receiving by Mrs. F. H. Ball, Mrs. Francis DeL. Hyde, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. George A. Chapman. The entertainment committee consists of Mr. and Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Saunders and C. E. Murray.

During the evening only light refreshments were served. A more elaborate menu was intended but failed owing to the resignation of the steward.

PIG CAUSED IT.

Going to a Wedding the Horse Ran Away and Battered Up Lewis D. Walker.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, Dec. 27—Lewis D. Walker, a prominent citizen of this place, was a participant in a serious accident Wednesday evening which will confine him to his home for some time.

With Mrs. Walker he was on his way to a wedding near New Brunswick. On the road near Stelton they met a man leading a huge pig. His horse became frightened and bolted, throwing out Mr. and Mrs. Walker and smashing the buggy to bits. Mrs. Walker was unhurt but Mr. Walker was severely bruised and cut besides breaking the first two fingers on each hand.

Help was called and the injured man was taken home where he is at present confined to his bed. The horse ran some distance and was caught in the woods on Dr. Nelson's farm.

A Christmas Party.

One of the most novel Christmas events in this city on Christmas day was a family gathering at the home of Mrs. A. J. Winkler, on Park place. A large Christmas tree was arranged in one corner of the room and while all sat about the tree Santa Claus appeared through an artificial chimney at the opposite end of the room and distributed gifts to the members of the family.

Can't Dispose of It.

Wm. B. Ayers, of Dunellen, is wondering what to do with a mammoth mince pie which an unknown donor gave him Christmas Day. It is two and one-half feet in length, twenty inches wide and two inches thick. He is thinking of inviting in some club to make away with it.

ANNUAL OFFERING FOR THE LOCAL HOSPITAL

"Hospital Sunday" Will be Observed by Churches of City and Borough Sunday.

THE YEARLY OFFERING

BUT NEEDS OF MUHLENBERG ARE PARTICULARLY GREAT THIS YEAR.

Finance Committee Reviews the Great Work Done by That Institution and How it Must Depend on Public for Support.

The finance committee of Muhlenberg Hospital desires to remind the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield that next Sunday, December 28, is "Hospital Sunday" and that on that day a number of our city churches will make their usual yearly offering towards the support of Muhlenberg Hospital. The committee is glad to announce that several churches in the city and borough which have not heretofore taken on Hospital Sunday a collection for Muhlenberg, will next Sunday give their congregations an opportunity of contributing towards this charity.

The work of Muhlenberg steadily increases; last year the number of indoor patients was 403 against 376 the previous year and 238 five years ago; the number of dispensary visits was 2, 147 against 1,937 the previous year and 912 five years ago; and the number of operations (including dispensary) and 323 against 255 the previous year, and 98 five years ago. Of the 403 indoor patients last year 138 (over one third) were treated gratuitously, and of the remaining 265, 176 were ward patients who paid at the rate of $5 a week (or less) against the average cost per patient per week of $13 (exclusive of donations other than cash); in other words, the hospital paid out last year for running expenses (including repairs) over $13,000 in cash, and received from pay patientg, service of nurses and ambulance service, less than $5,000; the charitable work done by Muhlenberg is greater than many of our citizens realize.

With the number of patients increasing every year, the service rendered better and the cost of supplies greater, the running expenses of the Hospital have increased from year to year much more rapidly than has its income. The Hospital therefore needs a more generous support from the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield, and the finance committee asks that the Hospital Sunday collections this year be very materially increased. Last year the amount contributed by the churches of the city and borough was $333.03 and in 1900 the amount was $363. It would be very gratifying to the management were the contributions increased to such an extent as to compare favorably with the church collections received by the Montclair Hospital which, in 1900 amounted to $878 and last year to over $1,000. The Board of Governors would also welcome the adoption by some of our larger churches of the method whereby the Orange Memorial Hospital is assisted in its work by four of the churches of Orange and West Orange, namely, the annual endowment of a bed at a cost of $200 yearly.

Muhlenberg Hospital is not sectarian, but receives all applicants irrespective of nationality or religious belief and no person has ever been refused admission because of inability to pay for treatment. As it serves all the people, therefore, it must look to all the people for its support.

SANTA CLAUS WAS IN TOWN

Appeared at Christmas Festivities of Several of the Local Sunday-Schools.

HE IS COMING AGAIN

Professional Entertainers, Little Plays, With Recitations and Carols Formed the Entertainments at the Different Festivals—Those Who Took Part.

Santa Claus was in town last night. He visited a number of the local Sunday-schools and distributed gifts and candy among the young folks. While he had already made a couple of flying trips, this was his first long visit. He says Plainfield looks better than ever.

FIRST BAPTIST P. D.

The primary department of the First Baptist church Sunday-school enjoyed its annual Christmas festivities in the lecture room of the church, yesterday afternoon, when a programme of much interest was presented under the direction of the superintendent, Mrs. J. A. Powlison. There was a Christmas tree and this was attractively decorated.

The programme opened with a prayer, the reading of the love verses of Scripture in concert and a song by the class. Then the address of welcome was given by Elmer French, after which the class repeated the books of the Bible. A happy feature was a reading "The First Christmas Night," by Miss Belle Milne. Following a song by the class, Lester Chandler read a letter from Santa Claus.

A birthday service was then held for the little tots whose birthdays came this week. Those who celebrated were Mary Buchanan, Mabel Douglass and Loraine Dunn. Each one gave as many pennies as she was years old. After this service, Jed. Smalley gave a recitation entitled "Santa Claus' Visit." Other recitations included "The Night After Christmas," by Lawrence French, "Coming of the New Year," by Miss Marie Moffett. Following another recitation by Miss Evelyn Hillman and a song by the class, the gifts were distributed. The girls received doll's beds, the boys were presented with books, while those on the cradle roll received scrap books.

Through the year the members of the department have contributed their birthday money and this amounted to $7.26. This sum was presented to the Children's Home to provide comfortable things for the children. They will be placed on the Christmas tree which is to be lighted Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Powlison, the superintendent, was assisted by the following teachers and others at the celebration: Mrs. Dudley S. Miller, Miss Molly White, Mrs. Hubert N. Holder, Mrs. R. W. Barnes, Miss Elsie Brokaw, Miss Florence Serrell, Mrs. Daniel Clawson, Mrs. Hannah Flanders, Miss Lewis, Mrs. Elvaine VanName, Miss Mary Compton, Miss Belle Milne and Miss Elizabeth Wilson.

GRACE EPISCOPAL.

Grace P. E. church celebrated Christmas with a festival in the parish house last evening. Previous to the presentation of Christmas gifts a short service was held in the church when the rector, Rev. E. V. Stevenson, made a short address to the children. In the audience the rector spied Rev. F. H. ARTICLE NO. 13.

GOVERNING PLUMBING, DRAINAGE AND VENTILATION.

Section 1. Every person engaged in the business or doing work as a master or foreman plumber in the City of Plainfield shall, before doing any plumbing work whatever within the corporate limits of said City of Plainfield, appear in person at the office of the Board of Health and register his name and place of business upon blank forms to be furnished by said Board, and in case of removal from any such registered address, to make change in said register accordingly. Every person so registered as a master or foreman plumber shall make and execute unto the City of Plainfield a bond in the sum of two hundred dollars ($200) with sufficient security to be approved by said Board of Health and renewed annually, conditioned upon the proper and faithful performance, in accordance with the ordinances, rules and regulations of said Board of Health, by said plumber of all the plumbing work, both inside and outside buildings done by him within the corporate limits of the said City of Plainfield, and no person shall engage in business or do work as a master or foreman plumber within the corporate limits of said city until such bond shall be filed with and approved by said Board of Health.

Sec. 2. Before any portion of the plumbing and drainage system of any building shall be constructed or any existing system altered or added to, or any change made of the fixtures, there shall be filed in the office of the Board of Health a plan thereof signed by the plumber, showing the said plumbing and drainage system entire from its connection with the sewer or cesspool throughout the entire building, together with the location of all fixtures, traps, ventilating pipes, etc. No portion of the work shall be executed until the plans have been approved by a representative of the Board of Health, and the name of the plumber who is to do the work has been affixed to the said plans.

Sec. 3. Fees.—The following fees shall be paid to said Board of Health to defray the expenses of inspecting and filing the plans and superintending of the work:

a. When plumbing work shall consist only of soil pipe and one or more sinks the fee shall be one dollar.

b. For soil pipe, one or more sinks and water closet, the fee shall be two dollars.

c. The same with further fixtures, the fee shall be three dollars.

Plans are to be filed and fees paid whether connected to cesspool or sewer.

Sec. 4. The Board of Health shall be notified promptly by the plumber when the plumbing and draining work of any building or any portion thereof, is completed and ready for inspection and testing. All inspections and testings shall be made during business hours as soon as possible after such notification. Any such system put in and covered before inspection by a representative of the Board of Health must be uncovered for inspection.

Sec. 5. Water Test.—The water test must be used for testing plumbing work in the presence of a representative of this Board of Health. Said test shall include all soil, vent, and main waste pipes and ferrule joints. All defective work must be made tight and all openings impervious to gases. Defective pipes must be removed and replaced by sound pipe.

Sec. 6. Final Test.—When the work is entirely completed this Board of Health must be notified and a final test shall be made immediately by the plumber in charge of the work with smoke or in any other manner which this Board may deem necessary. Until said work is approved by said Board, the plumber in charge of the work shall be held responsible for its proper condition.

Sec. 7. Every new plumbing system and every old system altered or extended must be tested by the plumber in the presence of a representative of the Board of Health.

Sec. 8. Before laying the drain from the building to the sewer or cesspool, and after the trench is graded, the bottom of the trench must be carefully rammed to avoid settling of the drain. After the pipe is laid, as the trench is filled, the earth must be tightly rammed as near as possible to its original compactness. Tunneling is prohibited. When the ground is made or filled in, the drain extending from the sewer or cesspool to the foundation wall must be extra heavy cast iron pipe of not less than four inches diameter, such pipe must be laid with the joints properly caulked with lead.

Sec. 9. Where the soil consists of a natural bed of loam, sand, or rock, the drain may be hard, salt-glazed and cylindrical earthenware pipe laid on a smooth bottom, free from all projections of rock. The space between each hub and the small end of the next section must be completely and uniformly filled with the best hydraulic cement. Care must be taken to prevent any cement passing into the drain to become an obstruction. No tempered up cement shall be used. A straight-edge must be used inside the pipe and the different sections must be laid in perfect line on the bottom and sides.

Sec. 10. Where a building is to be connected with a sewer or cesspool it must be connected by a drain not less than four inches in diameter, having a fall of not less than one-quarter of an inch to the foot. Old drains can be used for new work only when made to conform in all respects to the regulations governing new drains.

Sec. 11. Where there is no sewer in the street in which the building faces, and it is necessary to construct a private sewer to connect with a sewer on an adjacent street or avenue, it must be laid outside the curb under the roadway of the street and not through yards or under houses without a special permit from the Board of Health.

Sec. 12. All horizontal drains within and to a distance of not less than six feet from the wall of any building shall be of cast iron with caulked headed joints or wrought iron screwed joints, and shall be so located as to be readily accessible for inspection. The house drain within buildings shall be securely hung on the cellar wall or properly suspended from the cellar ceiling unless this is impracticable in which case it must be laid at a uniform grade upon a bottom of hydraulic concrete. The house drain shall have a fall of at least one-quarter inch to the foot, and more if possible. When a pipe passes under the wall of a building there shall be a relieving arch to prevent the pipe being broken by settling of the foundation. Said drains shall be provided with openings for cleaning purposes, the same to be closed by gas-tight brass cleanouts placed just inside the foundation wall.

Sec. 13. All cast or wrought iron pipes must be sound, free from sand holes, and when laid underground shall have a uniform thickness of at least one-quarter inch. When the building is over sixty feet high above the curb, pipes of the following weights shall be used:

2 inch	5½ pounds per lineal foot.
3 inch	9½ pounds per lineal foot.
4 inch	13 pounds per lineal foot.
5 inch	17 pounds per lineal foot.
6 inch	20 pounds per lineal foot.
7 inch	27 pounds per lineal foot.
8 inch	33½ pounds per lineal foot.
10 inch	45 pounds per lineal foot.
11 inch	54 pounds per lineal foot.

Sec. 14. All brass pipes for waste and vent pipes must be thoroughly annealed, seamless drawn brass tubing of standard iron pipe gauge. Connection with said brass pipe and between brass pipe and traps, or between brass pipe and iron pipe must not be made with slip joints or couplings. Threaded connections on brass pipe must be of the same size of pipe and be tapered. The following average thicknesses and weights per lineal foot will be required:

Diameter.	Thickness.	Weight per lineal foot.
1½ inches	.14 inches	2.84 pounds
2 inches	.15 inches	3.82 pounds
2½ inches	.20 inches	6.08 pounds
3 inches	.21 inches	7.82 pounds
3½ inches	.22 inches	9.54 pounds
4 inches	.23 inches	11.29 pounds

Brass ferrules must be best quality, bell-shaped, extra heavy cast brass, not less than four inches long and two and one-quarter inches, three and one-half inches, and four and one-half inches in diameter, and not less than the following weights:

Diameter.	Weight.
2½ inches	1 pound 9 ounces
3½ inches	1 pound 13 ounces
4½ inches	2 pounds 8 ounces

One and one-half inch ferrules are not permitted. Soldering nipples must be heavy cast brass, or of brass pipe, iron pipe size. When cast they must not be less than the following weight:

Diameter.	Weight.
1½ inches	0 pounds 3 ounces
2 inches	0 pounds 14 ounces
2½ inches	1 pound 6 ounces
3 inches	2 pounds 0 ounces
4 inches	3 pounds 8 ounces

Sec. 15. All waste, drain, soil, vent, and supply pipes shall be as direct and concentrated as possible, protected from frost and readily accessible for inspection and convenience in repairing. When unnecessarily placed within partitions or in recesses in walls, soil and waste pipes must never be covered except with woodwork to be fastened with screws (never with nails) so as to be readily removed.

Sec. 16. Every vertical soil and waste pipe must be of cast or wrought iron, and when it receives the discharge of fixtures on two or more floors, it must extend at least two feet above the highest part of the roof or coping, except in flat roof houses, in which case it shall extend at least six feet above the roof. Each length shall be securely fastened, and each line of soil or waste pipe shall rest at its base on a pier or foundation to prevent settling. All joints in cast iron drain, soil, or waste pipes must be so filled with oakum and lead and hand caulked as to make them gas-tight.

Sec. 17. Every plumbing system when connected with a sewer or cesspool shall be provided with a ventilating pipe which shall in every case extend at least four feet above the roof and the upper opening must be at least eight feet above or twenty feet from any window or door of the building or adjoining buildings and this ventilating pipe must be clear, and not less than four inches in diameter throughout its entire length from the cesspool or street sewer. The vertical soil or waste pipe may be used as a ventilating pipe, but if so used it must be clear and unobstructed by trap or otherwise.

Sec. 18. All changes in direction in cast or wrought iron pipes shall be made with curved pipes or bends, and all connections with Y branches and one-sixteenth or one-eighth bends, if possible.

Sec. 19. Soil, waste, and vent pipes in an extension must be extended above the roof of the main building, when otherwise, if not so extended they will open within twenty feet of the windows or doors of the main house or an adjoining house.

Sec. 20. The least diameter of soil pipe permitted is four inches. A vertical waste pipe into which a line of kitchen sinks discharges must be at least three inches in diameter, if receiving the waste of five or more sinks and shall have two inch branches.

Sec. 21. Where lead pipe is used to connect fixtures with vertical soil or waste pipes, or to connect traps with vertical vent pipes, it must not be lighter than:

1¼ inches	2½ pounds
1½ inches	3 pounds
2 inches	4 pounds
3 inches	5 pounds
4 inches	6 pounds

Four-inch lead bends must weigh eight pounds per lineal foot.

Sec. 22. All connections with lead or iron soil, waste, or vent pipes must be made with a brass ferrule of the same size as the lead pipe to connect with the hub of the branch of the iron pipe and caulked with lead. The lead pipe must be attached to the ferrule by a wiped or overcast joint.

Sec. 23. Every water closet, urinal, sink or slop sink, basin, wash tray, bath and every tub or set of tubs and hydrant waste pipe must be separately and effectively trapped. Urinal platforms if connected to drain pipes must also be properly trapped and a supply of water so arranged as to maintain the seal

THEATRICAL.

The second month of Mrs. Fiske's engagement in "Mary of Magdala" at the Manhattan Theatre, New York, has opened with no decrease in the size of the audiences that fill that theatre nightly. Mrs. Fiske is experiencing the most successful season, pecuniarily, of her career, just as she has won, artistically, her greatest triumph. Some one has described Mrs. Fiske's portrayal of the Magdalen as "an exquisite poem," and surely no simile could be more appropriate. The character, under Mrs. Fiske's masterly treatment, is developed with harmony, evenness and artistic finish that is as true and beautiful as a masterpiece of metre. Her superb work has admirable seconding from Tyrone Power, whose Judas is a striking example of character portraiture; from Henry Woodruff, who gives an attractive portrayal of a young Roman; from Ida Hamilton, who shows rare sympathy and talent in a small role; and from Rose Eytinge, M. J. Jordan, James Young, Scott Craven, Max Figman, Frank McCormack and others of the large cast.

Kindly take notice that Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is of great benefit to those sufferers from nasal catarrh who cannot inhale freely through the nose, but must treat themselves by spraying. Liquid Cream Balm differs in form, but not medicinally from the Cream Balm that has stood for years at the head of remedies for catarrh. It may be used in any nasal atomizer. The price, including a spraying tube, is 75 cts. Sold by druggists and mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

—Vincent Kuldoshes will soon commence the erection of another house on the upper end of Duer street, near Greenbrook road.

—A few reserved seats for the remaining four entertainments in the Y. M. C. A. Star Course may be obtained at Hodge's Pharmacy. For particulars see advertisement in another column.

Our Friends, the Druggists.

It is a pleasure to testify to the generally high character of druggists. But because of a few exceptions to the rule, it is necessary to caution the public to be on guard against imitations of Perry Davis' Painkiller. See that you get the right article, the soothing, helpful Painkiller that was used in your family before you were born. Don't be taken into buying a substitute. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. MRS. J. W. COOLBAUGH, Milo Center, N. Y.

HOSPITAL SUNDAY.

Tomorrow will be Hospital Sunday at most of the local churches. According to the custom which has been in vogue for a number of years, a collection will be taken that day and the receipts turned over to the management of the local hospital to assist in meeting its current expenses. Every year, the people of Plainfield have shown themselves more and more generous in their support of that very worthy institution. The present combination of circumstances is such as to make a special demand on the charitable impulses of the Plainfield people.

In another column will be found the appeal of the finance committee of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, which also appeared in these columns yesterday. The committee presents the present needs of the hospital, the reasons why its current expenses are greater this year than ever before and asks for a generous response when the collections are made tomorrow.

One of the things which Dr. Lorenz noticed about the United States was the grand support given to charitable institutions which care for or improve the condition of the sick, infirm and crippled ones of the community. It was such a great and good thing that the famous Austrian surgeon could not say enough in commendation of it. Plainfield has always been noted for responding with a ready hand to any righteous appeal for aid. That Muhlenberg Hospital is doing a wonderful work for humanity cannot be doubted. There is the best of care and treatment for all, rich or poor, irrespective of color, race or creed. While there are many patients who are able and do pay for their treatment there, others cannot. Aside from the revenue derived from such patients as are able to pay, the hospital is compelled to depend on the assistance of the Plainfield public. This appeal, therefore, should be heeded and the collections taken at the local churches should be particularly generous. It is a worthy cause and any gift for it will, one can feel assured, accomplish a world of good.

Somerset county has a murder mystery to solve. A man was knocked down and killed in the principal street of Bound Brook Christmas Eve. The snow storm of early Christmas morning covered the body of the murdered man from sight so that the discovery of the crime was delayed. There are all sorts of theories, of course, but from the present evidence it seems quite likely that robbery was the motive and that the blow, which proved fatal, may have been intended only to stun the victim. At any rate, the Somerset county authorities will have more trouble trying to run the murderer to earth.

It was a fine Christmas gift that has come to the city of Asbury Park. That city owes a great debt of gratitude to the man who founded that community and has now bestowed on it rights at a price immeasurably less than their actual worth. As there are thousands of Plainfielders who visit that resort every summer, naturally we are interested to see what is going to happen now.

The leading pie baker of Pittsburg was urged to advertise in the newspapers, relates the Philadelphia Record, but the suggestion struck him as absurd. Still he was induced to make a three-month' trial. The result was so remarkable that the pieman has become a persistent advertiser in all the newspapers.

PERSONAL.

John Hopewell and family, of Watchung avenue, spent Christmas with friends at Flemington.

Mrs. L. R. Ross and daughter, Miss Alice Ross, of East Seventh street, leave today for Chicago for a two weeks' visit.

Andrew J. Stiglitz, of East Front street, left yesterday for Utica, N. Y., to attend the funeral services of his sister-in-law.

John Goodwin and family, of the borough, were guests at a Christmas celebration at Luther VanDoren's home, Harlingen, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pierson, of New York, spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Cutter, of Sandford avenue. Mrs. Pierson will remain in Plainfield for a few days visiting friends.

Mrs. J. W. Schenck, a missionary at Nagona, Japan, is visiting her brother-in-law, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, on West Front street. Mrs. Schenck is taking a rest from her labors in foreign fields.

CLINE DISCHARGED.

But His Wife Says That Case Will Not be Allowed to Drop.

Edward Cline, of Plainfield avenue, was arrested Thursday evening on a serious charge preferred by his wife and Thomas Wallace. He was arraigned before Justice Huff, yesterday morning, but Wallace failed to appear. The matter was adjourned until last evening and when Wallace again kept away, the man was discharged. Mrs. Cline avers that she will not let the matter drop. She says Wallace was detained by illness.

Hutchinson for President.

Senator E. C. Hutchinson, of Mercer county, was selected to be president of the Senate at the caucus of the majority members, held in the Republican Club at Trenton last evening. The names of the other candidates, Senator Joseph Cross, of Union, and Senator Theodore Strong, of Middlesex, were not even presented. Robt. A. Waterbury, of Union county, will be the journal clerk of the next Senate.

Want to Pay Debts.

At the Mount Olive Baptist church, tomorrow, Pastor E. E. Jackson is looking forward to a grand rally day service. As it is the last Sabbath of the year a special effort will be made to liquidate all the floating indebtedness of the church.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

Quite an amusing accident occurred yesterday on a small pond near here called the "clay pit." Although the ice was very thin a number of the boys were skating and playing "tickeley bender." They had gone over one place a number of times and at last Prade Sears in attempting to "stunt" his companions broke through. The water at that place is only about two feet deep but Sears did not know it and attempted to swim. In the meantime a large crowd of boys gathered around. In attempting to get him out several boys were pulled in and it was a very wet crowd before all were out.

The death of George Orlemann, of Montclair, occurred on Wednesday at his home. The deceased formerly conducted Reusch's bakery at this place for a short time and is a relative of John Peters. He also resided for some time in Plainfield where he was very well known.

A jolly family reunion was held on Christmas Day at the home of David Campbell, of Dunellen avenue. Those present were all the sons and daughters of Mr. Campbell, together with their families.

Willson Fredericks, of Dunellen avenue, is at present in Philadelphia taking the place of a member of the company by which he is employed, who is ill.

Letters are advertised at the postoffice this week for Henry B. Platt, Mrs. J. J. Phalen, Mr. J. J. Phalen and Isaac Hoekenberry.

Postmaster Dealaman has recently shown much improvement and on Christmas Day was well enough to be taken down stairs.

The Christmas exercises of Holy Innocent's Sunday-school will be held in the church this evening.

Rev. and Mrs. Martine, formerly of this place, have been visiting relatives here for a few days.

The Afternoon Card Club will meet Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Janie Churchill.

Miss Elsie Peters returned home on Christmas Day after a visit of several days in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Apgar entertained out-of-town relatives over Christmas.

Mrs. Adam Dealaman is entertaining her cousin, Miss Teel, of Phillipsburg.

Mrs. Lewis Tinsman, who is ill with appendicitis, is not so well today.

John Conklin has almost recovered after an attack of typhoid fever.

The Willing Workers will hold their regular meeting today.

NEW MARKET.

The people of this place witnessed quite an exciting time on Christmas afternoon. W. B. Smith, who recently inherited considerable money, and J. P. Finch, of Samptown, both possess horses which they claim are very speedy. On that afternoon they met and began discussing the merits of their respective steeds. Each was confident that his nag was the best and the result was that stakes were posted with Landlord Dent, of Hotel Nelson, for a race. The course was to be to a certain hotel in Plainfield, owners to drive and any sort of a rig. The drivers were to alight and leave word at the hotel and then come by the same road to the starting place. All along the course the speed of the horses attracted much attention, as they were driving at break neck pace. Smith arrived here first and took the stakes which, it is said, were not large. Both horses were exhausted and covered with foam.

Regular services will be held in the First Baptist church tomorrow. The Christmas sermon was preached last Sunday.

The Christmas exercises of the Seventh-Day Baptist Sunday-school will be held this evening.

Mrs. Herbert Pierce spent this morning in Plainfield.

Skating is fairly good on the lake today.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Funeral services of the late Mrs. Ann Cleaver, who died at her home Christmas Day, will be held from the Baptist church, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made in the family plot in the cemetery.

The members of the Baptist Sunday-school are next on the list with their Christmas exercises, the annual event being booked for Tuesday evening of next week.

Albert Hollingsworth, who is one of the government surveyors stationed in the west, is spending the holidays with his father, Loftus Hollingsworth.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching, 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 7; evening preaching, 7:45.

The entertainment for the benefit of the baseball team will be held during the middle of January. A dance will probably follow the entertainment.

The Saturday evening prayer meeting at the Methodist church tonight will be in charge of Rev. Mr. Bayliss.

Ferdinand Meyers, of New York, has been visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meyers.

Richard Hart, of New York, is spending a few days with his sister, Miss Katie Hart, of Washington.

The snow and extreme cold weather of late has stopped business temporarily at the stone crusher.

Miss Louise Robison, of Brooklyn, is spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson.

Mrs. James Buckley spent Friday with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Terry, of Plainfield.

The Township Committee met and transacted routine business last night.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

An enjoyable surprise party was given to Mr. and Mrs. George W. Smith, on Christmas Day evening. Fifty guests were present from Plainfield, Dunellen, Oak Tree and the village. During the evening an informal programme of songs, recitations and games was carried out and afterward dancing was taken up. The affair broke up at a late hour.

CURE FOR SEASICKNESS.

S. D. Drake's Christmas Present to the World.

On Christmas Day Silas D. Drake, of Lincoln, gave to the world a cure for seasickness, a genuine benefit to those who fear travelling by water. He says that in crossing the Atlantic, the second day out he beagn to feel the first symptoms of seasicknes. He went to the outer rail of the vessel and leaned on it. When the ship began to dip on the side he was on, he tried to push the vessel down lower, and when it came up, he gently tried to lift it higher. This he continued for an hour and found he could walk the deck comfortably. During the rest of the voyage he had no further trouble, and other passengers had a similar experience. Mr. Drake intends to have these directions printed and posted on every important steamer.

To Receive Members.

At the Congregational church tomorrow morning, the pastor, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, will preach a sermon on the subject "Christ With the Old," an after Christmas and old year discourse. The Endeavor Society meeting will be held at the close of the Sunday-school and there will be a meeting of the official board in the afternoon to confer with those who wish to unite with the church.

Souvenier for Mayor.

Mayor N. B. Smalley is also in line for a souvenir.

Found a Pearl.

While opening oysters at his oyster depot Christmas morning William Debele found inside an oyster a valuable present in the shape of a large and beautiful pearl. The stone is of rich whiteness and those who say they know think that Mr. Debele has found a jewel of considerable value on account of its size.

Ready to Play.

The basket ball committee of the I. O. T. Club purchased paraphernalia, last evening, and the rooms will be fitted up for the first practice, Monday evening. The team is doing a little work in outside gymnasiums and with a few games in the club rooms will shortly be able to enter the regular League series.

Shot at Pigeons.

A pigeon shoot was held at the farm of John Bowers at Warrenville, Christmas Day, when a number of people from this city were present and enjoyed the sport. The scores were all high and after the shoot a dinner was served by Mr. Bowers to his guests.

AFTER STREET RAILWAY NOW

number of resolutions, the first of which was one which provides for the borrowing of $4,000 for one month to meet one note of $3,500 and a portion of another note of $1,500, due this month. The second resolution provides for the borrowing of $600 on account of sewer improvements, and the third resolution provides for the cancelling of certain duplicate tax assessments and the correction of the errors. A fourth resolution adjusted the tax matter in the case of Councilman Clarence L. Murphy and McKay, Davis & Company, whereby a certain property was sold under the Martin Act, and the Council agreed to correct the matter upon the delivery of the certificate of sale by Mr. Murphy. Still another resolution by Mr. Mellick provides for the auditing of the books of the city judge and city clerk, as well as those of the collector and treasurer at no increase in money above that stipulated in a recent resolution. This auditing is to cover a period of three years, beginning in 1900.

Mr. Lee offered two resolutions, which were adopted, the first of which provides for the transferring of $200 from the sewer maintenance appropriation to the street maintenance appropriation. The second called for an appropriation not to exceed $30 to provide new signs for East Seventh street, and to repair all damaged signs and replace those destroyed.

On motion of Mr. Daniel three new lights were ordered. One on Hobart avenue, a second one on Crescent avenue, between First place and East Seventh street and a third on Watchung avenue, between East Ninth and East Seventh streets. There were granted by request. Mr. Daniel reported on a petition of E. Elmer Gulick for a light on Moffett avenue and at his request it was laid over till next year.

Mr. Lee offered an important resolution, providing for the examination of the territory not now covered by sanitary sewers and where gravity will not permit the installation of such sewers. According to the resolution the street committee is to make the investigation and report the probable cost and the best plan for sewering that specific area not now provided for.

At the request of Mr. Mellick, who conducted the correspondence, Mr. Daniel read a letter from Vice President and General Manager W. G. Besler, of the New Jersey Central, in reference to a request from Mr. Mellick that additional lights be placed along the company's property on Fourth street near the driveways to the eastbound station. Mr. Besler stated that the company would install the necessary lights if the city would assist in the matter. Accordingly Mr. Daniel offered a resolution changing the location of some of the lights near the place mentioned and providing for an additional light. The request for the lights was made on behalf of persons who drive up to the station in the evening from Fourth street.

After Mr. Mellick moved that when Council adjourn it be to meet Wednesday evening, December 31, he made a brief report concerning the engaging of an expert to audit the city's books. He stated that after careful consideration, the finance committee had engaged Mr. Collins, an employe of the Hyde estate. He had been highly recommended by persons of finance and he believed that the work would be done satisfactorily. Mr. Collins has agreed to audit the books for three years for $900 and the committee considered this a very low price. He will thoroughly examine the books of the collector, treasurer, judge and clerk and make a detailed report to the Council.

Mr. Lee offered a resolution to the effect that the city clerk notify the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company that the Council woud like to have the company re-arrange its schedules of operating trolley cars in this city by returning to the old schedule, that is, of having all the cars arrive at the station on Watchung avenue every fifteen minutes.

This resolution resulted in a discussion of the subject and it was the general opinion that the present schedule is not satisfactory. A strong effort will be made to secure a change.

The last business transacted by the Council was a suggestion by Mr. Lee that the owners of the Smalley building be notified twenty-four hours in advance when a meeting is to be held. The reason for this was that the rooms last evening were so cold that it was uncomfortable. Everyone was obliged to keep his overcoat on. The lack of heat was due to the fact that the owners of the building claimed that they did not know of the proposed meeting.

President Roosevelt Declines to Undertake Task.

HAGUE COURT FOR VENEZUELA CASE

Question Discussed and Decided at a Cabinet Meeting—No Fear For the Monroe Doctrine Before the Tribunal.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The Venezuelan controversy will be referred for adjudication to The Hague tribunal.

Epitomized, this is the situation as it resolved itself as the result of a meeting of the cabinet. The meeting was not so long as the sessions of the cabinet usually are. All the members except Secretary Root were present. The Venezuelan question was the principal and practically the only topic of general concern under consideration.

Secretary Hay presented the net results of his cable correspondence with the governments at London, Berlin, Rome and Caracas. In accordance with the suggestion made several days ago by President Roosevelt through Secretary Hay, President Castro of Venezuela was reported to have agreed to submit the differences between his government and the European powers to the arbitration of the tribunal at The Hague. The European powers not only consented to submit the controversy to arbitration, but, while they had expressed a preference for arbitration to be conducted by President Roosevelt, they had assented to his suggestion that the matter be referred to The Hague.

The presentation of the case met the hearty approval of the members of the cabinet. No fear is expressed by the administration that the Monroe doctrine will be brought into the controversy in any manner that might result in an embarrassing situation for the United States. Secretary Hay is preparing a note to the powers in which the gratification of this government is expressed at the course agreed upon by them in settlement of the pending difficulties.

No intimation is given of the conditions which may have been imposed by the European powers or by President Castro precedent to the arbitration. It is known that Great Britain was willing to submit the subject to the arbitration of President Roosevelt practically without conditions, but the suggestion is made that one and perhaps two of the powers involved proposed some conditions which might have proved embarrassing to the president had he undertaken the responsibility of determining the question.

It is understood that some money must pass, but it also is known that the amount of cash to be required of Venezuela before arbitration is not nearly so large as has been supposed. It is not possible to learn either whether the allies insist upon apologies from Castro, and, while it is assumed that the blockade will be speedily raised, no arrangement to that end has yet been made. The energies of the negotiators are now being devoted to the framing of what will be known as a condition protocol, and it is hoped that, while this class of document does not undertake to closely define issues to be presented, it will still contain a provision for the removal of the blockade.

BRITISH NOT PLEASED.

Had Hoped That President Roosevelt Would Arbitrate.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—Except by the opponents of the government, who view it as a virtual defeat and as discrediting the ministry, the latest phase of the Venezuelan trouble has been welcomed very lukewarmly. Arbitration by President Roosevelt had been anticipated as so desirable an issue from a difficult business that his refusal, which is regarded as final, has caused keen disappointment. It is foreseen that even if satisfactory conditions to the submission of the disputes to The Hague court can be arranged this method will entail endless and wearisome details, with no assurance that at the end President Castro will still be in power or Venezuela in the mood to abide by the decision of The Hague. In short, that element of guarantee which would have accompanied President Roosevelt's acceptance of the office of arbitrator is now lacking. At the same time it is readily admitted that from the American point of view President Roosevelt has acted wisely in declining to act.

The foregoing represents the general drift of newspaper comment this morning. The only paper which really welcomes the decision to refer the Venezuelan matter to The Hague is the Radical Daily News, which sees a chance of making arbitration once more a reputable theory. Paying tribute to the coolness of President Roosevelt and the correct attitude of the United States during this "sorry business," the Daily News says, "The Venezuelan crisis has done much to enhance Mr. Roosevelt's reputation."

The Daily Mail, in a violent attack upon the government, says: "Thus ends perhaps the most inglorious episode in which Great Britain has engaged of recent years."

GUAM HEARD FROM.

Governor Schroeder Reports Rather Serious Conditions.

AN APPROPRIATION IS ASKED FOR

Work on Public Improvements Is Stopped—Only Forty-six Foreigners on the Island—Natives Still Refuse Medical Attendance

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The annual report of Commander Seaton Schroeder, governor of the island of Guam, which is dated July 16 and which has just reached the navy department, indicates a rather serious condition in the island finances owing to the failure of congress to appropriate the sum asked for last year. The receipts last year were in round numbers $66,000 and the expenditures $77,000, leaving a balance of $8,000, which, however, is a decrease of over $13,000 in the cash balance for the preceding year. This loss is due largely to the unexpected expenses incident to the establishment of the leper colony and the decrease of over $10,000 in import duties.

Commander Schroeder reports that it has been deemed prudent to stop all work of public improvement until further appropriations are made. The value of the exports and imports during the year have been respectively $35,549 and $35,165. The exports consisted almost entirely of Mexican dollars. Not a pound of copra has been exported, and neither cocoa nor coffee has been produced in sufficient quantities to supply the home market owing to the slow recovery from the effects of the hurricane of 1900. The governor suggests that it would be a great boon if the department of agriculture would establish an experimental station on the island.

The governor recommends that if a Philippine silver dollar of fixed value is to be coined under the laws of the United States it be made legal tender also in Guam in place of the present Mexican dollar. The census of the island, taken last autumn, shows the total population to be 9,676, of whom only 46 are foreigners, 14 being citizens of the United States. The latter does not include officers and men of the navy or other civil employees temporarily imported from the United States. Above the age of seven 45 per cent of the natives read and write Spanish. He says that the natives still continue to refuse to allow their sick to receive medical attention, but that conditions are improving, an excess of births over deaths being shown for each of the last two years.

The governor recommends an appropriation of about $43,000 for public improvements.

Bigger Salary For Mitchell.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 27.—President Mitchell is likely to receive an increase in his salary as head of the United Mine Workers. His present salary is $1,800 a year, and it is proposed by the miners to raise it to $3,000 a year. Secretary Wilson, it is thought, will also be remembered in a similar manner at the national convention of the miners, beginning here Jan. 19. This action is planned in recognition of the fact that through the activity of these two officials the men are almost sure of a general advance in their own wages during the coming year.

Earthquake Shocks Continue.

ASHKABAD, Russian Turkestan, Dec. 27.—The oscillations of the earth at Andijan continue. The people there are using railroad cars to live in. They are not leaving the town on account of their business interests. Committees have been appointed to prepare lists of the losses to life and property. In the Andijan district 15,000 houses were destroyed. Until the shocks cease guards will be kept on the railroad between Andijan and Fedohenks to watch for fissures along the line. The railroad station at Andijan threatens to collapse.

New York Firemen Killed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Three firemen were crushed to death and several others hurt beneath falling walls early Friday morning while fighting a fire which destroyed the big Arbuckle sugar refinery in Brooklyn and spread to adjoining buildings, resulting in a total damage of about $100,000. The fire was one of the most stubborn ever encountered by the department.

Natural Gas In Wyoming.

CHRISTMAS RECIPES.

Dishes Which Are Characteristic of the Greatest Holiday In the Year.

Plum Pudding.—One cup and a half of milk, one of molasses and of suet and four of flour; three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one of cloves, one of salt; raisins, currants and citron ad lib. Boil or steam two hours at least.

Cranberry Sauce.—Wash and scald the berries, and to every pound of fruit add three-quarters of a pound of granulated sugar and a half pint of water. Stew over a moderate fire. Cover but do not stir the fruit. After it comes to a boil, let it stew from five to seven minutes, and then remove from the fire. If the sauce is to be kept for some time, put it up in self sealing jars before it cools.

THE BLAZING PUDDING BALL.

Roast Goose.—Stuff the goose with a potato dressing made in the following manner: Six potatoes, boiled, pared and mashed fine and light; one tablespoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of pepper, one spoonful of sage, two tablespoonfuls of onion juice and two of butter. Truss and dredge well with salt, pepper and flour. Roast before the fire (if weighing eight pounds) one hour and a half; in the oven one hour and a quarter. Make gravy the same as for turkey. No butter is required for goose, it is so fat. Serve with apple sauce.

Old Fashioned Mincemeat.—One pound of lean beef (allow for four ounces loss in boiling), two pounds best Valencia raisins, two pounds currants, four pounds tart apples, two pounds beef kidney suet, two pounds moist sugar, one-half pound candied orange peel, one-half pound candied lemon peel, one-half pound citron, one brimming pint of California sherry, one-half pint of brandy, one teaspoonful each of powdered cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg and one teaspoonful of powdered sugar and one level teaspoonful of sifted salt.

THE CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS

Teach Them That Christ's Birthday Is Not Merely a Selfish Feast.

Is it to be all a question of gain? Is the child to grow up with the idea that Christmas means a well filled stocking, a well filled Christmas tree and often, alas, an overfilled small stomach? I am afraid that is the idea most children have of Christ's birthday. Tell the myth of Santa Claus to your children or not, just as you please, but try to instill into their young hearts a little of the true Christmas spirit. Urge them to think of the poor.

You hesitate to fill the child's mind with the sorrows of this world? Yes, but those sorrows will have to come before the little ones notice sooner or later, and why not begin right?

They have a very pretty custom in France. The children of a well to do family will have as protege a child of their own age, or perhaps several children, belonging to a deserving poor family. Long, long before winter sets in the more fortunate little ones begin to put away sums of money which they have earned by denying themselves goodies or for meritorious conduct. The week before Christmas the toy bank containing this is opened, and the lump sum, saved cent by cent at the cost of so much sacrifice, is devoted to buying oranges, nuts, candies and toys for the other children who otherwise would have no Christmas cheer. The elders on their part purchase warm clothes and necessaries. Then the children go to the home in the tenement, accompanied by their mother or nurse, and give their presents with their own hands.

In such a manner the true spirit of Christmastide is taught to them, and they grow up, like their fathers and mothers, generous, pitiful and tender toward the poor.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1902, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

Hestor soon found that his unwilling guests desired to retire to the apartments which had been reserved for them. They were shown to the staterooms, and a servant detailed to look after their comfort. They found that their host had made every effort to anticipate their needs. Slippers, smoking jackets, pajamas, and a liberal assortment of linen and undergarments were provided in profusion. Hestor bid them a pleasant good night, and returned to the upper deck where he found Mr. L. Sylvester Vincent. That gentleman's face yet bore a puzzled expression. He had vainly attempted to engage Mr. Hammond in conversation. He now approached Hestor.

"Where did you say you were going, Mr. Hestor?" he asked.

"South Sea islands."

"But I must go back to New York," explained Mr. Vincent. "Just as soon as I can see Mr. Carmody you must put me off. Which way are we going now?"

"About east."

"Will you ask Mr. Carmody if he will see me now?" asked Mr. Vincent in his most insinuating manner.

"Can't do it. He has retired for the night," replied Hestor. "You stay with us. This is the chance of your life. You are a promoter, are you not?. Yes? I thought so. Well, you are in luck. On this yacht are six of the richest men in the world. You can promote any old thing with them if you know your business. Make yourself at home. Keep right at them. Don't let them stand you off. You will have lots of time. I see you have your drawings and plans with you. You certainly are in luck. Bob, show Mr. Vincent to stateroom number eight."

"I guess I'm in for it, Mr. Hestor, but you will find me game," he said. "I wanted to go back, but I suppose I'll have to stick. Who are all of these gentlemen?"

"I supposed you knew them. I will introduce you to-morrow. There is John M. Rockwell, whom you know; Andrus Carmody, a big iron and steel man; Palmer J. Morton, a railroad magnate and financier; R. J. Kent, a big Wall street operator; Hiram Haven, a sugar manufacturer, and Simon Pence, who is also a financier—you want to keep your eye on Pence—he is likely to own your drawings if you don't watch him. Don't lend him any money. Then there is Sidney Hammond, a personal friend of mine," concluded Mr. Hestor.

Mr. Vincent's eyes bulged out as these names tripped from the tongue of Mr. Hestor. He was speechless.

"You don't wish to quit a good game like this, don't you know," said Hestor. "Bob, Mr. Vincent has not dined. Serve him the best there is on the boat. You will excuse me; I am going to confer with Capt. Waters."

In the meantime six famous men were in conclave in Mr. Morton's stateroom. With the exception of Mr. Pence, they had entirely regained their composure and proceeded to business as calmly as if they were within sight and sound of Broadway cable cars, instead of being captives on the high seas.

"Gentlemen," said Mr. Morton, as all were seated, "let us talk this matter over and see what can be done. Have you any plan to suggest, Mr. Kent?"

"Not a plan," responded Mr. Kent. "We are in for it. This fellow Hestor has his plans all laid, and I am going to watch him carry them out. There is nothing we can do."

"I do not agree with you," said Mr. Morton, leaning back in his chair. "It will be a remarkable thing if six men of our financial standing and alleged ability cannot find a way to circumvent the plans of a knave or a fool. This looks to me like a money question."

"Money?" exclaimed Mr. Kent. "Well, how much money have we?" He reached down into his clothes and produced 38 cents in change, and extracted from his fob pocket a $5 and a $2 bill. "I have $7.38 to contribute to this campaign fund."

"That has nothing to do with the matter, Kent," said Mr. Morton with some impatience. "The fact is well known that we can command an almost unlimited amount of money."

"You can't command it out on the Atlantic ocean," drawled Mr. Kent. "Let's see just how much we six plutocrats have in actual money. I have $7.38 and here it is."

He placed it on the table.

"How much have you got, Haven?"

Mr. Hiram Haven had been making an inventory and produced $31.62.

"You are affluent," observed Mr. Kent. "And you, Mr. Carmody?"

"I find on examination that I have $12 and some small change; $12.25, to be exact," said Mr. Carmody. Mr. Palmer J. Morton, finding that Mr. Kent was determined to pursue this cash investigation, announced that he had $428.85. Mr. Rockwell was less fortunate in his immediate possessions. He scheduled $78.15.

"Well, dig up, Brother Pence," said Mr. Kent. "What is your contribution to the war chest?"

"I have 11 cents and a Brooklyn bridge ticket," said Mr. Pence. "You see I never carry anything but carfare. It is so easy to lose money out of your pockets, and then you may be held up and robbed. I lost a silver dollar through a hole in my pocket once, and have never carried any large sums of money since."

"So I have heard," said Mr. Kent. "Well, pass over your 11 cents. You know the story of the widow's mite. Everything counts. Let's see; we have a total of $558.20. That is a good average for six millionaires. I seldom carry more than $100. Now, what can we do with it?"

He looked at Mr. Morton.

"I do not suppose we can do anything with that amount of money," responded the financier. "That was not my idea. Still it is a good plan to know just how much we have on hand. I look at the matter in this light: If this man Hestor is not absolutely crazy he has some definite object in view. It may take the form of a demand for a ransom. The question for us to decide is, first, shall we pay a ransom; and second, if so, how much? Personally I regard this in a purely business way. My time is worth money. We have been trapped and our time captured with our persons. I should be willing to make a reasonable compromise. Since I am the one most to blame for this affair, I shall insist on standing half of any fund which may be agreed upon."

"I have often thought of what I would do if kidnapped and held for ransom," said Mr. Carmody in a reflective way. "I have always thought that I would die rather than pay a dollar, but now that the fact confronts me I believe that the thoughts of those at home outweigh my scruples. I think I should be ready to contribute to any such fund."

"Who are you going to give it to?" asked Mr. Kent.

"Why, to Mr. Hestor," answered Mr. Morton.

"It will do no good," replied Mr. Kent, with the decision of a man who has unalterably made up his mind. "He is as crazy as a woman's watch. He will laugh at you. Mark my words; it will do no good to talk to him. Your only hope is in that Capt. Waters. You might try that $558.20 on him, but I don't believe he would touch it or a hundred times that amount. I tell you we are in for an ocean voyage with a land-up on some island."

Mr. Pence groaned and abstracted his eleven cents from the pile which yet remained on the table.

"I am not so sure about Hestor," said Mr. Morton. "He loves money as well as the best of them. Hestor acts crazy but it may be assumed. If we offered him say $2,000,000 he might regain his sense. What do you think about it, Mr. Rockwell?"

"I am not very hopeful," said Mr. Rockwell. "In the event we decide on such a course I would suggest a larger amount. I will cheerfully pledge $2,000,000 to a $5,000,000 fund."

"That is more than your share," said Mr. Morton. "I think your suggestion as to a larger amount is a wise one and I will pledge half of it."

WELCOMED TO NATAL

Secretary Chamberlain Arrives In Durban.

CONCILIATORY SPEECHES ARE MADE

"Britons," He Said, "Hold Out the Hand and Ask the Boers to Take It With No Thought of the Past."

DURBAN, Natal, Dec. 27.—Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and Mrs. Chamberlain, who left Portsmouth, England, Nov. 25 on board the armored cruiser Good Hope, landed here at 10:30 yesterday morning. They received a warm welcome from large crowds of people.

The long speeches made by Mr. Chamberlain in the course of the reception functions were notable for their strong tone of conciliation and as expressing his confidence in Lord Milner, British high commissioner in South Africa. Bearing in mind, seemingly, the rumors that his visit would lead to the displacement of Lord Milner, Mr. Chamberlain declared his belief that his visit would have the effect of strengthening Lord Milner's hand, who, he hoped, would be as great in conciliation as he had been in the maintenance of the rights of the empire.

Referring to the war, the colonial secretary said the Dutch and the British had fought in courageous rivalry. Between the two races, not kindred in origin or nature, such a struggle for supremacy had been inevitable. From that struggle two proud and kindred races would grow in mutual respect, appreciation and lasting friendship. "Victor and vanquished," said Mr. Chamberlain, "bravely played their parts. We scorned to glory in our triumph, and the enemy need fear no humiliations in their defeat. Let us see, as Britons worthy of the name, that nothing be done to revive the animosities of the past. We must give our new fellow subjects equality of position with ourselves. We ask, however, something in return. It is with them that the issue lies. We hold out our hand and ask them to take it without thought of the past, but frankly and in the spirit in which it is offered."

Mr. Chamberlain elaborated his theme with eloquence and was loudly cheered. He announced incidentally the acceptance of the Boer offer to fight in Somaliland.

Lynched the Wrong Man.

PITTSBURG, Kan., Dec. 27.—It is reported that Joe Godley, a brother of Montgomery Godley, who was lynched by a mob here Thursday, is wounded and in hiding at Weir City, Kan., and later investigation of the trouble between Officer Hinkle and the Godley brothers tends to show that Joe and not the man who was lynched fired the shot that killed the policeman. Two other brothers, Gus and Jess, are in jail at Girard, charged with being implicated in the murder, but Joe escaped. The mother of the Godley boys is said to have asked a physician here to treat Joe for a gunshot wound in the neck. She would not tell the whereabouts of her son, and the doctor refused to go with her.

Lieutenant Kistler Missing.

DENVER, Dec. 27.—Second Lieutenant William M. Kistler, Company M, Eighteenth United States infantry, has been missing from Fort Logan for nearly two weeks. The Denver police department has been asked to assist in a search for him. Lieutenant Kistler is twenty-three years old. He enlisted as a private in the Sixth cavalry six years ago at Philadelphia. Shortly thereafter he was sent to the Philippines and saw active service in and about Manila.

Illinois Authoress Dead.

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—Mrs. Mary Hartwell Catherwood, the well known authoress, is dead at her residence, 4852 Washington avenue, of cancer. Mrs. Catherwood was taken ill in October and steadily declined until she succumbed to the disease. The funeral service will be held Sunday, and interment will be at Hoopeston, Ill., her old home.

Austrian Royalty to Leave Europe.

VIENNA, Dec. 27.—It is reported here on good authority that Archduke Ferdinand and the crown princess of Saxony and their companions purpose going to the United States, there being little probability of their finding congenial homes in Europe.

(CONNTIUED FROM PAGE 1.)

Mercy and the stage effects were very fine. The hall was hung with festoons of Christmas greens and holly branches and palms adorned the sides of the stage. Eleven young people took part. They were: Masters J. Kyle, H. Hillman, J. Sullivan, F. McInerney, Miss M. Murray, Miss K. Harding, Miss A. Ohl, Miss E. Burns, Miss H. Hanrahan and Miss H. Callahan.

The first part of the programme was an operetta entitled "The Tables Turned," preceded by an overture from "Barcarolle" by Miss M. Smith, who was the pianist for the evening, accompanied by Miss Quinn, violinist.

In the second half of the evening's entertainment a double quartette rendered several selections, among them being "A Reminiscence of Old School Days." Those who took part in the musical programme were Miss A. Daley, Miss L. Flanagan, Miss E. Flanagan, Mrs. M. Owens, J. Carty, D. Mack, E. Flynn and L. Doyle.

The programme closed with "The Angels' Serenade" and a vocal solo by Miss A. Daley. The drawing of the curtain was followed by a tableau showing "A Glimpse of St. Mary's Christmas Tree." Mme. Menzelle Bartlette, the instructor in the physical culture, also assisted in the entertainment.

CRESCENT AVENUE.

As is the usual custom, the junior and senior departments of the Crescent Avenue church Sunday-school dispensed with the ordinary programme at their annual Christmas entertainment, yesterday afternoon and evening. The children assembled in the afternoon while the older pupils gathered in the evening.

This year the entertainment was far out of the ordinary, the artist being "Fredrik, the Great," a wonderful magician, who performed most astounding feats in palming. His tricks were marvelous.

At its conclusion refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Miss Helen Talmadge, Mrs. Dorsey Hyde, Miss Mabel Pearson and Mrs. Roger Murray. W. D. Murray was in charge in the afternoon.

CONGREGATIONAL.

A Christmas tree festival was held last evening at the Congregational church when the children of the primary department were presented with gifts and sang pretty Christmas carols. A large tree was located in one corner of the room about which were numerous presents. "Bethlehem Pictures" by the children were very interesting and "The Ruggles' Family" by nine pupils of the infant department was very cleverly presented under the direction of Miss Mary E. Robinson, who is the superintendent of that department.

A mahogany library table was presented to the pastor, Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, and the sexton of the church, George Dean, was remembered with a good sized purse of money, both from the congregation. A handsomely dressed doll was presented to each girl of the younger classes and each boy received a fine book.

The arrangements committee comprised Mrs. U. B. Updyke, Miss Mary E. Robinson, Miss May Whiton, Rev. Charles L. Goodrich and Walter Reynolds.

EAST THIRD ST. CHAPEL.

The Christmas festival at the East Third street chapel last evening attracted a large number of people. The chapel was prettily decorated with greens and flags. The exercises were under the direction of Superintendent L. W. Randolph.

The programme was opened with the singing of Christmas carols by the whole school and the infant department. William Conger was at the piano. There were recitations by George Martin, Walter Anson, Miss Mamie Miller, George Welsh, Miss Anna Wergler, Miss Lavinia Fullmer, Miss Lizzie Frank, Miss Emily Welsh and a Christmas song by John Kanisky and Adam Miller.

A pleasing dialogue was given by Miss Lizzie Frank, Miss Edith Mattox, Miss May Schultheis, Miss Sarah Harper, Miss Anna Flossbach and Robert Anson, followed with a song by Miss Lizzie Frank, Miss Edith Mattox, Miss Anna Saunders and Miss Lillie Gould.

A feature of the programme was the orchestral selections by Mrs. George Saums, violin; Miss Lillian A. Force, piano; and Elmer Wheeler, flute, of Trinity Reformed church. They rendered several numbers to the delight of all. Another part greatly enjoyed were the stereopticon pictures shown by George E. Hall.

Still another pleasant feature of the affair was the soprano solos by Miss Elsie Giles, of the First Baptist church. Clifford A. Braider took the part of Santa Claus and he distributed gifts of games and books to the boys and pocketbooks and dolls to the girls, while all the children received oranges and candy.

The superintendent, Mr. Randolph, was the recipient of a half-dozen silver fruit knives from the school. U. B. Crane made the presentation.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Many people do not eat pistasche ice cream because they imagine that they are eating dangerous chemicals which are used in coloring the cream to the greenish tint. There should be no hesitation in enjoying this flavor as the color is obtained from the juices crushed out of spinach in which there is no poisonous ingredients. The coloring matter in candies is of the same vegetable and is not diluted paris green as many suppose.

MOTHER VS. DAUGHTER.

Novel Suit Tried in Second District Court at Newark.

Before Judge Lintock in the second district court at Newark, yesterday, a novel suit was tried in which a former Plainfield woman and her daughter were the opposing parties.

Mary C. Brown, the daughter, brought suit on a writ of replevin against her mother, Mrs. Marion Haring, for the return of a gold breastpin and a crepe shawl, which she claimed were kept from her. The testimony produced showed the breastpin to have been a gift in 1895 and the shawl Mrs. Haring never had, although it was stored away at her home in a bureau where Mrs. Brown placed it. The court returned a verdict of no cause of action. Francis J. Blatz, of this city, represented Mrs. Haring.

GALES IN DENMARK.

Great Destruction to Buildings and Shipping.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 27.—The worst gale of many years visited Denmark Christmas night and the following morning and has done enormous damage to property and shipping. The telegraphic and railroad services have been interrupted and delayed. It is unsafe to walk the streets of Copenhagen owing to falling tiles, etc.

Some streets were closed to traffic to avert this danger. The hospital reports show that several persons were killed and many sustained injuries in the city. The pillars holding up the overhead trolley lines were blown down, and the street car service was stopped. Many houses have been unroofed, and some mills and factories have been partly destroyed.

The water in the sound rose suddenly nearly as high as it did in the great flood of 1872. Several ships dragged their anchors and collided or were sunk in the outer harbor. The ferry service between the Danish islands and Sweden has been forced to stop. The gale was accompanied by thunder and lightning. Telegrams received here from the provinces report enormous damage to property throughout Denmark. Many houses have been unroofed, and some mills and factories have been partly destroyed.

Two boats have been wrecked off Elsinore, and eight persons were drowned. Eleven men of the crew, including Captain Tobtasen, were drowned in the wreck of the Norwegian bark G. S. Penry, which went ashore at Scaw. The Penry will be a total wreck, and her cargo is washing ashore. Only one of her crew was saved. There was also a severe gale in the south of Sweden.

A Victory to be Proud Of

is the final and absolute cure of a sore throat, in which the rawness and tenderness have been spreading dangerously near those guardians of life, the lungs. The luxury of a sound throat and robust lungs is most keenly enjoyed by people who, having suffered all the consequences of "a little cold, your know," have been rescued from misery and danger by Allen's Lung Balsam.

MRS. GRANT'S WILL.

Widow of General Left Japanese Curio to Art Museum.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The will of Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant has been filed. The estate is to be divided into four equal portions.

It also provides that a memento presented to her by the empress of Japan, said to be a thousand years old, shall go to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York.

General Fred D Grant, son of the testatrix, delivered the testament at Register Dent's office in person. Mrs. Grant named as executor "the trustee to be selected by my three sons, a majority or the survivors of them."

In a petition asking the District supreme court to admit the will to probate General Grant explains that his mother left surviving her as heirs at law and next of kin, in addition to himself, Ulysses S. Grant, Ellen W. Sartoris and Jesse R. Grant. The deceased died possessed of the house at 2111 Massachusetts avenue, this city, of the value of about $40,000, money amounting to $10,065, stocks, bonds and other securities of the value of $180,000 and household and kitchen furniture of the value of $4,000.

General Grant further sets forth that under the terms of the will the three sons of the deceased have designated him executor. He therefore asks the court to grant letters testamentary to him.

By the terms of the will the entire estate of the testatrix is to be divided into four equal shares. The income of the first portion, it is directed, shall be applied to the support of the family of Frederick D. Grant and the education of his children.

The second portion is left to the executor in trust and for the benefit of the family of Ulysses S. Grant under precisely the same conditions and for the same purposes as regards the first portion. The third portion is left under similar conditions to Jesse R. Grant and the fourth for the sole use of Ellen W. Sartoris for life and at her death to the latter's children in equal shares.

Murder, Robbery and Arson.

MATTHEWS, Ga., Dec. 27.—At a late hour Christmas eve an unknown man called at the home of Mr. Edward Gay, six miles from here, and asked him to change a bill. Mr. Gay, not having the change, walked with the man to his store, not far distant, where they entered. It is supposed the stranger then drew a revolver on Mr. Gay and forced him to open his safe, which contained $1,200. He then probably murdered Mr. Gay and set fire to the store to hide his crime. The store was completely gutted, and the next day the safe was found open, and the skull of Mr. Gay was found in the ruins. The whole community is highly excited. So far there is no clew to the perpetrator of the crime.

A Case of Blackmail.

DEFIANCE, O., Dec. 27.—More than 200 letters from a collecting agency in New York have come through the local postoffice to Defiance people. The letters state that the recipient had received a year previous a certain amount of jewelry from a New York firm and that unless the sum due was remitted suit would be instituted. Many of these letters were addressed to persons dead or who had long since moved away. The postoffice inspectors have notified the local postmaster, instructing him to advise the recipients that the scheme was blackmail.

She Had a Valid Excuse.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Miss Emilie Fritz, a teacher in the public school in Fifth street, between First and Second avenues, had arranged to have little Rebecca Loeb, a pupil, recite a poem as her part in the regular Christmas exercises and was much annoyed when Rebecca failed to appear. It was nearly time for Rebecca's recitation when a little boy entered and handed Miss Fritz this pathetic note signed by the child's mother: "Dear Teacher—Will you please excuse Rebecca for today, as she is dead?"

Cold In the South.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 27.—Yesterday was the coldest of the season in this vicinity. The thermometer marked 18 above zero as the minimum. Jacksonville, Fla., reported 38 above and Savannah 34. Freezing temperature extends as far south as a line running east and west through the central portion of the cotton belt.

Tin Mills to Start.

SHARON, Pa., Dec. 27.—It is announced that the Greer tin mill at Newcastle would be put in operation on the first Monday in January. The Shenango plant will begin operation of twenty of its thirty mills at the same time. The mills have been idle since July. Five thousand men are affected.

A Woman's Mysterious Death.

TUCKERTON, N. J., Dec. 27.—Mary A. Darby, aged fifty-eight years, was found dead in her home near here. A physician who was summoned expressed the opinion that the woman had been choked to death. She lived alone, and no motive for the crime is known.

A man was frozen to death within five feet of his home at Duluth, Minn.

Premier Balfour is confined to his bed in Scotland by an attack of influenza.

The Silvertown has buoyed the Pacific cable off Hawaiian island of Oahu.

Extremely cold weather was reported in the west and throughout the cotton belt.

Yesterday Was Observed as Christmas Sunday by Many of the Local Churches.

WAS PLENTY OF MUSIC

Carols, Recitations and Addresses Went to Make Up the Various Programmes — Decorations of Greens Prevailed Throughout —Those Who Took Part.

Christmas services were held in many of the local churches yesterday. Carols, recitations and addresses made up the programmes. A delightful day, clear and cold, brought out large congregations for the services.

FIRST BAPTIST.

One of the best Christmas services held at the First Batpist church was that of yesterday morning, when the Sunday-school united in a special service. The church was decorated with greens, with an illuminated star over the organ. The music was under the direction of Howard Case, organist, and assisting were Dr. Leonard Waldo, Miss Waldo and Fullerton Waldo, who rendered selections on the violin, viola and violoncello. The prelude was by the trio as was also the offertory.

In the rendition of the anthems the solo parts were taken by Miss Luella C. Harris, soprano; Mrs. F. M. Ward, contralto; William Holmes, bass; and George Smith, tenor. The musical numbers as previously published were given in their entirety.

During the service, Rev. Dr. Charles L. Rhoades, of New York, gave a short discourse.

The choir was composed of the following persons: Sopranos, Miss Luella C. Harris, Mrs. Giddis, Miss Dunham, Miss Elsie Giles, Miss Tallamy, Miss Smith; altos, Mrs. F. M. Ward, Miss Jessie Haynes, Miss Nan. Randolph, Miss Bertha Needham, Miss Bonney, Miss Mae Batchelor; tenors, C. W. McCutchen, George Smith, Willard M. Miner, Mr. Douglass; basses, William Holmes, George Taylor, F. S. Cutter, Stacy Raynolds.

The offering received was for the Muhlenberg Hospital and there was a liberal response. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes took part in the service by offering prayer.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

The Christmas services at the First Presbyterian church, morning and evening, yesterday, attracted large congregations. The church was decorated with greens, while suspended over the pulpit was a star of greens, at each point of which was an incandescent light. The musical part of the services was in charge of Clifford A. Braider, organist. In the morning the regular quartette, composed of Elmer D. Cutting, E. Maxwell Honeyman, Sydney R. Titsworth and Howard T. Lewis, sang two anthems, while Dr. Nice, assisting, rendered the offertory solo on the violin and Mr. Cutting, tenor, sang "In Old Judea."

The musical service in the evening was more elaborate. The choir was assisted by Miss Etta Raybert and Miss Elsie Giles, sopranos; Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross and Miss Jessie Haynes, contraltos. Miss Raybert sang the offertory number, and Dr. Nice rendered another violin selection. The male quartette gave two anthems, while there was also a selection on the organ and violin.

Ropings of greens were suspended from the upper part of the church and were draped to various points. In the centre was suspended a large bell of greens in which was hung an electric light. Wreaths of greens on either side of the church were tied with red crepe paper.

The musical service, as previously published, was rendered in the morning, and the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, preached an interesting discourse from the subject, "The Day Spring from on High," Luke 1, 78-79.

In the evening there was a special programme in which the Sunday-school took part. The programme was opened with an overture by the orchestra composed of violins, Mrs. George W. ROUTE FOR PASSAIC SEWER SURVEYS COMPLETED FOR GREAT TRUNK SEWER TO DRAIN VALLEY.

According to Plans It Will Empty Into New York Bay and Pass Under Newark Bay.

Herring & Co., surveyors and engineers, engaged by the Passaic Valley Sewage Commission, have about completed making surveys and collecting data for the report to be made to the Sewage Commission on the proposed sewer from Paterson to Jersey City.

The commission was appointed some time ago to decide upon a plan to sewer the numerous cities and towns on the west bank of the Passaic river, in order as much as possible to prevent the pollution of that river.

For several months Herring & Co.'s engineers have been at work on the problem, and it is understood that their report is ready to be presented to the commission, which will in turn later make a report to the Governor and State Legislature.

The preliminary work of the surveyors ended a few days ago, when they completed making soundings in the Newark Bay and making a survey of the proposed route of the sewer through Greenville and Bayonne to the New York Bay.

The engineers will, it is understood, advise the commission to construct a trunk sewer along the west bank of the Passaic river from Paterson to Newark. According to the plans of the engineers the sewer will be extended to a point in the meadows on the Newark side of the Newark Bay, about 2,000 feet north of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. At this place it will cross Newark Bay, and will be extended east along the south bank of the Morris Canal to the New York Bay.

According to the plans, the sewer will empty into New York Bay at a point a few feet south of the Morris and Cummings property. The engineers will suggest that a sewer 15 feet in diameter be constructed.

The greatest difficulty to be contended with will be the laying of the sewer across Newark Bay. Owing to the fact that this section must be laid on the bottom of the bay, it will necessarily be some feet below the level of the other sections. To overcome this it has been planned to erect a pumping station on the west bank of the Newark Bay. Possibly other pumping stations will be necessary at intervals along the line of the sewer

BACHELORS OUTBOWLED THEIR MARRIED RIVALS

First of Merry Series Rolled on Park Club Bowling Alleys Saturday Evening.

WAS WON BY 175 PINS

THE BENEDICTS COULD NOT HOLD THE STEADY PACE OF THEIR OPPONENTS.

Arthur Peck Was High Man for the Single Aggregation and F. O. Ball Led the Married Bowlers— The Individual Scores.

The first bowling game between the Bachelors and Benedicts was rolled Saturday evening at the Park Club and resulted in a substantial victory for the single fellows with 175 pins to the good. The victors rolled up a score of 1,392 as against 1,217 for their opponents.

The game was a merry one from start to finish and no little enthusiasm was manifested. The fact that the single men bowled a steady game accounted for the result. The married men were somewhat erratic at times and lost considerable ground. F. O. Ball was high man for the married men with a score of 197, while Dr. Thiers was second with a score of 176. The lowest man on the team was George Hallock who rolled up a score of 80. Wallace Guilford was not much better, his tally being 82.

For the single men, Arthur Peck made high score, 178, and W. R. Faber was a close second with 168. The lowest score made on this team was a 94. This was rolled by Charles Dupee. There were a few other scores below the average, but as a rule the young fellows rolled a far superior game individually than their opponents, as is shown by the scores which follow:

Few men who have risen in the railroad business, says the Railroad Employe, had a less promising beginning, and no man ever attained success more worthily than has E. E. Kerwin, the new superintendent of the Central and L. and S. divisions of the Central Railroad of New Jersey

Mr. Kerwin was born in Turners, N. Y., on December 18, 1861, where his boyhood days were spent. His parents were poor and were unable to give him the advantage of more than a limited education, and at the age of ten years, on August 1, 1871, young Kerwin started out to earn his own living as a water boy to a section gang on the Erie Railroad at Turners, and he continued in the track department in this capacity and that of section hand until March, 1883, when he entered the telegraph office at Central Valley, N. Y., as a student. He was not long in mastering "Morse," and on June 1 of the same year he was appointed agent for the Erie at Mountainville, N. Y., where he remained until November, when he resigned and accepted a position as operator with C. W. Bradley, then superintendent of the old New York, West Shore and Buffalo, being the first operater in the employ of that company at Weehawken.

Mr. Kerwin continued in the employ of the West Shore as agent and operator at different points until March, 1885, when he went west and accepted a position with the Union Pacific, as operator at Rock Creek, Wy., where he remained until December of that year, when he accepted service with the Omaha road at Sioux City, Iowa, as yard clerk, which place he resigned in February, 1886, to accept a position as operator and agent with the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul on their Council Bluff division, where he remained until April, 1889, when he allied himself with the Chicago and Great Western as an operator in the dispatcher's office at Des Moines, Iowa.

Mr. Kerwin left the employ of the Great Western in 1890 to take a position with the Iowa Central as telegraph train dispatcher at Marshalltown, where he remained until May, 1893, when he was promoted to chief train dispatcher of the Eastern and Illinois divisions, with headquarters at Keithsburg, Ill., and in November, 1895, he was advanced to the position of trainmaster of the same division, and in July, 1897, on which date the train dispatchers and trainmasters' officers were consolidated, Mr. Kerwin was appointed trainmaster of the Iowa Central system, with headquarters at Oskaloosa, Ia., resigning that position on June 8 of the present year to take service with the New Jersey Central as trainmaster of the L. and S. division, with headquarters at Mauch Chunk. He was appointed superintendent of the Central and L. and S. divisions on October 15 last.

Mr. Kerwin is one of the most thoroughly practical railroad managers in the country; his training has been such as to give him an intelligent and comprehensive knowledge of every detail of the railroad business, a fact which has been practically demonstrated since his connection with the New Jersey Central. With the employes he is held in the highest respect, and the men in all branches of the service realize that they are working under the direction of an official who is a railroad man; who has earned the position he occupies through ability and not influence, and that when matters come before him which relate to their welfare that they will be acted upon intelligently, and with a full and comprehensive knowledge of existing conditions.

The story of Mr. Kerwin's life, his early struggle with adversity, his determination to succeed, and his ultimate success tells the story which every young man in America should read with interest and profit.

—The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will hold a regular session this evening.

—Charles Henry, steward at the Park Club, has resigned his position to accept a position in New York.

GREAT WHITE FABRIC SALE NOW IN PROGRESS.

We have stocked this "new store" of ours with the very choicest, newest 1903 fabrics for the "Annual White Sale," presenting the most superb choosings from the world's widely known manufacturers of reliable merchandise and attach prices that prove beyond any doubt our Supremacy as

Retailers of Reliable Merchandise at Reasonable Profits

and at prices less than New York stores ever think of quoting. We would that our patrons not confound this event with the numerous "January Special Sales," which are filling the papers today, and which, as a rule are nothing more or less than clean-ups of odds and ends left after the holiday rush to reduce old stock prior to inventory. The progressiveness of Hahne & Co.'s policy eliminates "Old Stock." This is a seasonable store in every sense and the public is just as progressive as the age. "Cæsar made it the one rule of his life to be ahead of every condition." He led his age by always being in advance of it. This rule is true today in every business.

This firm leads in the personification of all that the word implies. As far as the conditions surrounding retailing in New Jersey are concerned, we are the recognized leaders, and today are "in advance of the age" by presenting the very best textiles made for the coming season of 1903 and attaching prices that augments every feature of Good Store Keeping.

ARMY NOMINATIONS.

Officers Complain of Methods of Selection For Promotions.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The senate committee on military affairs held up, pending an investigation, all of the army nominations sent in before the recess below the grade of major. The members of the committee have received numerous complaints about the method of selection of officers under the reorganization law.

It is claimed great injustice has been done officers who have served quite a long time. Complaint has been made that men were selected from those who formerly served as volunteers to fill original vacancies and that they became captains as soon as they were appointed. Others appointed, it is claimed, waited from four to seven months before acceptance of their commissions, which date from the time the appointment was made, their rank being determined by the date of their commissions. This gives them many numbers above West Point graduates and others appointed from the volunteers and who at once entered the service and did much hard work while the men who delayed acceptance were enjoying themselves or attending to business interests.

Another allegation made is that quite a large number of men appointed under the reorganization law immediately became captains of artillery and were placed in charge of guns and machinery of which they had no knowledge. To obviate this difficulty to some extent the secretary of war, with the approval of the committee on military affairs, secured the resignation of seventeen second lieutenants of artillery, who thereupon were named to fill original vacancies as first lieutenants in other branches of the service and in some instances very soon were made captains.

It is expected that the subcommittee which is investigating the matter of recent promotions will be ready to report about the time congress reconvenes.

HUMBERTS REACH PARIS.

Alleged Swindlers Arrested In Madrid Brought Back For Trial.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—The members of the Humbert family who were arrested in Madrid, charged with being the prime movers in the sensational Paris safe frauds, have reached this city in charge of French and Spanish police officials.

They were at once taken to the city prison, to be held pending the action of the authorities.

The arrival of the notorious suspects was not widely known until they were safely lodged behind the bars. They were accompanied by a strong guard during their transfer from the railroad station to the prison.

Mme. Humbert, who is alleged to have originated the gigantic swindle plot by which her family obtained practically unlimited credit from Paris financiers and shopkeepers, was unusually calm during the trip from Madrid and through the streets of the French capital. She has stated that she will testify to facts on the stand that will deeply compromise several personages high in Parisian estimation.

Archduke Will Not Renounce.

VIENNA, Dec. 29.—According to an interview published here, Archduke Leopold has refused to sign a renunciation of his rights as an Austrian subject. Emperor Francis Joseph insists that the archduke resign everything and never return to Austria, becoming, in fact, naturalized in some foreign country. The archduke claims the payment of his appanage and declares that he will take every legal step to fight against exile. He says he will never abandon his rights as an Austrian subject.

Diseased Cattle Killed.

HUDSON, Mass., Dec. 29.—The herd of thirty cows, four heifers and two calves belonging to Appleton M. Teele, who lives about two miles from here, has been slaughtered by order of the United States authorities, having been infected with the foot and mouth disease. Dr. Roe of Concord, Mass., who has supervision of the district in which Mr. Teele lives, had general charge of the work.

Another Earthquake In Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 29.—An earthquake shock which lasted twenty-three seconds was felt yesterday at Bigsk, in the government of Tomsk. The governor general of Turkestan in a report to the czar on the Andijan disaster says he hopes that within a month it will be possible to find temporary accommodation for the troops and the authorities at the devastated city.

Rat Caused a Fire.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 29.—A large rat jumped out of a closet in the grocery store of Mrs. Samuel Tulbow, and she was so startled that she dropped a lamp. The oil caught fire, blazed up, setting her dress on fire, and she ran screaming to the street, where a passerby put out the blaze. The store was ruined by the resulting fire.

Four Bodies Recovered.

FAYETTE CITY, Pa., Dec. 29.—Four bodies have been recovered from the Little Redstone mine, two miles above here, where the explosion occurred. There may yet be another victim beneath the pile of debris in one of the entries.

Dow Academy Burned.

LITTLETON, N. H., Dec. 29.—Dow academy, at Franconia, named for the late Moses A. Dow of Charlestown, Mass., has been burned. Mr. Dow presented the academy to the town twenty-five years ago, and at his death he left it $60,000.

TRANSPORT HIT ROCK

The Sherman Badly Damaged on Luzon Coast.

PASSENGERS AND CARGO UNHARMED

Ship Likely to Be Docked For Repairs at Hongkong—Municipal Presidents Join Hands With Taft to Stamp Out Ladronism.

MANILA, Dec. 29.—The United States army transport Sherman struck a rock near San Bernardino light, south of Luzon, last Friday night The transport sustained a heavy shock, and some of her plates were damaged. After the accident twenty-three inches of water was found in her forward bilges, but was controlled by steady pumping. The steamer proceeded for Manila under her own steam and arrived here yesterday.

When the Sherman struck, the passengers on board were terrified, but there was no disorder. They promptly took their stations, with life preservers on, in the small boats. The officers of the Sherman handled the situation splendidly. Her cargo was not damaged. It will probably be necessary for her to dock at Hongkong.

Governor Taft's energetic expressions in the matter of the suppression of ladronism have produced unusual enthusiasm in this direction. Numerous municipal presidents in the provinces of Cavite and Rizal are assisting the native constabulary to run down the bandits.

Good Fortune Came Too Late.

DULUTH, Minn., Dec. 29.—Papers found among the effects of George Pleydell, who was frozen to death on Christmas eve almost within reach of his own doorway, indicate that he was the son of Major Thomas B. Pleydell of Acton, Middlesex, England, formerly of the royal army and a man of wealth. In early life Pleydell was at the head of a tea and coffee importing house in London, but reverses carried away all his fortune. He came to America in an attempt to recuperate his reverses, but met with no success and was finally compelled to eke out an existence as a sailor on the great lakes. A short time ago, the papers state, his mother died in England, leaving Pleydell a share of an estate in Rockhampton, Queensland, said to be valued at over $200,000. The legacy would have been paid next July.

The Carnation League.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 29.—Lewis G. Reynolds of Dayton, O., who conceived the idea of the formation of the Carnation League of America, the object of which is to perpetuate the memory of William McKinley and the principles which he promulgated, announces that the projectors of the league hope to be able to make a general announcement of its objects on Jan. 29, the anniversary of McKinley's birth. "The league will be a permanent organization," said Mr. Reynolds, "with plans for enrolling all members, and the present plan is that no fee whatever be attached to the league. Funds for the promulgation of the movement have already been provided."

Quick Change For a Railroad.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Dec. 29.—The Chateaugay railroad from Cadyville to Lyon Mountain, a distance of twenty miles, was changed yesterday from narrow to standard gauge. Several hundred section men left here at 2 o'clock in the morning equipped with lanterns and all necessary tools, and at 3:15 o'clock in the afternoon the work was done. The road was already standard gauge from Plattsburg to Cadyville, a distance of twelve miles. The work was rendered especially difficult because the ties were solidly frozen in the roadbed. It is estimated that 310,000 spikes were driven in the twelve hours.

Severe Weather Abroad.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—There have been further gales along the coast of Great Britain and a renewed fall of snow in Scotland. A number of vessels were compelled to run for shelter, and there were some exciting rescues off Holyhead and Cornwall. A hurricane has raged for three days at Vienna, and gales elsewhere on the continent are causing considerable damage. The unusual inclemency of the weather in southern Russia is causing great destitution, and every day brings reports of people being frozen to death there.

Perished Near His Home.

DERBY, Conn., Dec. 29.—James Tuttle of Huntington Center lost his way in a snowstorm. His body was found later. His footprints showed that he had been walking in a circle for hours, passing three times within a stone's throw of his own house. Once he passed through a corner of his doryard. A cry would have brought him aid, but he did not know it and trudged on till he fell exhausted. He was sixty-two years old.

Chappelle Welcomed to San Juan.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 29.—Archbishop Chappelle, apostolic delegate in Cuba and Porto Rico, has arrived here, and the people of the city turned out in large numbers to receive him. The water front was crowded for hours before the archbishop disembarked. A large procession escorted the prelate to the cathedral, where services were held.

Fire In Alabama Town.

WETUMPKA, Ala., Dec. 29.—Fire which broke out in a general merchandise store here almost entirely destroyed an entire block of two story brick buildings and caused a loss of over $60,000, partly covered by insurance. The block destroyed constitutes the business portion of the town.

NO REST FOR CASTRO

Another Plot Against Venezuela's President.

INTERNAL TROUBLES ARE RENEWED

Vice President Gomez Has a Bold Scheme—Rebel Leaders Under Matos Again Active—Long Incubation of Blockade Rumored.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Dec. 29.—News has reached here from an authoritative source in Caracas that Vincente Gomez, first vice president of the republic, intends to carry out a bold strategic stroke against President Castro.

General Zoilo Vidal and five other leading supporters of General Matos, who had sought refuge here, have suddenly left the island of Curacao in a sailboat, which took them in the direction of Cumarabo, near Coro, on the Venezuelan coast.

The Venezuelan revolutionists have resumed active hostilities against President Castro. There occurred Saturday morning a lively engagement between 1,200 revolutionists under General Riera and government forces at Cauyarac, in the vicinity of Coro. Details of the engagement are lacking, but it is known here that the revolutionists had artillery. The government forces were commanded by General Refereno Castillo. General Riera retained his position.

The armistice between the government and the revolutionists has just expired.

It has been semiofficially announced that under special agreements the blockade of the Venezuelan coast by the allies will continue during the arbitration of the issues.

VENEZUELA TO CONCEDE ALL.

Only Asks That the Blockade Be Lifted at Once

CARACAS, Venezuela, Dec. 29.—United States Minister Bowen and Lopez Baralt, Venezuelan minister of foreign affairs, have held a long conference. Mr. Bowen, obeying instructions from Washington, conveyed to Senor Baralt President Roosevelt's refusal to act as arbitrator in the Venezuelan difficulty. He recommended that the matter be taken to the international peace court at The Hague, which had been expressly organized to consider questions in which the honor of a country or the disposition of territory was not concerned. He suggested the organization of a commission to sit in Washington, the allied powers to be represented on this commission by their ambassadors to the United States and Venezuela by a delegate.

The commission is to sign a document setting forth the matters to be decided at The Hague court. Mr. Bowen said also that Germany would not press for an immediate payment and that she had agreed to accept a guarantee based on a percentage of the customs receipts.

As a result of this conference Senor Baralt telegraphed President Castro to return from La Victoria. The president will reach here today, and Venezuela's answer to the foregoing proposal will be given then.

It is understood that Venezuela will make any concession, even abandoning her demand that her navy be returned. Through the Venezuelan delegate to the commission the Venezuelan government will ask that the blockade be lifted at once. Senor Baralt has expressed the desire that Mr. Bowen represent Venezuela on the commission. If Mr. Bowen cannot accept the post, it is suggested in official circles that it be given to W. W. Russell, secretary to the American legation.

Senor Baralt has prepared the following statement:

"Venezuela agrees to pay all her debts, the payment to be guaranteed by a certain percentage of the customs receipts or by the flotation of a special loan, also to be guaranteed. I believe the proposal to submit the issues to The Hague will be acceptable to President Castro. I am sorry that President Roosevelt was unable to act as arbitrator."

Venezuela Has the Notes.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The Venezuelan government is now in possession of the complete notes of Great Britain and Germany containing the various reservations made by those governments before the decision was reached that the issues between Venezuela and the European governments having claims against her should be referred to The Hague tribunal for arbitration. The United States having acted as an intermediary in the steps leading up to the acceptance of arbitration, now turns over to the Venezuelan government the formal work of completing the basis for a full hearing before The Hague. The notes were transmitted to the Venezuelan government through United States Minister Bowen at Caracas. There are no new features to the situation here. Officials are hopeful that the government's interested will work harmoniously and conscientiously to reach an early and final solution of the trouble.

American Steamer at La Guayra.

LA GUAYRA, Dec. 29.—The Red D line steamer Maracaibo arrived here yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock and entered the port. She landed her passengers and mails and received passengers and mails from La Guayra. She left here at 5 o'clock for Willemstad.

A Fatal Snowslide.

NELSON, B. C., Dec. 29.—A snowslide has struck the bunkhouse of the Mollie Gibson mine, ten miles from Lake Kootenai, razing the building. It is believed to have killed nine men. Several others were injured.

ROUT WAS COMPLETE

Reported Defeat of Moorish Army Verified.

TWO THOUSAND LOST IN BATTLE.

Great Excitement at Fez—The Population Said to Be Hostile to Sultan and Ready to Follow the Pretender.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The complete rout at Taza of the Moorish imperial army by rebels under the leadership of the pretender to the throne, which was reported Dec. 23, has now been officially confirmed. The imperial forces abandoned their guns, rifles, ammunition, tents and beasts of burden and fled precipitately to Fez.

A dispatch from Tangier, Morocco, dated Dec. 26, says that on Dec. 23 10,000 shereefian troops commanded by a brother of the sultan's minister of war received orders to concentrate and take the offensive against the pretender at Taza. Before the shereefians moved upon him the pretender attacked them with large bodies of cavalry. The imperial army was surrounded, completely routed and fled in disorder toward Fez, abandoning all material of war. The first fugitives arrived at Fez on the morning of Dec. 24.

The gates of Fez are at present shut, shops there are closed, and the population is excited, but there has been no disorder. The European colony of Fez, numbering about twenty persons, is taking steps to leave the town, but appears to be satisfied that it is in no imminent danger, although the situation is regarded as serious.

It is said that the pretender's followers have received numerous additions since his successes, and he is already negotiating with the tribes of the Wednaweb valley. The population of Fez is said to be generally hostile to the sultan and ready to acclaim any pretender who will guarantee the town from pillage.

No details of the imperial losses have yet been received here, but it is rumored that 2,000 of the sultan's soldiers were killed or wounded. The authorities here are trying to minimize the disaster. It is declared that a section of the imperial troops sent as reenforcements deserted to the rebels and aided in driving the loyal troops back to Fez.

Death of Mrs. Fremont.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 29.—Mrs. Jessie Benton Fremont, widow of General Fremont, who died Saturday night at her home in this city, was seventy-eight years of age. Mrs. Fremont was taken ill on Christmas morning. She grew rapidly worse and soon lapsed into unconsciousness, from which she never rallied. For the past three years the aged widow of the "Pathfinder" had been extremely feeble as a result of a fall in which she suffered a dislocation of the hip, which had since prevented her from walking. Mrs. Fremont was the daughter of Thomas H. Benton, for thirty years a United States senator.

Japanese Diet Dissolved.

TOKYO, Dec. 29.—The imperial diet reassembled yesterday. The house of representatives was immediately dissolved by imperial order. The house of peers was prorogued. The elections have been fixed for February. The dissolution of the diet is due to the opposition of the party leaders to the government's plan to raise the money for the naval programme by increasing the land tax. The leaders refused the government's offer to compromise by reducing this tax. The opposition desired that the land tax be abolished and that the funds for the navy increase be provided from other sources.

Daily Wireless Ocean Messages.

GLACE BAY, N. S., Dec. 29.—The Marconi station at Glace Bay continues to maintain daily communication with Cornwall with constantly increasing efficiency and facility. Marconi is still here, but will leave shortly for the Cape Cod station. In the meantime he is sending two or three messages by wireless to Europe daily. Some of these dispatches are lengthy. Among the more recent recipients of such have been ex-Empress Eugenie, Sir John Long, M. P., and Henniker Heaton, M. P.

Oil Trust Gets Texas Fields.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—A special to the Record-Herald from New Orleans says that the Standard Oil company has at last secured control of the Beaumont oilfield in Texas and the Jennings oil region in Louisiana. There are only a few small companies remaining outside, and they cut very little figure in the marketing of fuel oil. The price of fuel oil has been advanced to $1 a barrel, and the indications are that the quotations will go still higher.

Miles Entertained In Peking.

PEKING, Dec. 29.—The ladies of the American legation and General Miles and his party were entertained at luncheon yesterday by the dowager empress and the emperor. United States Minister Conger also gave a large diplomatic dinner in honor of the general. Today the minister entertained at dinner a number of Chinese officials to meet General Miles.

Russian Miners Entombed.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 29.—A fire has occurred in a coal mine at Bachmut, Ekatorinoslav province. A hundred miners were underground when the fire started. Twenty of these have been rescued, but it is feared that the remainder have succumbed.

THAT OLD PROBLEM.

And still the Common Council is not satisfied with the service of the local trolley company. At the request of that municipal body, the company abandoned its old schedule by which all the cars met at the Watchung avenue transfer station every fifteen minutes and adopted the present one. By the present arrangement, two cars meet every five minutes and the passengers from one car are compelled to wait either five or ten minutes for another.

This change was an experiment made by the company to relieve the crowded condition of Watchung avenue. With six cars gathered there every fifteen minutes, the thoroughfare became more of a waiting room than a public street. The passage of vehicles at that time was a dangerous undertaking and a fractious horse could carry death or injury to many. The Common Council asked the trolley company to take some means of relieving those conditions and the present schedule was the result.

It is now pretty generally understood that the new schedule is not a howling success as far as the public is concerned. The street is blockaded more or less every five minutes instead of being completely blocked every fifteen minutes while the passengers from one line to another are compelled to wait under any circumstances where before there was a fair chance of making direct connections. The public has not taken kindly to the change and so the Council has requested the company to return to the old way.

Long ago, The Daily Press pointed out that the only satisfactory way of solving this troublesome problem was for the trolley company to establish a regular waiting station on private property in that neighborhood and run a loop around it so that the cars could gather off the public thoroughfare and deposit their passengers on a covered platform instead of in the middle of a muddy street. Such arrangement would give back Watchung avenue to the use of the public and, with a proper station, would greatly improve the tempers of the passengers who waited for one car or another.

If the trolley company returns to the old way, there will be the same objection as before. To please the people the company must try some new arrangement. Several were proposed before the present system was adopted and there were objections to each one. The schedule may be arranged and rearranged but a permanent solution of the problem will not be reached until the company establishes a transfer station where its cars can wait on private property and not block up the public thoroughfares.

An appropriation has been made by the Common Council to change the East Seventh street signs from their old title "LaGrande avenue," and also to repair other signs that have gotten out of order. There are a few people who still cling to the old title for that thoroughfare but most of them have accepted East Seventh street as a right and proper thing. When the street signs are changed, LaGrande avenue will be a thing of the past.

In his annual report, State Superintendent of Public Instruction C. J. Baxter urges the establishment of another State Normal School in northern New Jersey. He has good reasons to show why it should be started without delay.

Nobody was surprised when the Republican members of the State Senate, in caucus, selected Senator Hutchinson, of Mercer, as their candidate for President of the Senate. It was only another instance of the early bird and the worm.

Union county has one office in the State Senate, this winter. The journal clerk will be Robert A. Waterbury. Of course he hails from Elizabeth.

—G. Q. Dolliver, of Grandview avenue, has been confined to his home for several days, the result of a fall Christmas night. He fell off the icy back steps at his home and strained the muscles of his back.

NO SECESSION.

Officers of North Plainfield A. C. Deny the Report.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In Friday's edition of your paper it was erroneously stated that the members of the North Plainfield Athletic Club has seceded. This is a falsehood as no such movement has been made. It is known to the officers and members of the association where this report originated.

Sincerely yours,
H. C. Brose,
Edward Koechlein.

DUNELLEN.

The Christmas exercises of the Holy Innocent's church Sunday-school were held in the church Saturday evening. As usual a very prettily trimmed tree delighted the eyes of the children and many others who assembled to witness the exercises. Each pupil received an orange and a box of candy as well as a gift presented by the teacher. During the exercises some anthems were sung by the school lead by the choir. The exercises were in charge of the pastor, Rev. A. S. Phelps.

NEW MARKET.

The Christmas exercises of the Seventh-Day Baptist church Sunday-school were held in the church Saturday. The exercises were much less extensive than usual and consisted merely of a few recitations and the presentation of the usual gifts.

The local postoffice will be changed January 1 from fourth to third class. The only difference will be that the postmaster will now receive a salary instead of a percentage. This speaks well for the growth of the village.

Skating is fine on the lake at present and a large number enjoyed the sport Saturday and yesterday.

Regular services were held in the First Baptist church yesterday. The pastor was in charge.

Mrs. Hannah Nelson still continues to improve steadily from her illness.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Pastime Gun Club is the name of a new rival for trap shooting honors. The membership so far and those who are interested in the organizing of the club are the followers of the baseball team during the past season. Many of the members of the club do not even own a gun or know what a "blue rock" looks like, but will purchase the necessary outfit and begin practice at once. The first practice shoot will be held New Year's Day afternoon and if the interest in the sport is kept up weekly shoots will be held every Saturday afternoon until the baseball fever is prevalent again, when the trusty gun will be laid aside and the "rooters" will once again take up their positions along the base lines and help root the local team to victory.

Very pretty Christmas exercises were held Saturday evening by the members of All Saints Episcopal Sunday-school. The auditorium of the church was prettily trimmed with evergreens, and long before the time for the programme to open the auditorium of the church was well filled with the members and their friends, who were there to enjoy the evening with them. After an entertaining programme of carols and recitations presents were distributed to all.

Wednesday sees the close of the open season for rabbits, quail, etc., and with the law as it now is the season has been practically closed since Christmas, as it is unlawful to shoot game while there is a tracking snow. Game has been quite plentiful this season and all the local hunters have bagged their share while the law was open.

Charles Elliott, while watching the skaters on Marsh's lake yesterday, was pushed by a companion upon the ice with such force that he was thrown down, striking his head upon the ice and cutting a bad gash in his forehead. Dr. Westcott was called and was obliged to put several stitches in the wound to close it.

The weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held in the church parlors last night. At the close of the service a short business meeting was held and the officers for the ensuing year were elected.

Miss Mamie Merceir, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Merceir, has returned to her home in Plainfield.

Funeral services of Mrs. Ann H. Cleaver were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Corey are entertaining friends from New York at their home on Park avenue.

John Wade led the Epworth League weekly meeting, held in the Methodist church last night.

John E. Flannery, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with his daughter, Mrs. George H. Johnston.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Christmas service entitled "Emmanuel" will be rendered by the Baptist Sunday-school this evening at 7:30. A number of sweet songs will be sung by the small children.

The Christmas entertainment of the Baptist Sunday-school will be held this evening at the church. Gifts will be distributed. All are invited to attend.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Extra stamp offers in Scheuer & Company's ad in this issue.

"The Doll's Hospital," kept by A. M. Harper on Park avenue, is just the place to find suitable gifts for the little folks and the older ones as well. A complete line of stationery is also kept in stock.

It is conceded that Putnam & DeGraw, of West Front street, keep one of the best dry goods stores in the city. Their goods are of the first quality and you will find many things at this store that you cannot get elsewhere.

Callahan & Son, the Richmond street grocers, are known throughout the city for their low prices. As a retail firm they can't be beat for giving full value for a fair amount. They have telephone connection and deliver all orders.

Elegant gifts in crystal and gold glass, neat and effective yet moderate in price, are features at Gavett's store. The new designs in Dorflinger's cut glass have recently been received. Hand painted china and artistic metal goods, also.

When folks are hungry and want to eat, 'tis then they call for something sweet. Those who know where the secret lies, take nothing else but Warnock's pies. Pumpkin or mince, it's all the same, you'd think they were made, by a Down East dame.

Hothouse potted plants, Jerusalem cherries, palms, and a choice assortment of cut flowers are to be found at C. L. Stanley's flower store on North avenue. He has some very fine flowering plants in bloom at his store which are just the thing for the sick room.

It is fast approaching the time when the women are to consider what they will want for a new spring gown. If S. Hirsch, on Watchung avenue, is consulted as to the prevailing styles for the spring, the matter of selecting a suitable garment will be greatly simplified.

Don't think that because Christmas is past that L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, will not be glad to see you. His stock of goods is very attractive and the display at his store is considered one of the most attractive shown. There are plenty of articles at this pharmacy that will make useful and pretty gifts for New Year's.

This week will open in the store of R. W. Barnes, on Park avenue with a large assortment of delicacies for the table. Among the specialties will be some of the famous Flemington sausages, smoked pork loins, Heinz's celebrated mincemeat in bulk and Armours mince meat in packages which make very tasty pies. He has baked beans in pans and saurkraut.

TWENTY-EIGHT DEAD.

Other Victims of Grand Trunk Accident Expected to Recover.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 29.—No other deaths have occurred among the persons injured in Friday night's collision at Wanstead on the Sarnia branch of the Grand Trunk railroad between Pacific express No. 5, westbound, and an eastbound freight, in which twenty-eight persons lost their lives. Information from Victoria hospital is to the effect that while several of the injured are still in a serious condition it is expected that all will recover.

The body of Fireman Ricketts of the express train, which was believed to have been buried under the wrecked engines, has been found covered with snow in the ditch beside the track. One arm was completely torn off, and the body was otherwise mangled. Death must have been instantaneous. It is believed that the body was thrown clear of the engine and into the deep snow in the ditch, where in the storm and darkness the wreckers failed to find it Friday night. Snow fell rapidly all that night, so that Ricketts' body was completely covered at daybreak and was not found.

One of the most pathetic features of the wreck is the triple loss sustained by the Bodley family of Port Huron in the death of Mrs. J. Bodley, her son Clem Bodley and granddaughter, little Lottie Lynch, who died at Victoria hospital. The bodies of nineteen of the victims have been shipped to their sorrowing friends at home.

Andrew Carson, the operator at Watford, the first station east of the wreck, whose failure to deliver orders to Conductor McAuliffe of the Pacific express to pass the freight at Wanstead, is said by the Grand Trunk officials to have caused the wreck, has just made a statement in which he lays the blame on Dispatcher Kerr of this city. An investigation will be made at once.

TROLLEY CAR RAN AWAY.

Serious Accident in Pittsburg, but No One Killed.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 29.—The golden jubilee of the Passionist Fathers of the United States is being celebrated in the monastery of St. Paul of the Cross.

The great crowds attending the jubilee celebration yesterday taxed the capacity of the street cars to and from the monastery, but only one accident of consequence resulted. Nine passengers in a runaway southern traction car were badly hurt, but none seriously. Two newspaper men, John M. Eagan of the Times and J. B. Johnson of the Post, suffered the severest injuries. Eagan had two ribs broken and was cut and bruised all over the body. Johnson's head, hands and legs were cut and torn.

The accident occurred immediately after the afternoon services. The car was crowded, and when the long hill was reached the brakes were ineffective because the rails had been covered with snow by boys who were coasting. The car began to slide and had gained a wonderful speed when a wheel broke, throwing it against an electric light pole. The car was completely wrecked and the passengers jammed into a confused mass. To add to the passengers' distress the fire in the stove communicated to the wreckage. Fortunately other cars came along at this moment, and it was only a short time before the fire had been extinguished and the passengers relieved.

Miners Will Demand More.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 29.—W. D. Ryan, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of Illinois, in a statement just issued says that the miners of the United States will make a demand for a material increase in wages at the national convention at Indianapolis on Jan. 19. Mr. Ryan says that the operators are receiving a larger price for coal than ever before and they cannot make the excuse that the mines are not paying expenses and that the convention will produce figures to show the total cost of mining a ton of coal and give the public an idea of the profit being reaped by the operators. Mr. Ryan will attend the convention and will no doubt lead the fight for higher wages.

Chinese Rebels on Rampage.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 29.—Revival of the rebellion in Kwangsi is causing a lamentable state of affairs in that province, according to mail advices received from China. Lungchou, a prominent walled city of Kwangsi, was being besieged by the rebels when the last advices were dispatched. Nanning, on the west river, was surrounded by rebels, who sent messengers to the governor calling on him to fight them. These rebels looted a steamer sent to Nanning with provisions and money for the governor of that city.

Starved to Death In Bolivia.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 29.—News has just reached here that John H. Rouse starved to death in the wilds of central Bolivia in June, 1900, while on an exploring trip. But one man out of a party of thirty escaped. Rouse was one of the pioneer mining men of Washington, coming first to this section in 1878. On his last trip he was one of a party representing the Bolivian government. His friends will ask the department of state to investigate his death.

Well Known Historian Dead.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 29.—Silas Farmer, author and publisher of a two volume history of Michigan and a recognized authority on the history of the northwest, has just died suddenly at his residence in this city. Death was due to acute indigestion. Mr. Farmer, who was sixty-three years of age, was a fellow of the American Geographical society and was well known as a lecturer.

LARGE FOREIGN TRADE.

During the Past Year Manufactures Made Phenomenal Gains.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The figures of the foreign commerce of the United States during the eleven months ending with November, which have just been completed by the treasury bureau of statistics, indicate phenomenal activity among the manufacturers of the country and exportations quite as large as could be expected in view of the crop shortage of last year.

Manufactures exported during the eleven months of 1902 amount to $377,635,961 against $362,302,188 in the corresponding months of last year and form 31.8 per cent of the total against 27.8 per cent of the total exports in the same months of 1901.

The total exports are $75,000,000 in excess of those for the corresponding months of last year, and of this increase of $75,000,000 $54,000,000 was in the class of "manufacturers' materials" and the remainder manufactures and luxuries, articles of food and animals, showing a reduction of $10,000,000 as compared with the importations during the corresponding months of last year.

COKE FOR STEEL TRUST ONLY.

The H. C. Frick Company's Withdrawal From Field Causes Stir.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 29.—With the closing of the present year the H. C. Frick Coke company passes from the service of the general coke consumers of the country and will devote its energies to supplying the constituent companies of the United States Steel corporation.

The removal of this large supply of coke from the independent field has done more to stir up capital for new coke operations than anything that has occurred in years. During the past month or six weeks there have been several public announcements of the plans of new corporations to develop coking plants in the western Pennsylvania fields, as well as in West Virginia. The latest to appear is that of the Union Coking and Coal company of New York. This corporation has been formed during the past few weeks by eastern men and has secured 3,200 acres of fine West Virginia coal land along the line of the West Virginia Central railroad.

Weird Tales From Japan.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 29.—Correspondence received from Yokohama by the steamer Tartar includes details of a horrible baby farming conspiracy in Osaka. An elderly woman, her married daughter, husband and two others have been arrested for infanticide, and it is learned that since they started operations this year 300 children were killed. The Japan Times has an account of a Japanese of Koehi having been married to a corpse. The bride elect committed suicide on the eve of her marriage. The body was recovered, and at the request of the dead woman's parents the ceremony took place between the living and the dead.

Dewey's Visit to Ponce.

PONCE, Porto Rico, Dec. 29.—Admiral Dewey arrived here Saturday evening overland from San Juan and received an ovation. He was warmly greeted by a committee of native officials and citizens and was escorted by them from Juana Diaz to Ponce. The city was decorated in honor of the admiral's arrival, which was followed by a procession, with bands of music, through the streets. Later the admiral boarded the United States steamer Mayflower, which was waiting for him, and sailed for Culebra.

Gale on Newfoundland Coast.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 29.—Another furious gale has been raging here for the past forty-eight hours and has caused much damage along the coast line. It is feared that the shipping will suffer considerably. The Allan line steamer Peruvian has not yet been able to make port because of the storm and the fog. She has on board a shipment of 300 Canadian cattle from Halifax, shipped from there because of the embargo against American ports. It is feared the cattle will suffer because of the heavy weather.

New York State Charities.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 29.—The annual report to the governor of the fiscal supervisor of state charities for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 shows that the fifteen institutions under the jurisdiction of the department had a total average population for the year of 7,949.62 and cost the state for maintenance $1,401,368.21 and for improvements and betterments $337,972.72, a total of $1,739,340.93. The total cost of supervising the expenditure of this sum of money was $18,594.28, or a trifle over 1 per cent.

Cold Wave Did Little Damage.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 29.—The cold wave has done no material damage to any crops in Florida. While a temperature of from 27 to 30 degrees above zero was experienced in some sections just below the freezing line on the west coast, frost warnings had been sent out in ample time, and practically all the vegetable growers who could be affected had prepared for it. The cold wave was not severe enough nor was it of sufficient duration to damage the citrus fruit trees or the fruit.

Admiral Cervera Promoted.

MADRID, Dec. 29.—The appointment of Vice Admiral Cervera, who surrendered to the American fleet off Santiago, Cuba, to the post of chief of staff of the navy has been published in the official gazette.

The Bryans Seek Warmer Climate.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 29.—William Jennings Bryan and his family have left here on an extended trip to the tropical part of the state of Vera Cruz.

A Christmas Declaration of Independence

"I'M going to turn over a new leaf this year, so I am, and it's not a New Year's leaf either, but a Christmas leaf, here and now," said pretty Mrs. Perkins to herself the 1st of December. "This giving of Christmas presents has come to be such a load that I can't carry it any longer, and I won't. I shall cut off from the list of those to whom I have been giving yearly Christmas presents all except the ones whom I wish to make happy out of sheer love and good will, and I will not give to these any further than I can easily afford."

Pretty Polly Perkins' reflection in the mirror nodded and smiled back at her like a second person giving encouragement, and she went on talking to it.

"Christmas giving has been degraded into a mere favor buying, present swapping, charity bestowing, fatiguing, rivalrous, extravagant show bazaar, and we dread the very thought of its approach. I'm going to throw the whole thing over. This year I will not strain myself to give extravagant presents even to those I love.

"And the first one I cut off will be my own husband. I love him, of course I do," she said energetically, "but I have no money of my own, not a cent. When I make him a present, I have to either have the bill sent to him six months afterward or skimp the price off the housekeeping or have the store bills charged up to him larger than they are to squeeze out money to buy him something handsome, when he really has all he needs now. No; John M. Perkins, Esq., we strike you off first. Then there are those four Jones cousins. They give me a bookmark or a darned up pair of slipper tops or a horrid little water color painting and expect me in return to send them each—Sarah Ann, Jemima, Maud Mary and Jane—something worth at least $5; that makes $20. I herewith declare my independence. I will never do it again, and I don't care what they think.

"Then there's Mrs. Bunkum, whose husband was my husband's old school-

THOSE WHO EXPECT SOMETHING.

mate. Of course we are friends, intimate friends, but I know that every year Mrs. Bunkum goes beyond her means to send me an expensive gift—silver, lace or fur or china or something—just to show me how much better off Bunkum is than my husband. I've been fool enough to nearly beggar the Perkins housekeeping for a time only to show Mrs. Bunkum how much richer my husband is than hers. I'll never do it again. I'll send her a Christmas card, not too expensive.

"Then there's the whole breed of smirking creatures with the spirit of a menial who expect something in a really blackmailing way. This year I turn them every one down. I declare my independence of them too. There's that Tom, the caretaker at the White Glove club rooms. All the rest of the year he is so lazy and grumpy he won't even bring urgent messages to the ladies, but as the 25th of December approaches he pushes himself into your presence on every trivial pretense, rubbing his hands, grinning from ear to ear, bobbing his head fairly down to the ground and saying, 'I wish you a very merry Christmas, ma'am,' so that always I've felt fairly forced to give him some money. This year I won't. I turn down the whole crew of waiters, maids, people too lazy and thriftless to earn a good living and the vulgar, greedy ones who are always trying to get something for nothing.

"Who are left? There are the children, bless them! They are the only ones who cannot pay you back, except in affection, for your gifts, the ones who are honestly selfish and have a right to be. I must be generous to them. Then I will give what I can really afford—not a cent more—in charity. Now who's left? There's dear Susie Snow, who is wearing her coat the fourth winter so that her sister Nell can have the last year in normal school. I'll give her a pretty boa to make the old coat look nice. And that's all, except a few Christmas card greetings."

Mrs. Perkins did exactly what she proposed to do and had the happiest, most comfortable Christmas she had enjoyed since she was a girl.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

This was objected to by all except by Mr. Pence, who had been busy with a pencil and announced that he could not see his way clear to contributing more than $25,000 to any fund. He explained that money was at so low a rate of interest that it was a drug on the market.

"Why, I have $4,000,000 right now in the bank which is not drawing a cent of interest!" he exclaimed. "It is an awful loss to me! I really cannot spend more than $25,000 for this purpose. And to think that there is no return for it; absolutely no return!"

"You would return," said Mr. Kent.

It was finally agreed to pledge a sum of $5,000,000 of which Mr. Morton insisted on paying $1,500,000; Mr. Rockwell pledged $1,250,000; Mr. Carmody, $750,000; Mr. Kent, $750,000; Mr. Haven, $725,000, and Mr. Pence, $25,000. Mr. Morton was delegated to conduct the negotiations with Hestor, and if he failed he was also to confer with Capt. Waters as a last resort.

After a general discussion the party separated, and at midnight quiet reigned on board the good steam yacht the "Shark." She was then plowing the Atlantic at a 20-knot rate, at a point about 100 miles southwest of Montauk light. At the suggestion of Mr. Haven it had been agreed that in the future no open resentment should be displayed towards Hestor.

"It is better policy to dissemble," argued Mr. Haven. "We will gain nothing by affronting him. Moreover, if we appear resigned and unconcerned, we may throw him off his guard. Personally I would like to break his neck, but it will be better to appear cordial, even if we do not feel that way."

Sidney Hammond talked with Hestor until late in the night, but was unable to influence him in any way. He decided to abandon such efforts for the time, and to await developments. Mr. Vincent wandered about the boat, kept clear of Capt. Waters, and made several ineffectual attempts to enter into conversation with the crew. He finally repaired to "Social Hall," where he kept Bob busy until midnight. It may have been the swell of the sea, but he had difficult navigation between the buffet and his stateroom, and did not awaken the following morning until the sun was high in the heavens.

It was another beautiful day. The sun was to the starboard of the yacht. This showed a course about northeast. It was evident that the boat was somewhere off the New England coast, and not headed for any South Sea islands. Was it possible that Hestor had repented of his rash idea and was about to return?

Mr. Kent was the first to appear in "Social Hall." Mr. Haven soon joined him, and in a short time all of the party were on deck.

"Good morning, gentlemen."

Mr. Hestor stood before them in the full cruising uniform of a New York yachtsman. He looked uncommonly well in it. He bowed pleasantly, stepped up to Mr. Morton, extended his arm and shook hands cordially with that gentleman. He thus greeted the others and seemed delighted at his reception.

"I trust that you enjoyed a good night's rest," he said. All had done so except Mr. Pence, who said he did not like the water.

"Oh, you will soon get used to it," responded Hestor. "Ah, here comes Sidney. Good morning, Sidney. Beautiful day, is it not? By the way, where is Mr. Vincent? Send one of the boys and call him. You have not been formally introduced to Mr. Vincent, have you? I will present him at the breakfast table. I will admit that his advent was a bit informal, don't you know, but he is here and we must treat him as one of us."

Under the spur of Hestor's good nature, and the understanding arrived at between the captives the preceding evening, conversation became general and spirited. Sidney looked on in quiet amazement. The stirring events of the day before had seemingly been forgotten, and the entire party acted as if bent on heartily enjoying a much-anticipated pleasure cruise. Mr. Rockwell quietly explained to Sidney what had been agreed upon.

"After breakfast," said Mr. Hestor, "such of you gentlemen as choose can change your business suits for yachting costumes. You will find them much more comfortable for lounging around. Mr. Pence will look like an old sea dog in the clothes I have selected for him. I will have them placed in your rooms, and if they do not fit I have assorted sizes from which to make a selection. You will find that I have anticipated everything. Ah, here comes Mr. Vincent! Good morning, sir! Glad to see you aboard the yacht. Shake hands with Mr. Rockwell. Mr. Rockwell—Mr. Vincent—L. Sylvester Vincent, of Chicago. Mr. Carmody—Mr. Vincent." Hestor introduced the uninvited guest to all present.

Breakfast followed, and it was quite a merry party. All were hungry. Mr. Hestor was in boisterous good humor, and kept up a running fire of talk and questions. He persuaded Mr. Carmody to promise an early interview with L. Sylvester Vincent, and that Chicago promoter saw visions of wealth in the aromatic vapors which arose from his coffee.

When breakfast was ended, Mr. Hestor led Mr. Carmody to the main saloon, and with much pride displayed the books of the well-selected library.

CHAPTER XIII.

AN OCEAN CRUISE.

Mr. Kent seated himself with Mr. Haven and Mr. Pence in comfortable chairs on the starboard side of the yacht. A few fleecy clouds drifted overhead. The air was warm enough to temper the air from the ocean. There was just enough breeze to ripple the swells.

"This is not at all bad," said Mr. Kent, as he stretched out his legs and lazily smoked a cigar. "I have been thinking for years of taking a vacation, and now I am taking it." He looked at his watch.

"It's five minutes of ten," he said, looking at Mr. Haven. "I wonder if they have missed us yet. There will be some fun on the Stock Exchange when the news comes out."

"If I had sold sugar yesterday as you did," said Mr. Haven, with some acridity, "I might look at this matter in the calm and philosophical way in which you do. You know you sold sugar yesterday, Kent."

"I generally know what I sell and when I sell it," said the non-committal Mr. Kent. "I would like to have a lot of it sold right now. Six abducted millionaires is not a strong bull argument."

"Just think of where money on call loans will go to," sighed Mr. Pence. "I wish I had remained at home. Oh, why did I make this fool voyage?"

"You certainly are in bad luck, Brother Pence," said the sympathetic Mr. Kent. "They could use that four millions of yours to-day before the session is closed. I suppose money will go to 100 or 200 per cent. The boys will fight to get it."

Early in the forenoon Mr. Morton found Hestor and asked for a private conversation in his stateroom. The request was readily granted.

"Mr. Hestor," said the big financier, after a rather awkward pause, "you must be aware that your guests are men whose time is very valuable, and whose interests will be imperiled by their continued absence. You know that we wish to return. Thus far you have refused to comply with our request. Is there no way in which we can compromise the matter?"

"I know of none which will not disarrange my plans," said Hestor. "You are all having a good time. What more can I do for you?"

"I will come to the point at once," said Mr. Morton. "I am authorized by the gentlemen on this boat to offer you $5,000,000 for our immediate return to New York harbor."

"I could not think of it," said Hestor promptly, as if declining an ordinary business proposition. "I have more money now than I know what to do with. That is why I went into newspaper reporting. No money could tempt me, Mr. Morton. Let us drop the subject and go on deck. It is too fine a day to remain below."

Mr. Morton realized that he had failed, and that there was absolutely no hope in that direction. He said nothing to his associates of his lack of success, but waited for a chance to speak to Capt. Waters. It was late in the afternoon before he had an opportunity to make any proposition to that official. Hestor was on the upper deck. Capt. Waters entered the saloon, which at that moment was occupied only by Mr. Morton and Mr. Rockwell. As the captain entered the room, the latter, at a signal from Mr. Morton, discreetly retired. Capt. Waters stood for a moment at the center table and idly turned over the leaves of a magazine. Mr. Morton advanced to the table.

"We are favored with beautiful weather, Capt. Waters," said Mr. Morton.

HELD BY A TURTLE.

Frightened Negro Got Release Only When His Trousers Gave Way to the Strain.

A negro whose name could not be ascertained, had a narrow escape from painful injury during the unloading of the steamer Kitty Knight, of the Light street wharf of the Sassafras River line, the other afternoon, says the Baltimore Herald, but gained quite a lot of valuable experience concerning the handling of snapping turtles.

It was while the wharf was crowded with commission men and agents and the excitement attendant upon the unloading of several score of cattle was at its height that the bystanders were startled by the loud and continuous screaming of some one in their rear. Turning they beheld a big, swarthy negro vainly endeavoring to climb over the side of his wagon, which was backed up against the wharf, and in the bottom of which his foot and leg seemed to be caught. Suddenly there was a rip and a tear, a portion of the man's trouser leg gave way and he dropped to the ground.

By this time the crowd had gathered nearer the wagon, in which they beheld, lying on his back, frantically waving his webbed feet and angrily shooting out his head at intervals, an immense snapping turtle. In the reptile's mouth there was a square piece of cloth which matched in color the pantaloons the negro wore. The trouble was explained at a glance.

The negro, in loading his wagon, had gone too near the turtle, which, angry over treatment it had received, grabbed the first thing within its reach upon which to wreak its vengeance. The jaws came together with a snap, missing the negro, but catching the clothing.

The threatening look in the little eyes frightened the man, who turned as he felt something grab his nether garments, and he shrieked and attempted to get away, the cloth could not stand the tug of war and gave way.

THE CULPRIT'S NAME.

Indignant Philadelphia Jurist Tells of a Smoker Who Added Insult to Injury.

It is told of a member of the local judiciary known to be bitterly opposed to the use of tobacco in any form that he was compelled, when last abroad, to submit to the smoking of a self-possessed young man who entered the same first-class compartment on a train London-bound. The judge repeatedly protested; but the stranger coolly proceeded to smoke, and aggravated the offense by lighting cigar after cigar. The judge threatened to report the matter to the authorities when he reached London, and gave the stranger his card, thinking the name thereon might carry weight. But the card, after a glance, was carelessly thrust into the smoker's pocket. The stranger alighted before London was reached; and the judge, in a rage, rushed out on the platform, summoned the station master, and bade him go after the smoker and get his name. The station master, no less indignant than the American anti-tobacconist that the rules of the road had been violated, asked the stranger for his card, and then, returning to the train, handed it to the judge, whose rage developed until it was on the verge of apoplexy when he read thereon his own name and address, the card being the same he had forced on his serene companion.

EXERCISES AT MANY CHURCHES

short poem on Christmas tide, which was followed by a short address by the pastor, Rev. O. G. Norseen.

Those who took part in the exercises were the Misses Agnes Nord, Ruth Enander, Henrietta Mandy, Gertrude Mandy, Hanna Brandt, Esther Brandt, Anna and Lillian Straudsberg. The arrangements for the festival were in charge of the pastor, assisted by the members of the Ladies' Aid Society.

FIRST M. E.

The pupils of the First M. E. Sunday-school held their Yuletide exercises, yesterday afternoon, in Vincent chapel. Superintendent J. R. Joy was in charge.

In addition to the rendition of carols by the entire school, the programme as furnished by the primary and intermediate departments was as follows Recitations by Alice Joy, Douglas Stewart, Benson Hartley; "The Christmas Story From the Bible" by Frederick Fenno, Dorothy Lynn, Ethel Keiderling, Ellis Ruckman, Roger Stuart, Charles Montague, Mabelle Cook, Marguerite Hope and Arthur Slade. Harry Gee lead in Scripture reading and Dr. Bryant in prayer. Superintendent Joy also gave a blackboard talk.

Additional interest was lent the exercises by selections from an orchestra composed of Miss Gertrude Shupp, piano; Robert Davis, cornet; Kenneth Shupp, trombone; Miss Helen Shupp and Wilson Derby, violins; and Alvah Davis, flute.

In the church, last evening, a special musical service was given by the choir assisted by the Choral Society, in charge of Charles L. Lewis. A large congregation was present.

MONROE AVENUE M. E.

In point of success, the Christmas exercises at the Monroe Avenue church, yesterday afternoon, exceeded those of any former year. The attendance was exceptionally large, that of the infant class numbering 109, the highest on record. Decorations of the usual order, yet originally placed, were quite noticeable.

The entertainment for the most part was furnished by the pupils of the junior department and consisted of recitations by Rita Voorhees, Clara Brown, Grace Squier and Theodore Martin; songs by Edith Schwartz, William and Grace Squier, Herbert Rittenhouse, Elsie Bryan, Camilla Schuckmann and Edith Sears, from the infant classes. From the older department Marion Praed and Daisy Gilbert recited and Harry Lude sang. At the close Walter M. McGee delivered a talk on Christmas and its meaning. The infant department was in charge of the Misses Kline, Haff and Wenzel.

MARCONNIER CHAPEL.

A pleasing programme was rendered yesterday afternoon at Marconnier chapel. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, opened the exercises with prayer and made an address on Christmas and its significance. An address was also made by A. P. Tuly, of the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick. The exercises were in charge of the superintendent, H. W. Marshall.

The children who took part were: Willie Schenck, Fred Stover, Richard Campbell, Mary Morrison, Jennie Robertson, Lottie Campbell, Ida Schoonmaker, Kathryn Terry, May Pyatt, Annie Nelson, Lillian Stalks, Florence Stalks and Nettie Stover. A vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. W. E. VanCourt and Benjamin LaVere, rendered several very pleasing cornet solos.

PARK AVE. BAPTIST.

Impressive services were held at the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school yesterday afternoon. The regular lesson was omitted and Superintendent George E. Hall reviewed the workings of the past year. The session closed with an impressive talk by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Richardson, who also conducted a short service of prayer. During the service Miss Elsie Giles sang "Saved by Grace."

MT. OLIVE BAPTIST.

Christmastide was appropriately observed at the Mt. Olive Baptist church, yesterday morning and evening. In the morning the pastor, Rev. E. E. Jackson, preached a Christmas sermon and there was special music by the choir. An elaborate evening service was held. There were recitations by Willie Jones, Frank Brown, Miss Bessie Brown, Miss Bertha Hill and Miss Lulu Stout. The music at this service was rendered by a chorus of forty voices from the primary department. The annual Christmas sermon was preached after this service by Mr. Jackson, his subject being "One Year Nearer." The choir was filled to its utmost capacity. The collections for the day amounted to a sum which will liquidate the indebtedness within $23.

CRESCENT AVE. CHURCH.

As is the annual custom, the Sunday-schools of the Crescent Avenue church, Hope, Warren and Bethel chapels assembled together in the church for the Christmas exercises, yesterday afternoon. Carol singing was the feature of the service and in addition Rev. Dr. Freeman delivered an address. A solo was contributed by Miss Grace Carroll, of the church choir. The decorations consisted of a large arch of greens back of the pulpit and a suspended star illuminated with electricity.

In the evening, a Christmas service, "The First Christmas," was given. It was conducted by the composer, C. Whitney Coombs, of New York. The music was very pleasing and the words selected with excellent taste, but repetition of both words and music made the service very long.

The regular choir was assisted by a large chorus in the rendition, comprising twenty in all, while Herbert Hemingway Joy presided at the organ. The solo parts were taken by Miss Martha M. Henry, Miss Grace J. Carroll, Charles E. Anderson and Arthur H. Chamberlain.

ST. MARY'S R. C. CHURCH.

The children of the Sunday-school of the St. Mary's R. C. church held their Christmas exercises yesterday afternoon in the Parochial School hall. The exercises were of song and recitation and those who took part were: Katherine Harding, Julia Connolly, John Kyle, Harvey Homan, Adelle Ohl, and Nellis Callahan. The arrangements were under the supervision of Sister Mary Estel. Rev. Father Egan made a short address and later gave out presents of candy and fruit to the children.

EAST THIRD ST. CHAPEL.

While there were no special Christmas services at the East Third Street chapel, yesterday, there were two helpful services, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening. In the afternoon, Rev. George Bowers made an address, the Sunday-school sang a few Christmas carols and Miss Maude Bowers sang a solo. In the evening James A. Parker conducted the regular Gospel service, speaking very appropriately on the subject of "The Good Feast." Both services were well attended.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

While the report of the selection of General Manager W. G. Besler, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey as vice president of the Lehigh Valley proves to be erroneous, there can be no question of the fact that no railroad official in America would be better qualified to fill a position of this character, which combines the necessity of practical railroad experience and sterling executive ability, than Mr. Besler. W. G. Besler comes from a railroad family. His father, J. D. Besler, is a railroad official of wide experience and from 1885 until quite recently, when he was advanced to a higher position in the service of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, he was general superintendent of that road with headquarters in Chicago.—Newark Advertiser.

Quartermaster-General Donnelly, of the State Guard, calls attention again in his annual report to the archaic character of the rifle with which the State troops are equipped. The subject has become stereotyped.

Before the war with Spain the adjutant-general, inspector-general of rifle practice and quartermaster-general, in their reports each year, recommended the adoption of a new modern rifle. The experience of the war with Spain gave strong point to these repeated recommendations, but the State Guard retains the old weapon, while the United States arsenals are filled with the standard magazine rifles that ought to be in the hands of the National Guard.

There are, however, excellent prospects now of the passage by Congress of the militia bill, which was passed by the House of Representatives at the last session, and is to be favorably reported by the Senate committee on military affairs without amendment. Provision is made in this bill for the Secretary of War to issue the necessary arms on requisition by the Governors of States.

The bill provides that there be a reserve militia, consisting of the State military organizations, and a National Volunteer Reserve. The rules and regulations of the United States Army are to govern these bodies. In time of war or invasion the President can call out the militia at his discretion for a period not exceeding nine months. The National Volunteer Reserve will be a National Guard in the broad meaning of the term, and will be drilled at intervals with regulars. Much of the expense that is now met by State appropriation will be assumed by the Federal Government.

The first result of this act of Congress will be the rearming of the National Guard, and the disappearance of the old Springfield. That change alone will act like a tonic on the National Guard.—Newark Advertiser.

ANOTHER PEEP AT OLD SANTA

More Christmas Festivals of Local Sunday-Schools Were Held Last Evening.

DIDN'T MIND WEATHER

Several Enjoyable Entertainments Were Held Last Evening—More to Follow This Evening—Details of the Various Festivals Held Last Night.

Such little things as rain and slush never troubled dear old Santa Claus last night when his trusty old reindeer carried him into town for his annual visit to several of the local Sunday-schools. The young folks didn't mind the unpleasantness of the weather either and several merry gatherings marked the Christmas festivals that were arranged for last night. According to schedule, Saint Nick is coming to Greater Plainfield again tonight when more of the Sunday-schools will hold their Christmas festivals.

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST.

While the weather was far from being agreeable, it did not prevent the members of the Sabbath-school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church and its friends from having a merry celebration of Christmastide, last evening. The edifice was decorated with evergreens, a Christmas tree and a large bell of greens.

The programme, which was in charge of Superintendent David E. Titsworth, opened with an anthem by the school, followed with a vocal selection by a quartette composed of Miss Evalois St. John, Miss Helen Rogers, Alfred Manley and Roy Titsworth. A recitation was given by Miss Hannah Shaw, Miss Elizabeth Wadsworth, Miss Dorothy Hubbard and Miss Jessie Jones, followed with another anthem and a selection by the quartette.

A carol by the school preceded a recitation by Miss Nellie Williams and a song by Miss Violet Jones, Miss Jessie Jones and Evan Jones, and one by Alfred Manley. A cantata entitled "The Toy's Rebellion," of "Kris Kringle's Workshop," was given by a number of the smaller children.

Chas. Titsworth impersonated Santa Claus. Those who took the part of the toys were Phillip Mosher, Alfred and Raymond Manley, Harold Rogers, Helen Rogers, Jeanette Wadsworth, Evalois St. John, Hannah and Helen Shaw, Evan Jones and Grace Stillman. The other children were Ethel Rogers, Violet Jones, Frances Mosher, Milton St. John, Joseph Miller and Boardman Mosher.

After the cantata there was the distribution of gifts by Santa Claus and Superintendent Titsworth. Every member of the primary department received a gift from the tree. All were invited to the parlors where refreshments were served.

Much credit is due Mrs. Nathan E. Lewis, chairman of the entertainment committee, and her assistants, Miss Carrie Randolph, Miss Ernestine C. Smith, Miss Bessy Fitz-Randolph and Miss Myra Clark, for untiring efforts to make the affair the complete success that it was. The gift committee consisted of Miss Ida Spicer and Miss Louella Clawson and the decorating committee of Charles Titsworth and Paul Whitford. Those on the refreshment committee were Mrs. Nathan Randolph, Mrs. David E. Titsworth, Mrs. Ira West, Miss Ida Randolph, Mrs. Fairchild and Mrs. Frank Hubbard.

During the entertainment Mrs. Nathan E. Lewis presided at the piano and Mrs. W. C. Hubbard was at the organ.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

A Christmas entertainment was held last evening at the Grace M. E. church for the benefit of the children of the Sunday-school, when Harry Bryant, a New York ventriloquist and story teller, was present and entertained the children unril late in the evening. Music was a feature.

During the evening Andrew Wilson, one of the committee, came forward and said that Santa had left a few presents in this city which had not been distributed and Miss Alice Geddis, Miss Emma Smalley and Miss

SWORD FOR CAPTAIN.

Non-Commissioned Officers of Company K Presented Their Commander, Capt. Martin With a Sword.

Company K held a drill last evening in its new armory on East Second street when the entire enlistment was present. After the drill, First Sergeant Charles Peterson stepped forward and in a short speech, in which he told of the great esteem in which Captain William B. Martin is held by the members of the company, presented him with a very handsomely decorated sword on behalf of the non-commissioned officers for the company.

Captain Martin was taken by surprise and it was some seconds before he was able to find words in which to convey his gratitude to the company for the gift.

FIRST AUTO SPEEDWAY.

Lakewood's Exclusive Course Has Been Completed on Private Property.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lakewood, Dec. 30—The first automobile speedway in America has been completed. It is a course exclusively for motor vehicles. It lies about a mile north of the village and stretches for about a mile and a quarter through the pine woods. It is eighty feet wide.

The road was first projected and begun last year, and it is said that members of the Gould family agreed to pay half the expenses of building it. First a bed of gravel was laid for a foundation and drainage, and this was topped by a dressing of loam.

Not even saddle horses are allowed on the road, and the only automobilists who are permitted to use it are those holding tickets of membership in the association that built the course. It is absolutely private property, but it is thought likely courtesies will be extended to members of the automobile clubs who aspire to making records.

Interesting Wedding.

Many older residents of the town will be interested in the marriage of Miss Katharine Hays Drake, daughter of Simeon J. Drake, of New York, to Henry Griener which will take place at the Collegiate church, Fifth avenue, New York, January 7. A small reception will follow at the home of the bride's father, 548 Madison avenue. Miss Drake is a granddaughter of the late Rev. Simeon J. Drake, for many years pastor of the First Baptist church, of this place.

Bank's New Year Gift.

Accompanying the gift is a neat booklet containing interesting facts and figures about the bank.

WIFE ILL; THE HOUSE AFIRE

DANIEL VANWINKLE FOUND A DANGEROUS SITUATION AT HIS HOME.

But Fire Was Extinguished Before Much Damage Was Done and Danger Averted.

With his wife ill in bed on the floor above and the lower part of the house deserted, Daniel VanWinkle returned to his home on New street yesterday noon to find that the kitchen was ablaze and the parlors and sitting room filled with smoke. Fortunately the fire was discovered before it had gained great headway and after fifteen minutes hard work he was able to subdue the flames, before much damage had been done.

The fire started from some clothes which were hung on a line in the kitchen and directly over the range. The overheated stove soon set the linen on fire and it was fast communicating to the woodwork when it was discovered. Some children who were playing nearby saw the fire in the kitchen but were unable to make anyone hear their cries of alarm until Mr. VanWinkle was seen approaching.

Had the fire gained much further beadway it would have shut off all escape from the stairs leading from the upper story.

Another Great Industry.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

It is the eastern plant of the Patton Paint Company of Milwaukee. The buildings are models of design for volume and quality of product, and for comfort of employes.

NAILS AND PIN FOR WEAPONS

Mrs. James Scott, Colored, Attacked Geo. O. Stevens, Coal Merchant, in His Office.

SHE IS HELD ON BAIL

Trouble Started Over a Small Order for Coal—Mr. Stevens' Face Badly Mutilated by Finger Nails and Hat Pin—Mrs. Scott Arrested—Is Out on $1,000 Bail.

Using her finger nails and a hat pin as weapons, Mrs. James Scott, colored, of West Front street, badly mutilated the face of George O. Stevens, president of the Consumers Coal Company, yesterday afternoon. In the midst of a dispute over the delivery of one hundred pounds of coal, the woman became infuriated and, it is alleged, sprang upon the merchant as he was seated in his office on Madison avenue. Before he could regain his balance she scratched him in nearly a dozen places, blackened both his eyse and inflicted, it is said, an ugly cut in his head with the hat pin.

A warrant was sworn out for the arrest of Mrs. Scott and this morning she was arraigned before City Judge Runyon. Through her counsel, William Newcorn, she entered a plea of not guilty and after a partial hearing the matter was laid over until tomorrow morning, Mrs. Scott in the meantime being held in $1,000 bail. The amount was furnished by Moses Schloss.

From the testimony of Charles Manning, of Newark, the only witness examined today, the assault was entirely unexpected by Mr. Stevens. Mrs. Scott, he said, entered the office with two colored youths and demanded to know what had become of 100 pounds of coal which she had ordered. Looking over his books, the merchant failed to find any such order and later learned that she had sent a Mrs. Brown after it and the fuel had been sent to the latter's home. Mrs. Scott continued to berate those in the office until finally Mr. Stevens exclaimed, "These —— pounds orders are more nuisance than ten tons and I wish we could get rid of them."

This incensed the woman more than ever, Manning said, and after a few more hotly exchanged words the assault occurred. While the clawing process was taking place, the woman screamed lustily and the two youths sprang in from an outer office, both armed with huge sticks. They were promptly ejected by Manning and C. H. Rugg while Mr. Stevens fought Mrs. Scott off.

Details of Mrs. Scott's side were not heard as Assemblyman Newcorn was unable to remain through the case. He cross examined Manning and his purpose seemed to be to accuse Stevens of profanity and also laying violent hands on the woman before the assault occurred.

OWN PRINTING PLANTS.

Pennsylvania Railroad Is Planning to Do All Its Own Printing.

Plans are being considered by the officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad, whereby all of the company's printing will be done in plants owned by the company. It is said that two plants will be erected, one in Philadelphia and the other in Pittsburg.

Another announcement recently made by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is that it will pay its employes who served with the National Guard during the coal strike full salaries for the time they were away from duty.

To Shorten Distance.

It is announced by the officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad that they will build a new railroad some 200 miles long that will shorten the distance between Baltimore and Pittsburg at least fifty miles; and, in connection with the cut offs to be built west of Pittsburg, will bring Chicago eighty miles nearer Baltimore.

To Bring Prizes.

The next social event at the Park Club will be "progressive hearts" on Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Each person will bring some twenty-five cent article and after the play these will be distributed as prizes.

Big Freight Sheds.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company has plans out for large freight sheds at Jersey City. They will be three stories high, 600 feet long and 300 feet wide.

FELL UNDER HORSE'S HOOFS

ITALIAN STRICKEN WITH EPILEPTIC FIT WHILE WORKING IN STABLE.

Died Soon After His Discovery by a Companion—He Had Been Kicked by Horse.

Early yesterday morning when an Italian laborer went to the stables of Bartle's quarry near Watchung, he found lying on the floor of the stable and almost directly under the horse's hoofs, a fellow laborer in an epileptic fit. He spread the alarm and had the prostrated man carried into one of the Italian lodging houses nearby where he went into convulsions and died. The man was Dominico Di Lonardo, of Watchung, who has been in this country but a few months. There was a deep gash on the side of his face and another on his head and it is believed that the cuts were inflicted when he fell, striking his head against the supports of the stall. The wound in the side of the face has the appearance as though it was caused by the horse's hoof.

The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Henry DeMott, where it was prepared for burial. The funeral services will be conducted from St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, when Rev. Father Miller will be the officiating clergyman. The interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

GRABBED THE WRONG CORD

IT WASN'T LONG BEFORE PASSENGER AND CONDUCTOR CAME TO BLOWS.

A Little Mistake on a Fourth Street Car Made Lots of Excitement and No End of Talk.

Because a local business man mistook the fare register cord in a trolley car for the bell rope, a conductor on the local line has been suspended "pending investigation" and there is no end of talk over the excitement that followed. It all happened a few nights ago on a Fourth street car.

All was going quietly enough until a sleepy passenger was carried by Liberty street where he had wanted to leave the car. The conductor, it is said, offered to transfer him back again on the next car but the idea didn't seem to please the passenger. While the question was being argued pro and con with considerable vehemence, the business man undertook to come to the rescue of his fellow passenger. He grabbed the first cord that came handy and had rung up several fares before the mistake was discovered. It is said that he broke the cord.

According to the story now current, the conductor turned his attention to the business man and after some high words challenged him to "have it out." The challenge was accepted and the occupants of the car adjourned to the street while traffic on that end of the line was temporarily suspended. The passengers formed a ring and a brisk rough-and-tumble fight ensued.

Rumor has it that there were some lively times but neither man appears to have suffered very severely. At any rate, the case was reported to the trolley officials and the conductor is not working now while an investigation is to be made.

Talked on India.

The illustrated talk on India given at the First Baptist church, Sunday evening, was one of the best on that subject. Rev. Dr. C. L. Rhoades, who gave the lecture, is exceptionally well informed on the subject and not only his talk, but the views were of deep interest. The lantern was operated by Charles E. Vail, of Orchard place.

Can Interest All.

Dr. MacArthur, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, New York city, says: "It is quite certain that Henry T. Bryant can interest any audience, old or young." Mr. Bryant, the ventriloquist and humorist, will appear with other talent in the entertainment of the Y. M. C. A. Star Course on New Year's night.

Visited Shipyards.

Kenneth Robbie, the boys' department secretary of the Y. M. C. A., took a part of the boys in his department to Elizabe th yesterday afternoon. They visited the Crescent shipyards of that city. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in making a tour of the different departments in the great shipyards.

George Wise is happy over the arrival of a fine nine-pound boy at his home on Duer street. The little stranger arrived this morning at 1:30.

FOR AN ARMORY.

Profits of Company K's Minstrel Show Will Go Toward an Armory Building Fund.

Company K's minstrel troop has decided to use the money cleared on its coming entertainment as a neucleus for an armory building fund. An option has been secured on a desirable piece of property almost in the center of the city and its purchase is certain. The members of the company are certain that the structure will soon be erected.

On the second night of the minstrel performance Colonel Collins with his full staff in dress uniform will occupy one of the boxes. Other distinguished officers from distant parts of the State have also promised to attend.

NO NEW SCHOOL.

Citizens of Somerville Again Vote Down Proposition to Bond Town for New School.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 30—The citizens of Somerville are not in favor of getting into debt for the purpose of having better school facilities. This was demonstrated at an election held Saturday afternoon when the three following propositions—a new school building on the present site to cost $55,000, grounds and a new building in East Somerville to cost $8,000—were voted down by a majority of 142 votes. Nearly 900 votes were cast. The polls were open from 3 to 6 o'clock, and both sides worked like beavers.

This is the second time a vote has been taken on the question of new school buildings for Somerville.

FOR MEDICAL STAFF.

Dr. Zeglio Named to Fill Place of Dr. Probasco on Hospital Staff.

There were seven members of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital present at the regular meeting last evening, and there was not much business of great importance considered. Dr. Zeglio was appointed to take the place of Dr. J. B. Probasco on the hospital staff, and Drs. J. Hervey Buchanan, Marcus L. Clawson, Albert Pittis and A. F. VanHorn were appointed assistants to the regular hospital staff to be called whenever needed. The other business transacted was of a routine nature.

All but Dr. VanHorn were appointed as assistants to the medical staff, while he was appointed assistant in the eye and ear department. The number of patients treated in the hospital for the month ending December 23, was sixty-five, and there were twenty remaining on that date. There were sixty-three dispensary patients and 217 visits of dispensary patients This was a record month.

He was manipulating the contrivance at the time when the digits were caught and badly mangled. He went to Roosevelt Hospital, New York, where all four were amputated.

Under New Name.

The Criterion Club, formerly known as the O Be Joyful, met last evening and decided to hold a dance in the Casino, Thursday evening, January 29. The club has been reorganized on new lines and a prosperous season is predicted. Westervelt will furnish the music for the dance.

New Boiler.

A new boiler has just arrived at Pond Machine Tool Company's plant from the makers, Bigelow & Co., of New Haven, Conn. The boiler is a tremendous one and is larger than any of the others now installed at the shops. The boiler will be placed in position in a few days.

Christmas Tree at Holy Cross.

The Christmas tree and festival of the Sunday-school of the Holy Cross church will be held this evening. The hour of service in the church is 7:45.

SOCIETY FOLK AS CHILDREN

In and Out Club Gave Unique Children's Party at the Park Club Last Night.

'TWAS A NOVEL AFFAIR

Local Society Folk Appeared in Costumes of the Youthful Generation—Played Children's Games Until Old Santa Claus Came—Then Enjoyed Dancing.

The In and Out Club gave another of its unique dances last evening at the Park Club which was quite as novel as the barn dance which was given last month at the Barnaby estate. Last night's affair was a Lilliputian's Christmas dance and the costumes worn at the party were quite as novel as the idea of the dance itself. Each person appeared in a child's costume. The women were attired in schoolgirl's short dresses with their hair hanging down their backs in long braids while the men appeared in captivating knickerbockers and shirt waists and large red sashes or were attired in little girl's dresses with an abundance of flowing golden locks and pink cheeks.

The interior of the club rooms was prettily decorated with greens suggestive of Christmastide. Wreaths of greens were hung about the walls and festoons of holly and southern smilax completed the decorations. The orchestra was concealed behind a large canopy of greens and at one end of the room.

During the fore part of the evening the guests played children's games. For a time the hall had the appearance of a children's party until from behind the corner of the room partly obscured by greens a gray whiskered Santa Claus appeared in the person of Harry L. McGee, who pranced about the room distributing favors to the guests. The favors were little toys, stuffed animals and children's trinkets.

After the distribution of the favors the dancing began and was continued until a late hour. Among the costumes which were especially noticeable upon the floor were those of Frederic W. Goddard, who was attired as a black "mammy" accompanied by A. Willis West and Laurens H. VanBuren, who were dressed as little pickanninies. Miss Charlotte Lowe and Miss Marjorie Fleming appeared as twins and carried their parts very cleverly.

The committee which had the affair in charge comprised Mrs. C. W. McGee, Miss Helen Bushnell, Miss Fanny C. Cox, Mrs. Lewis E. Waring, the Misses Waring and Miss Charlotte Lowe, to whom much credit is due for the success of the affair.

Prizes were offered for the guests appearing in the most unique costume and the boys' prizes were awarded to James Middledith and Raymond A. McGee, as pickinninies, and the girls' prizes were won by Miss Marjorie Fleming and Miss Charlotte Lowe who were attired as the "Heavenly Twins." The boy's prize was a large steamboat and the girl's prize was a doll carriage and dolls.

Among those invited were: Mr. and Mrs. E. M. VanBuren, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Timpson, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Waring, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Blake and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murphy, which includes the patronesses.

The Misses May Waring, Maude VanBoskerck, Daisy VanBoskerck, Edna Strong, Bettie Steele, Mary Anderson Reinhart, May Rodman, Lucy Otterson, Helen Bushnell, Marian Bowen, Fanny C. Cox, Elsie Burke, May Evans, Florence Huntington, Charlotte Lowe, Genevieve Lee, Annie Murphy, Elsie Martin, Helen Martin, Nancy Lawson, Edith de Russy, Gertrude Waldo and Florence Waring, Miss Stuart, the Misses Holly, the Misses Randolph and Miss McCready.

SMUGGLING IN PORTO RICO.

Investigation Tends to Implicate Certain Army Officers.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 30.—The hearing of the smuggling cases before United States Commissioner Anderson was resumed here yesterday. The session lasted all day and was devoted to the charges against Lieutenant Commander George W. Mentz, U. S. N., Supervisor of Elections Benjamin Butler and James Brennan, an employee of the Country club. The testimony of ten witnesses was taken. The evidence tended to implicate certain army officers.

Some teamsters testified to having removed fifteen or sixteen boxes from the naval station here to the barracks and others to a private house in the suburbs of Santurce, which was identified as the home of Robert Giles, a government road contractor, also under charges of smuggling. The teamsters said they were ignorant of the contents of the boxes they handled, that they did not know the person who delivered them nor the person who received them. They said they were working under the orders of Lieutenant Stewart McC. Decker, commissary of the Porto Rico regiment, who was present at the station when the boxes were removed. Captain Joseph T. Crabbs of the quartermaster's department, his chief clerk and Lieutenant Decker testified that Captain Crabbs had said he was complying with a request from the naval station for conveyances, but that the captain was not present at the time of the occurrence in question and had no record of the orders relating to it.

Lieutenant Decker refused to testify concerning the loading of the wagons at the naval station. He was asked if goods belonging to him had been removed and answered no. Commissioner Anderson then requested Lieutenant Decker to answer the question whether or not he was in charge of loading the wagon at the naval station. This the lieutenant refused to do. The commissioner then ordered Lieutenant Decker to appear before a judge and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court. The hearing then adjourned.

Lorenz's Assistant Works Wonders.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Dr. Frederick Mueller, Dr. Lorenz's assistant, has performed three very difficult operations in the operating room in St. Mark's hospital, corner of Eleventh street and Second avenue. The operations were performed in the presence of about sixty of New York's most distinguished surgeons. One of them was on an eleven-year-old girl who had suffered from birth from dislocation of the right hip joint. As nine years is placed by Dr. Lorenz as the practical age limit for such operations the success with which Dr. Mueller manipulated the deformed limb of the child called forth a storm of applause from the spectators.

Lemon Juice a Foe to Typhoid.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—That lemon juice will destroy the typhoid germs in water is authoritatively announced by the Chicago health department after careful experiments extending over the last three days. One teaspoonful of the juice to half a glassful of water is known to be a good combination, and repeated trials have invariably produced the same result—every germ was killed. The investigation followed and the result confirms the announcement made on Christmas day by Dr. Asa Ferguson, a London physician, to the effect that lemon juice was a deadly foe to typhoid.

THE TREATY OPPOSED

Friends of Cuban Reciprocity Are Concerned.

PRESIDENT TAKES A HOPEFUL VIEW

In the Meantime He Is Holding Conferences With Senators Who Have Objections to Proposed Concessions.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Considerable opposition is developing to the ratification of the Cuban reciprocity treaty now pending in the senate. It is not taking quite the form that the opposition to the Cuban legislation took last spring, but it is sufficient in substance to give concern to the friends of the treaty.

From time to time as opportunity offers the president is discussing the matter with senators, particularly those who are known to have objected to the enactment of legislation extending tariff concessions to the Cuban republic. Several weeks ago it appeared that the treaty when presented to the senate would be ratified without difficulty, but some senators now are taking as strong ground against the treaty as they took against the legislation proposed at the last session of congress. These senators are of two classes, those who are opposed on principle to any tariff tinkering and those who represent states whose products may be affected by the concessions extended to Cuba by the pending treaty.

Senators of the first class might be induced to support the treaty inasmuch as it does not involve in their view an attack on the system of protection were it not for their apprehension that the ratification of the Cuban treaty may lead to a demand from other countries that they, too, be accorded special tariff concessions by the United States. It has been indicated to the president that in the event of the ratification of the Cuban treaty a demand may be expected from Germany within thirty days for concessions similar to those accorded Cuba. The most distinct desire of the German emperor, it is pointed out, is for the extension of the foreign commerce of his empire. If tariff concessions are granted to Cuba, Germany under the most favored nation clause will request that she be given similar concessions. That request may take the form almost of a demand. If it be not granted, the fear is expressed that Germany may initiate legislation that will be inimical to the industrial development of this country so far as Germany is concerned, even if it should not curtail American commerce already established in Germany and its possessions.

The same argument is applied to other countries, Germany being used simply as an example of what may be expected of all of the great foreign nations with which the United States has extensive commercial relations.

Yesterday the president had an hour's conference with Senator Scott of West Virginia, during which they discussed the reciprocity question in all its phases. Senator Scott is offering no captious opposition to the Cuban treaty, but he is particularly desirous that nothing should be done that in the end might result in any recession on the part of the United States in its present tariff policy.

The president, it is understood, believes that the pending treaty with Cuba will be ratified. He desires that it should be ratified as promptly as possible and with as little friction as may be. He sees in the proposed ratification no possible assault on the tariff system of this country and believes that it would be simply the redemption of a promise, direct or implied, made to the Cuban people when they were in the throes of the organization of their government. In this view the president is supported by a large majority of the Republican senators.

NO EXTRA SESSION.

Palma and Cabinet So Decide Regarding Reciprocity Matter.

HAVANA, Dec. 30.—After a lengthy conference between President Palma, the members of the cabinet and leading senators it has been decided not to call an extra session of the senate to discuss the reciprocity treaty with the United States. President Palma is anxious to bring the discussion of this measure to an immediate conclusion and has urged the senate to resume its session Jan. 5 instead of waiting until Jan. 12. Senator Capote, chairman of the foreign relations committee, said it was impossible to resume before the 12th, as the committee would not be ready to report on the 5th. Many senators are absent in the country and cannot return to Havana by the 5th inst. He said also that the matter was too important to discuss without the presence of a majority of the senators.

The Avisador Comercial urges increases in the duties on flour, ham and bacon in the event of the acceptance of the reciprocity treaty. The duties on these articles were enormously reduced at the beginning of the American intervention.

United States Minister Squiers has formally begun negotiations in the matter of securing a coaling station on the Isle of Pines. It is understood that the United States asks for one naval and three coaling stations.

Superintendent Dickey Dead.

His death was very sudden and was the result of an attack of grip which later developed into pneumonia. Only the members of his immediate family were at his bedside when death came.

THE DURBAR IN DELHI

Celebration of Edward's Accession In India.

VICEROY CURZON'S STATE ENTRY.

Pageant of Unparalleled Magnificance In Honor of Empire's New Ruler—Coronation Ceremonies on New Year's Day.

DELHI, India, Dec. 30.—Lord Curzon, the viceroy of India, accompanied by Lady Curzon, the vicereine, formerly Miss Mary Leiter of Chicago, have arrived at Delhi to take part in the durbar. They were accorded royal honors and marched in procession through the town to the viceroy's encampment, seven miles beyond the Delhi wall.

It was a splendid pageant, unparalleled in magnificence. At the head of the elephant procession rode Lord and Lady Curzon on the state "grand tusker," twelve feet high, the largest elephant in India.

Their howdah was decked with gold and hidden beneath a gold worked saddlecloth. Surrounding them were footmen in scarlet and gold liveries and bearing massive silver staves.

The Duke of Connaught, who represented King Edward, and the Duchess of Connaught followed. Their elephant was equally gorgeously caparisoned. Then, in order of precedence, came the nizam of Hyderabad, the maharajah of Travancore and other ruling chiefs, seventy in all, their huge elephants forming a line a quarter of a mile in length.

Lord Curzon was greeted at the station by all the Indian princes, who assembled there with large escorts of cavalry and infantry, while royal elephants, the finest animals in India, were extended in a row outside the station yard. The viceroy and vicereine greeted the princes individually, who salaamed, while the escort band played the national air.

Lord Curzon wore his state uniform of scarlet and gold, and the Indians were attired in magnificent silk suits covered with jewels and with swords studded with gems at their sides.

The viceroy was escorted by the princes from the station to the yard, where he and Lady Curzon mounted their elephant. The procession then started. At the head rode a cavalry escort, with twelve trumpeters, six English, six Indian, by the side of the herald. The heralds' costume was of bright scarlet worked with gold and cost $2,000.

From the saluting battery posted at the fort commanding the Lahore gate guns thundered out a royal salute as the viceroy passed, with the heralds and trumpeters sounding at intervals spirited fanfares.

The cortege passed in front of a magnificent line of 150 elephants carrying the brilliantly dressed retainers of the ruling chiefs.

The route of the procession led through the native section of Delhi and then along the European quarter. Everybody in the place lined the roadway, and the route from the station to the viceregal marquee was kept clear by double military forces running the whole way. There were 30,000 native and English soldiers employed in this way.

Today the viceroy opened the great Indian arts exhibition, which happily had been arranged in combination with the durbar.

The crowning event will be the coronation in the great amphitheater on New Year's day.

Telephone Lineman Killed.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Dec. 30.—Charles Cresotte, aged thirty-five, a telephone lineman employed by the American Contracting company, was shocked to death while stringing telephone wires in this city. A spur on his foot tore the insulation from an electric light wire, and when he took hold of a guy wire with one hand a circuit was formed. A companion went to his rescue and dropped him thirty feet into a horse blanket held by three men like a life net, but Cresotte died within five minutes.

Rapid Fire Gun Contract.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The award of a contract for a rapid fire six inch type gun was made to the trustees of the Brown segmental wire tube gun by the chief of ordnance of the army under an allotment of $41,000 provided by the board of ordnance and fortification. The gun must give a muzzle velocity of 3,500 foot seconds, which is in advance of 500 foot seconds over the velocity given by any gun in the army.

Tung Fuh Siang Is Formidable.

PEKING, Dec. 30.—According to messages received here from the British consul at Hankow, whose judgment is exceptionally trustworthy, the movements of Tung Fuh Siang give reason to expect trouble. Tung Fuh Siang is supposed to have 10,000 warriors under his command in Kansu province. He can easily dominate the provinces of Kansu and Shensi, as the local imperial forces are very inferior.

A Centenarian Dead.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 30.—Miss Mahala Terry of Terry Plains, in the town of Simsbury, is dead at her home. She was 100 years of age July 4 of this year. That event was celebrated by members of Abigail Phelps chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, with which Miss Terry was connected as an original Daughter of the Revolution.

BOLD DIAMOND THIEF

Window of a New York Shop Smashed and Gems Taken.

CAPTURED AFTER EXCITING CHASE.

Robbery Committed In Full View of Passing Crowds—Ten Thousand Dollars' Worth of Jewels Taken—Three Articles Found.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—In full view of the passing crowds a huge plate glass show window in the pawnshop of R. Simpson & Co., 14 West Forty-second street, was smashed with a Belgian paving block, and $10,000 worth of diamonds were stolen.

Only three of the gems were recovered after the capture of the robber. It is believed by the police that several men were in the job and that the man who broke the window passed the jewels to confederates.

After a most exciting chase, which was entered into by hundreds of men and boys, the robber, who drew a pistol and fought desperately for his liberty, was captured at Eighth avenue and Fortieth street. He was more dead than alive when the police rescued him from the crowd of pursuers. His clothes were torn off, his eyes were almost closed from blows he had received, several teeth were out, his lips were cut and swollen, and he was a sad picture of an unsuccessful highwayman.

He is nineteen years old and calls himself William Madison of Boston.

Madison said he came from Boston about a week ago. He was broke and hungry, he said, and while passing along Forty-second street he saw the jewel laden window. Simpson always has a startling display of diamonds in the window, which is not guarded on the outside by bars of any kind. It is said at the store that at the time the window was broken there was on show about $150,000 worth of jewels, watches, etc. There was one necklace valued at $6,500. This was not in the tray which Madison grabbed.

Liquor Distiller In Trouble.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 30.—George W. Meredith, a wealthy liquor distiller at East Liverpool, O., has been bound over here to the United States grand jury in the sum of $5,000 by United States Commissioner Simpson on the charge of making false entries and with rectifying spirits without giving notice to the internal revenue authorities. He is also charged with altering inspection marks, selling liquors under fraudulent brands, shipping them under false trade names and failing to destroy the marks and stamps on empty spirit packages. A part of Meredith's plant at East Liverpool has been seized by the internal revenue officials pending a hearing of the case.

A Memorial to Mrs. Palmer.

BOSTON, Dec. 30.—Representative educators in a conference here have decided to invite subscriptions to a fund with which to establish a suitable memorial to the life and work of the late Alice Freeman Palmer, formerly president of Wellesley college, long a member of the Massachusetts state board of education and formerly advisory dean of the women's department of Chicago university. A committee of five was appointed to choose a memorial that would seem to all her friends, not only in the east, but in the west, the most suitable and most permanent.

Leopold's Renunciation Accepted.

VIENNA, Dec. 30.—The semiofficial Wiener Abend Post says Emperor Francis Joseph has accepted Archduke Leopold Ferdinand's renunciation of his rank, has sanctioned his adoption of a civil name, Woefling, announced shortly after his flight to Geneva with his sister Louise, crown princess of Saxony, and has also ordered that his name be stricken off the list of the Knights of the Golden Fleece and of the army. The Lutheran clergy of Saxony have issued an order striking the name of the crown princess from public prayers.

Mrs. Fremont's Body to Be Cremated.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 30.—In accordance with her wishes the body of Mrs. Jessie Benton Fremont will be cremated. The funeral was held today from the Episcopal church. Mrs. Fremont had left in a safety deposit vault simple but explicit directions for the disposition of her remains, and her wishes will be carried out as far as it is possible to do so. Her ashes are to be buried beside the grave of General Fremont on the Hudson, and thus will be fulfilled one of the chief desires of Mrs. Fremont's last years.

Engineer Killed.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Dec. 30.—The Santa Fe eastbound overland train No. 4, which left San Francisco at 9:30 a. m., crashed into a light engine side tracked at Syam, a station between Danby and Needles, killing Engineer Charles Hayward and seriously injuring Fireman A. Arkills. M. L. Shackelford, fireman on the overland, was badly bruised and had an arm mangled. Engineer James Gray of the overland escaped by jumping. Both engines were wrecked.

Outlaws Captured.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Dec. 30.—Federal officers are en route to Guthrie with four outlaws who were captured after a battle with the officers, commanded by Deputy Sheriff Foster of Perry. No one was wounded. The outlaws had robbed the postoffice at Mulhall of $400 in money and stamps.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

Although the Common Council for 1903 will hold its first meeting Thursday evening, the annual message of Mayor Jenkins need not be expected until the first of next week. The meeting on New Year's night is simply held to conform with the law and the bulk of the business which ordinarily comes before the Council at the first meeting in the month will be transacted on the Monday evening following.

There is reason to believe that Mayor Jenkins' message this year will be of special interest. There are two subjects which he is likely to refer. There is his proposition of public parks and a public lake and the installation of a police alarm system, a patrol wagon and a new police headquarters. As far as the first is concerned, it is quite likely that Mayor Jenkins will make some recommendations along the lines laid down in his speech at the Board of Trade banquet. Just how he will treat the second subject is not known. It is realized, however, that the rest of the administration favors the improvement of the police department along those lines so that it is reasonable to believe that the Mayor takes the same view of the needs of the city in that direction.

A LEADER NEEDED.

Major Carl Lentz has been re-elected chairman of the Republican county committee over in Essex after he was turned down for sheriff at the polls by the voters of his party last November. There wasn't a vote against him and he was given quite a flattering reception. Nevertheless, it cannot be doubted that his re-election to the place is not popular with the rank and file. The Republicans have a powerful "machine" in Essex county. It was strong enough to give him the chairmanship although it couldn't make him sheriff.

Just what the effect of this action will be it is impossible to say. It is not likely, however, to improve the harmonious conditions there. It looks very much as if it meant to line the "machine" up against the independent element which was the means of Major Lentz's defeat for sheriff. There is one thing about it, however, what the independents did before they can do again and it looks as if the "machine" was likely to find anything but a smooth path if it tries to dictate too much in county affairs.

This is only another instance of the need of the New Jersey Republicans to find a leader. Only when some man, whose personality is strong enough to influence the squabbling factions, comes to the fore can the Republicans hope to end their present troubles in Essex, Union and Somerset. The Republicans are in power now but factional differences in both Essex and Somerset cost them county offices that could have been captured with better management. When a natural leader arises, he will find plenty to do in order to bring his party back to its real strength. It was the wonderful ability of General Sewell along these same lines that gave him his powerful influence in the affairs of the State. It was his guiding hand that kept the Republicans of the State together and played a prominent part in bringing that party into its present strength. Another Sewell is needed today.

New Jersey has now the first automobile speedway in America. It is located at Lakewood and is entirely on private property. This is as it should be. If there are those who desire to speed these horseless vehicles faster than the law allows, they should have some place of their own where the life and limb of the general public is not endangered. So many owners of motor cars use the public thoroughfares for their own amusement and countless accidents are the result. It isn't that people object to the speeding of automobiles in the proper place but the general sentiment is against the conversion of the public highways into race tracks.

A great many business men advertised extensively for the holiday trade who do not advertise in the newspapers at other times, relates the Philadelphia Record. Yet it is especially at other times that they would like to stimulate trade. By continuing to use the newspaper columns for smaller advertisements they could retain the benefit of their recent spreading. To stop now for a year or for a month is to lose the prestige they have gained.

Decidedly this has been an old-fashioned winter. Already the snow has covered the ground for more days than is the case in the usual Jersey winter. A little while ago, we heard that the Gulf Stream had changed its course and was accountable for the mild winters of the last few years. That stream must have strayed again if this vigorous kind of winter weather is to be acounted for.

The New Brunswick friends of State Senator Strong profess to be well satisfied with the result of the Senatorial caucus albeit their Senator was not chosen majority candidate for president. His fight managed to gain for Middlesex more than its usual share of the good things coming the way of the party in power. As for poor Somerset, it wasn't even thought of.

The year's work in the city departments will be summed up at the Common Council meeting tomorrow night. Some interesting reports will be read. A synopsis of them will appear in The Daily Press Friday.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Some people rubbed their eyes and wondered if spring was here.

DUNELLEN.

A number of places around town were burglarized Sunday evening and it is quite a mystery as to what the motive was. One place visited was the shanty occupied by Charley Williams at the Grove street crossing. There some cooking utensils and some eatables were stolen. After that some of the railroad tool boxes were visited and a number of quite valuable tools were stolen. The thieves did not try to enter any houses but confined their operations along the railroad tracks.

Miss Grace Wilcox, of Prospect avenue, entertained a number of friends at her home in Prospect avenue last evening in honor of her guest, Miss Lingo, of Philadelphia. The time was spent in a delightful way with music and dancing.

An entertainment will be held in the Presbyterian chapel this evening. A number of Will Carleton's selections will be given by Mr. Campbell.

The complaints about the lack of a waiting room at the trolley terminus have been many and long during the bad weather of the last few days.

Skating is spoiled but the small boys are enjoying the coasting. Craig's hill is the point where most of them congregate.

Building operations on the Roman Catholic parsonage have been suspended during the last few days.

When the change is made which will make the local postoffice third instead of fourth class, Postmaster Day will receive a salary of $1,000 for the first year. This will doubtless increase as the number of stamps sold there is quite large.

The skating has been totally ruined by the storm of yesterday which made the ice very rough. It will be some time before it will be fit for skating again.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Impressive funeral services of the late Anna H. Cleaver, widow of the late Thomas Cleaver, were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Notwithstanding the stormy weather a large number of the friends of the deceased gathered to pay their last respects to one they had known and loved for years. Rev. G. M. Shott, pastor of the church, had charge of the service taking for his text: "Death, where is thy sting, oh grave, where is thy victory?" During his remarks he spoke feelingly of the Christian life just closed and entered unto her reward. Several handsome floral offerings spoke words of tender sympathy from sorrowing relatives and friends. Interment was made in the family plot in the cemetery adjoining the church.

The trackwalker for the Fanwood section of the railroad, while patroling his beat yesterday afternoon, caught an Italian stealing brasses from one of the company's cars located near the station. The man was brought to the freight office and turned over to Agent Hunt until an officer could be sent for to place the man under arrest. A hearing will be given later.

It is reported that George E. Hall, administrator of the John R. Marsh estate, has notified the Plainfield Bill Posting Company to remove its large bill board recently erected on the Marsh property near the trolley, the permit to erect same being obtained from one of the heirs of the estate.

The Christmas exercises of the Baptist Sunday-school will be held at 7:30 tonight in the church. A pleasing programme has been arranged and the friends of the school are invited to attend and enjoy the evening with the school.

The local players on last season's ball team were remembered by the club on Christmas in a substantial way, each one receiving $10 in cash. The donation was a pleasant surprise, coming as it did unexpectedly.

Frank and Rogers Haskard, of Grant avenue, Plainfield, have been spending a few days with their grandmother, Mrs. John R. Haskard, of Grand street.

Skating on the several ponds through the valley is reported as excellent and the young people are enjoying their first good skating of the season.

Special Officer Henry Guerrier, who resigned from the local force several weeks ago, is again doing duty at the Park avenue crossing of the trolley.

The regular monthly observance of the Lord's Supper will be held at the close of the morning service at the Baptist church on Sunday.

Rev. G. M. Shott was in New York, Monday, attending the Ministers' Conference meeting.

Frederick Clark has added a consignment of young pigs to his stock of horses and cows.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Sunday-school Christmas service at the Baptist church last night was well rendered. The music led by a large choir of young men and women was of a high order. The speaking by the pupils attracted the continued interest of all. Especially pleasing was the singing of a piece entitled, "Cradled in a Manger," by several children of the primary class, and a recitation by little Margaret Randolph entitled "Christmas Secrets."

J. W. Lindabury, who is the new yardmaster of the Lehigh Valley yards at this place, which includes the jurisdiction of the eastern system of the large coal storing plant, was promoted to the position from foreman of block signal power men, to which he rose through the various grades from telegraph operator.

A ripple of excitement was caused recently by the runaway of a horse belonging to J. B. Delafield. The carriage was wrecked.

Harry Weaver, who was confined at home two or three days by sickness has returned to his work as yard master at Easton.

Rev. J. D. Grul, of New Brunswick, visited at Peter Johnson's yesterday and today.

William Riley will occupy the Hogan hotel at the beginning of the year.

Prayer and conference meeting will be held at the church tonight.

Charles Geer, of Somerville, was in town on business yesterday.

Mary Steiner all received gifts from the members of their respective classes. Rev. Dr. Edwin L. Earp, received a very handsome present from the teachers and members of the school in the shape of a very pretty hand-painted china tankard. All of the officers and the teachers of the school received a book from the superintendent of the school, John Valiant.

The committee which arranged and distributed the presents to the children comprised Mrs. Anna Most, Miss Mary A. Steiner, Miss Della Voehl and Andrew Wilson, and Rev. Dr. Edwin L. Earp.

MONROE AVE. CHURCH

An amusing cantata, "Christmas With the Pixies," formed the entertainment at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, last evening. It was given in a very creditable manner by the children of the Sunday-school and was enjoyed by many friernds.

Those who participated were Avis Aldrich, Matida VanDeusen, Charles Leland, Herbert Hillman, Agnes Brown, Harry Lade, William Hillman and Chrystelle McMurray, taking the solo parts; and Ada Thompson, Elsie Organ, Sadie Brown, Marion Praed, Arthur Stryker, Fred Jacobs, Flossy Brown, May Stafford, Clara Gilbert, Samuel Organ, John Ladd, William Miner, Wilbur Savaracool, Victor Houston and Herbert Rittenhouse. YOUNG WOMEN'S CLUB.

The annual Christmas festivities of the Young Women's Club were held last evening in the clubrooms, corner of Park and North avenues. Of the forty-eight members of the club, thirty were present The programme consisted of vocal and instrumental selections by Miss Anna Warnock; piano and vocal selections by Miss Justina Smith, president of the club; recitations by Miss Try Mattox.

Following the entertainment and distribution of gifts dancing was the chief amusement for the rest of the evening. During the social hour refreshments were served. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Miss Viola Conklin, Miss Genevieve Lee and Mrs. Dora Sutton, together with the assistance of the club's presidents.

ROAD BUILDING IN JERSEY

THE STATE AHEAD OF ALL OTHERS IN THAT RESPECT.

Newark News Comments on Annual Report of State Road Commissioner.

Should the National Government conclude to accept the advice of State Road Commissioner Budd, given in his annual report to Governor Murphy, and expend a goodly portion of its surplus in aiding the States to build good roads, says the Newark News in the editorial column, it could come to New Jersey to gain experience and investigate results. In the matter of good road building New Jersey is the peer of any of the commonwealths, and is far in advance of nearly all of them. There are over one hundred miles of improved highways in the State, and of these 796 were constructed with State aid. The demand for stone roads is constantly on the increase, for the people know a good thing when they see it, and Commissioner Budd recommends that the appropriation by the State, which was increased $100,000 last year, be augmented by $50,000 next year, making the amount $300,000.

Already New Jersey has expended in building stone roads over a million and a quarter of dollars. Every county but one—Hunterdon—has taken advantage of the good roads law, and the fact that these counties are clamoring for the privilege of drawing more heavily on the State treasury, though in order to do so large expenditures by the local authorities are necessitated, proves that the people believe the money has been wisely invested. Commissioner Budd calls attention to the fact that it is now possible to travel from Jersey City to Atlantic City on good roads, showing the system of connected highways which it has been the plan of the department to improve. There are other lines of improved highway leading nearly across the State, and it is the ambition of the commissioner to fill in the gaps as rapidly as possible. The great progress that has been made has appealed to the business instincts of both the urban and the rural dweller, and has therefore made the carrying out of the plan more easy of accomplishment.

Commissioner Budd is not the only good roads man who is urging federal aid in road building, nor is he the first to make the suggestion. But coming from a man who has had a wide experience in that form of public enterprise and one who has been at the head of a successful system, his advice is worthy of serious consideration. Other nations have built good roads, which have been a source of pride and profit. In following their example the United States would not be trying an experiment with the fear that it might prove to be a failure. In this matter the federal government would make no mistake in helping those States willing to help themselves.

Just a Little Run.

Dennis Galbraith's delivery horse ran away this morning and for a time caused some excitement. The horse started from in front of his store on North avenue and dashed down the street to Park avenue before it was by captured two colored men. But little damage was done to the wagon.

AMERICAN CONSUL HONORED.

Chinese Exhibit Unusual Feeling For Our Representative at Chefoo.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—A striking manifestation of the complete confidence which the Chinese feel in the fairness and honesty of purpose and disinterestedness of the United States government and its officials as a result of the Boxer uprising and the subsequent negotiations is afforded in a report to the state department descriptive of the presentation of three magnificent silver vases to John F. Fowler, United States consul at Chefoo, by the united guilds of that Chinese city. One of the vases was eighteen inches in height and was said to be the most elaborate piece of silverware ever seen in that city. It was flanked by two smaller vases of most beautiful design and workmanship.

The presentation was made by C. T. Tong, the president of the united guilds, who delivered a most interesting address expressive of the esteem and affection felt by the Chinese for Mr. Fowler personally and of high appreciation of the good offices of the United States in China's troubles. This was the first instance of a foreign consul having been honored by the entire native city.

When the consul left Ningpo for Chefoo, every national official was at the dock to bid him gooby. There were 2,000 soldiers lining the dock, and for eighteen miles down the river there was a continual din from the junks, etc., until the great forts were reached, where a salute was fired, the first ever delivered in honor of a foreign consul. The presentation of the silverware took place Oct. 11, and besides ten Chinese gentlemen there were present the leading American citizens of the place and Captain Barry of the Vicksburg and several of his officers.

NAVAL MANEUVERS BEGIN.

Philippine Fleet In Operation—Cholera In Mindanao.

MANILA, Dec. 30.—The naval maneuvers have begun with the retreat of the fleet to Subig bay and the seizure of a fortification on shore to serve as a naval base. The fleet entered the bay by the west channel, which was then mined by the battleship Kentucky, the flagship, in fifty-five minutes. In the meanwhile the transport Zafiro had landed 200 marines on Grand island, at the entrance of the bay. The marines laid 400 yards of railroad approaching the heights, where three batteries and a camp were established. The tug Wompatuck mined the inner channel.

The United States steamer Rainbow, carrying Rear Admiral Frank Wildes, who has been ordered home, sailed last Friday. She was saluted by the Kentucky, and Admiral Evans signaled farewell.

Moros on the island of Mindanao report that the cholera is depopulating the villages on the east side of Lake Lanao. At Macir there is an average of fifty deaths a day. The disease also prevails at Bacolod. It has appeared on all sides of Lake Lanao, but the Visayan residents of the island do not yet seem to have been attacked.

Coal Trust Suits Must Wait.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 30.—Attorney General Davies has promulgated a decision upon the application pending before him for the commencement of an action against the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company and others under the so called antitrust law. He defers the whole question to his successor, saying that no further action will be taken during his term of office. In his memorandum he reviews the history of the petition before him, refraining from "embarrassing my successor," as he says, "by any expression of opinion upon my part."

Atlanta Theater Burned.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 30.—The Star theater building on Decatur street has been completely destroyed by fire. A vaudeville company was giving a rehearsal in the theater when startled by cries of fire, and the members of the company made a hasty retreat from the burning building in their stage costumes. All the theatrical company and others who were in the building escaped without injury. The burned building cost about $30,000. There was no insurance.

Partridge's Application Granted.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 30.—Attorney General Davies filed a memorandum granting the application of John N. Partridge, police commissioner of New York city, to commence actions in the nature of quo warranto against certain police captains of the city of New York. The application originally against nineteen captains was based upon charges that these captains were appointed in violation of the provisions of the civil service law.

President Schurman Goes West.

ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 30.—President Jacob Gould Schurman has left Ithaca for an extended western trip. He will visit several of the larger cities and will speak on political and educational topics. The cities where he is already scheduled to speak include Omaha, St. Louis, Chicago and Lincoln, Neb. President Schurman will speak in the latter city Thursday on "Our Philippine Problem."

Could Not Fix Blame.

TRINIDAD, Colo., Dec. 30.—The jury that held an inquest over the bodies of eight men killed in the collision between freight trains on the Colorado and Southern railroad last Wednesday night returned a verdict that it was unable to attach blame to any one.

France Has an Earthquake.

BAGNERES DE LUCHON, France, Dec. 30.—A strong earthquake shock lasting six seconds has been felt here. No damage was done.

SPEAK OUT.

The Searchlight of Publicity is Pleasing Plainfield People.

Publicity is what the people want. Let the public speak on the subject. There has been too much claim—too little proof.

There is only one kind of proof for Plainfield citizens.

The experience of people we know. When friends and neighbors endorse. No question about such evidence.

This kind of proof backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is a case of it:

Mrs. W. W. Mills, of No. 86 Summit avenue, says: "I suffered at times with a severe pain across the small of my back and in my hips. If I did any lifting or stooping my back became lame and sore, and though I used plasters they only helped me for the time being. I was feeling very badly when I had my attention called to Doan's Kidney Pills. They were so highly recommended for troubles like mine that I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I felt their good effect in a few days. When I had finished the treatment my back was better and stronger and I had much more energy to attend household duties."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

A Few Women Are Not Cowards

COURAGE is of the spirit, not of the body. The girl who recently with a shotgun held a burglar prisoner in a barn, the fifteen-year-old Chicago messenger girl who knocked down the leader of a mob of boys who were after her and kept them at bay till a policeman came to her help, the girl who caught a runaway horse and held him when men looked on, afraid to tackle him themselves; that other girl who when attacked by a negro of twice her strength coolly ran a hatpin through his cheek and sent him off howling with pain—these young women were built precisely like other women except in one particular—they had bone instead of a jellyfish substance up their backs.

Miss Banks, the shotgun heroine, was alone in her country home. She heard some one trying to enter the house and instantly caught up a loaded shotgun and fired at the intruder. He ran like a blue streak into the barn, fearing to be shot if he took the open path. Miss Banks, equal to anything, ran after him and fired into the barn. He was afraid to stir out. By that time the shooting aroused neighbors, and they came running to her aid. She kept the fellow in the barn till he was captured. Maybe next time he will hesitate before concluding it is dead easy to rob a house with a girl alone in it.

Yet more striking as illustrating feminine clear grit is the story of the Chicago messenger girl, Jaunite Bonneau.

A GIRL CAUGHT THE RUNAWAY.

She is a daughter of the people, no coddled rich little girl who had had all the courage and real womanhood "protected" out of her. Jaunite took the place of one of the striking messenger boys who were dismissed from the District Telegraph service in Chicago. The girl had an invalid mother to support.

One day she started out to deliver the usual telegraph envelopes. A mob of boys followed her. At a signal they made a rush for her and tried to take the messages from her. The leader of the mob struck her in the face. The blow raised all the spirit in the girl. She sprang at him like a wildcat and knocked him down like a man. There wasn't any "weak woman" in Jaunite's fist. As the boy fell his mates rushed toward her. With feminine resourcefulness she grabbed a hatpin out of her cap and jabbed around her in every direction. As the jabs struck home, naturally those that received these tokens of a girl's regard fell back in a ring around her. By that time policemen arrived and arrested the boys. Jaunite magnanimously declined to appear against her vanquished enemy, the mob leader.

"I guess I punished him enough," she said to the officer. The reader also will "guess" that she did. The woman reader will glory in her grit.

The usefulness of a hatpin in the hands of a woman of pluck was again demonstrated when, not long ago, a beautiful and cultivated young lady, Miss Hamilton, was attacked by a huge negro, who sprang upon her in a lonely place. Not once did she lose her head. The black fellow grasped her by the throat and attempted to choke her into insensibility. She waited till his face was near enough to use woman's weapon, the hatpin, to best advantage; then she gave it to him with all her might and saved herself. Perhaps this fellow, too, will think twice another time before concluding a girl is an easy prey.

Best of all, though, is the story of Miss McGlinchy, who caught a runaway horse. A horse attached to a carriage bolted down a village street, hurling his driver, a woman, to the ground. A lot of men stood around, and they shouted:

"Catch him! Catch him!" but not one of them made a move to do so. It was too dangerous.

"I can catch that horse," remarked Miss McGlinchy, and she did. She darted into the street as he dashed by, seized him by the bit and, held on till he stopped. Next time there is a runaway horse in that town will the men wait for a woman to jump in and catch him? SUSAN PEPPER.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

Copyright, 1901, by Lothrop Publishing Company. All rights reserved.

"Good cruising weather," responded the captain as he turned and started for the companion way. Mr. Morton placed himself squarely in front of him.

"Capt. Waters, I wish to have a few words with you in private."

"Not with me, sir," said Capt. Waters. He stopped for an instant with one foot on the stair. He looked Mr. Morton full in the eyes. "I talk in private only with Mr. Hestor," he said.

Mr. Morton laid his hand on the officer's arm. He was not accustomed to have his requests refused or his offers repulsed. For a moment he seemed to study the stern face of the official.

"Capt. Waters," he said, in a low distinct voice, "do you wish to make a million dollars?"

"No, sir."

The heavy jaws came together with a snap which was more eloquent in its decision than any studied refusal. He disengaged his arm and strode up the companion way.

"Keep her off a point," he said to the wheelsman.

Mr. Morton slowly paced the saloon with his hands behind his back and his head bent forward, as in deep contemplation. In a short time Mr. Rockwell returned. He gave Mr. Morton a questioning look. In response Mr. Morton shook his head gloomily but said not a word. His companion showed no surprise nor did he evince much disappointment. Like Mr. Kent, he saw no hope for immediate relief, and had resigned himself to await results. He selected a book from the shelves and read quietly until dinner was announced.

Dinner was served at six o'clock. The weight of entertaining fell on Hestor and Vincent. While the latter gentleman had not yet been able to attract the attention of Mr. Carmody he was satisfied that he would have an abundance of time in which to explain his plans. Mr. Morton had acquainted his associates with the failure which thus far had attended his negotiations. He yet held out hope, but it was faint. When coffee had been served, Hestor arose and said:

"Gentlemen, we are now not far from Cape Cod. During the evening I am going to send a man ashore with letters. You will find stationery in your staterooms. I suppose that all of you wish to send word assuring your families and friends that you are alive and well. You can do so, but you must not enter into any particulars about this outing. You can inform those in whom you are concerned that you are safe; that you will return to them after a reasonable length of time, or you may make any other statement not connected with business or with your present whereabouts. Hand me the letters unsealed, and I will examine them and have them mailed during the night. I should have all of them in my possession before nine o'clock."

"How about me?" asked Mr. Vincent.

"You are included," said Mr. Hestor.

There was no hesitancy in accepting this invitation. The thought that they could speedily communicate with their loved ones lifted a great load from their minds. For an hour Hestor acted as censor on these letters. He made but few changes, and these of course rendered it necessary to rewrite the rejected letters. In the meantime the yacht had rounded Cape Cod and dropped into the quiet waters of the bay.

Shortly after nine o'clock the dinghy was swung out on her davits and lowered into the water. A young man in a business suit, such as worn for everyday service, by the average citizen, acted as mail carrier. Propelled by the sturdy arms of a sailor, the little craft disappeared in the darkness. Two miles away the lights of Provincetown flickered in the distance.

At about one o'clock in the morning, when most of the passengers were asleep, the dinghy made another trip ashore, and returned without the mail messenger. He was landed near Boston, and on the following morning made a rapid journey to Springfield, Mass., and Albany, N. Y., thence to New York city and Brooklyn, reaching Philadelphia late that night. In these cities he posted the letters which, as has been told were received with so much joy. The next day he left Philadelphia for Cape May; late that night a boat came in from the ocean, and an hour later he was on board the "Shark."

From the time the sand dunes of Cape Cod faded away in the night until six days had passed, the passengers and crew of the "Shark" caught no sight of land. Many ships were sighted, but Capt. Waters so directed the course of the yacht that none came within signalling distance and generally remained hull down on the horizon.

It was cloudy most of the time, and by the temperature alone was it surely known that a southerly course was being taken. Thursday night was uncomfortably warm, and the following day when the sun came out from behind the clouds the shade from the awnings was found grateful. On Friday the signs that the tropics had been entered were unmistakable.

When Mr. Pence awoke about three o'clock Tuesday morning he was much alarmed. He was certain that something serious had happened. An unearthly silence prevailed. The engines had stopped, and save for the faint buzz of the electrical machinery there was no sound on the "Shark." The boat had lost all motion. It no longer rose and fell to the heaving of the seas.

Mr. Pence hurriedly dressed and went on deck. A seaman was pacing back and forth on the afterdeck. Mr. Pence looked out over the port side of the yacht. A huge wall of rock towered almost over his head. In the light of the nascent moon, the "Shark" seemed to rest in the center of a vast amphitheater of beetling rocks and crags. Here and there he could make out the form of a palm, and to his ears came the distinct sound of falling water, as of a cascade. To the east the cliffs threw a long shadow over the lake in which the yacht was anchored. The moon had just scaled the highest peak, and the effect was of indescribable beauty. But the silence was oppressive. The heavy breathing of Mr. Vincent, as it penetrated from the deck below, was a relief, and after one reassuring glance at the placid scene Mr. Pence went below and soon was sleeping the sleep of the just.

CHAPTER XIV.

MAROONED.

"There's one! See him, captain? Right beyond those weeds, on the bank of that little island, almost under the big rock! Don't you see him?"

Hestor danced around the forecastle in the most excited manner. Capt. Waters looked in the direction in which he was pointing.

"Don't you see him? Take my glass and you can see him as plainly as the nose on your face! He's under that rock with the cocoa tree over it." Hestor handed the powerful marine glasses to Capt. Waters, who took a long look in the direction indicated by the excited owner of the "Shark."

"DON'T YOU SEE HIM?"

VENEZUELAN NEGOTIATIONS.

Authorities Await President Castro's Action In the Matter.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Venezuelan negotiations now wait upon President Castro. Minister Bowen has been fully advised by the state department of the result of its exchanges with the foreign offices at London, Berlin and Rome, and he has been charged to take the case in hand himself and arrange the details of the protocol which will precede the submission of the foreign claims to the arbitration of The Hague tribunal. In so doing Mr. Bowen is acting not as United States minister, but as Venezuela's representative. The officials here wish it to be distinctly understood that their functions ceased, so far as the Venezuelan difficulty was concerned, when they brought the parties to the controversy together.

By the latest Venezuelan advices it is noted that President Castro is expected at Caracas at once, and it is felt that he will not consume much time in making up his mind to accept the proposals held out to him through Minister Bowen by the allied powers.

It now seems probable that Minister Bowen will come to Washington as Venezuela's representative on the commission which will draw up the protocol providing for the submission of the claims of the powers to The Hague tribunal.

It has been decided that he may so represent Venezuela notwithstanding the fact that he is at present charged with the interests of Great Britain, Germany, Italy and other European powers in Venezuela. As soon as he leaves Venezuela this charge will pass to Mr. Russell, the secretary and charge of the American legation, whose reputation at the state department is that of a thoroughly competent and able official.

The selection of Mr. Bowen will cause a postponement of the assembling of the proposed commission until he can arrive here from Caracas.

Whites and Negroes In Bloody Fight.

WILLISTON, Fla., Dec. 30.—Two negroes are dead and two white men wounded as a result of a clash at arms near the Newberry phosphate mines. There has been bad feeling between the whites and negroes employed at the mines for some time. Ulmer Flowers, Roy Landran, N. Landran and M. Colley, whites, drove to Newberry in two buggies on business. Knowing the desperate character of the negroes of that vicinity, they went fully armed. When they started home, a gang of negroes, armed with Winchester rifles, met them in the road and opened fire. The whites returned the shots, and the battle was continued for some time. When the smoke cleared away, it was found that two of the negroes were dead, while Flowers was found shot through the thigh and a channel was left in N. Landran's brow, where a Winchester bullet had plowed its way.

Thirteen Earthquakes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—The steamer Sonoma, which has just arrived from Sydney via Pago Pago, brings further news of the volcanic eruption on the Isle of Savaii of the Samoa group. During the violence of the eruption thirteen earthquakes took place, and some stone churches at Safune and Sasina were much damaged. One church in Paia was destroyed. The effects of the earthquakes showed themselves in landslides and the removal of blocks of stone and also in some small fissures. Apart from the churches no buildings were damaged. The scoria ejected by the volcano overthrew all the trees within its reach and burned them to cinders.

THEATRICAL.

An excellent New Year's bill has been arranged for Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre this week in a stupendous production of Franklin Fyles's successful war-drama, "Cumberland '61." Another splendid holiday bill is being presented at Proctor's Twenty-third Street. Valerie Bergere and company, in the little playlet, "Billie's First Love," will be the feature. At Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street Theatre a sumptuous revival is being made of Scott Marble's comedy drama, "The Sidewalks of New York." The leading roles will be played by Edna Archer-Crawford and Benjamin Horning. Up at Proctor's One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatre a departure is being made from the heavy dramas in the revival of Chauncey Olcott's most successful Irish comedy, "Garrett O'Magh," by Augustus Piton. In Newark, at Proctor's beautiful playhouse a splendid New Year's bill is being given, headed by Dickens' charming Christmas idyll, "The Holly Tree Inn," a dramatization by Augustus Thomas. Al Leech and the three Rosebuds in Joseph Hart's comedy sketch, "Examination Day at School," will be an extra feature.

Christmas week bids fair to break box office records at the Academy of Music, New York, where the successful run of "The Ninety and Nine" continues with an unbroken succession of crowded houses. The big locomotive rushing at full speed through a burning forest, with the hero at the throttle, draws cheering patrons nightly from all sections of the city, and all classes of the community. No success in recent seasons in the famous home of melodrama has approached that of "The Ninety and Nine," and the engine will probably race on its mission of rescue on schedule time for many more weeks to come. The production is one of exceptional magnitude and beauty, and the play itself, aside from its great central scene, is fully worthy of the general approval it has won. The roles in the hands of such capable actors as Edwin Arden, Theodore Hamilton, George Nash and Katherine Grey, and others, are well taken without exception, and in all respects "The Ninety and Nine," has proven to be one of the most commendable offerings of its type ever presented on the New York stage.

—Fresh mushrooms are received at Neuman Brothers every day. Price always reasonable.

—A vocal sight reading class for young men and young women will be started Thursday evening, January 8, at 8:30 by Miss Anna O. Marsh, at her residence, 915 Madison avenue.

PROTESTS FROM BOUND BROOK

SO HEARING WILL BE GIVEN FOR APPLICATION FOR WHOLESALE LICENSE.

Judge Schenck Set Friday Morning as Time for Hearing for Schloss' Application.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, December 30.—Emanuel Schloss & Company, who have opened a large grocery store at Bound Brook, propose to introduce an innovation in that line of business at Bound Brook. At the session of court in Somerville on Friday they applied for a wholesale liquor license. Three remonstrances, signed by citizens of that town, were filed against the application. There seeming to be opposition Judge Schenck deferred granting the license and gave notice that he would hear the parties Friday at 10 o'clock.

It is rumored that if the company succeeds in this instance it will make an attempt to have a wholesale license for its big store in this place.

In the Orphans' Court the celebrated F. William Koehler estate quarrel was announced as settled, the parties having reached an agreement without continuing their battle in the courts. Judge Schenck accordingly awarded the following counsel fees: James J. Meehan, $125; Nelson Y. Dungan, $100; Azariah M. Beekman, $100.

Justice Garretson hopes his health will permit him to be here on Monday, January 5, to take up the Supreme and Circuit list and begin trying the cases that are ready at once.

LITERARY.

Never did McClure's Magazine begin a new year so auspiciously as with the present January number. Wherever you open it you will read it. If you are looking for a story, just as likely as not before you know it you will find yourself half way through an "article." This will certainly be the case if you begin with the leading article, "The Shame of Minneapolis," by Lincoln Steffens. It was only a few months ago that Mr. Steffens' "Tweed Days in St. Louis," came out in McClure's, and made the whole country stop and consider, and people who thought they knew something about municipal corruption consider. Now follows Minneapolis. Ida M. Tarbell's History of Standard Oil also is writing of that same kind, and the third installment of it, which appears in January, "The Oil War of '27," is magnificent. There are five tip-top short stories. "The Impertinence of Charles Edward," by H. S. Rhodes, is an exceptionally ingenious love story, in which a serious breach of etiquette brings about an international marriage. McClure's has its work cut out to live up to the resolutions of its January number.

GRAND JURY CENSURES SUNDAY BALL PLAYING

The Middlesex County Grand Jury Condemns Sunday Baseball at the Park.

TWENTY-TWO INDICTED

TWO INDICTMENTS FOR A MURDER AT SOUTH RIVER.

Found Engineer Kiely to Blame for Railroad Accident at Menlo Park, But Declares He is a Most Careful Engineer.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, December 30—Sunday baseball playing at Riverside Park, near Bound Brook, has been severely censured by the Middlesex county Grand Jury. The park is owned and conducted by the Middlesex and Somerset Street Railway Company, which corporation is blamed. In its presentation, the Grand Jury declares that no indictment was found in this case as it was believed that the company would remedy the trouble in the future. Of the Sunday ball playing at the Park the Grand Jury says that it is a nuisance to the several residents and property owners in the vicinity, and is a detriment to the peace and good order of the community, and is a desecration of the Sabbath, and tends to depreciate the value of surrounding properties, and further tends to attract a crowd of boisterous and noisy persons, and in effect is the cause of considerable lawlessness, which should be, and is, by this Grand Jury justly condemned. The several complainants have a right to, and should be protected in their rights of observing Sunday as a day of rest and quiet, and that in the opinion of this Grand Jury, the Sunday games should be discontinued, and that if the offenders do not hereafter conduct the place in a quiet, orderly and lawful manner on the Sabbath, that the court should take such action as it may deem to be necessary to compel them to do so, and to permit the complainants in this case to enjoy their proper rights and liberties under the law.

The Grand Jury completed its labors yesterday, finding twenty-two indictments, two of which are for murder, the alleged crime having been committed at South River.

Joseph Kiely, an engineer on the Pennsylvania Railroad, was found responsible for a wreck that occurred at Menlo Park on October 8, in which one person was killed and a score were injured. The engineer is censured, and at the same time praised as being a good engineer. The jury recommends that a new system of signals be adopted.

A Year Book and Guide.

You frequently hear mention of dead languages. Well, some facts are even deader, but these are not the kind that The Tribune Almanac deals in. By way of verifying that, just take a cursory glance over the issue for 1903, which is now on sale. It is not an almanac in the dictionary sense of the word, but is really a ready reference and guide book, containing everything that such a compilation ought to have. And the material has been garnered and sifted and tested with the utmost care so as to secure absolute accuracy, or at least get as near to it as honest, painstaking endeavor will bring one.

KEPT SANTA CLAUS BUSY

Had to Visit a Host of Christmas Festivals of Local Sunday-Schools.

THE CANTATAS GIVEN

Music and Recitations Were the Principal Features of the Entertainments—Gifts for the Young Folks—Jolly Old Christmas Saint Was Right on Hand.

Santa Claus made a lot of visits in Plainfield last night. Although the sleighing wasn't observable to the naked eye, his famous team went spinning all over the city and borough and reports of his appearance come from all quarters. Many of the local Sunday-schools held their Christmas festivals and the jolly old saint appeared at them all and left behind no end of gifts for old and young. With the weather clear and mild, the attendance was unusually large.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

At the First M. E. church the Christmas entertainment last evening consisted of a programme, "The Christ Child in Art, Story and Song," arranged and compiled by Mari Rueff Hofer. While the story of the Saviour's birth and early life was read by James R. Joy, a chorus choir composed of twenty-five children sang carols, appropriate to pictures displayed upon a screen.

The chorus was trained and in charge of Miss Helen Shupp while the stereopticon was manipulated by Carles E. Vail. Following thhe rendition the usual distribution of toys and games to the pupils was made.

The primary department had its festival in the afternoon, the programme being limited to carol singing and the distribution of gifts by Harold Fenno attired as Santa Claus.

THE FRIENDS.

The First-day school at the Friends meeting house enjoyed its Christmas festival last evening, when the children presented a programme of recitations. Superintendent Edward Hutchinson was in charge and he opened the programme with Scripture reading.

Recitations were given as follows: "Tim's Christmas Dreams," Clifford Vail; "The Christmas Day Song," school; "Santa Claus Coming Down the Chimney," Miss Mildred Poole; "The Turkey," Halbert C. Hutchinson; "Santa Claus' Mistake," Miss Edith Ogden; "Christmas," Theo. Vail; "Christmas Night," Miss Bessie Vail; "The Girls That are Wanted," Miss Anna Lewis; "What the Toys Said," Roy Vail; "Christmas in Them Times," Harry Adams; "A Song Way up North," Russell Vail; "A Christmas Thought," Weston Gavett; "The Doll's Mission," Miss Ruth Stryker; "The Christian and His Echo," school.

The programme closed with a few remarks by W. D. Williams, after which all adjourned to the upper room, where ice cream and cake were served. Afterward the members of the school received gifts.

FIRST BAPTIST (INTER.)

Under the direction of Miss Edith Cairns, superintendent, the intermediate department of the First Baptist church Sunday-school held a Christmastide reception yesterday afternoon for the parents and friends.

The programme opened with the singing of a Christmas carol, followed with a violin solo by Cory Adams. A recitation by Miss Mamie Devlin preceded a piano solo by Miss Marguerite Lee, after which Miss Beulah Van Winkle gave a recitation. A piano and violin duet by Miss Fanny Devlin and Willie Hyle was an enjoyable number. Following recitations by Miss Helen Pearce and Miss Marian Hall and a piano solo by Miss Fanny Devlin the reception to the parents and friends was held. During this social hour, ice cream and cake were served to all present.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

One of the most elaborate Christmas entertainments given this year was that of last evening at the First Presbyterian church. A cantata, entitled "Flower Queen," was rendered. This cantata was composed and arranged by Martin A. Korff, assisted by Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the church, and it received the hearty approval of all. A large platform was erected for the occasion. Assisting in the rendition was an orchestra under the direction of Mr. Korff. The music throughout was catchy and very appropriate. It was the story of the choice of the queen of the flowers by Santa Claus and the trouble he had doing it.

The complete cast for the cantata is as follows:

The primary department of the First Presbyterin church Sunday-school held its Christmas festival in the Sunday-school room yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Edgar Williams and other teachers in this department were in charge of the affair.

The first part of the programme consisted of recitations by the Misses Marion Wean, Margaret Ewart, Bessie Karner and Beta T. Bedford. The second part was entitled "Santa Claus' Workshop," and here Santa Claus and his wife, in the persons of Edward Petrie and Miss Flora Petrie, repaired the various dolls sent to them by their owners. Each doll was received with a request for some sort of repairs. Those who represented the dolls were as follows:

Miss Gertrude Abbott, talking doll; Miss Martha Kline, walking doll; LeRoy Gates, jumping jack; Miss Lucia Wood, Dinah; Paul Hutchinson, Indian; Miss Margaret Abbott, rag doll; Alva Dunham, drummer boy; Miss Grace Townley, paper doll; Miss Marielle Dunham, baby doll. These various dolls caused no end of fun for the little and older folks.

After this part of the entertainment Santa Claus distributed gifts among the children.

HOPE CHAPEL.

A cantata, "A Christmas for Santa Claus" was the feature of the Christmas entertainment at Hope chapel, last evening. In addition, recitations were given by the members of the primary department and one by Thomas Cunde, while carols were given by the entire school.

PARK AVE. BAPTIST.

The Christmas entertainment at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last evening consisted of a cantata entitled "Johnnie Doubter." This fellow doubted the existence of Santa Claus, and all the other characters did their best to prove to him that there is a Santa.

HOLY CROSS CHURCH.

Santa Claus paid a flying visit to Holy Cross church last evening on the occasion of the Christmas festival.

At 7:45, there was a children's service. Rev. W. Montgomery Downey officiated. Rev. William Bryce Morrow addressed the school briefly on "The Spirit of Christmas." At the close of the service, the children marched to the Sunday-school room where the tree was.

Set up in front was a large chimney, near which stood a beautifully decorated Christmas tree. Soon sleighbells were heard, and Santa Claus himself, known this morning as William A. Westphal, appeared at the top of the chimney. The good old Saint climbed down, greeted the children and began the distribution of gifts. Each child received a present and a box of candy.

TRINITY REFORMED.

Santa Claus visited in person the Trinity Reformed Sunday-school yesterday. The exercises opened in the afternoon when the primary and infant departments held their festival. A punch and judy show given by Wm. H. Olmsted was the main attraction which interested the younger children but the Misses Randall recited as did Edson Day, Ralph Martin and Russell Hoagland. Presents were distributed by the teachers who were Miss Anna Randall, Miss Hariett Randall, Mrs. H. E. Gayle, Miss Mary Berkaw, Miss A. VanCleef, Miss Bessie Reighton, Miss Jennie Pessinger and Miss Minnie Wyman.

The evening exercises began at 8 o'clock and after a few carols Miss Eva Benton, elocutionist, recited very cleverly. She was encored several times. The Misses Harriett, Anna and Bessie Randall rendered a selection accompanied on the piano by Miss Lillian A. Force. Ralph Martin receted and five little children from the infant department sang one of their little songs. Those who took part in the song were: Rosmond

FIREMEN CALLED OUT TWICE THIS MORNING

Both Alarms Were for Small Blazes, and Neither Loss Was of Moment.

ACTIVE END FOR YEAR

SMALL CLUBHOUSE ON WASHINGTON STREET CAUGHT FIRE.

Cartridges Were Stored There But Didn't Catch Fire—Other Fire at Home of Bennett Brittin—Oil and a Match.

Two alarms received within a half hour of each other, this morning, made a rather strenuous ending for the local firemen's year.

The first was received from box No. 15 and was for a blaze in a small frame structure at East Second and Washington streets, used by boys in the neighborhood for a clubhouse. One of them lighted a fire in the stove, and then went home for breakfast. The heat spread to the boards and but for the prompt arrival of the chemical engine the club would have been homeless. In the place were a large number of cartridges. Chief Doane ordered their removal and warned the boys not to store any more.

Shortly after the apparatus was housed, No. 49 sounded for a blaze in the store of Bennett Brittin at Clinton avenue and Front street. A can of oil had dripped over the floor and in passing over to shut off the supply Mr Brittin stepped upon a mach, igniting it.

With the aid of a trolley car crew and Ned Gaston, Mr. Brittin, who is an old fireman, extinguished the flames before the apparatus arrived. The damage will not exceed $50, covered by insurance.

Mrs. James Scott Was Found Guilty of Attacking Geo. O. Stevens in His Coal Office.

TRIED IN CITY COURT

Defence Was That Mr. Stevens Used Profane Language and Led Attack—His Witnesses Said No—Question Whether Hat Pin Was Used—Heavy Sentence.

From out a mass of contradictory evidence, City Judge Runyon gleaned enough, this morning, to convince him that Mrs. James Scott was guilty of disturbing the morals and good order of the community in attacking George O. Stevens in his coal office, Monday afternoon. He accordingly inflicted the heaviest sentence in his jurisdiction, $100 and fifty-nine days in jail.

The trial took place at police headquarters, Francis J. Blatz appeared for the prosecution and Assemblyman William Newcorn for the defendant. Witnesses sworn for the complainant were Mr. Stevens, C. H. Rugg, Charles Manning and Chief Kiely. Mrs. Scott had two witnesses, Leander and Robert Brown, her nephews, but their testimony at critical points was widely varied.

The defendant alleged Mr. Stevens used much profanity to her and led in the attacking. This he denied and was corroborated by his witnesses, but whether Mrs. Scott used a hat pin in the assault was not made clear. Before she was placed on the stand, Counsellor Newcorn asked for a dismissal of the complaint on the ground that it was not within the city court's jurisdiction. The motion was denied.

In passing sentence, City Judge Runyon declared that he believed the plaintiff's side, while the testimony of the defendant in the main he regarded as untrue and further there was nothing in the case to suggest clemency. It is understood that Assemblyman Newcorn will institute certiorari proceedings.

CONSUL NAST'S DEATH.

Details of Sad Event at Guayaquil Received at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—Details of the death of Thomas Nast, late United States consul general at Guayaquil, have reached the state department in a report from United States Vice Consul Robert B. Jones, who nursed his superior to the end.

Mr. Jones says that Mr. Nast was taken sick on Monday, Dec. 1, with what he thought to be a bilious attack. Upon returning to Guayaquil on that day Mr. Jones found Mr. Nast lying in his hammock dressed. He said he had a bilious attack, but thought he would soon be all right. Mr. Jones insisted on calling a physician, who said Mr. Nast had liver trouble.

On the Saturday following another physician was called in, who pronounced the disease to be yellow fever, in which opinion he was corroborated by a third physician, and both said his condition was very serous. Mr. Nast, however, did not think so, and as late as 10:30 p. m. Saturday he said he felt much better and would soon be all right.

Mr. Ashton, the British vice consul, and Mr. Jones took care of the sick man all night. About 12:30 a. m. he became worse and lost consciousness and, after a long and hard struggle, expired at 11:35 Sunday morning. His funeral was attended by all the officials at Guayaquil.

The complaint against the defendants was that they mailed matter to customers of the plaintiff firm endeavoring to cause the withholding of trade. The court held that organizations of this kind have no right to attempt to persuade persons to withhold their custom.

NEW YORK TO LORENZ

Famous Viennese Surgeon Is Given Freedom of City.

A FAREWELL LUNCHEON TENDERED.

The Professor Praised America and Expressed Pleasure at Cordial Reception Everywhere Bestowed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Professor Adolph Lorenz, the famous Viennese surgeon, was the guest at a farewell luncheon tendered him at the Hardware club by Aldermen Walkley, Sullivan and Stewart, the committee appointed to present to him the resolutions adopted by the board of aldermen, which was presented to the professor at the city hall at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The luncheon was of an informal character, and there was no speech-making. Immediately after the luncheon the committee and guests accompanied Dr. Lorenz to the city hall where a reception was tendered him.

As the doctor entered the corridor of the city hall he was escorted up the main staircase to the governor's room which was lined with a force of policemen. Dr. Lorenz was shown by Alderman Sullivan the big oil paintings of the early governors of the state. Later Professor Lorenz took a position to the right of the old table that formerly belonged to George Washington. Alderman Walkley, taking a position in front of the professor, delivered an address.

PROFESSOR LORENZ.

At the conclusion of Alderman Walkley's remarks Alderman Sullivan stepped forward with the album containing the engrossed resolutions and presented it to the professor.

At the conclusion of the speeches Professor Lorenz bowed his acknowledgments and said:

"When I first put my foot on this soil three months ago, I had a sense of oppression because of the greatness of this place. A feeling of clumsiness came upon me. I had no idea then of the magnificent leave taking you have prepared for me in this hour. Nor could I have any idea of the reception that would meet me everywhere in this country from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast.

"In olden times the freedom of cities used to be given to princes and victorious warriors. Today you are conferring the freedom of the city upon a poor and humble physician.

"This token of your esteem is a proof that in America wealth or position is not esteemed higher than work done for the relief of suffering humanity. This token of your esteem is a further proof that this city is not only unique in its wealth, but unique in its charities.

"I rejoice in this great honor all the more because I am far from regarding it as a personal one, but I am proud to belong to a profession to which this honor is due. I thank you from the bottom of my heart, and I assure you that I leave your glorious country with great regret and with the highest admiration for America and American people."

No Passes to Eastern Officials.

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 31.—The Santa Fe has announced that no annual passes will be sent this year to officials of the trunk lines. Not only is the antipass rule to be enforced in regard to annuals, but no trip passes will be given to any of the officials or agents of the eastern lines. This action is retaliatory upon the trunk lines for their recent action on the antipass agreement.

CANTON, O., Dec. 31.—Miss Mary Barber, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Barber, last evening became the wife of Major Ralph Hartzell. The ceremony was performed at the commodious old Saxton homestead, formerly the home of the McKinleys, now occupied by the Barbers, and was witnessed by Mrs. McKinley. Mrs. McKinley and Mrs. Barber are sisters.

A New Packing House Scheme.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 31.—A deal for the purchase of thirty-five acres of land on the Kaw river near the Kansas City stockyards has practically been consummated, and it is said that Nelson Morris & Co. will erect packing houses on the tract. The purchasers are said to be eastern capitalists whose names are withheld.

Santiago's Sugar Crop.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—Estimates of the sugar crop in Santiago, Cuba, transmitted to the state department by Consul Holaday at that city, place the crop for 1903 at 45[illegible] bags, an increase of 72,215 bags over that for the year now closing. The consul adds that grinding began about the middle of December.

VAN COTT LOST ALL

New York's Postmaster Victim of Misplaced Trust.

BUSINESS VENTURE ENDS IN RUIN

Young Syracuse Lawyer Who Started Bankrupt Concern and His Female Bookkeeper Placed Under Arrest.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Charles A. Hess of 50 Pine street, attorney for Postmaster Cornelius Van Cott, declares that Mr. Van Cott has lost every dollar he possessed as a result of his venture in the National Mercantile agency with Willis T. Gridley, whose arrest he brought about on a charge of falsifying the books of the company.

Lawyer Hess charges also that the books of the company were actually changed by Miss Edna Ranney, now under arrest in Syracuse. Miss Ranney, it is said, is a protegee of Gridley's, and when he came from Syracuse three years ago he brought her with him. She was employed as a bookkeeper by the company, and the books, according to Hess, were changed by Gridley's orders.

Gridley was arraigned in the Tombs police court and held in $4,000 bail for further hearing on Jan. 2.

Mr. Van Cott was president of the company in which he lost his entire fortune. The statement of Lawyer Hess follows:

"Postmaster Van Cott about a year ago was invited to become a director in the National Mercantile agency, whose offices were at 271 Broadway. There was a possibility that such a concern, by skillful management and careful financing, would have a good field and prove a successful venture.

"The venture did not turn out as anticipated by Mr. Van Cott, and it became necessary to borrow money. Mr. Van Cott, having implicit confidence in Gridley, indorsed a number of notes in his individual name with Gridley, which were either sold or discounted and the proceeds presumed to have been paid into the treasury of the company.

"Because of gross mismanagement by those who had charge of its affairs the concern became insolvent, and in July last an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against it.

"About the time of the filing of this petition the notes indorsed by Mr. Van Cott and Mr. Gridley came due, and up to date my client has been obliged to pay out a life's savings, upward of $18,000, to meet these papers.

"There is still outstanding unpaid about $9,000 worth of paper containing the indorsement of Mr. Van Cott and the defendant.

"Gridley is just as liable as Mr. Van Cott and is well able to pay, but refuses to pay his share and is trying to gobble up the small assets of the company and to bankrupt Mr. Van Cott.

"In order to carry out this scheme Mr. Gridley directed the bookkeeper to falsify the books of the company.

"False entries were made showing that Mr. Van Cott was a debtor in the sum of nearly $3,000, when in fact he was a creditor for upward of $18,000.

"This has been a most unfortunate affair for Mr. Van Cott. Every dollar that he had in the world has been paid out by him to meet the obligations for which he was morally and perhaps legally responsible. Mr. Van Cott neither directly nor indirectly benefited in this scheme to the extent of a single dollar and never even received any part of his salary, which was fixed at $5,000 a year."

Addicks Gains a Vote.

SPEAK OUT.

The Searchlight of Publicity is Pleasing Plainfield People.

Publicity is what the people want.
Let the public speak on the subject.
There has been too much claim—too little proof.
There is only one kind of proof for Plainfield citizens.
The experience of people we KNOW.
When friends and neighbors endorse.
No question about such evidence.
This kind of proof backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.
Here is a case of it:

Mrs. W. W. Mills, of No. 86 Summit avenue, says: "I suffered at times with a severe pain across the small of my back and in my hips. If I did any lifting or stooping my back became lame and sore, and though I used plasters they only helped me for the time being. I was feeling very badly when I had my attention called to Doan's Kidney Pills. They were so highly recommended for troubles like mine that I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I felt their good effect in a few days. When I had finished the treatment my back was better and stronger and I had much more energy to attend household duties."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Here's a Recipe for Making Bread.

1.
WHEN a well bred girl expects to wed,
'Tis well to remember that men like bread.
We're going to show the steps to take,
So she may learn good bread to make.

2.
FIRST, mix a lukewarm quart, my daughter,
One-half of milk and one-half of water;
To this please add two cakes of yeast,
Or the liquid kind if preferred in the least.

3.
NEXT stir in a teaspoonful of nice clear salt,
If this bread is n't good, it won't be our fault.
Now add the sugar, tablespoonfuls three;
Mix well together, for dissolved they must be.

4.
POUR the whole mixture into an earthen bowl,
A pan's just as good, if it hasn't a hole.
It's the cook and the flour, not the bowl or the pan,
That—"Makes the bread that makes the man."

5.
NOW let the mixture stand a minute or two.
You've other things of great importance to do.
First sift the flour—use the finest in the land.
Three quarts is the measure, "GOLD MEDAL" the brand.

6.
SOME people like a little shortening power,
If this is your choice, just add to the flour
Two tablespoonfuls of lard, and jumble it about,
Till the flour and lard are mixed without doubt.

7.
NEXT stir the flour into the mixture that's stood
Waiting to play its part, to make the bread good.
Mix it up thoroughly, but not too thick;
Some flours make bread that's more like a brick.

8.
NOW grease well a bowl and put the dough in,
Don't fill the bowl full, that would be a sin;
For the dough is all right and it's going to rise,
Till you will declare that it's twice the old size.

9.
BRUSH the dough with melted butter, as the recipes say;
Cover with a bread towel, set in a warm place to stay
Two hours or more, to rise until light,
When you see it grow, you'll know it's all right.

10.
AS soon as it's light place again on the board;
Knead it well this time. Here is knowledge to hoard.
Now back in the bowl once more it must go,
And set again to rise for an hour or so.

11.
FORM the dough gently into loaves when light,
And place it in bread pans greased just right.
Shape each loaf you make to half fill the pan,
This bread will be good enough for any young man.

12.
NEXT let it rise to the level of pans—no more,
Have the temperature right—don't set near a door.
We must be careful about draughts; it isn't made to freeze,
Keep the room good and warm—say 72 degrees.

13.
NOW put in the oven,—it's ready to bake,—
Keep uniform fire, great results are at stake.
One hour more of waiting and you'll be repaid,
By bread that is worthy "A Well Bred Maid."

Here is the Same Thing in Prose.

GOLD MEDAL FLOUR

BREAD RECIPE.

To one quart of lukewarm wetting—half water and half milk, or water alone—add two half-ounce compressed yeast cakes, or the usual quantity of liquid yeast, and stir until dissolved.

Add one teaspoonful of salt and three tablespoonfuls of sugar and when well dissolved, stir in with wooden spoon, three quarts of well sifted flour, or until dough is sufficiently stiff to be turned from the mixing bowl to the moulding board in a mass.

If shortening is desired add two tablespoonfuls lard.

Knead this dough, adding if necessary from time to time, flour until it becomes smooth and elastic and ceases to stick to fingers or board.

Do not make dough too stiff. Spring Wheat Flour needs a little more working than Winter Wheat Flour, and should be a little softer to make it rise properly.

Put dough into well greased earthen bowl, brush lightly with melted butter or drippings, cover with towel and set in warm place, about 75 degrees, for two hours, or until light, then knead well and return to bowl, cover as before and set for another hour's rising or until light.

When light, form gently into loaves or rolls, place in greased bread pans, brush with butter or drippings, cover again and let stand for one and one-half hours, then bake.

A WONDERFUL YEAR

Enormous Strides Made by Our Country During 1902.

SUPPLY UNEQUAL TO ALL DEMANDS

Nearly Every Branch of Trade and Manufacture Showed an Increase Over Previous Year, According to Bradstreet's Review.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Bradstreet's review of the business year, to be issued Saturday next, will have the following:

"To say that 1902 was the best year this country has ever experienced, while truthful enough in the main, does not suggest fully the enormous strides which the United States took in the year just closed. Practically every branch of ordinary trade and manufacture showed an increase above the best of previous years, and yet this immense enlargement of output was not sufficient of itself to satisfy the growing, it might even be termed insatiable, demand for all kinds of materials.

"In many cases the usual foreign outlet for our products was perforce neglected by American producers, who confined their efforts to supplying insistent domestic demand, while in others foreign production was called upon to re-enforce domestic output, with the result that new currents and channels were created in our foreign trade. Our export trade, therefore, shrunk, while our imports expanded to unprecedented figures.

"The railroads of the country in their efforts to handle the business offered them suffered as never before from congestion, and complaint of interference with production and distribution of the products of the farm, the mine, the shop and the loom was practically universal.

"Industrial unrest was naturally marked, as it always is in times either of prosperity or of depression, and serious disorganization of some of the country's basic industries resulted for a time. In many cases, however, resort to extremes was avoided or rendered unnecessary by liberal recognition by employers of changes in the standard of living, and it is safe to say that two men obtained higher wages or had their working time reduced without resort to strikes for every one who actually quit work.

"Speculation, it is true, felt the checks imposed upon it by conservatism, by short crops in the preceding year, and last, but not least, by high rates for money, but despite the fact that stock market operations were only about one-half those of 1901 bank clearings, those usually reliable guides of business, showed aggregates practically equal to the hitherto unheard of totals of 1901. All this was accomplished with a minimum of friction as reflected in the form of business embarrassments."

"Pauper's" Estate Valued at $100,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—Several weeks ago an old man named Eli Hyman was admitted to the general hospital of the city of Toronto as a pauper. Two days later he died, and an examination of his effects disclosed valuables, in coin and paper, to the value of $31,000. Just before his death he stated that he had a wife and daughter in San Francisco. A firm of Canadian attorneys took charge of the case and, communicating with lawyers here, located the wife and heir of the dead man. Mrs. Rebecca Hyman and her daughter, now a Mrs. Hart, who reside here and who have been poverty stricken for years, have established such proofs of relationship that the attorneys have no fear that any other possible claimants will be recognized. The estate is valued at $100,000.

Ossified Woman Dead.

ROME, N. Y., Dec. 31.—Miss Stella Ewing, one of the ossified women who for ten years have been wonders to physicians, is dead, aged thirty-nine years. Miss Ewing was born in Holland Patent. At an early age she was afflicted by inflammatory rheumatism which physicians failed to relieve. At the age of twenty-five she lost the use of her limbs, and specialists said she was gradually turning to bone. For ten years Miss Ewing was totally blind and unable to move a muscle. A sister, Mrs. Emma Ewing Palmer, is afflicted in the same way.

Aged Newspaper Man Dead.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Dec. 31.—Judge William C. Talcott, the oldest newspaper man in Indiana, is dead here, aged eighty-seven years. For fifty years he owned and edited the Porter County Vidette. Judge Talcott came to Porter county sixty-five years ago, when it was a wilderness, and only one small cabin marked the place where Valparaiso now stands. He surveyed the town, collected its first taxes, taught its first school, preached its first sermons, edited its first paper and was one of the first jurists in this part of the state.

Case Against Mascagni Dismissed.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Signor Mascagni, the Italian composer, was arraigned in court here on a charge of embezzling $5,000 from his former manager, Richard Heard of Boston. After hearing both sides Justice Hurley immediately dismissed the case. The courtroom was filled with Italians who applauded vigorously as Mascagni, thankful and smiling, left for his hotel.

HAPPY NEW YEAR.

This is the last day of the old year. Tonight at midnight, the year 1902 will pass away and 1903 will be a thing of the present. In reality, the last day of the old year and the first day of the new are as much alike as any other consective days. There is no great convulsion of nature to mark the passage of the old; mankind encounters the same troubles, the same pleasures, and continues its career marked by no change save that which may exist in the imagination. But to the mind, there is a wonderful difference. Two years are separated by a monster breech which divides the troubles and failures of the past from the opportunities and happenings of the future. It is the time when one fixes on new resolves and girds up his loins, prepared to enter the battle of life with renewed vigor and energy.

After all it is a good thing this feeling exists. It's a good thing to turn over a new leaf even if the winter blasts and the spring gales do occasionally blow it back again. Good resolutions are to be commended even if they are often broken before the twelve-month has gone. It means there is a new start, a desire to begin over, and the world cannot but be the gainer for it.

As with most of you, the year which ends today has been an eventful one for The Daily Press. Never has it been in such flourishing condition. Its healthy gowth has continued until it stands pre-eminently the people's paper of Plainfield. Of course, we have made some mistakes. Like everything else which is the product of human minds, we are not infallible. But we have done our best. While there are a few happenings of the past year we may regret, the general trend has been toward advancement and improvement and we are truly thankful for all the prosperity that we have shared.

There are no specific resolutions that we can make for the new year. As before, we will use every endeavor to give the people of Plainfield the news correctly and impartially told. We have our opinions but they have their place in the editorial column, not in the news of the day, and you'll find them where they belong. Errors will always, until the millenium arrives, creep into the columns of the most careful newspaper but we have tried and will continue to try to give the news of the day as it is and not burden our readers with fakes and practical jokes invented for the amusement of a few. The people look to The Daily Press to give the news and that is what we will try to do during the year of 1903.

As have often said before, we are not voicing the opinions of any political party or clique. We are to be found where we believe the best interests of the community stand. We have no axe to grind. And so, good readers, we wish you all a happy new year and may you find The Daily Press as active in behalf of the best interests of Greater Plainfield in the future as it has been in the past.

As there has been a little criticism of the action of the Councilmanic finance committee for awarding the contract for auditing the city books to one who does not live here, the explanation for such action as made by a member of that committee corrects an erroneous impression. It was decided to give out such a contract at the Council meeting December 1 and, as it happened, unusual publicity was given to the fact through a misunderstanding as to the amount appropriated. The finance committee did not meet until December 20. During those twenty days, no member of the committee received any application, verbal or written, from any local accountant or the friends of any. Neither did any other member of the Council have any suggestions to make. With plenty of time and publicity, it was supposed that there were no local candidates and the contract was given to an expert who is employed here. Since that time an application has been received from a Plainfielder.

Somerville's voters have decided against a project to build a new school for that place despite the fact that it is well known that there is great need of improved educational facilities. It will cost money to build new school houses and the project to raise the funds by a bond issue has been voted down for a second time. Of course it is the thought of increased taxes which has been the means of defeating it. Yet something must be done and the opponents of the measure, as well as its friends, will have to admit that Somerville stands greatly in need of improvement in its school system owing to the lack of room. If Somerville intends to grow and prosper, it must care for the proper education of its children and provide suitable accommodations for that object.

It is welcome news that Paterson is fast recovering from the awful devastation by fire and water which visited that Jersey city this year. A new and more modern city is fast springing out of the ruins of one of New Jersey's most important business communities.

As is customary, The Daily Press will print the full text of the annual report of the committee on streets and sewers of the Common Council. The report will be presented at this evening's meeting of the Common Council and will appear in The Daily Press Friday.

The Daily Press will not be published tomorrow, New Year's Day.

A Happy New Year to you all!

DUNELLEN.

Mrs. Rebecca Dunham, of Prospect avenue, an aged woman, was the victim of an accident yesterday which came near resulting seriously. When she got up in the morning she in some way tumbled down a whole flight of stairs. She was knocked partially unconscious for a time and medical aid had to be summoned. She is confined to her bed at present with severe bruises and cuts. Internal injuries are feared.

One of the hottest fights in the political history of Middlesex county has begun between two factions which are striving to gain control of the Republican county executive committee. The result will be watched with great interest by local Republicans.

The wedding of Miss Carrie Wyhuskey and Oliver Dumont will be held at North Branch, New Year's day. A wedding dinner will be held afterwards at High Bridge. The couple will be married by Rev. Mr. Doolittle, of North Branch.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

One of the most enjoyable Christmastide exercises ever held in the church was held by the members of the Baptist Sunday-school last night. Santa Claus was there, having arranged with the superintendent, Chas. H. Vincent, to make a call upon his return trip home. The church was prettily trimmed with streamers of evergreen festooned from the centre chandeliers and along the side, while on the pulpit were two trees laden with Christma novelties. A very entertaining programme of carols, recitations and addresses made the evening one of pleasure. Pastor, superintendent and every member of the school was remembered in a pleasant way, beside candy and oranges in abundance for the members of the school.

There seems to be no truth in the rumor that Scotch Plains and Westfield are to unite on one ball team for next season, playing upon enclosed grounds. Scotch Plains played winning ball last season, supported a team and had a balance left in the treasury after paying all expenses. But there is no doubt that the two teams will meet on the diamond as Managers Johnston and Denman are already talking of several games.

There will be no watch night service in town tonight but many of the residents have planned in the usual way to see the passing of the old and the coming in of the New Year in a pleasant manner.

There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

WANT VALENTINE PARDONED

HIS FRIENDS ARE WORKING TOWARD THAT END.

People of Perth Amboy Object and Deny Report That His Health is Shattered.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Perth Amboy, Dec. 31—A petition to the Board of Pardons is being circulated here, asking for a pardon for George M. Valentine, who is serving a term of seven years for wrecking the Middlesex County Bank. Valentine has served a little more than three yaers of his term. His pardon is asked for because, it is alleged, his health has been so undermined by confinement in State Prison that he cannot live until his term has been served.

It is further set forth in the petition that Valentine's wife and children are objects of the charity of relatives and that he can have a good position with the firm of M. D. Valentine & Bro., in Raritan township, if his release can be effected.

The petition has been signed by former Judge J. Kearney Rice, who represented Valentine when he pleaded guilty to charges of embezzling the funds of the bank and was sentenced; Sheriff William Carman, M. N. Ross and other prominent residents of New Brunswick. In this city it is being circulated by S. R. Farrington, a prominent business man and Republican politician.

Valentine's pardon will be fought by most of the people of Perth Amboy. John W. Beekman, former United States district attorney and counsel for the bank at the time it closed its doors, referred to the petition at a recent citizens' mass-meeting, and denounced Valentine and the appeal for clemency for him in bitter language. The claim that Valentine's health is shattered is disputed by Perth Amboy people who have seen him recently.

NEW PATERSON IS GROWING

EXPECTED OVER $4,000,000 IN NEW BUILDINGS IN YEAR AFTER FIRE.

Already 256 Building Permits Have Been Issued—All Larger and Better.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Paterson, Dec. 31—The new Paterson that has arisen in the trail of ruin left by the great fire has gathered unto itself magnitude and beauty of structure and is not only a source of local pride, but a subject of admiring comment by all strangers who come to the city. It was not until the latter part of last winter that the town set to work in earnest to rebuild. Since that time until the present, Building Inspector Kimball has issued 256 building permits, of which 141 were for brick or stone structures and 115 for frame buildings.

At least 50 per cent. of the permits were for buildings in the burned district. The total cost price given the inspector by the contractors on the 256 structures is $3,023,000. At the present rate, by March 1, 1903, when the year's reckoning will have been complied, this amount will figure up to at least $4,000,000 and before the winter of 1903 it is confidently expected that $5,000,000 will have been spent in rebuilding the city.

The new buildings are invariably better, larger and more imposing than the old, and when the scaffolds have been removed Paterson will be one of the handsomest cities in the State.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 4. "Time For Meditation; the Morning Watch"—Text, Ps. v, 1-3; cxix, 147, 148; Matt. xiv, 23; Mark vi, 30, 31.

"I anticipated the dawning of the morning and cried, I hoped in thy words."

There is no substitute for meditation in the religions of life. It is the plowshare which mellows the soil and prepares it to yield harvest when the seed is put in. Meditation is something more than thinking. There is thought in meditation, but most thinking is very far from meditation.

No better manual and guide can be found than the devotional Psalms. Here is no speculation on the divine mysteries. The thought is not scientific, but it is meditative. It takes a truth and turns it over and over. It regards it not so much critically to dissect it and note its parts as to watch its influence on one's own life. Meditation goes over the part with the lamp of memory. It looks over all the present and notes its meaning and with imagination marks out the coming time and course. It feels as well as thinks. The pulses tingle, the heart throbs as it feels the meaning of the truth thought. The thews knit up with firm resolve, and soul and body are one in new strength of resolute life.

The great souls who have wrought with God have in all ages been made great by their hours of meditation with God. Moses stands pre-eminent among men as revealer of divine law. No less is he distinguished for his communion with the divine mind in solitude. His eminence is one of feeling and will as well as of ideas. Whoever manifested more clearly the flow of divine impulses through the human channels than this one who was more at home in the mountain top with God than in the camp with men?

What examples of exalted intercourse with God are given us in Abraham, Elijah and John!

But of all who have walked and watched on earth none has given us such lessons as Jesus. To Him the night watches were specially precious as seasons of meditation and communion with the Father Almighty. Who shall ever tell how much of strengthening He found in these still hours for the struggles and stress of the days with men.

To neglect to reserve from our hurry and care some quiet times when we can be alone with God is to make a most serious mistake. These times are not for struggle, but for quieting the soul. Sometimes lie passive and let the divine sweetness fill the soul with perfume. Rest in God and cease exertion. Empty the soul of self and let His fullness come in. Let the cooling streams of His comfort cure the soul's fever. Wake in the morning in time to begin the day with God. Meditate.

Farsightedness.

Farsightedness is just as much a disease as is nearsightedness. It is generally a disease which comes to elderly people, and it is given the high sounding name of "presbyopia." Objects which are far off can be distinctly seen, but objects close at hand are not focused for properly, and they are either overlooked or not seen correctly. Little by little as he grows old a man holds his book farther away to read until he is finally forced to get glasses to read at all. A good many Christians have spiritual "presbyopia"—farsightedness. They can see peace and joy and victory and holiness only in the faroff heavenly city. They have not eyes for such things in this world in which they are living. In this "vale of tears" they see no heavenly sights or if so only momentary, transient flashes, which soon go out in the shadows. Their eyes are always stretched to the faroff haven, and they think of their religion mainly as a lifeboat to take them thither.—American Friend.

Divine Guidance.

Guidance is needed for spiritual things, and none the less for temporal things. A good man's steps should and may be ordered of the Lord. In spiritual matters the path of life is not only clearly laid down, but along its whole course are found footprints of an Elder Brother who has left us an example that we should follow in His steps. Truth is something—or should it not be some One?—toward whom we grow. It is a goal, and we have the divine promise that the Spirit will guide us unto all truth, bringing to our remembrance the things that Jesus taught us.—Episcopal Recorder.

A Personal Acceptance.

The church is an organization. It is an association held together by a similarity of motives, belief and service. God is in it, as He is in no other organization on earth. But the church as such saves no man. There must be a personal acceptance of the Christ, else salvation is a name and nothing more.—Presbyterian Journal.

Want and Waste.

An opportunity unimproved is a coin thrown into the sea.—Presbyterian Journal.

I Never Knew.

I never knew before the world
So beautiful could be
As I have found it since I learned
All care to cast on Thee;
The scales have fallen from mine eyes,
And now the light I see.

I never knew how little things
As greater ones could be
When sanctified by love from One
Who doth each effort see;
But now a daily round of care
May win a victory.

I never knew; and still, dear Lord,
As through a glass I see,
And perfect light can only come
When I shall dwell with Thee,
When in Thy likeness I awake
For all eternity.

—Living Church.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 4—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—How to get a fresh start.—Eph. iv, 22-32.

Life has its times of serious reckoning. There are moments specially appropriate for considering our ways and for taking heed to God's testimonies. One of these seasons specially adapted to retrospection and resolution is the beginning of a new year. The year begins anew—why should not we? If there have been mistakes in the past, if blots have been made upon pages of past record, why should not the mistakes be relegated to the past, the blots erased and a new record be opened, a new start made? This is the reasoning of thousands, with the result that at the beginning of every new year efforts are made to avoid the errors of the past and to make life to some extent what it ought to be.

What the results of a changed life should be may be stated with absolute certainty. We should "cease to do evil and learn to do well." We should "put off the old man and put on the new man." The liar should give up lying and speak the truth; the thief should abandon stealing and go to work; "all bitterness and wrath and anger and clamor and evil speaking [should] be put away, with all malice," and in their stead we should "be kind one to another, tender hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake has forgiven us." Two elements are herein involved. Evil must be abandoned, but that is not all; it must be replaced by good. Vices must be superseded by virtues, bad deeds by good ones.

But how can this be done? This is the important question. How can a man get started right in a new, a changed, life? Everything depends upon the answer to this inquiry, and it can be answered in but one way. It cannot be done by human resolutions, but by divine regeneration. Regeneration and not personal reformation is the necessary prerequisite to a new life. Human resolution ofttimes accomplishes much, but it cannot go to the root of the matter. Sin is a disease of the heart that manifests itself in the life. To be completely eradicated therefore the heart must be changed. The man who really wants to lead a new life must have a new heart. He must "be renewed in the spirit of his mind." This God alone can do, but He is able and willing to do it in every case where there is an anxious desire to have it done. The man that wants to give up a sinful life and to lead a righteous one need only pray, "Create in me a clean heart," and God will hear his prayer and a changed heart will be the starting point of a transformed life.

A Christian Endeavor Catechism.

A good friend of the movement has prepared the following, which he styles "A Christian Endeavor Catechism." It answers concisely some questions many times asked by those less familiar with the society:

When was the first society of Christian Endeavor established? Feb. 2, 1881.

Where and by whom? In Williston church, Portland, Me., by Rev. F. E. Clark.

For what purpose? For the sake of training a large number of young converts for the duties of church membership.

What is now the purpose of the society? The same as at the beginning—to train young people for the duties of the church. Each society is in some local church and in no sense outside. It exists simply to make the young people loyal and efficient members of the church of Christ. It is the church training the young.

In what denominations is it found? In about the same proportions in all the great evangelical denominations and in all their subdivisions. Wherever it has been established longest it is most fully indorsed by pastor and churches.

Secretary Eberman's Tours.

A most inspiring summary is that of Field Secretary Eberman's southern, eastern and western tours, occupying the first 208 days of this year and carrying him into Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine, District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, Louisiana, Tennessee, Kentucky, West Virginia, New York, New Jersey, Kansas, Arkansas, Indiana and Pennsylvania, a distance of 14,517 miles. He spoke at 337 meetings before audiences that aggregated 53,160 persons.

23. K., Connecticut.—Dr. Clark is not only a regular contributor to the Christian Endeavor World, but a frequent writer for the leading weekly and monthly publications of the day. He is also the author of many books, several on travel having had a particularly large sale.

24. V. F., New Hampshire.—It is impossible in the brief confines of this department to attempt to answer other than strictly Christian Endeavor questions.

THE KIDNAPPED MILLIONAIRES

A TALE OF WALL STREET AND THE TROPICS

By FREDERICK U. ADAMS.

"You're right," he said, "I see now. He's a big 'un," observed the captain as he handed back the glasses.

"If you want to watch some fun, come up forward, gentlemen!" he almost shouted. "Hurry up; the bombardment is about to begin! Come along, Mr. Morton, I will show you some sport for your lives!"

Hestor's excitement was contagious.

"Look over on the bank, there," said Hestor. "Do you see something that looks like a log?"

"I do," said Mr. Kent. Mr. Morton also made it out, as did most of the party.

"It's a 'gator; an alligator, and a whopper!" said Hestor. "I won't do a thing to him!"

Hestor sprang to a polished piece of machinery, and dropped behind a slanting steel guard, a marine stood by the side of this bit of mechanism, which was recognized at a glance as a rapid-fire Hotchkiss gun. Mr. Pence gave it one look and retreated behind the deckhouse. Mr. Morton and the others looked on with keen interest.

"Bing-r-r-bing-r-r-zing-zip-r-r-r-bing-bing-rip-rip-r-bing-r-r-zip-zip-ring-bing!!"

The first shot struck the water to the right about 100 feet from the loglike object. Hestor swung the gun with a quick movement to the left, and a marine raised the muzzle with the turn of an adjusting device. For a second the water at the edge of the bank was churned into foam. The next instant the "log" was alive. A long tail waved in the air; the great jaws opened and bellowed in a hoarse roar of rage and agony. It rushed for the bank, but as the head sank in the water the squ legs relaxed and the hulk lay motionless.

Hestor jumped back from the gun. He took one look through the gaseous vapor from the weapon; threw his cap in the air and danced for joy.

"What do you think of that?" he shouted. "The books say you have to shoot 'em in the eye in order to fetch 'em. I know a trick worth two of that! Say, but he's a 'beaut!' What do you think of 'Hestor Island,' Mr. Carmody? This is only a starter. You can have more fun here in a week than you can have in New York in a year. Come out from back there, Mr. Pence! the cruel war is over. Lower the launch, Capt. Waters. There is plenty of water over there, and we'll go and take a look at him."

During this incident, and in all the happenings of this eventful day, Hestor conducted himself as if the arrival and landing on this spot was an ordinary event which had been pleasantly anticipated by all on the "Shark." The past was forgotten by Hestor, who acted as the eager host of a party of gentlemen who should be delighted with their entertainment. Except for a brief period of moroseness—evinced in actions and not in words—such had been Hestor's attitude towards his captives since the "Shark" rounded Cape Cod. On the morning which opened with the death of the crocodile—Sidney Hammond discovered the saurian was a crocodile, and not an alligator—Hestor was in jubilant spirits. During the day he seemed surprised at certain hints dropped by his unwilling guests. His expression was that of the willing host who finds his best efforts not fully appreciated, and who therefore redoubles his attempts to please. He was glad that the voyage had so happily ended; glad that all had been favored with good health, and earnest in his predictions that his guests would enjoy themselves.

"It may seem like egotism to call this 'Hestoria,'" he said, as they were seated at the breakfast table, "but I practically discovered the place, and in common with many other explorers gave it my name. If you gentlemen do not like the name you can call it 'Haven's Haven,' or 'Rockwell's Reef,' or 'Vincent's Land,' or anything you choose. Its various topographical features are as yet not fully explored, and are unnamed. I am going to suggest that we honor Mr. Morton by giving his name to this beautiful body of water we are now on. We will call it 'Morton's Bay.'"

"Thank you," said Mr. Morton. "I appreciate and accept the honor."

"I have some surprises in store for you," said Hestor, when the meal was finished. "We will go ashore directly, and look on something more attractive than dead alligators or crocodiles—as Sidney insists on calling them. Ah, Capt. Waters, has the tide turned sufficiently to make a landing?"

"There is now 14 foot of water at the landing," was Capt. Waters' answer. "We will have the gang plank on shore in ten minutes."

The panorama unrolled before the gaze of the voyagers on board the "Shark," as she slowly headed for a shelving rock was one of surpassing beauty. Imagine a pear-shaped lake about a mile at its greatest width and a mile and a half in length, walled in by rocks and crags whose rugged slopes were softened by the splendid foliage of the tropics. Nature, in some fantastic mood, had created this spot, and then as if appalled at her work, had wreathed it with flowers, and chastened its outlines with the harmony of fern, vine and palm. The narrow inlet leading to the ocean was guarded by two great rocks, which seemed to overhang and threaten the intrepid sailor who dared explore and ravish the beauties which nestled within. These rocks were fully 400 feet in height, and unlike those surrounding the lake, were free from tree or verdure. Through the portal thus formed, the ocean with its deep and glorious blue, showed in contrast to the dark background of these crags. The surge of the sea came welling through this gate, but soon lost its power, and on the further shores of the lake its ripples came as but the flutter of the deep breathing of the sea.

The shores were lined with boulders which had tumbled down from crag and peak. At intervals there were grassy stretches of meadow, deep enough to form a foreground to the darker beauties of cliff or ravine. Here and there a brook trickled from the heights, or found its tortuous way through unknown dells. And everywhere a lavish profusion of flowers. The base of one cliff was aflame with the red of some flower, the name of which was unknown to any of the party. To add to this riot of color there were flocks of parrots of many and brilliant hues, while of humming and mocking birds there seemed to be millions. Overhead an eagle circled on heavy pinions, and the waters of the lake were dotted with flocks of water fowl.

About a thousand feet from the southern shore of this sheet of water—which Hestor had named "Morton's Bay"—was a small island. It was a gem of an island. Basaltic rocks reached up from the liquid depths of the bay, and its northern end was a crag, probably 100 feet above the surface of the lake. To the west it sloped gradually down, and at low tide there was a sand bar. It was on the inner edge of this bar that Hestor had sighted the crocodile. Tall, slender cocoa palms, with their crowns of graceful leaves, nodded in the morning breeze. Caucho, camphor and dragon trees added their beauty to this tropical bouquet. The base of the rocks was hidden in giant pond lilies, ivy and other climbing plants, which festooned the sides of the cliffs, as if struggling to join the masses of flowers which overhung the rocks above.

But the water had treasures not less beautiful. At a depth of 50 or 60 feet the bottom of the lake was clearly visible. Looking over the sides of the yacht, the voyagers who were now approaching the shore, saw swarms of fish whose sides reflected the colors of the rainbow.

Color is born in the tropics. It dies at the poles. In the chill of the axial antipodes, black and white alone survive. In the warmth of the tropics all objects, animate and inanimate, vie with each other to outrival the imagination of the artist and blunt the pen of the writer.

MOROCCO'S TROUBLES.

Famine Now Feared — Foreigners Advised to Flee.

TANGIER, Morocco, Dec. 31.—Foreigners in the interior of Morocco have been advised to make for the coast, as provisions are scarce and communications are almost closed. The pretender [illegible] is reported to be twenty miles from Fez.

It is also reported that the sultan has been foiled by the rebels, who are investing Fez, in an attempt to break out of that city.

The rebels have cut the aqueduct which supplies Fez with water. That city is now practically without water. Unless the Kabyle tribesmen from the south come to the succor of Fez the place must surrender within three days.

Missionaries In Danger.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 31.—Eight missionaries who are working in Morocco under the direction of the Gospel Missionary union, whose headquarters are in Kansas City, are believed to be in peril. A letter from Mr. Reed, one of the number at Fez, dated Dec. 4, to George S. Fisher, president of the union, has just been received. Mr. Reed writes: "Word to hand indicates that the sultan is returning to Fez from Mequinez instead of going to Rabst. The fight last Sunday east of here was a serious reverse for the government, and estimates of the loss are very high, some putting it at 500 on the army side. Probably one-half to two-thirds of that number." Mr. Fisher believes that Christian missionaries would be slain if captured by the fanatical rebels.

Sultan Abandons Fortress.

MADRID, Dec. 31.—Telegrams received here from Tangier say the sultan's troops have abandoned the fortress of Raselma, close to Fez. The pretender is negotiating with the tribes in the immediate vicinity of Fez to assist his advance. The Spanish minister at Tangier reports the situation to be serious, but not desperate.

Blame For Wreck Not Fixed.

WYOMING, Ont., Dec. 31.—The coroner's jury which has been investigating the wreck at Wanstead last Friday night in which twenty-eight lives were lost brought in a verdict shortly before midnight. The verdict is as follows: "We find that Arthur W. Ricketts was killed in the collision at Wanstead on the evening of Friday, Dec. 26, 1902. That said collision was caused by wrong orders being given No. 5 at Watford. Responsibility for the issuance of wrong orders we are not agreed upon as between Operator Carson and Dispatcher Kerr. That after No. 5 had left Watford by the issuance of wrong orders we consider that the accident could have been averted by the operator at Wyoming or Kings Court Junction had the railway company had more experienced operators at these points (one being but a boy of sixteen), at each of which places the dispatcher having had ample time to do it and endeavor to get the opposing trains stopped."

Dutch Steamer Allowed to Enter.

CARACAS, Dec. 31.—United States Minister Bowen has received information that the Dutch steamer Prins Maurits has entered certain Venezuelan ports blockaded by the British fleet and discharged her cargo there. Special permission for the Dutch steamer to do this was obtained from Commander Montgomerie of the British cruiser Charybdis. The Italian cruiser Giovanni Bausan ordered the Prins Maurits away from port, but Commander Montgomerie directed that she continue to discharge her cargo. In Caracas this is held to be a discrimination against American steamers, and the British officer's action has been criticised.

Three Killed In Railway Wreck.

QUINCY, Ind., Dec. 31.—In the wreck of a through Chicago-Louisville freight train on the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville railroad (Monon) here Engineer Albert S. Barker, Fireman Joseph J. Eglen and Brakeman Hiram Perry were killed, and the engine and eighteen cars loaded with hogs and cattle were piled up in a ditch. A switch lock had been broken, supposedly by tramps, and the switch turned. The train was what is known as the meat train and was loaded with live stock, meat and beer.

Castro Answers Today.

CARACAS, Dec. 31.—President Castro has arrived here. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon United States Minister Bowen called upon the president and communicated to him the recommendation that the issues between Venezuela and the allies be taken to the international peace court at The Hague. Venezuela's answer will be received today. The victory gained by the government at Barquisimete argues for President Castro's continuance in power.

Presented With Loving Cup.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 31.—John F. Deems, who has resigned as general superintendent of the local plant of the American Locomotive works to become superintendent of motive power on all the Vanderbilt railroad lines, was in the presence of 1,500 employees last night presented with a silver loving cup, costing $1,100. Practically all the 4,000 employees of the company contributed toward its purchase.

Blondin Takes His Sentence.

BOSTON, Dec. 31.—Joseph Wilfred Blondin, convicted in the second degree for the murder of his wife, has waived the exceptions taken by his counsel during his trial, abandoned any right to a new trial and asked for immediate sentence in order that he may seek executive clemency for freedom. He came before Judge Stevens today and was sentenced to state prison for life.

Rogers, Edith Richards, Helen Woolley, Ethel Vail and Elsie Tier. Recitations were given by Edson Day, Ralph Martin, Bertha Hoagland, Helen Smith and Edna Cole. Eight little children from the primary department sang a Christmas carol. They were Rosmond Rogers, Elsie Tier, Helen Roberts, Echel Vail, Helen Woolley, Edna Oliver and Edith Richards. They were accompanied on the piano by Miss Nettie Krietling. The children of the infant department were drilled under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Tier, superintendent, assisted by Miss Berkaw and Mrs. Gayle.

In the midst of the festivities Santa Claus appeared in the person of J. C. Martin. Among the first presents which he extracted from his great pack of presents were two pictures, very handsome ones. One was addressed to Mrs. J. M. Tier, superintendent of the primary department, and the other was addressed to Miss Lillian A. Force, the pianist. Deeper down in his pack the old red faced fellow went and brought up four nice umbrellas which he said were for H. J. Martin, H. O. VanEmburgh, E. H. Bird and F. E. Smith, the superintendent of the school.

The teachers who had charge of the children on the platform were Mrs. J. M. Tier, Mrs. E. M. Randall and the Misses Abbie VanCleef, Bessie Keighton, Minnie Wyman, Harriet Randall, Lucie Coriell, Minnie Nisbwitz, Anna Randall and Miss Pessenger.

The committee which had the arrangements in charge consisted of H. J. Martin, F. E. Smith, Robert M. Clark, Jr., Edgar Sheppard, Charles M. Doliver, Miss Lillian A. Force, Miss Sadie Searing, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck. Nearly 700 boxes of candy were distributed to members of different departments.

MT. OLIVE BAPTIST.

Christmastide was appropriately celebrated at the Mt. Olive Baptist church last evening. Superintendent M. C. Dobbins was in charge and both he and N. H. Saxton made short addresses. During the evening a library of 150 volumes of the best books was presented to the school by Santa Claus.

The programme consisted of a number of songs and recitations by the following persons: Miss Madeline Fisher, Miss Mamie Mitchell, Miss Florence Jones, Miss Carrie Somerset, Willie Jones, Miss Anna Saunder, Joseph Jones, Miss Ethel Gordon, Miss Viola Jones, Miss Alberta Gordon, Miss Lizzie Yetman, Miss Anna Fisher, Miss Bessie Kingalow, Miss Bertha Hunt and a duet by Miss Agnes Alet and Miss Caroline Rugles.

After the entertainment useful gifts were given to the pupils.

MARCONNIER CHAPEL.

The Christmas festival at Marconnier chapel was held last evening. Charles S. Thompson, of Elizabeth, gave his clever exhibition of sleight-of-hand work, and G. W. V. Moy gave some of James Whitcomb Reilly's best selections. Everitt Reighton entertained with German dialect stories and there were recitations by Stanley Emmons, Miss Iva Morrison and Howard Melick, after which Superintendent H. W. Marshall distributed gifts to the children. There was a large attendance.

ALL SOULS CHURCH.

An informal programme marked the Christmas festival at All Souls' church, last evening. A feature of the affair was a "Christmas Pie," which occupied the centre of a large table. Contained in the pie were presents for everyone. Attached to the presents were strings which were given to each one seated at the table. The gifts were a surprise to all. During the evening the school sang Christmas carols and played games.

WARREN CHAPEL.

The Christmas festival was held last evening at Warren chapel. J. William Macey, of New York, was present and provided amusement. Miss Grace Carroll, of the Crescent Avenue church choir, rendered several selections.

During the afternoon the members of the infant and primary departments of the school held their festival when the presents were given to them. All the children received remembrances in the form of games, candy and fruit. Those who had the arrangements for the afternoon and evening entertainments were Rev. J. O. McKelvey, Joseph Gavett and L. N. Lovell.

BETHEL CHAPEL.

Members of the Bethel chapel Sunday-school assembled at the chapel last evening to take part in their exercises. Christmas carols were a feature. After the singing of the carols the pastor, Rev. F. D. Tildon, made a short address of welcome. Among those who participated in the programme were: Charles E. VanHorne, Miss Stella Hill, Miss Lizzie Kinley, Miss Eula Low; and a chorus comprising the following voices: Miss Lizzie Kinley, Mrs. Charles Erley, Miss Stella Hill, Miss Reeves and Chares E. VanHorne. City Treasurer William F. Arnold was present at the exercises and entertained with phographic selections.

The affair was arranged by Rev. F. D. Tildon, the pastor, Abram Brown, B. Sutton, W. A. Smith, C. E. VanHorne, Sampson P. Robinson, E. T. James, Miss Euphemeus Darcey, Miss Huola Lane, Miss Lizzie Kinley and Miss Anna Gannaway. The arrangements were under the supervision of S. A. Ginna, superintendent of the school; and his assistant, A. W. Duxbury.

Saving's Department.

Commencing the New Year a saving's department will be inaugurated at the First National Bank. This is done owing to the numerous requests from the many patrons of the bank. It is proposed to make this a strong feature of the institution and the usual liberal rules will prevail.

LITERARY.

The January number of Scribner's Magazine, which marks the beginning of its thirty-third volume, contains two of the notable features of the coming year. It is seldom that the opportunity is offered to present the brilliant letters of a woman who has filled the highest social and official positions at the Courts of Europe. The letters of Madame Waddington, wife of the eminent French Ambassador, M. William Waddington, begin in this number with entertaining and witty accounts of the English court in the Eighties. The new serial by John Fox, Jr., who has already won a distinguished place by his Kentucky mountain stories, is entitled "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come." There are two special Christmas features for the current holiday season. "Giuseppe's Christmas" is a story of child life in Italy at the present time by Mary H. Peixotto, illustrated in color by E. C. Peixotto. "Christmas Shopping" is two full-page drawings by Henry Hutt. Under the title of "The Old Route to Orleans—The Mississippi" Willis Gibson describes the varied life on the Mississippi river as it is today from St. Paul to New Orleans. There is a variety of short stories, including a tale of exquisite humor by Nelson Lloyd, illustrated by A. B. Frost, entitled "The Best Gun in the Valley;" a dramatic story of Revolutionary times by George Hibbard, illustrated by Pyle; a tale of sentiment by Alice Duer Miller, and "A Death in the Desert" by a new writer of fiction who in this story shows herself to be clever in style and deep in feeling. Her name is Willa Sibert Cather.

The History by Miss Ida M. Tarbell which began in the NOVEMBER McCLURE'S is the GREAT STORY OF STANDARD OIL.

"Miss Tarbell's work is of unequalled importance as a 'document' of the day. Her story has live men in it; they suffer and work and win and lose their battles with the verisimilitude that removes the tale from the dry statement and clothes it with the color of human interest and the vivid rainbow garment of human sympathy. * * * The results of her work are likely to be far-reaching; she is writing unfinished history."—Boston Globe.

"An absorbing and illuminating contribution to the trust question."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

"The most important announcement made by any magazine."—N. Y. Journal.
